A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a whole day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a ROBBINS WASHER one girl attends to the washing, cooks dinner at the same time, and has all the clothing hung out to dry, and tubs and wringer and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and also get them to understand that we write this simply and entirely for their benefit, and not at the solicitation of the manufacturers, nor with their knowledge or consent, but we write this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proven to be an article that does all that the manufacturers claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many times the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving in the soap will in a short time pay for the machine.

We advise our readers to send for a washer at once.

In ordering, write plainly your name, postoffice, county and State. Also the name of the express office to which you wish the washer forwarded.

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ALL ORDERS.

Remit by Post office Order or Registered Letter. We insure the safe delivery of all washers ordered as above. Money may be sent by draft on New York.

Send for sample and secure A BUSINESS THAT WILL PAY YOU WELL.

When you order or write, mention this paper. Address the place that the emotions have in Christian experience. They are the great motive power to thought and action. But steam must be regulated, or destruction ensues. There must be rudder and ballast as well as sails to the ship; the latter alone will mislead and overturn. The heart is the chief seat of the Spirit's influences, but unassisted by the head, we may mistake our own suggestions for His, as a brother did who arose after a sermon at a country appointment and, apologizing for asking the usual collection while some were shouting, said he hated to "quench the Spirit," etc., as though a religious jollification, as it were, was the most sacred of all religious duties.

We believe that these errors may be traced chiefly to a want of intelligence and independence in the pulpit and at the altar. If animal excitement were not so often made the substitute for spiritual power, if ignorance and subserviency were less prevalent among the teachers of the people, they would rise less slowly out of their errors and superstitions.

[illegible] first evidences of a change [illegible] heart are, "Peace, Rest—Rom. v. 1; Matt. xi, 28. A measure of comfort, or joy, follows these sooner [illegible] later. Love and its fruits invariably accompany the renewed [illegible]. But that these emotions exist in a high degree in new-born [illegible] is not always true. They vary from several causes. 1. From the depth of our degeneracy and our consciousness of the sinfulness [illegible]—see Luke vii, 47. 2. According to the measure of our faith [illegible] ix, 29. 3. According to the [illegible] between the beginning and [illegible] pletion of the work of conversion. The more gradual, the less [illegible] is the sense of change: as the [illegible] man whose partially restored [illegible] caused him to see men as trees [illegible]. 4. Difference of temperament. Some are sanguine and [illegible] phlegmatic. The former class [illegible] and demonstrative [illegible] the other. And as in [illegible] we sometimes have the [illegible] and at other times [illegible] but both imparting [illegible] with the operation [illegible]. Sometimes He [illegible] power, as to Saul [illegible] and again, in the still [illegible] as to Elijah. Misled by [illegible] or experience of [illegible] are tempted to doubt [illegible] or religious life, [illegible] comparative quiet-[illegible] strong emotions [illegible] neglect to cultivate [illegible] and work the "lit-[illegible] Spirit, to their in-[illegible] our conversion, [illegible] so largely on our [illegible] of the unbelief of [illegible] were constantly re-[illegible] a "sign." may whip it. As the boys grow up they are made to keep the birds away from the rice-fields, and are put in classes and trained to fight. As a result of this training the men are all finely developed and athletic. When a girl is thirteen years old she is taken charge of by a secret society of women to be educated for the duties of a wife. No man ever enters the meetings of this society, and what they do is not known. All the women marry. No such thing as an old maid is known in Africa. The men on the coast go to sea, and when they have saved enough, return home to buy a wife and settle down. No man who has just married a young wife is allowed to go to war, a custom which the speaker considered a remnant of the old Mosaic law. The people are great liars and thieves, and to Christianize them is very hard work. It is a mistake for the people here to suppose that the heathen is innocent and guiltless. On the contrary, he never knew a heathen that did not sin according to his own code. It is hard to make them believe in the spiritual benefits of Christianity, and to convert them it must be made materially beneficial to them. But, in proportion to expenditure, he believed the results among the heathen as good as the results in America. For $18,000 there were maintained in Africa for a year nine ministers; 200 children were maintained at school, besides 300 more educated; 400 Christians were attended to, and 10,000 heathen were reached by the various branches of work. His experience had taught him that it cost less to make a Christian in Africa than it does in America, though he disliked to put the subject on this mercenary basis.

Ku-Klux Outrages.

REV. E. Q. FULLER,
Editor of the Methodist Advocate.

The Pittsburgh Advocate of Sept. 23d came to hand on yesterday. In it I find an article under this title, viz: "Answer to slander of Georgia," by J. G. M. Goss, M.D., which is intentionally and wickedly false. He says in reference to matters which have appeared in my paper, "I do not know upon what Dr. Fuller founds his statements, unless it is upon the trial and conviction of the elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this district, some years ago. But that was the post office department that arraigned said elder for breaking open letters and forging orders on other adjoining offices." I am personally acquainted with the case referred to and with the elder involved, and say most emphatically that the statement of your correspondent is false and slanderous. A postmaster was removed from office, but no such charges were made against him. The Postmaster General, Gov. Jewell, told me that there was no allegation of immorality or of loss to the government or to any party in the case. The office was desired for another and a change was made. The only charge presented on which to cause the removal was that of irregularity in conducting the business of the office. I am surprised that such slanders against a minister in the South can find place in one of the Church papers.

Your correspondent uses my name freely and in a manner no less than slanderous. He says, "Dr. Fuller cannot show where any colored man has been murdered or whipped, where the law was not enforced to avenge the murder or [illegible] just the same as if he had [illegible] a white citizen." That statement is so utterly untrue that if [illegible] publicly in Georgia, where the facts are known, the author of it would be derided even by the Ku-Klux themselves for his stupidity. Here are the names of fifty-two persons who have been murdered in this State since the war, and not one of the murderers have [illegible]; to wit:—

[illegible]; General Ashburn; Dr. Ayer; Kitchen Adams; [illegible] law of T. M. Allen; Mr. [illegible]; Mr. Sarney, Habersham [illegible] Co.; Mr. [illegible]; Charles Clark, [illegible]; Mr. Creech, [illegible] Han-[illegible] Co.; [illegible]; Joel [illegible] Daly, [illegible]

Greene Co.; Perry Jeffers, Dearing; son of Jeffers, Dearing; son of Jeffers, Dearing; son of Jeffers, Dearing; son of Jeffers, Dearing; son of Jeffers, Warren Co.; Charles Jones, Madison Co; Mr. Jones, Warren Co; Robert Lewis, Greene Co; Jerry Long, Hancock Co.; Columbus Lovelace, Pike Co; George Meadows, Wilkinson Co; Jeff Meadows, White Co; Matt. Moore, Whitefield Co; negro burned alive, Jefferson Co; James Ponder, Clark Co.; Dave Starrett, Habersham Co.; Abram Turner, Putnam Co; Daniel Wallace, Walton Co; Jourdon Ware, Floyd Co.; Mr. Wallace, Warrenton; John Walthol, Harralson Co; Major Warren, Columbus.

These cases have all been reported under oath, and Dr. Goss can acquaint himself with the facts without leaving this city if he desires to know them. In addition to these there are twenty-two other cases of the murder of colored persons in this State found upon the same records, without the names of the sufferers; but dates and places are given so that investigation will not be difficult. I repeat that for these seventy-four murders no one has been punished. This condition of things still continues. A few weeks since, within twenty miles of Atlanta, the house of a colored man was broken open in the night by a gang of Ku-Klux, he was beaten nearly to death, a son was shot and severely wounded and a married daughter who had just come home to give birth to a child was shot and killed. A pretense of a trial has been had but no one found guilty, but one of the party was cleared by a Ku-Klux jury after he had confessed participation in the crime. The family has been visited by Prof. Bishee, President of Clark University of this city and A. B. Jones, agent of the Methodist bookstore here, who heard the story of this outrage from the lips of the surviving sufferers. The official report of the collectors of internal revenue in this city, recently published, gave account of the most revolting cases of crime and murder for which no one has been so much as arrested. The unpunished Ku-Klux murders in Georgia since the war are counted by hundreds, as your correspondent can easily ascertain.

As to mobbing, robbing and Ku-Kluxing in various ways in this State, I can enumerate at least a thousand cases, and in the South many thousand have been put on record, and not one person has been punished for participation in them. I can give you a whole chapter of instances of burning churches and school houses and of breaking up schools if you desire. I can fill columns in your paper with details of the murder of the fifty-two persons named above, if necessary. Senator Adkins was a native Southerner and a member of our Church in Atlanta. I have met with him in class meeting and heard the story of his persecutions. Dr. Ayers was an active and honored member of the Presbyterian Church. Both were killed by Ku-Klux because they were Republicans.

Other States are as bad as Georgia. Here are the names of over a hundred persons killed in Alabama by Ku-Klux, and for which not a person has been punished:

Jasper Alexander, Sumter Co.; Mr. Barbee, Limestone Co; Mr. Barber; son of Dr. Blair, Limestone Co; William Blair, Limestone Co.; Enoch Boyd, Sumter Co.; Samuel Boyd, Greene Co.; Dr. Browning, Sumter Co.; Mr. Bryan, Sumter Co.; Richard Burke, Sumter Co.; M. Burrus, Limestone Co.; Samuel Caldwell, Greene Co.; Lem Campbell, Choctaw Co.; Mike Campbell, Choctaw Co.; William Campbell, Madison Co.; James Carpenter, Greene Co; John Carpenter, Greene Co; Samuel Cate, Jackson Co.; Judge Charlton, Morgan Co.; Amanda Childers, Sumter Co; Jerry Clark, Sumter Co; Tony Cliff, Calhoun Co.; Henry Clunn, Madison Co.; Mr. Coblentz, Sumter Co; Guilford Coleman, Greene Co.; Mr. Collins, Sumter Co; Samuel Colvin, Greene Co; Flem Cross, wife of, Sumter Co; Mr. Crossland, Tuscaloosa Co; Frank Selma Diggs, killed at Kewawnee, Mississippi; Mr. Dougherty, Madison Co.; Mr. Douglass, Jackson Co.; Mike Dunn, Choctaw Co.; Nathaniel Edwards, Choctaw Co.; Willis Monroe Evans, Madison Co.; Isham Ezell, Choctaw Co.; William Ezell, Choctaw Co., Elliott Fearons, Marshall Co.; Mr. Finley, Tuscaloosa Co.; Mr. Francis; Mr. Frankerham, Tuscaloosa Co.; Cesar Frederick, Calhoun Co; Andrew Geary, Macon Co.; Isaac Gibson, Morgan Co.; Alfred Granger, Dallas Co.; Mr. Grattan; Sumter Co.; —— Greathouse, Perry Co.; William Hall, Calhoun Co.; Berry Har-[illegible], Calhoun Co; Nelson Harris, [illegible] Co; Frank Harrison, St. [illegible] Co; Mr. Harrison, Limestone [illegible] Hart, Sumter Co.; [illegible], Lawrence Co.; Essex Hendricks, Calhoun Co.; Mr. Hopper, Sumter Co.; Isaiah (Isaac) Hunter, Sumter Co.; —— (Ezell) Isham, Choctaw Co.; —— John, Choctaw Co.; Rev. Mr. Johnson, Fayette Co; Mr. Kernahan, Colbert Co.; Rev. Jesse Knight, Morgan Co.; Lewis Ketchum, Blount Co.; Ned Larkin, Jackson Co.; Ned Larkin, brother of, Jackson Co.; William C. P. Wright, Madison Co.; Yankee Ben, Sumter Co.; Anderson Young, son of, Sumter Co.—109.

I will send you an account of the murder of Perry Jeffers and his six sons at Dearing, Ga., and also two or three characteristic cases of killing and outrages which will serve to illustrate the methods of these villainous cowards. But in my next I will give you a list of preachers of our Church who have been killed or outraged because they were ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church or because they were Republicans.

Atlanta, Sept. 25th, 1880.

Words upon Dying Lips.

Queen Elizabeth, at the end of a most properous reign, begun amid dangers and difficulties that were overcome by bold measures and prudent counsels, died exclaiming, "Ah, my possessions for a moment of time."

George IV. met death with almost a jest upon his lips. Turning to Sir Walter Waller, on whose arm he leaned, he said: "Watty, what is this? It is death, my boy, and they have deceived me."

The Danish sovereign, Frederick V., greatly beloved by his subjects, cried, "There is not a drop of blood on my hands," as he passed away.

Henry VIII, who had altered the whole course of monastic life in England, exclaimed, "Monks! monks! monks!"

Edward VI, the wan boy king, with his fast-fading eyes, commended his soul to God, "Lord, take my spirit;" and Cromwell as he listened to the discourse of those about him, said, "Then I am safe," and was silent forever.

The last words of Charles I., on the scaffold, to Archbishop Juxson was, "Remember," referring to his desire that his son Charles should forgive his father's murderers.

Anne Boleyn, in the same terrible situation, clasped her fair neck, saying, "It is small, very small;" and Sir Thomas More, as he yielded himself to the executioner, said, "For my coming down let me shift for myself."

"Joan-of-Arc, at the stake, ended her eventful, stormy life with our Savior's name upon her lips, brave as General Wolfe, who, dying in the midst of victory on the battle field, and hearing of the enemy's retreat, cried "What! do they run already? Then I shall die happy;" or Sir Philip Sidney, after he had relinquished the draught of water to a humbler comrade, though parched with thirst, turned him round to die, saying, "Let me behold the end of this world with all its vanities."

Mirabeau desired to die while delicious strains of music floated on the air, but his last utterance was a demand for laudanum to drown pain and consciousness.

Mozart's last words were, "Let me hear once more those notes so long my solace and delight;" but Haydn, forgetful of his art, cried, "God preserve my emperor."

Alfieri's sympathetic nature displayed itself in "Clasp my hand, dear friend, I die."

Goethe cried, "Light, more light;" Tasso, "In tuas manos, Domine;" Byron, "Come, come, no weakness; lets be a man to the last; I must sleep now." And [illegible] who saw his embalmed body in 1824, when brought to England from Missolonghi, in the Florida, and removed to Sir Edward Knatchbull's house in Great George Street, where the coffin was opened, describe the face as of marble whiteness, the expression that of stern quietude, lying wrapped in his blue cloth coat, curling locks, slightly streaked with gray, clustering over the temples, the profile of exceeding beauty.

Boileau congratulated himself, as he closed his eyes upon this world, upon the purity of his works, saying, "It is a great consolation to a poet about to die that he has never written anything injurious to virtue;" and Sir Walter Scott, little thinking his end so near, said, "I feel as if I were myself again."

Dr. Johnson, the rough, kind heart, who loved a good hater, died as he said to Miss Morris, "God bless you, my dear."

Washington at Mt. Vernon, cried, "It is well."

Franklin's last words were: "A dying man can do nothing easily."

Mme. de Stael, whose trial was her enforced absence from her native land, died saying: "I have loved my God, my father and my liberty."

Hannah More's last words were: "Patty—joy;" Grotius, "Be serious;" Haller, "The artery ceases to beat;" Adams, "Independence forever;" Jefferson, "I resign my soul to God, my daughter to my country;" Locke, to Lady Masham, who was reading the Psalms, "Cease now;" and poor Lamb, after the most self-sacrificing existence, wrote his last words to a friend: "My bedfellows are cramp and cough—we three sleep in a bed."

Bishop Broughton's last words were: "Let the earth be filled with His glory;" Archbishop Sharpe, "I shall be happy;" Bishop Keen, "God's will be done;" Farr, Cramer, Hooper and George Herbert, "Lord receive my spirit!" And these are but few of many such.

The prince consort confirmed the impression that prevails that the dying have sometimes a foretaste of coming happiness. "I have such sweet thought," were his last words. Globe Democrat.

Appropriations North and South.

Confirmatory of the statements that the South has received appropriations for public improvement enormously out of proportion to her returns to the United States Treasury, the Tribune publishes the following figures:

In 1879 the North asked of Congress the return for internal improvements of two and six-tenths per cent. of the money she had paid into the Treasury. The South asked and received 19 per cent. of her revenue. In the following year the comparison stands two and four-tenths per cent. for the North against sixteen per cent for the South. So in the year 1878 the result is found to be three and six-tenths per cent. for the North against fourteen per cent. for the South.

A still more striking illustration of the comparative liberality of the South toward itself is found in a computation of receipts from and appropriations for the two sections per capita. According to the census of 1870, the South had a population of 14,009,315 souls while the Northern States had one of 24,916,283. Assuming that the proportions have not changed since then, or rather that the population itself has not changed, it is found that the North paid into the Treasury during the two years 1879 and 1880, $19 75 for every individual of its population, while the South paid only $4 89. At the same time Congress appropriated for the North a fraction less than fifty cents and for the South eighty-five cents for each individual.

North Carolina Justice.

The illustrations of the devious course of justice in the South, drawn by our correspondent, "H. C.," from the judicial records of the State of North Carolina, are rendered doubly telling by the character for intelligence and liberality enjoyed by the community from whom they excite neither indignation nor audible protest. Without going very deeply into the court records accessible at Greensboro, our correspondent finds that the rather dubious theft of 75 cents procured for one colored man a sentence to five years in the penitentiary, while two years was the penalty meted out to another for stealing an old spade; a third negro got seven years for stealing a box of sardines, while a fourth received a similar sentence for stealing an old plow valued at $7. But this Draconian code is strictly reserved for the benefit of the colored race, since a white man convicted of sheep stealing is let off with four months in jail on the ground of gallant service in the Confederate Army, while the white murderer of a negro is released without trial; an assault with intent to kill by a white man on a negro is dismissed; a self-confessed burglar of the superior race is set free with arrest of judgment, and certain white rowdies convicted of firing guns and throwing stones into passenger trains are let off with six months in the County Jail. When it is remembered that the negro convicts who are sent to the North Carolina Penitentiary for petty thefts are condemned to far more brutal treatment than was the rule in their former state of bondage, and that such acts of gross injustice are tolerated in one of the most progressive and civilized of the old slave States, some idea may be formed as to the general position before the law of the freedmen in less favored localities.—New York Times.

Origin of the Horse-shoe Superstition.

In very early times, says a writer in Baldwin's Monthly, among the Celtic race, an effigy of the patron saint, so common in churches and temples, was much used in the dwellings and work-shops of the people, as a so-called "protection" against ill fortune. The "glory" above the head of these figures—which latter were often rudely carved in wood, and painted—was represented by a circular piece of polished metal, to convey the effect of the shining halo, or nimbus, frequently seen in illustrations of the Virgin and other Scripture subjects. Often this metal nimbus was of semicircular form; and, after the figure itself had disappeared, by reason of decay, the nimbus remained, and was suspended in some prominent place at the entrance-door, or other point commanding view. The effigies in question were not uncommonly seen by the side of the doorway. In course of time, the nimbus was much used as a substitute for the latter, and was sold in the shops for this purpose.

The tradition of "good luck," as embodied in the horse-shoe theory, may thus be easily traced, since it became a common occurrence, in due course of time, for the faithful adherent of the belief in charms and symbols, to adopt the horse-shoe worn to brightness, in the absence of any other, which he nailed over his cottage door. Hence a piece of metal of this shape became associated in the common mind with supernatural presence and care, in keeping with the belief attached to the original figure of the patron saint.

What a fountain of blessing is a cow! She is the mother of beef, the source of butter, the original cause of cheese, to say nothing of shoes, horns, hair, combs and upper leather. A gentle, amiable, ever-yielding creature, who has no joy in her family affairs which she does not share with man. We rob her of her milk, and we only care for her that the robbery may be perpetrated.

Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular education, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained.—James A. Garfield.

The Power of Prayer.

It is sometimes said that the Christian theory of prayer is unreasonable, that is, it contradicts reason. It is said that in the first place it is questionable whether God can at all be influenced by human desires, and even if He could He could not transcend the laws of nature which he has established, so that what is called answer to prayer, is nothing more than could be enjoyed without it. This view of prayer is quite universal among skeptics and often has its influence upon thoughtful Christians. An English divine it is said, not being able to meet this objection, continued yet to preach the doctrine of prayer, preferring to accept by faith what he could not understand, than to reject the Bible. Such a heroic faith is to be admired, but in this case was unnecessary. Whatever truth cannot be understood, either in religion or anything else, must be accepted by faith, but faith must not be made a refuge for unnecessary ignorance.

Prayer is not unreasonable. Man needs help and can ask for it; God has power and intelligence and declares himself willing to help man. These factors cover the whole case. The skeptic may not see this because he is spiritually blind. But even the thoughtful skeptic must admit the reasonableness of prayer.

The fact that law is universal proves conclusively that prayer may be answered. Law is simply God's will, or to express it in another way—law is but a combination of forces for an intelligent purpose. For example what we call the law of gravitation is really a combination of many laws which result in maintaining the equilibrium of nature. The earth is acted upon in its orbit by different forces. There is the power which tends to cast it away from the sun, another which tends to dash it against the sun, one which tends to throw its fragments apart, another which holds them together; another which controls its motion and still another which would increase its flight [illegible] But above all these powers there is an intelligent power controlling them for a purpose, that the daily and yearly motions of the earth. The fact that these powers exist and can be thus combined in their action, makes the motion of the earth possible.

The Elections in Ohio and Indiana.

The results of the elections in Ohio and Indiana indicate that a strong tide of public sentiment has set in against the election of Gen. Hancock to the Presidency. All leaders in both parties agreed that the results of last week's voting in these two States would pretty surely indicate how the national contest would be decided, on the second of November. It was expected that Ohio would go Republican, but the significance of the result in that State was the large increase in the Republican majorities, which have ranged from 3000 to 10,000 at different points, over the majorities of 1878, when the present Governor was elected. The extraordinary gain of six Congressmen for the Republicans has been made in Ohio. But the most remarkable result was in Indiana. In that State the Democrats had a majority of 14,000 at the last election; and last week the Republicans carried the State by a majority of 6000 to 8000. This is a change of over 20,000 votes. Such a revolution in the sentiment of a State has not transpired for many years. The Indiana Legislature is changed from Democratic to Republican, which insures a Republican United States Senator to succeed Senator McDonald, who is a Democrat.

The causes of this revolution of sentiment are manifest. The nation is not ready to give itself into the hands of the "solid South," made so by fraud and violence, and led by the men who headed the rebellion, and who are unchanged in sentiment on the great questions which lead to that awful conflict. Alabama gave 95,000 majority for the Democrats in the late election when everybody knows such a result could only be secured by gigantic frauds. Mr. Fay, Superintendent of Public Instruction in Louisiana, in a published letter, pronounced the doctrine that this is a nation, to be a heresy which so far as he can prevent shall not be taught to the youth of this State. These are specimen straws which have floated northward from every part of the South, and have served to thoroughly alarm the millions who but lately poured out their blood and treasure for the salvation of the Union. Southern orators and newspapers flaunt in the face of the Nation the dangerous dogma of State Sovereignty, which it was hoped had been settled by the war. The result of the follies of the South is shown in last week's elections.

Then again the course pursued by the Democratic party in Congress since it has had control of that body, has done much to set the tide of public sentiment against it. All legislation tending to unify and protect the national government was steadily opposed and all legislation tending to magnify the rights of the States was favored, when at the same time in the Southern States, whose representatives controlled Congress, elections were carried by fraud and violence in many places. Besides the course pursued on the questions of finance alarmed the business men of the North. The Democrats in Congress voted almost to a man to prevent if possible specie resumption, and now they and their friends fuse politically with the men of the Greenback movement, which proposes to make the national currency subject to the dictation of party caucuses at Washington. General Hancock's telegram to Governor Plaisted, who is a Republican-Greenbacker, on his reported election in Maine, congratulating him, cost the former thousands of votes in Indiana and Ohio. Our currency is now worth its face in gold, and all business of the country is settled and prosperous, and business men want to run no risks by a change. A number of the largest business men of Indiana who had for years voted the Democratic ticket, made public proclamation of their determination to vote with us to help the Republicans.

[illegible] factor in the contest, is [illegible] cacy of the sentiment is seen in the effect had in stocks and bonds in New York and London by the success of the Republicans in Indiana and Ohio. In New York they advanced and in London they were reported firmer and sales large.

Months ago we said that the question at issue in this Presidential contest was, whether it was better to have the nation remain in the hands of those who saved it, or go into the hands of those who but lately sought to destroy it, and who still regret that they were defeated in that effort. We see no reason to change our opinion, and judging by the vote in Ohio and Indiana it now seems quite sure that the nation is to continue in the hands of those who saved it.

The Press on the Elections.

The remarkable results of the Ohio and Indiana elections have caused much interesting comment by the press.

The Louisville Courier-Journal wisely admits that Democracy has been "unable to cope with the massed material which the Republicans were able to put in the field."

The Richmond States says that Virginia must "put an immediate stop to all this nonsense about running two tickets and see that her solid vote is cast for the regular Democratic electors."

The Richmond Daily Dispatch said:

> Results of the election of Tuesday show that our miscalled Northern "brethren" are not only bitter writers, libelers and slanderers of the Southern people, but are our enemies. They would not allow the Southern people to go; like Pharaoh, they hardened their hearts and forbade us to move a step, but, unlike him, they have not yet been overwhelmed in the Red sea. Popular prejudice and invincible ignorance still rules the people by whose bayonets the States of the Union were pinned together.
> They will neither allow us to be their equals outside of the Union nor within the Union. We are still enemies. We offered in 1872, to elect the prince of Unionists and Abolitionists President, and his own section repudiated him. In 1876 we elected a distinguished New Yorker, President, and he was not allowed to take his seat. In 1880 we propose to elect the most accomplished officer in the Federal army to the high office, and the people of the North band themselves together as his and our deadliest enemies. More in sorrow than in anger do we say these things.
> Deeply do we regret it, that we of the South are to continue to be aliens and strangers in the land of our fathers. We confidently counted upon success in Indiana, entertained hopes of carrying Ohio, our theory being that both States would go the same way. The result, as we have already said, is evidence enough that the Northern people look upon us of the South as enemies. They have solidified the North as an offset to the solid South. Let us trust that the wrongs of reconstruction days are not to be repeated.

The Charleston News and Courier says it will spur Democracy to redoubled efforts, and thinks New York will be the pivotal State.

The Memphis Appeal confesses to sore disappointment, and ascribes the defeat to Federal office holders, deputy marshals, threats of soldiery, and imported negro voters.

The Memphis Avalanche says:

> The Indiana election was a revolution. A change of 20,000 votes to the Republican party within two years in so closely a contested State is significant of the final overthrow of the Democratic party. This revolution not only means the defeat of Hancock in November, but it means the disbandment of the Democratic organization, to be followed by the disruption of the Republican party, and the reconstruction of parties on new issues. The disintegration of the Southern wing of the Democratic party is now far advanced. In nearly every Southern State with a reasonable certainty of the election of Hancock, the Southern Democrats would have stuck to the national ticket and cast 138 electorial votes for the Democratic candidate, but the unexpected overwhelming disaster in Indiana will paralyze the Southern Democrats, and the 138 Southern electorial votes cannot now be counted as secure for Hancock. The change of opinion developed by the result of Tuesday's election has fairly stunned the Southern Democrats. They see in that result a solid North for Garfield. The Indiana verdict demands that the political solid South shall be the first to disband.

The Cincinnati Enquirer thinks the effect upon the Democracy will certainly be as invigorating as was the effect of Maine upon the Republicans.

The Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist says "defeat is painful, but it can be redeemed. The great conflict for constitutionalism against centralism is yet to be fought."

The New York Times replies to the Richmond Dispatch, and gives the Republican sentiment of the country:

> It is sad that the Richmond Dispatch should think the people of the North disposed to be enemies to the people of the South. The people of the North wish to be friends with the South, but on the simple conditions that will make friendship possible and permanent. It is everyway for our interest to be friends with the people of those States. They cannot prosper without our drawing benefit from their prosperity, while we also contribute to increase it. If they will give their citizens equal rights and equal justice before the laws, if they will welcome Northern men who come among them to help to develop their resources and build up their industries and society, and acknowledge them as equals, entitled to their own opinions and to freedom of speech and of action, in short, if they will be friends with us and treat us as friends have a right to expect to be treated, we are ready with all our hearts. We want them to come into the Union, not in form merely, but in reality. If they hold themselves aloof as a solid section, making promises and threats and presenting overtures, we do not see how the thing is to be done. The Nation goes on its way, and if ten or a dozen States persist in considering themselves as a section apart and something different from an integral part of the Nation, we do not see but the rest of the people must contrive to manage its interests rather than surrender them to the keeping of the solid section. They seemed disposed to do so, at any rate, and the sorrow and anger of our wayward brethren, though it grieves us much, does not appear to be altogether reasonable.

We have received from George [illegible]tinson & Co., Art Publishers, Portland, Maine, a proof copy of the large and beautiful steel engraving "[illegible]," after the celebrated painting by S. P. Cookerell. The fame of William Tell is world wide, and the nerve, courage, and powerful character exhibited by both father and son in the shooting at the apple on the boy's head, at the mandate of the tyrant, has fired the hearts of millions. "Ready!"—every nerve is strained and fixed—a moment of terrible suspense—the arrow has sped straight to its mark. We have also received a proof copy of a large, fine work of art, representing, in a charming manner, a domestic scene; it is entitled "The Welcome Step," and is after a painting by the well known artist, G. G. Kilburne.

> "His very step has music in't,
> As he comes up the stairs."

The artist has shown, in an inimitable manner, a mother and beautiful little child at the glad moment of the first sound of the welcome step of the husband and father. As works of art these engravings certainly belong in the front rank. The plates were engraved in London for Messrs. Stinson & Co., by W. H. Simons and R. Josey, two of the foremost engravers in the world, at an expense of some three thousand pounds sterling, or about fifteen thousand dollars. This house publishes all descriptions of the better class of pictures, and deserves the large share of public favor and patronage which it receives.

Mrs. Julia T. Manker.

Mrs. Manker, wife of Rev. J. J. Manker of the Houston Conference, died in Greenville, Tenn., Sept. 21, 1880, aged 39 years. We extend to the bereaved husband our most sincere sympathies.

Of her Rev. J. W. Mann says in the Methodist Advocate:

> She was pre-eminently resigned in affliction and triumphant in death. In life and in death she was one of the purest, brightest and best of earth. She combined in her character the distinguishing graces and virtues which make the human life divine.
> Having been trained by deeply pious parents in the service of the ever loving and altogether lovely Jesus, she became, early in life, not only an amiable and pious student, but an accomplished and efficient teacher. Fourteen years ago, with her faithful husband, she came South to find a home and field of Christian usefulness among strangers. Through all these years she has been well known and much loved in Knoxville, Athens and Greeneville—prominent stations in Holston Conference—as a devoted wife, loving mother, faithful friend and model Christian.
> After appropriate and impressive funeral services, attended by a large concourse of friends, and conducted by Revs. J. B. Ford, C. B. Sparrow, J. A. Roble and the writer, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Knoxville, Tenn., the loved form of the departed was bequeathed to the guardianship of the grave, in Gray Cemetery, of that city.
> Sister Manker, sleep sweetly on—we are all coming! O may the husband, four sons and daughter rejoin the wife and mother, with the angel-babe, in the bright, eternal city, to live together forever!

The Methodist Quarterly Review for October is at hand full of excellent reading. Judge Reynolds, of New York gives a review of the recent work on Ecclesiastical Law and Rules of Evidence, by Judge Henry and Bishop Harris; the Ethics of Sincerity is discussed by Rev. J. C. Granberry, of Nashville, Tenn.; The Regeneration of Palestine by Prof. Wm. Wells; Ecumenical Methodism, by Rev. Dr. A. C. George; Rev. Dr. Miley's work on the Atonement is reviewed by Rev. J. F. Chaplain, and an article on the Harmony of the Egyptian and Mosaic Records is copied from the London Methodist Quarterly. The editorial departments are full and rich. This number ends another volume and now is the time for old subscribers to renew and for new ones to send in their names. This sterling publication costs $2.62 a year, postage paid. Order of Phillips & Hunt, New York or New Orleans.

The Tennesseans.

The Michigan Christian Advocate says:

> The Tennesseans, a band of nine colored singers, who visited the seat of the Conference, and proffered gratuitously their services in connection with the exercises, are an interesting group. At the Detroit Conference they received but slight attention, but at the Michigan Conference they were highly appreciated. The troupe was organized by Dr. Rust, in the interest of the Freedmen's Aid Society, and paid $18,000 into its treasury as the fruit of their effort. They are not rude, impulsive warblers, but really fine singers, rendering all the parts with remarkable ability. Mr. Coleman has great compass, ranging from CC through three octaves, and sometimes striking even AA. Mr. Thompson is a thundering bass singer. Miss Jennie Robinson has a sweet voice of great compass and excels in the high notes, as does also Lizzie Pugh. The contralto singer, Miss Green, is an educated girl from New York. Several of them were originally slaves. They are now aspiring for an education. Mr. Picket, the organist, is the son of Calvin Picket, P. E. at Nashville, and is a fine musician. Mr. Stewart, the tenor, is an excellent Bible student. They sing quite a proportion of church music, as well as Southern ditties. The troupe is under the charge of Mr. Donovan, a member of our church at Delaware, Ohio, and several of the singers are able to sing with the spirit also, being devout Christians.

A Warning.

We republish the following from the Evangelist of this city:

> DEAR EVANGELIST—I write for information through your columns as to one Felix Christian who claims to be a missionary sent out by the Baptists of this State.
> He has been in the parish of Assumption several weeks, and has caused a division in the church at Napoleonville. From here he went to Paincourtville and preached one sermon, for which he charged $10. He then went to the Israel church and talked and sang, and charged $10 for that.
> Please let us know whence comes this wolf. REV. S. HOUSTON.

The Convention has no missionary in the field this year. The brethren were warned about this man more than a year ago through the Executive Board of the Convention, to not allow him in their pulpits. He is not recognized as a preacher by any of the brethren in New Orleans.—ED.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. W. F. Crafts, of the Rock River Conference, has withdrawn from the M. E. Church to become a minister in the Congregational Church.

—Rev. Charles S. Coit, of Newark Conference, has been elected a member of the Methodist Board of missions to succeed Dr. Fitzgerald, who has become recording secretary.

—Richard J. Bright, Sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, entertained Frederick Douglass at dinner at the finest hotel in Indianapolis, and afterwards the two visited the public schools together.

—Bishop Merrill and wife arrived in Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 28. They remained there until Sept. 8. when the Bishop proceeded to Bulgaria, by way of Vienna and thence to Palestine and India; and Mrs. Merrill sailed for New York on the steamer Frisia.

—The Rocky Mountain Advocate says: "Another addition to the ministerial force of the M. E. Church, for Utah. Rev. Mr. Lincoln, 'put in an appearance' about two weeks since. He takes charge of our school at Ogden, and preaches in Northern Utah on the Sabbath."

—The delegation of the M. E. Church South, to the Œcumenical Congress in London next year is as follows: Bishops Pierce, McTyeire and Wightman, and Alpheus W. Wilson, William W. Bennett, L. S. Burkhead, A. G. Haygood, Jos. S. Key, F. A. Mood, J. B. A. Ahrens, I. G. John, A. R. Winfield, Joseph W. Lewis, E. R. Hendrix, John B. McFerrin, C. G. Andrews, Thomas O. Summers, E. E. Wiley, C. W. Millar, David Morton, George Sim, T. J. Magruder, Frank H. Smith, Julian S. Carr, James H. Carlisle, James Jackson, J. L. DeVampert, E. Windsor, E. H. East, A. R. Boone, W. L. Nugent, R. W. Jones, William H. Chambers, Benjamin F. Meek, J. Wofford Tucker, Rob't. B. Vance, A. G. Stitt.

—Gen. Grant in speaking of Senator Conkling, said: "I regard him as the greatest mind in public life, or that has been in public life since the beginning of the Government. He has the advantage of having been trained from his very infancy. He had a father of unusual ability, who early taught him to reason and corrected his errors. He has grown to great proportions. I did not get acquainted with him while I was General of the Army. I was in Washington four years and met him, but did not know him. You know some men chill you by their presence. You feel like keeping yourself in reserve when they are near you. Others draw you out; they warm and cheer you. You immediately cheer up, and you are glad of their presence. When I came to know Conkling he was always welcome. His external bearing is only external. He has true greatness and simplicity."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

J. Allen, Deasonville: "Our pastor, P. Golden, is doing all he can to improve the work. In Sunday school $1.65 was taken up for the missionary cause."

A. W. Wright, Corinth: We have closed a protracted meeting with 26 converts and 19 accessions. At one of my churches I had to make way for the Baptists, who worship in the same house, and left some converts at the altar."

C. L. Crump, Goodman: "At a church Rev. J. D. Walden built last year Sept 9th I started a protracted meeting and received 10 converts, 20 probationers and 8 were baptized. I was taken sick, and Bro. Parks from Canton carried it on a day and night. Heavy rains kept many from the church. The people have paid elder $20.00, bishop $1, pastor $10.95.

LOUISIANA.

J. W. Hilton, Natchitoches: "We are having a good time in our church. Our beloved elder is with us on his fourth quarter. On Sunday Oct. 3, we had 110 communicants."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

There is but one city in the United States where there are any colored street car drivers. That is Alleghany City, Pa.

General Charles Albright, widely known and one of the Philadelphia Conference lay delegates to the General M. E. Conference of 1872, died at his home in Mauch Chunk, Pa., Sept. 28th.

Bad manners are not only disagreeable but dangerous. An Italian traveler was lately eating a sausage on a railway train with his knife, when the shock of a collision drove the latter implement violently into his mouth. He sued for damages; the court held that he had no business to eat with his knife.

Vermont leads in the production of maple sugar, with 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 pounds annually. New York produces one-third less. Ohio produces about half as much as New York. Illinois, Indiana, New Hampshire, Michigan and Wisconsin, produce about 1,000,000 pounds each. The product of 1879 is estimated at 17,000 tons. The production of maple syrup is stated at 1,000,000 gallons, in which Ohio takes the lead.

France has annexed "The Society Islands" in the South Pacific Ocean. They are thirteen in number, contain about 580 square miles, and a population of less than 25,000. They are mountainous, but all have fertile valleys skirting the shores. The natives are of the Malay race, and have long been mainly under French rule. They are said to be industrious and hospitable, but very sensual. Missionaries sought out these islands nearly one hundred years ago, and have made considerable progress in changing the belief of the inhabitants from paganism. A quarrel arose between Protestant and Catholic ministers long since, and the Protestant ministers most left the islands to the Catholics, who were favored at the time by Louis Phillipe, the French monarch.

Letter from Palestine.

PALESTINE, TEXAS, Oct. 3, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—When I left the conference I had only 30 members, now I have 65. The future outlook is promising. Palestine is a beautiful little city situated on the International and Great Northern railroad, which here makes three divisions—one 180 miles west into Austin, one 150 miles south into Houston where Elder Cushman lives, the other 80 miles north to Longview, there making connection with the Texas and Pacific railroad which runs to Marshall where Elder Rippetoe lives and our college is situated. By this you may judge what Palestine will be in a few years. The population is now only about 3000, and it still awaits the coming of another railroad which will increase its value. I have talked down much opposition to our church here, and where it was hated it is now loved.

I have commenced to build a new church 32x50x14 with clear, fine dressed lumber. Have all the foundation and framing on the ground, and expect to have it finished on the outside by Nov. 15. When completed it will cost $1000. Will make application for aid to the Church Extension Society and to receive assistance. I think we can make up with what we have in the treasury $650, excluding subscriptions for which I am hard at work. Our old chapel is worn out and we cannot winter in it again. It is too small and shabby. But may God's blessing rest on Bro. R. Roberts and others for building it for it has served me as an ark for the ingathering of many lost sinners. Bro. Gabriel Todd still remains an old lion in the field. We want the conference of 1881 to meet here. The brethren say they are able to receive it.

PETER MORGAN.

A Sad Accident.

WINONA, MISS., Oct. 1, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to say something about the world's destroyer, hoping it will have some effect on dram drinking. Saturday, Oct. 3, one of our young men, aged 18 years, was killed by the train. He got to drinking Saturday evening, and finally got drunk. Some one sent for his mother to come and take him home. She came, but whisky had so much control of him that she could do nothing with him. His name was Henry Anderson. The train ran over and cut him in two at the waist; one hand was carried away and the other cut in two, and none of his head could be found. I hope all young men will take warning from this.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Oct. 24, 1880.—JACOB'S PREVAILING PRAYER.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 32: 9-12, 22-30.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Men ought always to pray and not to faint."—Luke 18: 1.

TOPIC.—God Blessing Persevering Prayer.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Intervening History.—From Bethel to Penial is forty years. Jacob's life during that time had not been one of unalloyed happiness. He had had several severe lessons in the sinfulness of deception. His uncle, Laban, had acted very deceptively toward him—and nothing begets in one such an intense reprobation of any transgression as to have it practiced upon one's self. But in wordly matters he had prospered, after serving Laban for a long time in vain. There were born to him in his exile eleven sons, who with the later born Benjamin represented the future tribes of Israel. He had acquired a great deal of wealth. In Mount [illegible] there was a reconciliation [illegible] Jacob and Laban, brought [illegible] great part by the divine [illegible] which Laban had received [illegible] in pursuit of his fugitive son-in-law. A memorial heap was made as a witness of the covenant of peace into which they entered. The one danger was passed, but the greater, and the one that Jacob most dreaded, lay before him. His sin made him afraid of Esau. He sent messengers to Esau with a pacific message. They returned with no answering salutation, and with the information that Esau was coming to meet him with a following of four hundred men. And, remembering Esau's purpose to slay him, he had little hope of being spared. He divided his people and his flocks into two bands, so that if Esau should smite the one, the other might escape. That was all that he could do, and having done this, he betook himself to prayer.

It is instructive that in his distress Jacob turned to God for a way out of his difficulties. Jacob appealed to him as the God who had entered into covenant with his fathers, and as the heir of that covenant.

He had left his father's house a fugitive, with nothing but his staff, utterly unworthy of God's kindness, and yet the Lord had been gracious unto him. He made the frank confession that he was afraid of his brother. He was not afraid before God of exposing his own weakness. He had prayed as if all depended upon God, and now he acted as if all depended upon himself. He sent forward an imposing present for the purpose of placating his brother. He separated the cattle into droves, and put a space between each drove so as to make the largest possible impression. Each driver he instructed to repeat the same story—that these flocks belonged to Jacob, and that they were intended as a present for "my lord Esau," and that Jacob was just behind.

Jacob met Esau the next day, but apparently without fear. He who had prevailed with God had no occasion to be afraid of man. And Esau, governed as usual by impulse, when he saw his brother ran to meet him, and fell upon his neck and kissed him, and both wept away their animosity. And thus Jacob prevailed with men as well as with God. "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him."

The Reason Why.

The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is a gravelly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered kidneys, it cures without fail. Constipation and piles readily yield to its cathartic and healing power. Put up in dry vegetable form or liquid (very concentrated), either act prompt and sure.—Troy Budget.

MARRIAGES.

At the church, Georgeville, Miss., Sept. 26, Rev. C. L. Crump, officiating, Mr. Joseph Jordan to Miss Lizzie Gilson. At a friend's house, May 18, Mr. Green Ford to Miss Lue Sadler.

A wise Deacon.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors visiting us so often."

"Bro. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time; kept my family well and saved the doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us well and able to work all the time. I'll warrant it has cost you and the neighbors one to two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time."

"Deacon, I'll use your medicine hereafter."

THE GRANDISSIMES; A Story of Creole Life. By George W. Cable. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons.

The number of Southern writers who have succeeded in establishing a wide reputation because of the possession of a high order of literary talent has been astonishingly limited. We may truly say that not more than half a dozen celebrities of this kind have been remembered beyond the day of their generation. It appears to be pretty well established that to New Orleans belongs the credit of furnishing at least one author of great merits. George W. Cable has displayed a remarkable originality and power in picturing to the life Creole characters and society, peculiar to semi-French Louisiana. "Old Creole Days," delighted the readers of Scribner's Magazine, and was afterward republished in book form, making a decided sensation in literary circles. "The Grandissimes" now follows with its quaint and delicate depictions of character and scenery, easily recognized as genuine by readers here, and most interesting to strangers to the manners customs and dialect of this section. The critics of the literary centres agree that this book is one of the most notable romances of the year.

The fact that already about 70,000 Cabinet or Parlor Organs are yearly sold in the United States (nearly twice as many as of piano-fortes) attests their growing popularity.

THE FINER DRAWING ROOM STYLES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

Comparatively few musicians, even, have kept pace with recent improvements in reed instruments and are fully aware of the excellence now attained in the finer styles, in the manufacture of which the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. are quite unrivaled. These styles must not be judged by the small organs so largely sold; which they greatly excel. It is principally these finer styles which have won for the Mason & Hamlin Organs the extraordinary distinctions awarded them at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION AND COMPARISON OF THE BEST PRODUCTIONS OF ALL NATIONS FOR THIRTEEN YEARS; being the only highest awards to any American organs at any one. It is one of these which led DR. FRANZ LISZT to characterize the Mason & Hamlin Organs not only as "matchless," but as "unrivaled." and which led the distinguished OTTO XAVERWENKA, of Berlin, to declare them "the most excellent of instruments," adding: "They are capable of giving the finest tone coloring, and no other instrument so enraptures the player." THEODORE THOMAS testifies that musicians generally rank these organs very high, far above all others, in which opinion he himself fully concurs. OLE BULL found them so superior as to draw from him the declaration that "Their fine quality of tone is in contrast with that of other reed organs." The distinguished tenor, ITALO CAMPANINI, in a note to the manufacturers, as he was about leaving this country recently, wrote: "Having had opportunity to observe and use your organs, while singing in your country, I take pleasure in testifying to their admirable qualities. They excel all similar instruments of which I have any knowledge. But you have better proof of my opinion of them than even this expression, in the fact that I have just purchased one to take with me to Italy." Hundreds of similar opinions from distinguished musicians have accumulated in the hands of the manufacturers.

A recent beautiful invention which the Mason & Hamlin Co. are now introducing, greatly improves the key action of such instruments, lightening the touch, heretofore difficult when many stops were used, one-half, and still more improving it in other respects.

THE FINER DRAWING ROOM STYLES of the Mason & Hamlin Organs are furnished in cases of BLACK WALNUT, MAHOGANY, ASH and EBONIZED, plain to very elegant, some with pipe organ tops. They have from THIRTEEN to TWENTY-THREE STOPS; some with TWO MANUALS and FULL PEDAL BASS. NET PRICES are from $300 to $900.

The Mason & Hamlin Co. also manufacture a variety of styles of fine organs for churches where greatest power as well as variety is required; they also, regularly make a large variety of small organs from $51 up; all of which are of very highest excellence. Organs are furnished for monthly or quarterly payments, $5 and upwards.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, 32 pp., 4to, with prices and circulars containing much useful information, sent free.

We especially invite all persons taking an interest in such matters to visit our warerooms and examine these organs. It is always a pleasure to exhibit them.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TENNESSEE.

Jesse D. Hay, Mansfield: "Rev. W. M. Butler was with us on the 11th and 12th of September and held his quarterly conference. Sorry to say, he was very weak from the effect of chills and fever, which he had every day during his stay with me. I was hardly able to attend quarterly conference; I was just getting up from a hard spell of sickness which had kept me in bed five weeks; therefore I was not prepared for the quarter. I got from bed, wrapped up warmly and met the quarter. The Savior met with us in our feebleness. Sixty participated in the Lord's supper, three converts, one joined the church. The elder preached several very able sermons which will prove a great good to this people. This is his fourth year as presiding elder. The people love him and grieved to see him depart from them the last time. The 22d of September he left us, though hardly able to travel. May the Lord restore him to health, enable him to finish his round and bring him safely to his family."

MISSISSIPPI.

B. L. Nevils, Buena Vista: "In our protracted effort there were 7 converts in twenty-four hours."

H. L. Kennedy, Winona: "We are getting along well with our work. The church has been nicely ceiled, well seated, and we are ready to paint the front. We have paid on it $60 this year. The Sunday school numbers from 30 to 40. In Vaiden we have built a neat church. The friends have worked hard for it, and raised $150 among themselves. We got $40 from the Church Extension Society. The Sunday-school numbers between 40 and 50. The church will be ready for dedication on the 31st. The white people aided us with material and money. There has been 20 accessions this year. Elder J. C. Johnson met us on his third round. At our first quarterly conference there was a Shaw committee appointed to raise money for the University."

ARKANSAS.

W. H. Higgins, Batesville: "My third quarterly meeting has just passed. Elder Pollard was at his post and preached two able sermons. Report of the quarter: I had traveled about 733 miles and taken in ... full membership, 31 on probation and 10 converts. I have been in bed with chills and fever for some time, and am still having [illegible]. I hope that I will soon be well so I can do more for the work. ... quarterage. The Indians in Florida.

There are to-day, within the borders of the State, about 250 warriors, and, including women and children, 800 Indians in all, divided up into four towns or lodges, over all of whom Young Tiger-Tail is the chief. He is about 30 years of age. One of the Indian towns is in Polk county, on the west side of the Kissimme river, near Lake Pierce. These Indians live almost entirely on the natural resources of the country, such as deer, turkey, bear, and fish; they make from the bud of the cabbage, palmetto, and bamboo brier root, which they reduce to a pulp by boiling, what may be considered a substitute for bread, and it is very nutritious and palatable. They also have small patches of sweet potatoes, sugar-cane and corn, but do not rely on the latter productions. They raise no cattle, but have a good stock of hogs and ponies on the range. They dress in primitive style (flaps and gowns), and refuse to civilize, but are perfectly harmless. Notwithstanding they live almost entirely without shelter, sickness is almost unknown among them, and they live to a ripe old age.

GRAY HAIRS ARE HONORABLE but their premature appearance is annoying. Parker's Hair Balsam is popular for cleanliness and promptly restoring the youthful color.

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

Dr. Harter:—Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefits his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.

WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT?
You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap.
The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points.
Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing.
It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order, and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth.
A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS:
We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it, consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn.
As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted throats of which prevent its flowing backward it becomes hotter and hotter, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT. SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.

THE IMPROVED WASHER has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.

THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER.
There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc.
The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order.
The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1¼ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a boilerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water.
FOR LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury.
No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon.
For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

The retail price of No. 1 WASHER, in New York, is $3.50; No. 2 WASHER, $5.00; No. 1, $24.00 per dozen; No 2. $36 00 per dozen.
WE SEND SINGLE OR SAMPLE No. 1 WASHERS, PREPAID, TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY EXPRESS OFFICE, in any part of the United States east of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, also in Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, for $3.50.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well known leading journals, viz.: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer.
From the Boston Youths' Companion: "This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever known. We speak from experience when we say that it is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeepers knows that common modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."
From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880.—"Lately we had special reasons for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this belief was due merely to immemorial usage, and had no real foundation in act; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher."
From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the ROBBINS WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."
From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O. A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a whole day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a ROBBINS WASHER one girl attends to the washing, cooks dinner at the same time, and has all the clothing hung out to dry, and tubs and wringer and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and also get them to understand that we write this simply and entirely for their benefit, and not at the solicitation of the manufacturers, nor with their knowledge or consent, but we write this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proven to be an article that does all that the manufacturers claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many time the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving in the soap will in a short time pay for the machine."
We advise our readers to send for a washer at once.
In ordering, write plainly your name, postoffice, county and State. Also the name of the express office to which you wish the washer forwarded.
CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ALL ORDERS.
Remit by Post office Order or Registered Letter. We insure the safe delivery of all washers ordered as above. Money may be sent by draft on New York.

NASAL CATARRH!
All cases promptly and permanently cured by Dr. S. W. BEALL, Homeopathic Catarrhal Specialist, A reputable Physician of 30 years' practice.
Not a Douche, Not an Inhaler, Not a Snuff.
Chronic Nasal Catarrh has never been cured by local treatment alone. Catarrh being constitutional requires constitutional treatment to eradicate it from the system.
In connection with Dr. Beall's Nasal Catarrh Specific, a course of treatment is furnished each patient as indicated by the symptoms. Also an Atomizer with cleansing solutions to be locally applied in the form of a spray. Patients at a distance treated by the aid of a carefully prepared diagnostic sheet. No single box or bottle of medicine is applicable to all cases.
Dr. Beall has cured hundreds of cases in its worst form, and patients now being treated in all parts of the United States report rapid improvement. Treatment is pleasant and directions easily followed.
The following is a specimen of the testimonials constantly being received:
To the Public—Statement of A. W. Emery, of the firm of Emery & Harter, Troy, Ohio.
For a number of years I was afflicted with Nasal Catarrh, affecting seriously both my head and throat. The discharges from the nose were streaked with blood, and had a very offensive smell. After a course of treatment from Dr. Beall, I am entirely cured.

Blancard's PILLS
City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodine of Iron. The Iodine purifies, the Iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.
Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by Compromise, by which the nation was made to tremble from center to circumference, were only skirmishes in the great battle between the two mighty contestants. In the election of Abraham Lincoln, the civilization of freedom triumphed. Then occurred the awful war, in which slavery was defeated, and national unity continued. At the beginning of reconstruction President Johnson, in the interest of the civilization of slavery, used his high office to restore the South to her former place in the Union, with all her former powers and unchanged in sentiment. Against this policy was the reconstruction of Congress, by which the constitution, the laws and the policy of the State governments of the South should be made to conform in fact and in administration with the spirit as well as the letter of the constitution of the United States as amended. The contest was fierce, and, while in the main Congress was victorious at the time, at the end of fifteen years the restoration idea of Mr. Johnson has triumphed. The whole South is again in the Union, unchanged in sentiment on all questions relating to State sovereignty as distinguished from national supremacy, including the right of secession, and relating to the treatment of the colored people. The abolition of slavery has simply taken away the right to buy and sell the black man.

The spirit of slavery lives. The civilization which grew with slavery continues. The intense sectionalism which developed in defense of slavery is unchanged. Freedom [illegible] in all matters touching [illegible] sentiment is forbidden, [illegible]ble, and is permitted [illegible] protest. counted as he intended it should be. In all aristocratic governments the pulpit is expected to proclaim the divine right of kings to rule, and to teach the peasantry that it is theirs to obey. In republics the individual voter is God's representative in ruling the nation, so that Americans vote by divine right. No republic can continue, much less prosper, unless its people be protected in the use of the ballot. The National Government should also insure free schools for the masses of the people. If the States do not do it, let it be done by the General Government at the expense of delinquent States. The fact that there are 1,700,000 voters in the Southern States who cannot read is appalling enough in itself, but what is still more appalling is that adequate provisions for education of the masses are not made in a single Southern State, while in a majority of them public schools exist only in name, and public sentiment is fifty years behind the time in its appreciation and willingness to support public schools.

The chief work of reconstruction must be done by the churches. In so far as the churches of the North and the churches of the South can harmonize in the work of educating the ignorant and giving churches to the poor throughout the South, let the work be done in concert. The churches were the first to divide on Mason and Dixon's line, and added the enthusiasm and power of religious conviction to the thought and policies of the two sections. They ought to be the first to bury the past, and to live in harmony, and to unite in every good work. But this they do not as yet do, except to a limited extent. The Presbyterian and Baptist churches each are divided into Northern and Southern churches. The Methodist Episcopal Church South is wedded to the past, and only a small fraction of her ministry or membership are ready to forget it and to unite in a heroic effort for the salvation of the colored people and poor white people of the South, only as she can work along the lines of her old prejudices.

The churches from the North who have entered the South since the war are doing a great work. The Congregationalists, through the American Missionary Association, have established a large number of splendid schools among the Freedmen. So have the Baptists and Presbyterians. The M. E. Church has entered more largely upon mission work than all other churches from the North combined. Beginning fifteen years ago with perhaps 75,000 members in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, she entered upon the work of reorganization throughout the whole South. As a result she has now on what was slave territory over 400,000 members about evenly divided between white and colored people. Her annual conferences on that territory number twenty-eight, and include the whole South from the Rio Grande to the Potomac. On the territory she has over 2000 traveling preachers. Her church property has increased more than $7,000,000 in fifteen years. This is an average increase of more than $1200 per day since Mr. Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation. Among the white people of the South twelve institutions of learning have been established, in which are more than one thousand young men and women every year. Among the freedmen twenty like institutions have been established in the principal centres of the South, in which are about 3000 young colored men and women, being educated principally for teaching and preaching. In the prosecution of the vast work, nearly $8,000,000 have been expended during fifteen years, from the treasuries of the Mission, Church Extension, Freedmen's Aid, Sunday School Union and Tract Societies.

Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.—Dedication of the Meharry Medical College.

The dedication of Meharry Medical College, on Wednesday Oct. [illegible], was an important occasion. [illegible] Avenue of Nashville [illegible] of the exercises [illegible] were present, Bishops Wiley and Haven, Rev. Dr. F. S. Hoyt, editor of the Western Christian Advocate, Rev. Dr. Rust, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. D. Barnett, of the Kentucky Conference, Rev. Messrs. W. B. Rappitol, J. M. Carter, J. Park and W. Davis, of the Central Tennessee Conference; Rev. Messrs. C. Pickett, H. W. Key, D. W. Days, W. Primm and W. Lillard, of the Tennessee Conference; Drs. Bowling Jones and T. O. Summers, Jr., of the State Medical College; Dr. W. Morgan, of the Dental Department of Vanderbilt University; Rev. Dr. Phillips, President of the Nashville Normal and Theological Institute; Profs. Spence, Bennett and Burrus, of the Fisk University; Drs. Tucker, Sneed, Stephens, Hubbard, McKinley and Noel, of the Meharry Medical School, with Drs. Boss, Jamison, Halfacre and others, of the alumni of this department, and some of Nashville's most substantial citizens.

The exercises were opened by singing the hymn beginning, "Jesus shall reign where'er the sun." Rev. Dr. F. S. Hoyt, of Cincinnati, led in prayer. The anthem, "Praise the Lord," was then sung by the choir in excellent style. The singing added greatly to the interest of the exercises as it was interspersed during the afternoon.

The President, Rev. Dr. Braden, then made a statement as to the origin of the medical school. Several years ago a student asked the question, will there be facilities for a medical education furnished at the Central Tennessee College? This question being repeated by others led to inquiry as to the necessity for such instruction. The great mortality among the colored people of Nashville and elsewhere, was clear proof of the necessity of some action to reduce the ratio of this mortality. While other things were thought to be necessary, better knowledge of physiology and the laws of health was the first and most important. This could best be imparted by physicians of their own people, who were acquained with the condition, poverty, habits and superstitions of the freedmen. Rev. Samuel Meharry, of Shawnee Mound, Ind., in 1875, made his first donation for the purpose of opening a medical school which was organized at once, and four classes aggregating twenty students have received the degree of M. D. and have entered upon the practice of their profession. The speaker then noticed in very flattering terms the reception which these graduates had received from the medical profession wherever they had practiced, the white physicians giving them a cordial welcome and aiding and counseling and encouraging them in their work. He then stated that the lot and building to be dedicated cost about twelve thousand dollars as it now stands completed, and partially furnished.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Rust, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was then introduced and spoke as follows:

Long established custom has santioned the practice of dedicating houses set apart for religious worship by appropriate religious exercises, and I know of no reason why buildings consecrated to the education of our youth should not also be opened by appropriate literary services. The school-house and the meeting-house are similar in object and influence. The one aims at the spiritual interests of humanity, the other seeks both the temporal and the eternal weal of the race. One seeks to reclaim the hardened adult, the other so to train our youth that they may be fortified against the alluring vices of life. The mission of one is to cure evil, the other to prevent it. Our fathers in the settlement of this country, at the earliest moment possible, erected, side by side, the meeting-house and school-house. The first trees that were felled in the forest were employed in building places of worship and schools for the education of the children. We owe our prosperity as a nation, under God, to these instrumentalities of culture and morality. We meet to-day for congratulation, for rejoicing and thanksgiving. Could the blessings which have resulted from the school and the college be appreciated, and the benefits which will undoubtedly result from the erection of this noble building for the Meharry Medical College, no eulogy at this dedication would be deemed extravagant. The erection of this [illegible], spacious, well arranged, [illegible] built and well ventilated [illegible] with its ample grounds, [illegible] recognition and re[illegible] county [illegible] for [illegible] of influence and attractions. Not a school building in the whole South will be built for years to come, but will be the better for the erection of this beautiful building for our Medical Department. Its influence will be almost boundless, and will sweep over the land in constantly increasing circles of light and love. It is a beacon light upon an eminence so lofty and commanding that every poor child of the land may exult in its beams and thank God as he follows the pure rays to their source and slakes his thirsty spirit with the pure water which shall flow full and free from this fountain of health, intelligence and morality.

After another song by the choir, Rev. Bishop I. W. Wiley, D.D., was introduced and for an hour held the audience as if spell-bound by one of the most thoughtful, practical, eloquent, suggestive and elegant addresses that it has ever been our lot to hear. He said the dedication of a new building for the Meharry Medical Department is an epoch in the history of the Central Tennessee College and in the progress of the colored people. The word "building" suggested his theme. The colored people are building for the future, reputation, intellect, character. The tendency of all people when they are down is to cry for help. This has, to some extent, been the case with the colored people, but no law can make a man respectable while he is debased by drunkenness and wallowing in the gutter. Nothing can compel men to respect men who do not have that which is worthy of respect in themselves. The colored people must build such characters as to be worthy of respect and they would have it. He alluded to the reception given to the graduates of this medical school, and said it is because these graduates have taken their stand beside their white brethren in the medical profession as capable, successful, practitioners. Freedom was poorly understood at first by the emancipated slaves. To many of them it meant exemption from labor, and they became indolent. Indolence is not the exclusive property of the colored race, it is a common inheritance of the whole race. Industry is the law of God. In Eden man was commanded to labor, and it is the only road to success. All must labor, either with the brain or muscle, in the office or in the field and whether it is one or the other depends on the man himself. The speaker alluded to the change in the appearance of the colored people now and ten years ago as he saw them. Then the bandanna handkerchief and the turban, unkempt, barefoot and ragged, now dressed in the neatest attire and with some reference to the fashions of the hour, proving that they had labored and were reaping results. Knowledge was another essential element of character building. They had progressed in this respect as no other nation has advanced. History would record this as their great achievement. The reason was largely owing to the fact that they were emancipated in the midst of a highly civilized people, in the midst of a people favorable to the education of all people. What progress would the colored people have made if they had been set free in Africa, China or Japan? The colored people had difficulties, but they had compensations for these in much that surrounds them. Their advancement from the common field hand to the necessity for a medical college in twenty years demonstrated their capabilities, and if so much could be accomplished in twenty years, what could not be accomplished in a century? The speaker then dwelt on the necessity of a high degree of morality as the only sure basis of true success and greatness.

The speaker was frequently applauded, and at the close of the address he was requested, on motion of Rev. Calvin Pickett, to write out the address for publication.

Dr. Bowling, of the State Medical College was then introduced, and kept the audience wreathed in smiles for a few minutes, as he spoke in the highest terms of commendation of the address of Bishop Wiley, and of the cordiality with which he welcomed the graduates of any chartered medical school, irrespective of place, of birth, nationality or color, so long as they were competent, into the medical fraternity. He claimed the honor of being the first to speak favorably in the public prints of the Meharry Medical College. The name of Meharry would be honored as long as this medical school existed, which, he hoped, would be forever. The Doctor sat down in the midst of loud applause.

Dr. Atchison, of the Medical Department of Vanderbilt University, was prevented by important business from being present, and Dr. William Morgan, of the Dental school, was introduced, and after highly commending the enterprise which had called the large concourse together, and speaking in highest terms of the faculty of the college and their work, said that one of the pleasantest memories he should recall in all future time was the fact that he had thrown out the first shovelful of earth from the ground in preparing to lay the foundation of the Meharry medical building, which was heartily applauded.

The audience then proceeded to the new building, which is situated on the corner of Maple and Franklin streets, where a statement was made by Dr. Braden that the indebtedness on the building was about met by the recent donation of a thousand dollars by Rev. Samuel Meharry, and the reception of a deed to-day of one hundred and twenty acres of land from Mrs. A. Meharry, the widow of Rev. Dr. A. Meharry, who, a little over two years ago, selected the site for this building. Dr. Braden then introduced Mr. Meharry and Mrs. Meharry, the donors, to the audience. Bishop E. O. Haven then read the 28th chapter of the book of Job and made some appropriate remarks. Bishop Wiley then spoke of the appropriateness of dedicating a medical school building to God and alluded to the tendency of the medical profession towards the material and to forget the spiritual. He then with appropriate words dedicated the building in an earnest prayer to the interest of man and the glory of God.

The building is of brick, four stories including the basement and mansard story. The lower story is for a labratory for students work. The second story is for offices, family rooms and museum, the third story contains a large lecture room and smaller rooms for classes, medicines and professor's work. The fourth story is divided into dormitories for the students. The building is admitted to be well arranged for the work it is expected to do. The fifth year of the school has opened with larger numbers than ever at this early period of the session, and with promise of a largely increased attendance during the present term.

The following letter was received and read by Dr. Braden:

Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville, Oct. 12, 1880.—Dear Dr. Braden: A sudden call to attend a wedding deprives me of the anticipated pleasure of being present at the dedication of Meharry Medical College to-morrow. I beg leave to tender my congratulations on this auspicious occasion, and to join you in invoking the benediction of God upon the enterprise.

Your Brother in Christ,
O. P. FITZGERALD,
Editor Christian Advocate.

At night a meeting was held in the college chapel and addresses delivered by Rev. Dr. F. S. Hoyt and Rev. Dr. Rust.

Clark University, Atlanta, Ga.

We are indebted to Dr. Mitchell, of Atlanta, for notes and copies of local papers giving an account of the dedication of Chisman Hall, the first permanent building of Clark University in that city. The dedication occurred Saturday, Oct. 16.

Bishops Wiley, Haven and Warren were present; also Drs. Rust and Hoyt, of Cincinnati. The building is four stories high and built of brick, costing $30,000. The University grounds comprise 450 acres and cost $10,000. The grounds were bought some years since, and paid for mostly through the efforts of the late Bishop Gilbert Haven. Mrs. Eliza Chrisman, of Topeka, Kansas, after whom the building is named, gave $10,000 toward its erection. Bishop Gilbert Haven was to have raised $10,000, and the Freedmen's Aid Society was to give $10,000. The death of Bishop Gilbert Haven left most of the $20,- to be paid by the Society. Lately Mrs. Bishop Clark, of Cincinnati, after whose deceased husband the University is named, has given $1000.

The Atlanta Constitution gives the following account of the dedication:

At eleven o'clock, the hour for the opening of the dedicatory exercises, the college chapel was filled to its utmost capacity with the friends of the institution, both white and colored, and upon the rostrum the reporter noticed a number of our most distinguished citizens—among them Governor A. H. Colquitt, Senator Joseph E. Brown, School Commissioner G. J. Orr, ex-Governor Bullock, Mr. H. I. Kimball, Professor Slaton, of the city public schools, General Evans, Rev. Dr. Heidt, and many others.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Bishop Turner.

Dr. R. S. Rust followed with a brief preliminary address, referring to the history of the institution, its present prosperous condition, and its bright future. He read several letters which he had received from friends of the college, one from Mrs. Chrisman and one from John Greenleaf Whittier.

Bishop Warren followed with a masterly address, which was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Dr. Hoyt, of the Western Christian Advocate, then spoke and made an able presentation of the power and purpose of general education.

Senator Joseph E. Brown made a few remarks tracing the history of slavery for several centuries past and comparing the present condition of the colored race with what it was in England, New England and the South prior to the war. His address sparkled with the gems of wisdom which are ever characteristic of him.

Governor Colquitt followed in a short talk, which was highly enjoyed.

Bishop E. O. Haven next delivered an excellent address, and was followed by Bishop Wiley, who urged the colored people to disabuse their minds of the idea that the law can give them education, affluence or social position without effort on their part, that they must carve out for themselves their own glory or disgrace.

The exercises were then closed with the dedicatory prayer by Bishop Wiley.

The college starts out under the most favorable auspices, almost filled with students, and has indeed a rosy future. It has a corps of five teachers, under Mr. E. E. Bisbee, President, who are paid by the Freedmen's Aid Society, and the other expenses of the college are secured by an exceedingly low rate of tuition.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Tennessee Notes.

DEAR EDITOR—We have had a field day here. Last night Bishop E. O. Haven delivered an excellent address to our students and a good company of citizens of Nashville. He preached on last Sunday morning in the college chapel and at night in Spruce Street Church. To-day at 2 p. m. the chapel was crowded. Bishops Wiley and Haven, Dr. Rust, Dr. Hoyt, and a host of others from home and abroad were present. Bishop Wiley delivered one of the finest addresses of his life. One of the oldest and best physicians who was present said it was the best address he had ever heard. Drs. Rust and Hoyt made addresses at night—good. Our new building is a gem—so admitted. Will write more at length—sorry you were not present. Bishops Wiley and Haven, Drs. Rust and Hoyt, and Mrs. Rust go on to Atlanta to get things in trim and dedicate Chrisman Hall on the 16th inst.

Grant on the Solid South.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—The Rev Dr. C. H. Fowler's interview with Gen. Grant, printed in to-day's Gazette, has created much talk in political circles. The interview contained the following in addition to what was telegraphed last night:

Gen. Grant said: "We must elect Garfield; he is a great man; he has but few intellectual peers in public life. He is every way worthy."

"What if Hancock should be elected?"

"Then the North would submit quietly and watch closely. As soon as things began to go wrong, every Northern Legislature would be convened and compel their Representatives to resign or resist the solid South."

"Are you hopeful?"

"Yes; but I expect to witness the most gigantic frauds in Indiana and New York City. Pretexts will be sought for throwing out States, or parts of States. If the election is thus thrown into the House, then Washburne, of Minnesota, will be thrown out. They are determined to seize the Government regardless of cost. I hope that many Democrats who will not change, will take the alarm and stay at home."

Killed for Opinion's Sake.

People who have never lived in the South, and have always been accustomed to hearing those about them express their sentiments on every topic without molestation from their neighbors, are often slow to believe the statements made of social and business ostracisms, and at times murders, for opinion's sake in the Southern States. Some have persistently denied that any such ostracisms or murders have occurred since the war or do now occur.

We have lately examined the Black Code, i. e. the code of laws for the government of the blacks, which was in force in Louisiana until after the war. The following are two sections of these laws and will serve as illustrations of the point in hand:

Section 28. Whoever shall with intent to produce discontent among the free colored population, or insubordination among the slaves, write, print, or distribute anything having a tendency to produce discontent among the free colored population, or insubordination among the slaves therein, shall on conviction, be sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor, or suffer death, at the discretion of the court.

Section 29. Whoever, with the intent aforesaid, shall make use of language in any public discourse from the bar, the bench, the stage, or the pulpit, or in any place whatever, or whoever shall make use of language in private discourses or conversations, or of signs or actions having a tendency to produce discontent among the free colored population of this State, or to excite insubordination among the slaves; or whoever shall knowingly be instrumental in bringing into this State any paper, pamphlet or book having such tendency, shall on conviction thereof, suffer imprisonment at hard labor not less than three nor more than twenty-one years, or death at the discretion of the court.

[illegible] of the Black Code [illegible] which were similar to [illegible] in all the Southern States, [illegible] an offense punishable by [illegible] to write, speak, [illegible] express by action or [illegible] or privately, [illegible] "had a tendency" to [illegible] people or [illegible] condition could [illegible] law was not [illegible] but it generally [illegible] always be in any [illegible]

[illegible] just [illegible] it [illegible] war, [illegible] justi[illegible] affect [illegible] mur[illegible] been [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] of ours [illegible] that [illegible] in [illegible] had [illegible] of [illegible] by [illegible] all [illegible]

[illegible] and these two buildings are secured. Mr. Meharry, of Indiana, and Mrs. Chrisman, of Kansas, deserve great credit for the large contributions made, but these would not have secured these properties had they not been supplemented by much labor.

The Freedmen's Aid Society could use well a million dollars in giving buildings to its twenty schools in the South. And the Church ought to give this amount within the next five years. That much money given now would tell a thousand fold during the next generation, to say nothing of the vast good it would accomplish at once. Besides the last General Conference directed that this society should give such aid as it could to the other schools which had been established outside of this society, by our people in the South. These schools need help. The field they occupy is vital to vast Church interests in the South.

The New Orleans Democrat and its Correspondent.

A correspondent of the New Orleans Democrat, writing from Milwaukee, Oct. 11, and signing himself as "N." sent a mean and maliciously false account of some addresses we delivered in that city the day previous, Sunday, Oct. 10. We make it a rule to pay no attention to the squibs of penny-a-liners who pester the public with their small talk, and often interpolate slanderous statements, of men and matters of which they know nothing. But in this case we called on the Editor of the Democrat and pointed out the falsehoods. He did the gentlemanly thing and requested us to address a communication to him setting forth what we had said. This we did and the communication was published in last Sunday's Democrat.

The following from one of the most prominent and reliable gentleman of Milwaukee, written under date of Oct. 25, bears on the case:

DEAR DOCTOR—I have just received your note of the 22d with clipping of a Milwaukee letter to the Democrat and signed "N." There are in this city three newspapers—the Sentinel, the Evening Wisconsin and the News (the latter Democratic). In the reports these papers contain of your remarks there is nothing at all like the quotations in the communication. I conclude either that the quotations are manufactured by the correspondent or that he got them from an obscure penny evening paper of which I can nowhere find a file.

I am very certain that malice only could torture your remarks into the form in which they appear in the communication. That the correspondent is an expert liar is clearly shown by his own statements. For instance, he speaks of Asbury as a colored church—it has not a single colored member. You know we haven't more than a dozen colored families here, if that many. Again when he speaks of the size of your congregation. Summerfield will seat 900 persons, and you know how nearly full it was.

A very fair synopsis of what we did say will be found on our first page.

The Church Manual.

The October number of Our Methodist Church Manual is just out and is a neat pamphlet of 72 pages. It is full of fresh information from our various church benevolencies, and publishing houses East and West. It is to be followed by others, issued quarterly during 1881, to be filled with fresh information such as the pastors can use in bringing these several interests before their people. The General Conference has placed the management of our Missionary, Sunday-school and Tract, Church Extension, Freedmen's Aid and Educational work under boards sustaining the relation of trustees to the whole church, and our publishing work is conducted by the book agents sustaining similar relations. The pastors are the authorized agents and representatives of these several causes before the people. Hitherto there has been very imperfect communication between the [illegible] of these interests and the pastors who are expected to advocate their claims. This quarterly [illegible] Manual opens direct communication between the several offices and the pastors. The General Conference has directed that [illegible] shall be sent to them [illegible] and in order to [illegible] contained in [illegible] of our members, who [illegible] be interested, [illegible] subscribers [illegible]. Now let [illegible] this [illegible] to place [illegible] New York.

Bishop Turner's Misrepresentation.

Rev. Bishop Turner, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, recently made a trip through Mississippi and among other places spoke at Granada. Our pastor there, Rev. J. M. Shumpert, heard his address and reports his remarks as follows:

The Bishop represented Dr. Marshall W. Taylor (the fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal Church to the General Conference of the African M. E. Church at St. Louis last May) as saying the colored members of the M. E. Church were preparing to leave for the A. M. E. Church. The words of the Bishop were so astonishing to us that we dropped Dr. Taylor a postal card, and a note to the SOUTHWESTERN, for an explanation, to which Dr. Taylor responds as follows:

DR. TAYLOR'S REPLY TO BRO. SHUMPERT.

Your communication touching the statement of Bishop Turner's alleged quotation of my St. Louis speech came to hand simultaneously with your printed criticism of the same.

Permit me in replication to remark that I don't entertain; have never entertained, or disseminated such sentiments as are therein attributed to me, at any time or place whatever.

You are at liberty to use this note in any manner consistent with the glory of God, and the extension of glorious and common Methodism. And consider me ever for the cause of humanity.

Yours respectfully,
MARSHALL W. TAYLOR.

The Church and Temperance.

The National Temperance Society has just published a handsome pamphlet edition of a very able paper, with the above title, read by Hon. William E. Dodge before the late Pan-Presbyterian Council in Philadelphia. It is an eloquent, effective plea for greater consecration on the part of the ministry and membership of the Christian Church in the service of the cause of temperance, and for the absolute prohibition of liquor-traffic by the State. It is a most valuable contribution to the literature of the temperance question, and merits the widest possible circulation. Price, 10 cents; $1 per dozen. Address J. N. Stearns, publishing agent, 58 Reade street, New York.

The Essays and Debates in full of the Presbyterian Council of 1880, at Philadelphia, will be printed from the official plates and be ready in November. Prices are $1 in paper cover; $2 in cloth with introductory narrative; and $3 with narrative and appendix. Address The Presbyterian Publishing Co., 1510 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—United States Senator W. P. Kellogg is in the city.

—Rev. Dr. Revels, of the Mississippi Conference, has taken his daughter to Oberlin, Ohio, to be educated.

—President I. N. Failor, of the New Orleans University, is suffering from an attack of the dengue fever, and is confined to his bed.

—Rev. Dr. Bristor, pastor of Ames Methodist Church in this city, will return from his vacation next week, and will occupy his pulpit Sunday, November 7th.

Rev. J. M. Shumpert, of Granada, Mississippi conference, was in the city this week. He is looking well, and gives a good report of his charge.

—Bishop Simpson and wife have arrived from San Francisco at their home in Philadelphia. In a private note Rev. James Morrow says: "The Bishop is shaken by his sickness, but is recovering."

—Rev. L. A. Rudisill, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes: "Reached here on the 21st. Had a pleasant trip. Moody and Sankey are holding meetings in our church. Prospects good. I am encouraged for the work. Methodism sees a brighter day in this Territory."

—Mrs. Prudence Lakin, mother of the Rev. Arad S. Lakin, presiding elder in the Central Alabama Conference, died a few days since in Hancock, Delaware Co., N. Y., aged 106 years. She was for more than half a century a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—The Czar of Russia has lately married Princess Dolgoronky. She was his mistress by whom he had several children while his wife lived. The marriage was a morganatic one; that is, it is a part of the contract that neither the wife nor the children can be heirs to the rank or possessions of the husband. All the royal family was opposed to the marriage. The nihilists had a mine fixed to blow up the royal train at Alexandria, but a carriage happened to cut the wire leading to the mine. Altogether it could not have been a very happy wedding, [illegible] of the disgrace [illegible] that the bad example of [illegible] by the head of a [illegible]

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

W. Payne, Byhalia: "Seven have been baptized and added to the church. We have sent in $4.40 toward the building of Shaw University. We will meet all required of us as soon as we get out our cotton."

H. May, Brookhaven: "I was sent to this work by Bishop Harris three years ago from Oxford conference. I found 27 members. Last year Bishop Andrews gave me Summit and Magnolia. I found at Summit 5 members and at Magnolia I found eight. Joined at Brookhaven this year, 11; at Summit, 63; at Magnolia, 9; total, 83. My third quarterly conference was held at Magnolia, Sept. 28-29, but our presiding elder was not there on account of sickness in his family. Paid the pastor for the third quarter $72.50. We have two good churches on this work. Pray for us."

Austin Conference Notes.

DEAR EDITOR—We send you greeting as the days are rolling on, and wonder if you will be at our conference (Austin) at Dallas Nov. 18. Tell us truly, and be sure this time, and come! I left the westward extreme of our State and district about a month since for our last "round." We are pushing on winged with these winged weeks so rapidly passing. We are troubled and pressed out of measure by many things: want of men, want of money and want of power to multiply ourselves by ten. Four of our ministers are transferred or otherwise lost to our force, but others are looked for, for God will send us help. We shall have to create a new district west of Gainesville, and six or eight men are needed where three have done the work this year. At Gainesville we are nearly ready to dedicate the best church in the city and one of the cheapest ($3000) and best in the State. Double tower, brick, stained windows, and neatly finished. Bro. Henring succeeds well. Three weeks special service will give us a stout membership. Clarendon, the little Queen City of the Pan Handle, is building a church and publishing a paper 200 miles from any other. A new church bell of 600 lbs. is en route, and will soon let fall its clear notes upon the ear of the receding buffalo. That Christian and Temperance Colony is a success. "No whisky forever" is our motto. We have room for honest and enterprising men white or colored; work and welcome for all.

At Denison Bro. Decker has built a new parsonage and is winning the love, respect, and support of the church and public. Twenty-five or more colored people northward bound have paused at Denison and asked Bro. D. to organize them under our Church and supervision and he has done so, and having bought a tent holds service with and for them regularly. They will need a pastor next year, or a division of time with the pastor of first church. We must care for these scattered and destitute children of the Church first, last, and all the time. Next Sabbath, Nov. 24, we hold their first quarterly meeting and conference. At Sherman our little flock are without a pastor but our flag is still there and the field white to the harvest. Zellers and Poland have done well on the west. Bro. Armstrong, of Dallas, has removed to Kansas, but the society is in good condition and a grander field can no where be found. The conference of the M. E. Church, South, meets also at Dallas at the same time of our own. Fort Worth is reported prosperous. The spirit of Bewley is marching on. Dougherty has done splendidly at San Antonio, and others about him ditto. Webb, at Austin, has gotten the kinks out of the titles and troubles connected with the property and sees a grand victory if that new church, needing yet just $5000, can be finished soon. So far about $9000 have been expended and the results are creditable and substantial. Better finish from connectional funds than to keep a special agent in the field to gather the amount needed.

Bro. Skewes has just returned from a trip to Colorado in search of health, and we fear the necessity of his retiring from the work—much to be regretted for no man has made a better record than he. The other conferences, so far as we can hear, are keeping pace with us. We must have a number of men and increased financial power next conference year.

Hearne, Texas, Oct. 22, 1880.

St. Mary's Chapel.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 26, 1880.

We have found another one of the Marys. Like Sister Mary Wright of whom we wrote before, sister Mary Lewis, who lives within the bounds of the Rob Roy circuit, has been for some time praying and waiting for the coming of God's salvation. Alone, far from any other member of the old M. E. Church, she prayed until through the labors of Bro. C. A. Tabor, the pastor, a plan was arranged for the building of a house and society. At the third quarterly meeting the little chapel was dedicated for the worship of God, out of debt and neatly finished, worth about $200. Though with one exception the best house of worship belonging to any denomination in all that region, Sister Lewis gave the land, collected most of the money by going from house to house, and as a reward for her diligent work and that of her friends and pastor, at the quarterly meeting 9 were converted and a society of some 12 or 15 was organized.

One thing a little singular in these days of prejudice is, that the society is mixed, some black and some white, then shades all the way between. Well, really, as the mourners were being converted it seemed that that was the house of God and the gate of heaven. God blessed these good people together, He certainly would all the members of our Zion. Why, therefore, should we be wasting missionary money to keep up a little handful of a society of white folks and at the same time a self supporting society of colored within a stone's throw, especially where the colored members would be rejected were they to knock for membership, at the door of the white society? Who can suppose that the great and good Lord will allow anything for such narrowness? And what makes it so ungodly is that some of our preachers teach that this great sin against the second commandment is right. But one thing thank God can be said for St. Mary's chapel, that is, all are welcome to come and be saved and find a fellowship "like to that above."

At the close of the meeting $19 was raised in about ten minutes for the pastor in charge, which shows to some extent the depth of this blessed revival. There are many more such Marys as Sister Lewis and Wright waiting for the old Church, but where are the Tabors and Laytons to go and preach the gospel and build churches? We want 20 men for the conference at its next session, and we do not care whether they are white or black so they are holy men of God, sent to preach the truth and will go to both races. We want no cowards or color line men in our band.

I. G. POLLARD.

New York Letter.

Rev. Bro. Lynch, a colored representative of our work among the refugees in Kansas, addressed the preachers at their Monday meeting in New York on the 18th. He made by his manly bearing, ingenious arguments, and well chosen words, a favorable impression. Bro. L. illustrated in his ready command of language the remark which Dr. Coke, of Claflin University, made not long since in the same meeting, that his colored students showed great proficiency in linguistic attainments.

The same morning Bishop Foss urged all preachers present, in the light of his recent experience in the Cabinet, to be above all suspicion in moral purity and especially to be good pastors. He found, he said, the faithful pastor in demand everywhere. Brooklyn Methodists are looking forward with eagerness to the Bishops' Reception in the Academy of Music, Nov. 3, at which the whole Board, with one exception, is expected to be present.

Hon. Stockett Matthews of Baltimore, has been thrilling Brooklyn Republican gatherings with his stately, but fiery eloquence. A vast multitude heard him last night for nearly two hours and a half with rapt attention.

Sunday-School Union and Tract Society.

The next anniversaries of these two Church Societies will be held in Youngstown, Ohio, from Saturday, December 11, to Tuesday, December 14. The seventeenth Sunday-school Congress of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held in connection with the anniversaries. One or more of the Bishops will, it is hoped, be with us. Addresses and sermons will be delivered by the Rev. Drs. C. N. Sims, of Brooklyn; John Williamson, of Chicago; J. M. Freeman, of New York, and Lewis Miller, Esq., of Akron, O.

Corresponding Secretary.

Tennessee Notes.

The members of the Tennessee Conference of the M. E. Church, South, took a vote on the Democratic candidates for governor: Wright, high tax, received 220, Wilson, low tax, 2. If Wilson runs this far behind at the election the State may congratulate herself on the happiest escape from the power of the repudiators.

Rev. Alex. Burdette sends $4 Freedmen's collection from Waynesboro circuit, West Tennessee district.

There has been some revival at a few points. On the Nashville circuit about 80 have joined on probation during the year. College more prosperous than ever.

the Kidney-Wort advertisement in another column, and it will explain to you the rational method of getting well. Kidney-Wort will save more doctor's bills than any other medicine known. Acting with specific energy on the kidneys and liver, it cures the worst diseases caused by their derangement. Use it at once in dry or liquid form. Either is equally efficient, the liquid is the easiest, but the dry is the most economical.—Interior.

MARRIAGES.

Rev. Geo. Dobson and Mrs. Eliza Dunlap were united in wedlock at the bride's residence, Aberdeen, Miss., P. Bine, officiating.

At the residence of the bride, Waco, Texas, Oct. 10, 1880, Mr. E. D. Busby to Mrs. Margaret Adams, B. F. Smith officiating.

At the residence of Mr. Anderson Wright, Oct. 21, by S. A. Cowan, Mr. Wm. Davis and Miss Hinda Wright were joined in holy wedlock. May peace and prosperity crown their efforts in this life and may they rest with Him when life's trials are ended.

Oxford, Miss., Oct. 23, 1880.

A wise Deacon.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors visiting us so often."

"Bro. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time; kept my family well and saved the doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us well and able to work all the time. I'll warrant it has cost you and the neighbors one to two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time."

"Deacon, I'll use your medicine hereafter."

DEATHS.

Brother Peter Noales has departed this life. We trust he has found a better home.

P. BLUE.

Aberdeen, Miss.

Sister Ellen Green, a devoted and faithful member of the M. E. Church, departed this life Oct. 16, after a protracted sickness. She was an earnest Christian and possessed great patience. The community has lost one of its best members, and the husband a true wife, but our loss is her eternal gain.

S. A. C.

Oxford, Miss., Oct. 17, 1880.

Sister Eva Williams departed this life on the morning of the 6th inst. She said that she was going home to rest with Jesus. She leaves a father, mother, two brothers and two sisters to mourn with us. She was a member of both church and Sabbath-school. Age, 14 years.

Sister Phillis Boyle, after a long illness, departed this life on the evening of the 10th inst. Sister Boyle lived a member of the M. E. Church for 30 years. She died in full triumph of Gospel faith. She leaves six children to mourn with us. Age, 61 years.

P. JEMISON.

Macon, Miss., Oct. 16, 1880.

Brother Berry Robinson departed this life Oct. 12th, aged 52 years, after an illness of 3 days. He was a good and faithful member of the M. E. Church and served as steward for many years. His place cannot be filled. He was beloved by all. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

COPIES AND IMITATIONS are acknowledgments of the superior merit and excellence of the genuine article. Worthy and valuable articles are what the frauds are committed against and is a proof of high estimation, very flattering to the originators, but very dangerous and unprofitable to the consumer and demoralizing to the dealer. Beware of counterfeits and see that you only get the genuine Simmons Liver Regulator, in white wrapper, with the red Z on the face and signature on side of J. H. THE CHRISTIAN SECRET OF A HAPPY LIFE. By the author of "Frank, or the Record of a Happy Life." Chicago: F. H. Revell.

We have not for years read a book with more delight and profit. It is not a theological book. No effort is made to change the theological views of any one. The author has a rich religious experience and tells it in a plain and delightful manner. We wish every doubting Christian could read this little volume.

FRAGMENTS; Religious and Theological. A collection of Independent papers, relating to various points of Christian life and doctrine. By Daniel Curry. Phillips & Hunt. Price $1.75. 375 pages. 8 vo.

Dr. Curry has been for many years a prominent writer in the Methodist Church and the publishers have done a good thing for the Church at large in putting some of his principal addresses into a permanent form. The following are the subjects discussed: 1. Sin a fact in the spiritual Cosmos. 2. The sin of the world. 3. The Doctrine of Condemnation. 4. Redemption by Price. 5. Righteousness through Faith. 6. Redemption by Power (Holiness). 7. The Vision of Faith. 8. Justification by Faith vs. Baptismal Regeneration. 9. Arminian vs. Calvinistic Justification. 10. Coleridge's Philosophico-Theology. 11. The Will. 12. Prayer. Its Nature and Potency. 13. Physical Eschatology. 14. Faith and Science I. 15. Faith and Science II. 16. Humanity of Christ. 17. Early Life of Jesus of Nazareth. 18. The Temptation of Christ. 19. The Subjective Christ.

THE CREATION AND THE EARLY DEVELOPMENTS OF SOCIETY. By J. H. Chapin, D.D. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York, and for sale at Eyrich's, New Orleans.

This is a series of lectures delivered by Dr. Chapin to the students of St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. The subjects discussed are: 1. Primerval Chaos. 2. Light. 3. The Firmament Sea and Dry Land. 4. Plant Life. 5. Animal Life. 6. The Geological Record. 7. Man. 8. Problem of Civilization. 9. Failure of Primeval Society. 10. Diversity of Tongues. 11. Antiquity of Man. 12. Ancient Civilization in North America. The lectures are not controversial, and no attempt is made to reconcile science and religion. Believing that there is not necessary antagonism between them he accepts the well established facts of each, and in a popular style discusses his themes. He assumes a creating God as the source of all things and traces through its various stages, as well as the present state of scientific knowledge will admit, the growth of the earth and the race. He believes in the Nebula Theory, that man was created not evolved, and that the Usher Chronology of Biblical events is unreliable. The lectures are exceedingly well written and although the reader may not always agree with the author none can fail to thoroughly enjoy the book. The publishers have done their work superbly.

Confidence and Enterprise.

We suggest a careful reading of the remarkable proposition made by the Marchal & Smith Organ Co., in our advertising columns. In regard to this offer we would say that twenty years' devotion to the manufacture of the Parlor Organ has so improved their mechanical appliances, and increased their facilities, that they are enabled to overcome all opposition. Determining that their new instruments shall be placed in every part of the country, and with a confidence in their work and in the public, that is as novel as it is generous, these gentlemen make an offer that actually sinks all competition. Taking all the responsibility to themselves they propose as a means of introduction into new localities to send their beautifully perfected instruments, combining power, compass, tone, variety and finish, at the extremely low price of SIXTY DOLLARS. And not only that, but they send it to you to try thoroughly at your own home for fifteen days, and if not found perfectly satisfactory they refund the money and pay freight both ways, thus asking the purchaser to take no responsibility whatever. This offer is for thirty days only, as by that time the manufacturers are confident that the desired object will be accomplished. Certainly now is the time to buy, and as purchasers from all parts of the country will avail themselves of this opportunity we would advise such of our readers as are able to order at once. We can add that no hesitation need be felt in sending the money to this firm, as we can guarantee that they will do just as they agree.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient.

A cure for indigestion frightful;
A babbling beverage delightful;
A remedy for every ailment
O'er which the Billious make bewailment.
A laxative, though mild, effective,
A tonic, nervine and corrective;
An anodyne and superior.
A wonderful SALINE SPECIFIC—
Embodying every rare ingredient
That Mother Nature deemed expedient.
With kindly liberal hand to fling
Into the famous Seltzer Spring.

The fact that already about 70,000 Cabinet or Parlor Organs are yearly sold in the United States (nearly twice as many as of piano-fortes) attests their growing popularity.

THE FINER BRAWING ROOM STYLES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

Comparatively few musicians, even, have kept pace with recent improvements in reed instruments and are fully aware of the excellence now attained in the finer styles, in the manufacture of which the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. are quite unrivaled. These styles must not be judged by the small organs so largely sold; which they greatly excel. It is principally these finer styles which have won for the Mason & Hamlin Organs the GRAND DISTINCTIONS awarded them at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION, AND COMPARISON OF THEIR BEST PRODUCTIONS OF ALL NATIONS FOR THIRTEEN YEARS; being the only highest awards to any American organs at any one. It is one of these finer styles which led Dr. FRANZ LISZT to characterize the Mason & Hamlin Organs not only as "matchless," but as "unrivaled," and which led the distinguished OTTO JAHN, of Berlin, to declare them "the most [illegible] of instruments," adding: "They are [illegible] of giving the finest tone coloring, and no [illegible] instrument so encourages the player." THOMAS LEGRANDE testifies that musicians rank these organs very high, [illegible] in which opinion he himself concurs. OLE BULL found them so [illegible] as to draw from him the declaration that "this quality of tone is in contrast of the 'voix celeste' organs." The distinguished SIGNOR CAMPANINI, in a note of congratulations, as he was about leaving this country recently, wrote: "Having had opportunity to observe and use your organs, and singing in your country, I take pleasure in testifying to their admirable qualities, equal all similar instruments of which I have knowledge. But you have better than my opinion of them than even this is the fact that I have just purchased one to take with me to Italy." Hundreds of similar opinions from distinguished [illegible] have accumulated in the hands of the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co.

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH DATE to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful, beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention. If Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 59°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services in which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the best forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song.

"JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 120 Tunes in full, and 223 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 128 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

CLOTH, flexible, 30 cents per copy; $3 per dozen; $24 per hundred.

BOARD (the usual style of Sunday-school singing-books), 25 cents per copy; $2.50 per dozen; $20 per hundred.

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $600 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen. Raikes, London, by Rev. C. C. Goss, 77 York street, New York.

Officially recognised by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Britain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $3 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

THE SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

A. B. Simms, Ordona: "There are more indications of prosperity for our church than ever before."

B. L. Neville, Prairie Station: "Our work is growing slowly. Converts this year 26; members received in full 5; Sunday-schools, 3."

A. Davis, Jackson: "I have just closed a protracted meeting, with great success. Twenty-five were converted and added to the church."

D. W. Calvert, Green Hill: "Elder Bradford has made his third round, and held the quarter at Bethel church on the 2d. Sunday-schools 3, converts 37, probationers 15, elder's collection $10, for bishops $2. The elder preached at St. Paul Sunday to a large audience and 104 partook of the Lord's supper. We have commenced a new church and will finish it as soon as we can."

N. Cannon, Moss Point: "Our third quarterly conference was held by Presiding elder Campbell. Members were well pleased with his good instruction and kind words. He addressed the Sunday-school and administered the Lord's supper to 66 persons. Elder's collection was $15.25. The five Sunday schools on this circuit have 175 in attendance. This quarter 2 were received in full, 7 on probation, and 5 conversions. The circuit appears to be prospering."

P. K. Holloway, Trenton: "My church is prospering. I have received one backslider, 6 by letter, and 14 on profession. There are 143 probationers belonging to my church. We have no separate building of our own, but are trying to work up one. The people are very poor, though very willing to do all they can. They agreed to give me $100; I have received $44, including $5, for the elder who has not been there since at all. The people say we don't come and hold our meeting. I can't answer the question, but I hope he will come, as we have given him the money."

LOUISIANA.

J. Monds, Shady Line: "On last Sabbath we had a basket meeting at the church. Several preachers were with us, and collection was $5.50; I collected $4."

J. Toney, Point: "Our quarterly meeting held on Oct. 6. Present one of our elders, Rev. C. Merahaw, who is a good preacher, he labored long and earnestly for the benefit of the members. I was very much strengthened in the work of God. Fourth Sabbath in this month I was in the pulpit, being very much strengthened in the work of God. Elder Merahaw was with us on the fifth Sabbath, being this the quarterly meeting, there were 4 received by letter, 1 from the world, 1 backslider. Sabbath following was our Sunday-school anniversary, at which an interval of less than twenty years, a Southern writer is found dealing with the slavery question in a manner so bold and so humane as Mr. Cable has done in "The Grandissimes."

[illegible] his work, and to [illegible] —Psalm civ. 23. [illegible] it nears the [illegible] at the even-tide, [illegible] at the close of day [illegible] pass away. [illegible]

The New Orleans Picayune, aptly enough, headed an editorial "Contending Civilizations," and paid its respects to "The Fool's Errand," and "The Grandissimes." In regard to Mr. Cable's book, it felt bound to defend the ruling class by saying:

Certainly it cannot be regarded as a picture of Southern society as a whole at any period, least of all of the present. Nevertheless, we were not surprised to find it treated in some quarters as a study of contemporary Southern society. The virtuous apothecary—the still surviving hero of the book—is so like a modern carpet-bagger—Kellogg say, or Parson Conway—preaching the beauty and the healing, enlightening power of freedom to a race of slave owners, that the Northern critic could but be reassured that history does indeed repeat itself.

Says Scribner's Magazine for November:

In fact, the state of affairs in Louisiana in 1804 is so nearly parallel with the state of affairs to-day, or at all events previous to 1876, that to all intents and purposes the book is a study (and a very profound and striking one) of Southern society during the period of reconstruction. Accordingly we cannot help suspecting Mr. Cable of a benevolent intention to teach his Southern countrymen some fundamental lessons of society and government, while ostensibly he is merely their dispassionate historian.

After a careful reading of "The Grandissimes," applying to it the test of a long residence in contact with the successor of the society of eighty years ago, the author's genius in depicting the characteristics, and the sensitiveness of Creole critics to their present application will be duly appreciated. Passing through its pages, I will make some extracts, and put them under headings of my own selection. See how the pictures fit the frames.

THE CARPET BAGGER AND OLD CITIZEN.

A leading character, Mr. Frowenfeld, sole survivor of an immigrant German family that succumbed to yellow fever, converses with [illegible] Honore Grandissime, leading representative of a high-toned and [illegible] Creole family. He is [illegible] that although he may hold [illegible] the Creole scorn of [illegible] afford to be entirely [illegible] to the community in which [illegible]. A friend of Frowenfeld's [illegible] that he must "come [illegible] [p. 46]:

"[illegible] get acclimated," re[illegible], "not in body on[illegible]; but in mind [illegible] conversation—and in [illegible] ha, ha! They [illegible] come. They hold [illegible]; then they open [illegible] Sunday, they impo't [illegible] they bribe [illegible] smuggle goods, [illegible] keepe's. My[illegible] must expect to [illegible] the backet; eh?"

[illegible], head of a family [illegible] Frowenfeld an important [illegible] [p. 73]:

"[illegible] young friend, when we [illegible] we always mean [illegible] pure white [illegible] white is [illegible] pure [illegible] could I [illegible] suppose, sir, the [illegible] have [illegible] trodden [illegible] and [illegible] is a [illegible]. By no [illegible] any [illegible] capacity [illegible] tolerate [illegible]

[illegible] OF RECON[illegible]

[illegible] points out [illegible]

Frowenfeld. She had been wounded, is in bed, and as the young druggist, with water and bandages, essayed his duties, and to bare her shoulders, he meets with resistance prompted by womanly modesty [p. 173]:

"This woman had stood all her life with dagger drawn, on the defensive against what certainly was to her an unmerciful world. * * So far as Palmyre knew, the entire masculine wing of the mighty and exalted race, three-fourths of whose blood bequeathed her none of its prerogatives, regarded her as legitimate prey. The man before her did not. There lay the fundamental difference that, in her sight, as soon as she discovered it, glorified him."

LABOR.

Frowenfeld discourses to the ladies Nancanou. [p. 181]:

"Nothing on earth can take the place of hard and patient labor. But that in this community is not esteemed; most sorts of it are contemned; the humbler sorts are despised, and the higher are regarded with mingled patronage and commiseration."

Aurora says [p. 182]: "Doze Creoles is lazzy," but Frowenfeld thinks they do not consciously deserve that word. The climate is then suggested. He replies [p. 182]:

"The climate is too comfortable and the soil too rich—though I do not think it is entirely on their account that the people who enjoy them are so sadly in arrears to the world."

He ascribes it to the defective organization of society, disinclined to follow the course of modern thought.

HUMAN RIGHTS.

He further philosophizes [p. 183]:

"One great general subject of thought now is human rights. The entire literature of the world is becoming tinctured with contradictions of the dogmas upon which society in this section is built. Human rights is, of all subjects, the one upon which this community is most violently determined to hear no discussion. It has pronounced that slavery and caste are right, and sealed up the whole subject."

THE BONDAGE OF CASTE.

He continues [p. 184]:

"But there is a slavery that no legislation can abolish—the slavery of caste. That, like all the slaveries on the earth, is a double bondage. And what a bondage it is which compels a community, in order to preserve its established tyrannies to walk behind the rest of the intelligent world!"

EMANCIPATION.

He talks of free papers to quadroons, [p. 185]:

"Emancipation before the law, though it may be a right which man has no right to withhold, is to them little more than a mockery until they achieve emancipation in the minds and good will of the people—'the people' did I say? I mean the ruling class."

THE WELCOME TO IMMIGRANTS.

Frowenfeld is addressed by Honore Grandissime [p. 194]:

"I assu' you seh, I try hard to get my people to unde'stand that it is time to stop calling those who come and add themselves to the community aliens, intehlopehs, invadehs."

Frowenfeld asserts "that in most civilized countries the immigrant is welcome, but here he is not." Honore's cousins had denied this with indignation; they said "the honest immigrant is always welcome." Frowenfeld contends that it is so "only when he leaves his peculiar opinions behind him."

THE DANGEROUS AGITATOR.

The Creole smiles, and says [p. 195]:

"My-de'-seh, my cousins complain that you advocate measu'es fatal to the prhevailing order-h of society."

"But," replied the unyielding Frowenfeld, turning redder than ever, "that is the very thing that American liberty gives me the right—peaceably—to do! Here is a [illegible] of society defective, [illegible] erected on views of human [illegible] which the world is [illegible] as false; yet the immigrant's welcome is modified with [illegible] not to touch these [illegible] foundations with one of his [illegible]!"

The Creole then suggests to the [illegible] that since he is not in the [illegible] of making his pills with [illegible] corners, but round, he should [illegible] his doctrines in the same [illegible] "that you and my cousins [illegible] be offended with each [illegible]."

[illegible] UNSYMPATHIZING CRITICS.

[illegible] of Honore Grandis[illegible] of color, from an [illegible] his white[illegible] discourse on the [illegible]:

we ourselves ah too close to see distinctly, and so continue, a spectacle to civilization, sitting in a horrible dahkness, my-de'-seh!"

"The shadow of the Ethiopian," said the grave apothecary.

THE AFRICAN SLAVE TRADE.

A character is introduced [p. 219]:

"Bras-Coupe, they said, had been in Africa, and under another name, a prince among his people. In a certain war of conquest * * he was captured, stripped of his royalty, marched down upon the beach of the Atlantic, and * * became a commodity. Passing out of first hands in barter for a looking glass, he was shipped in good order and condition on board the good schooner Egalité, whereof Blank was master, to be delivered without delay at the port of Nouvelle Orleans. * * * In witness whereof, He that made men's skins of different colors, but all blood of one, hath entered the same upon His book, and sealed it to the day of judgment.

"Of the voyage little is recorded—here below; the less the better. Part of the living merchandise failed to keep; the weather was rough, the cargo large, the vessel small. However, the captain discovered that there was room over the side, and there—all flesh is grass—from time to time during the voyage he jettisoned the unmerchantable."

THE FREE QUADROONS.

Frowenfeld, in conversation with Honore, the colored brother who was educated in Paris, appeals [p. 254]:

"Why do you not give yourself—your time—wealth—attainments—energies—everything—to the cause of the down-trodden race with which this community's scorn unjustly compels you to rank yourself?"

The quadroon replies that his people have no cause—it was upheld and lost in Africa; here they were, one and all, prisoners of war.

Frowenfeld declares them to be "the saddest slaves of all," "free in form, but slaves in spirit," and advises, instead of insurrection, to use all cunning "to show them (the ruling class) the double damage of all oppression."

THE HAPPY SLAVE.

Clemence, separated in childhood from her mother in Virginia, and who "had had children, assorted colors," tells Dr. Keene [p. 330]:

"Oh, white folks is werry kine. Dey wants us to b'lieb we happy—dey wants to b'lieb we is. W'y, you know, dey 'bleeged to b'lieb it—fo' dey own cyumfut. 'Tis de sem weh wid de preache's; dey buil' we ou own sep'ate meet'n houses; dey b'leebs us lak it de bess, an' dey knows dey lak it de bess."

EQUAL RIGHTS.

Of the two brothers Grandissime in Europe it is said [p. 368]:

"There they had practiced a familiarity of intercourse which Louisiana would not have endured, and once, when speaking on the subject of their common fatherhood, the f. m. c. (the eldest) prone to melancholy speech, had said:

"You are the lawful son of Numa Grandissime; I had no right to be born."

But Honore quickly answered:

"By the laws of men it may be; but by the law of God's justice, you are the lawful son, and it is I who should not have been born."

But, returned to Louisiana, accepting with the amiable, old-fashioned philosophy of conservatism, the sins of the community, he had forgotten the unchampioned rights of his passive half-brother."

Later the brothers unite in business with the sign up, "Grandissime Freres."

ASSERTING THEIR RIGHTS.

How striking the likeness to the 14th of September revolt is the exhortation of Agricola Fusilier, referring to the transfer of Louisiana from France to the Union. The harangue was made on the banquette.

"He said that in such times as these every lover of liberty should go armed; * * that by trickery Louisianians had been sold, like cattle, to a nation of parvenues, to be dragged before juries for asserting the human right of free trade or ridding the earth of sneaks in the pay of the government; that laws, so called, had been forged into thumb-screws, and a Congress which had bound itself to give them all the rights of American citizens—sorry boon!—was preparing to slip their birthright acres from under their feet, and leave them hanging, a bait to the vultures of American emigration. Yes: the age of trickery! Its apostles * * * were poisoning the noble, unsuspecting, confiding Creole mind. For months the devilish work had been allowed by a patient, peace-loving people to go on. But shall it go on forever? * * We know not what is being plotted in the cane brakes of Louisiana. But we know that in the face of these things the prelates of trickery are sitting in Washington allowing throats to go [illegible] that talked tenderly about the "negro slave." * * The [illegible] of this people would be [illegible] were not saintly."

[illegible] also reminds one of the appeal made Sept. 14, 1874:

"Kinsmen, friends," continued Agricola, "meet me at nightfall before the house of this too-long spared mulatto. Come armed. Bring a few feet of stout rope. By morning the gentlemen of color will know their places better than they do to-day."

With a huzza the crowd left, and soon after, finding itself before Frowenfeld's drug store, its contents were speedily converted into rubbish which escaped the torch only through a rumor that the Governor's police were coming.

The reader will find numerous other equally good passages to arrest his attention. If they have a bearing on Louisiana society of to-day, let society be considered as partial to its defects, and not Mr. Cable, who has merely held up a mirror to its members, in the spirit of a true philosopher.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from Mexico.

BY MISS S. M. WARNER.

MR. EDITOR—The SOUTHWESTERN is ever a welcome visitor, a connecting link between present and past associations, though a realization of the changes that the years are bringing saddens their memory. The "occasional letter" you desired has been long in coming; not that the work is lacking in topics of interest, but because it so absorbs time and strength that writing is not practicable.

For the present, a short sketch of the work of the M. E. Church in the State of Hidalgo, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. Barker, may please your readers. Pachuca, the capital, is the centre from which operations are directed; the residence of Bro. Barker and one of the Mexican preachers, Bro. Gamboa. The Missionary Society has a fine property here—two congregations, one English, the other Mexican—two Sunday schools, and two day schools; one of these is for boys, sustained in part by the Parent Board; the other for girls, is a protege of the W. F. M. S.

The city contains about 15000 inhabitants, and is surrounded by a rich silver-mining region, which accounts for the foreign element in the population. Mountains closely shut in the town; they are now green and bright, for the rains have quickened vegetation, and the sky that seems to rest upon them is beautifully blue; but Pachuca can not be praised as to architecture, or general plan; it seems to have grown—filling the narrow valley, and crowding up on the mountain sides, just as circumstances have demanded, without any reference to design.

Real del Monte, six miles northeast of Pachuca, and 1000 feet higher, is the nearest point at which services are regularly maintained. The road leading there, winding around the mountains, affords some grand views of the ravine below, and the valley and plain beyond. Here is a Mexican congregation, and a church edifice has been planned, which when completed, will be the highest on the continent—(900 feet above the sea-level.) Beyond Real del Monte, at Gelasco and Omitlan, services in Spanish are held, the last named village being the residence of Bro. Euroza, another of Bro. Barker's staff of preachers.

To the northwest, distant sixty-six miles is Ixmiquilpan, in the midst of a fine agricultural district, and having about the same population as Pachuca. It is a fanatical town, and Bro. Mendoza, who was appointed at last annual meeting, to open services there, has encountered many obstacles, placed in his way by the Catholic clergy, and those under their influence; but he is not discouraged. He seems inspired by the conviction that he is teaching God's word according to the divine will, and the fruits of his labor, must therefore, sooner or later appear. An expression of his, as related in a recent sermon by one of our Mexican preachers, is a beautiful illustration of his faith as to ultimate results. After repeating the 10th and 11th verses of Isaiah 55, he added,—"Yes, God is ever faithful to his promises; He has said, 'My word shall not return unto me void;' therefore, having declared His truth, we must in patience and hope, await the influence of His Spirit to vivify it." Twelve miles west of Ixmiquilpan is the village of Alfajayuca, included in Bro. Mendoza's charge, where services are held.

West of Pachuca, distant twenty leagues, is the ancient town of Tula. Although in the State of Hidalgo, it is more conveniently reached from Mexico City than from this point, for the new railroad from the capitol to northern Mexico, passes through the town. Rev. J. W. Butler, therefore, has included Tula in the work under his supervision.

Various towns in the eastern and northern part of the State have been visited by the Bible agent, and it is proposed to occupy all these points as soon as practicable.

To the southwest, distant from Pachuca twenty two miles, near the line between the States of Hidalgo and Mexico is Tezontepec, a village of about 3000 inhabitants. Bro. Barker was informed that a number of protestants were there accustomed to meet for the study of the Bible, and social worship, who greatly desired a preacher. He visited the town, made the acquaintance of leading Protestants, and soon provided the coveted teaching of Scriptural truth. Brethren Gamboa and Euroza included Tezontepic in their appointments alternating in the Sabbath services.

But a personal acquaintance with the work has increased our estimate of its comparative importance. The occasion was this:—Rev. C. W. Drees, Superintendent of the mission, was visiting Pachuca, and Bro. Barker, proposed a trip to Tezontepec, and a party of six made ready—four going on horseback, and two in a light carriage. It was a lovely morning—recent rains had wakened all nature into new life and beauty. Leaving the usual route, we took a more direct course toward our destination, and there were no intervening fences. One needs the close hard work of six months in the school-room, to appreciate fully the exhileration of that gallop over the plain. A soft carpet of grass was spread for our horses' feet, light clouds were a protection from the sun, and were casting their ever changing shadows over the surrounding mountains—and those mountains, with their occasional rocky crags and turreted peaks were magnificent—bathed in the varied tints, which the light and shade playing over them, were constantly developing, they were exquisitely beautiful.

But, at last, we reached Tezontepec; Mr. Orozco and wife received us with genuine hospitality. This gentleman, a wealthy Protestant, conducted social worship for five years in his own house, before our mission supplied preachers, and he has, with a little assistance from other friends of the cause, supplied the funds to fit up a very pleasant chapel, and pay all contingent expenses. In the evening after our arrival, we attended service in this chapel. Bro. Drees preached a very clear and instructive sermon upon the conversion of the eunuch from the preaching of Philip. His hearers were evidently intensely interested as he urged the duty of searching the Scriptures in order to understand their import, instead of blindly following the guidance of others, and proved faith in Christ to be the only condition of salvation.

It is gratifying in the extreme to witness the enthusiasm with which these people, to whom the Bible is a new book, study its pages; and to you who are praying and laboring at home for the cause of millions, a glimpse of such a congregation would be an incentive to untiring prayer and effort. Bro. Gamboa, recently on Sunday, gave his congregation an account of a promise meeting held the previous evening at Tezontepec. The service had been announced the Sabbath before, and both himself and Bro. Euroza were there on Saturday. Many called during the day, and expressed great interest in the coming service. "What is a Scriptural promise?" was often asked. "Please show us one," and as the subject was explained to them they began to realize as never before what an inexhaustible treasure they possessed in the Holy Scriptures; and a more earnest, hearty recitation of promises could hardly be imagined than that of this first service of the kind. "Every person in the chapel except nursing infants," said our brother, "repeated a promise. Many who could not read, had by some friend's assistance committed a text to memory, that they might with their own lips declare the precious truth of God's word."

Dr. W. B. Rule, a layman of the Wesleyan connection, has recently arrived from England, and made his residence at El Chico, a village about twelve miles northward of Pachuca. Though he is here to attend to secular business, yet he is finding work to do for the Master; the constraining love of Christ is evidently prompting him to bring those about him to a knowledge of the truth. Having previously been in Mexico, he is familiar with the language, and has already gathered a congregation of twenty, which regularly assembles on Sunday, and is constantly increasing.

So the work is advancing—very slowly it sometimes seems to us, who are in the midst of its little perplexities and discouragements, yet, taking a view sufficiently broad to include the work of our mission in only one state of the Republic, abundant cause is found to thank God and take courage. When you pray for missions, remember Mexico.

Pachuca, Mexico, Oct. 4, 1880.

The Palestine District.

DEAR EDITOR—After a long silence I now write that your many readers may hear of the work in the Palestine district. After visiting every appointment on my third round I find a very great change in every place in spiritual affairs. The great difficulty in financial affairs has caused a sad appearance in some of our preachers this year. Though the cloud seems to be clearing away. It has been a year of struggle with some of them, and I might say with all of them. There is not a self-supporting charge in the Palestine district. There has been some improvement on the district this year in the way of buildings. We have four new churches added to the work this year and one parsonage. We have also lots to erect three other churches. The brethren are very economical in their work; there is a spirit not to go in debt of which I very heartily approve. There will be about three new appointments added to the work this year, with an almost double increase in membership. The Lord has blessed the work this year; He has blessed his ministers, and He has blessed me and helped me to travel during the summer months and in visiting my work. 1300 miles I traveled, on horseback and in wagons 600 miles; I walked 50 miles and traveled on the cars 650. I held 13 quarterly conferences, preached 47 sermons, lectured to Sunday-schools 7 times. The work that has been called the Lower Sabine is on the east side of the Sabine river, in Sabine parish, La. It is supplied by David Shelby this year. He has done a grand work there. As the territory of the Palestine district is so large would it not be well for the Texas Conference to continue looking after this part of the work, as it is in Louisiana and out of the Texas Conference? They know nothing of the Louisiana work. There is about 100 members attached to this work on the Louisiana side. I was very much impressed with the pride of the brethren. They seem to have fine taste for building. I held their quarterly conference in one of the best log houses I ever saw. It was 31 feet long, 26 wide and 13 feet high. The work is well done so far as finished.

WALTER RIPETOE.

Marshall, Texas, Oct. 6.

Sir William Jones, in his voyage to India, found, in the island of Johanna, a secluded speck in the Atlantic off the coast of Africa, this inscription (in Arabic) above the door of a mosque: "The world was given us for our own edification; not for the purpose of raising sumptuous buildings. Life for the discharge of moral and religious duties; not for pleasurable indulgence. Wealth, to be liberally bestowed; not avariciously hoarded. And learning, to produce good actions; not empty disputes."

When Hawthorn was in England he was told by Monkton Milnes, from whose lands a portion of the Pilgrim fathers emigrated, that the next voyage of the Mayflower, after she had landed the Pilgrims, was with a cargo of slaves from Africa to the West Indies.

It is estimated that coffee is used by 60,000,000 of the human family, tea by 500,000,000, opium by 400,000,000, alcohol by 500,000,000, and tobacco by 700,000,000. A large proportion of the human family use substances that are either stimulants or narcotics.

Mount Vesuvius continues in active eruption, and streams of lava are flowing down the western side.

We give room for the following strong appeal from our Mission Rooms. Let all read and act:

The Methodist Episcopal Church CAN pay $1,000,000 for Missions in the year 1881. No one will doubt this statement for a moment if they will consider the membership and resources of the Church. This is an easy possibility.

HOW?

1. Four hundred and fifty presiding elders and ten thousand pastors must be thoroughly aroused to the importance of this work. An earnest Missionary campaign ought to be made in every district. This would help preachers and people. Such a campaign has been repeatedly and successfully tried in a number of districts. The plan is as follows: A Committee, with the presiding elder as chairman, map out the work of the district, fixing the time of each meeting. Their programme would be something like this for each charge: Preaching on Sabbath morning by the pastor; Missionary service in the evening by the Sunday-school. On Monday afternoon Missionary sermon by a minister from an adjacent charge, followed by Missionary class-meeting. In the evening a mass-meeting, presided over by a layman of the Church where the meeting is held, and platform speeches by the visiting minister, a layman from an adjoining charge, and a layman from the local Church. A two-days' service similar to this on every charge throughout the Church would (1) call especial attention to this great work; (2) present the subject from a layman's stand point; (3) give information to the people; (4) awaken enthusiasm; (5) secure $1,000,000. This is no impracticable theory; it has been tried, and with the most beneficial results. The Wesleyans of England and Canada have some such system of visitation, and they give about $2.50 per member for Missions. Their financial ability will not at all compare with ours.

2. The Sunday-schools must become interested in this work. Too many of the schools of the Church contribute not one cent a year to Missions. This is not only an injury to our treasury, but it is also doing the children an irreparable harm. We ought to grow up a generation of Methodists, thoroughly imbued with the Missionary spirit. By proper effort, the children in our schools to-day could be so informed that they would become thoroughly posted as to the ... of Christianity in the ... of the world, and thus, in the near future, be generous givers to this object. Not a Miracle.

A correspondent sends us from Galveston, Texas, a clipping from the Galveston News of Oct. 14, and requests its publication, and also states: "We wish to inform you of a great miracle which occurred in our church last Sunday evening. It is supposed to be one of the greatest miracles that ever occurred in this city, but God was with her."

Here is the clipping:

A FALLING SISTER.

During the services at West chapel, a colored church situated on the southeast corner of Avenue I and Twenty-eighth streets, Sunday evening, one of the colored sisters "felt the spirit" to such an extent that while "shouting," as only colored people appear to be able to do when under strong religious excitement, she fell from the gallery in the second story of the edifice to the aisle below. She was picked up and carried into the open air, and upon examination, strange to say, was found to have escaped without injury. The West chapel building is the old Presbyterian church, which formerly stood at the intersection of Church and Nineteenth streets, and was one of the first places erected for religious worship after the establishment of the city.

Our correspondent is mistaken in calling this a miracle. A miracle is a supernatural event, which could not happen without the special interposition of God in a way contrary to the ordinary course of events. That the woman was not injured by the fall was a wonder, but we err when we call anything a miracle which happened naturally. A child in this city fell from a high porch on to the brick pavement below and was not hurt. Many such events occur, but they are not miracles. We advise our shouting sister to sit down stairs hereafter—for a second such fall might prove fatal.

The Elections.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT.

On Tuesday, November 2d, the people of the United States elected General James A. Garfield, of Ohio, President, and General Chester A. Arthur, of New York, Vice President of the United States for the next four years.

The decision as to who shall administer the affairs of this nation for four years is of vast significance. It decides the policies which are to control in the government of nearly 50,000,000 of people. Its results touch every interest, whether social religious, educational or political. The election just past was the most important that has been held since 1860, if not more important than any for half a century. The issue was above candidates, although General Hancock grew less popular and General Garfield grew more popular, from the time of their nominations.

The contest involved the final settlement of the principles involved in the civil war. The North, representing the civilization of freedom, supported General Garfield, and the South, representing the civilization of slavery, supported General Hancock. The South for many years before the war controlled the nation by political management. Failing in that, it resorted to arms. Defeated on the battle field, it resorts again to seek control by political management. Again overwhelming defeat comes. If, as a result of this last contest, the South will be taught to give up all hope of controlling the nation, as a section held together by the dogma of State sovereignty, and inspired by love for the "lost cause," the effects will be glorious on the whole people, but especially upon the South.

The defeat of General Hancock is an inestimable blessing to the South. The Democratic party which voted for him has done nothing for the South for twenty years but keep it in hostility to the great controlling principles and interests of the nation. If the plank in the platform which says, "tariff for revenue only" should be enforced every sugar planter in Louisiana would be bankrupt. On the other hand the Republican North pays from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year more ... its sugars, so as to protect Louisiana sugar planters.

The returns are not all in. We give the latest reports and will next week give still fuller details.

In California Republicans claim one elector in place of Judge Terry, Democrat, who was badly scratched.

A Times special from Atlanta, Ga., says members of the Legislature favor giving Garfield the Southern electoral vote as a measure of policy.

A Salt Lake City dispatch of Nov. 1, said large numbers of Mormons had been discovered going into Nevada to vote. This is believed to account for the Democratic gains in that State.

Legislatures, to elect United States Senators, have been chosen as follows:

Republican—Connecticut, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin.

Democratic—Delaware, Florida, Missouri, Nevada, Texas, West Virginia.

In doubt—California, Tennessee.

STATE OFFICERS.

Republican—Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York (chief justice), Pennsylvania, Tennessee.

Democratic—Florida, Missouri, Nevada (judge of Supreme Court), North Carolina, South Carolina.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTIONS.

Florida voted upon the question of calling a convention to revise the State constitution. Result unknown.

Illinois voted on amendment to State constitution extending terms of county sheriffs and treasurers to four years, and making them ineligible for a second successive term. Result unknown.

Iowa voted on proposition to hold a convention to revise the State constitution. Result unknown.

Kansas voted on proposition to hold a constitutional convention, and on amendments prohibiting the sale of liquor and exempting $200 in personal property from taxation. Results unknown.

Michigan voted on a constitutional amendment authorizing the city of Detroit to aid in the construction of a railroad bridge or tunnel to an amount not exceeding 1 per cent of the city's taxable property. Result unknown.

Minnesota voted on proposed laws relating to the purchase of text books for the public schools. Result unknown.

Nevada voted on the question of permitting or excluding Chinese immigration. Result unknown.

New Hampshire voted on a proposition looking to the representation of minorities in corporations. Result unknown.

New York voted on a constitutional amendment relating to certain courts in New York City, Brooklyn and Buffalo. Result unknown.

North Carolina voted on amendments prohibiting the payment of certain State bonds unless authorized by direct vote of the people, and relating to the support of deaf mutes, blind and insane persons. Results unknown.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. A. Moore, of La Teche, who has been sick three or four weeks, will return to his charge on the 6th inst.

—Bishop D. S. Doggett, of the M. E. Church, South, died at Richmond, Va., Oct. 27th. He had been ill several months, though thought convalescent.

—Rev. J. H. Buckner, known to many of our readers, especially in North Louisiana, writes us from Bermudas, West India, Oct. 26. We wish him great success in his new field. He says: "I am now in Bermuda, West Indies, having been sent here by the Bishop of the British Methodist Episcopal Church. We arrived here on Wednesday the 18th inst. after a very stormy voyage of six days from New York. We are engaged in the missionary work among our people; the work here is very extensive. The population of this Island is about 13,000, 7000 of whom are colored. Will you be kind enough to send the ADVOCATE to my address."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

R. Anderson, Ricks: "On Aug. 15, children's day, the collection was $3.80."

M. Adams, Liberty Hill: "A new house of worship was dedicated here. The congregation belongs to the Shubuta circuit. The building is 25x40 feet, and cost near $200, it was partly built last year under P. Jamison, pastor. Stewards raised $17.40 for their pastor. Rev. D. James and local preachers assisted."

F. D. Johnson, Tupelo: "After the death of Rev. H. Hardy I came here and found the work in a very low state. I went to work with courage, believing God would help me. For my year's labor I have received 72 converts. We are not moving on as fast in town as we are in the country. The church is doing all it can and has given me $145.05 to date. The elder held our third quarter and preached a good sermon."

TEXAS.

Willis Graves, Waco: "Times are hard. At Mt. Union Church no collection has been taken up for me since April."

J. T. Gibbons, Lavernia: "The fourth conference was held at Stockdale, Oct. 9. Elder Mack Henson was with us. Collection of $12.40 was taken up. The Lavernia work, under the faithful care of Rev. W. H. Mosehy is looking up. He is wide awake, and full of Methodist fire. There is a great deal of sickness here."

J. Henderson, Gonzales: "Have a great deal of sickness here, and it is fatal in many cases. Hardly a family escapes. The three doctors of the place have so many calls they almost refuse to take new cases. Henry Mays fell with chills and fever yesterday, his jaws locked, and it was only by careful help that he recovered. No doctor has been to see him yet. I can not set up longer to write."

LOUISIANA.

A Union basket meeting takes place at Union Chapel M. E. Church, on Bienville near Marais street, on the second Sunday in this month, 14th inst. Eminent ministers of various denominations will preach every hour from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The trustees want to raise a pressing note of $250. Go and help them.

Rev. A. E. P. Albert, Union Chapel, New Orleans: "We have just closed a very profitable and refreshing series of meetings. We experienced quite a revival; 15 have accepted Christ and praise Him as their Savior. 38 have joined on probation during the last quarter. The work revives. To God be the glory."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The Vermont Legislature re-elected Senator Edmunds, and honored the State by so doing.

Louisiana elected one Republican Congressman—C. B. Darrall, third district—and five Democrats.

In New Orleans the regular Democratic city ticket, with the exception of Mayor, was elected. Joseph Shakespear, candidate of People's Association for Mayor, received about 400 majority over J. C. Dennis, the regular nominee.

The Spanish minister of the interior notified governors of the provinces that Louisiana agents are endeavoring to contract with Spanish laborers to work on plantations at prices too low for living expenses. Immigrants are advised to go to Cuba in preference to any other country.

The will of General Albright, of Mauch Chunk, leaves the use of his estate to his widow during her life, and the reversion at her death to Dickinson College for the education of poor young men without regard to race or color. Should the college make a color distinction the bequest will become null."

A lawsuit, decided in the Surrogate Court, New York, over the will of Mrs. Cynthia Hesdra has brought out one of many proofs of the error of the statement frequently made, especially by Southerners, that negroes are incapable of managing for themselves. Edward H. Hesdra, a colored man and the husband of the decedent made a fortune of $80,000 in the cabinet making business, assisted by some successful real estate investments.

Leading Catholics of Marseilles, France, visited the prefect to protest against the execution of the decrees. The prefect refused to receive the deputation, saying he regarded all who refused to obey the law as rebels. The president of the deputation warmly denounced the use of the term rebels. He said: "We do not protest against laws but against decrees." The deputation then withdrew, leaving a written protest behind, which the prefect returned to them.

The Bishops in Atlanta.

In my last I gave you some account of the dedication of Clark University. Saturday was truly a great day for Atlanta, and the work of God every way. The gathering of the men of the North and the men of the South, representative men, uniting on one platform to give just direction to public sentiment, and assure the trembling hearts of God's poor, and stimulate them to holy ambition, was a sight not often witnessed in this troubled age; and I doubt whether such a scene could be reproduced outside of Georgia. The Governor of the State, Colquitt, three ex-Governors, Brown, Bullock, and Conley, were there—Senator Brown was the war Governor—all able and remarkable men. Gen. Orr, our State Superintendent of Public Schools, with many other distinguished Southern gentlemen, leant honestly towards us in word and temper, and our leading men, the Bishops and Dr. Rust, were wonderfully happy in word and spirit, leaning Southward.

Our Sabbath services were a delight to all. In the morning Bishop Wiley preached to Dr. Heidt's people in Trinity M. E. Church, South. Bishop Warren preached for Dr. Evan's people in Wesley Chapel (the 1st M. E. Church, South), and Rev. Dr. Hoyt to our people in Marietta Street Church, with Bishop Haven present. Bishop Warren lectured to our Sabbath school at 3 p. m. Bishop Haven preached for us at night from the words of Christ to the lowest Jewish ruler, "Thou art not far from the kingdom of heaven."

His sermon was one of ripe thought and great power and of the style I like best; expository—I made a few notes. He said:

"The Lord talked more about the kingdom of heaven than anything else. An allusion to it is found in His first benediction, 'Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.' His parables relate to it, "and without a parable spake He not unto them." Many of them were issued to all the kingdoms—His style of prayer was full of thought, and three words in His form of prayer for all nations and all ages, embody the great desire of the generations of good men, 'Thy kingdom come.'

"The people of that age were much interested in the subject, for the prophets had foretold a coming kingdom, and Daniel had predicted it and its time. The star of Bethleham had guided the Magi of the East, who knew the time, and sought the King—the popular opinion of the Jews was shared by the twelve apostles as to its territorial and political nature—too many even in this age take low and material views of the kingdom of Christ. Christ's kingdom is a spiritual kingdom—not tangible, for "the kingdom of God is within you." The people were dull and could not understand in that day this spiritual dominion, so it is to-day with many.

The kingdom has a body and it has a soul—man can make a beautiful image of the human form, but he can put no life in it—God alone can put life in the human forms. The body of Christ's kingdom is the universal Church—not the Methodist Church, not the Presbyterian Church, nor the Baptist Church, but the Universal Church—this constitutes the body but it must have a living soul. Too many think more of the external than the internal—the body is of no use without the soul.

Take an illustration of the powerful workings of Christ's kingdom to love and elevate the worst of men. There is a locality in New York City called the Five Points, the home of the wretched and the vile; when some good people proposed a city missionary and mission for that locality—the men of world said, "What! send them the gospel, better send bread and potatoes." And it is too true, that some people never rise any higher than bread. What would this earth be if all men had no higher ambition. Five Points has become a much better place.

The blunder of modern reformers of society is, they propose to improve the external and forget the internal kingdom. See the folly of the Communists, and our abortive efforts to save the Indians from decay. We must give the gospel, teach the spirit and impart the soul—let us remember that the kingdom of God is not meat and drink but righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost—a Church without this is like a skeleton.

Some ministers draw sharp lines, forgetting that there are many shades of character. Some men are Christians, but rough, very rough Christians. Again, there are many excellent people who are honest and honorable, who could be trusted with your honor and your property unconverted. There are many honest men now amongst our public men, such men as were Clay, Webster and Lincoln. The honesty of the business world is remarkable; see the multitude of the bank cashiers, who hold the wealth of the world in their hands, who can deny but there are many honest men near the kingdom.

The golden rule of the gospel is superior to the silver rule of Confucius. There never was a true philanthropist until Christ came. The commission to teach all nations is a grand mission of philanthropy. Christianity knows no limits—it goes to all nations—wherever it goes these institutions of benevolence and enlightenment grow up out of the heart of the Church to bless the world.

There are some men who think correctly though unconverted, who combine orthodox opinions with honest and virtuous lives; they are not far from the kingdom. The question may be asked are they worthy of Church membership? Were I a pastor I would admit them as seekers. But the great question with them is, are they fit for the kingdom above?

Take the rich young man in the gospel to whom Christ said, "Go sell all that thou hast and give to the poor and come and follow me." Had he obeyed or manifested a will to obey, Christ might have said, "It is enough—keep what thou hast and manage it for the good of the kingdom;" and he might have made him one of his chosen disciples, and he would have become an honored instrument in the land of God.

There is just such a time in every man's life when all must decide, and when the decision is fully taken, then the graces begin to grow, the weaknesses of human nature are displaced by the virtues, when the man is converted. Let us see to it that we enter into the spiritual kingdom of God."

Bishop Wiley, Dr. Rust, and Professor Coldwell were present and aided in the service of the evening.

Our brethren of the Loyd Street Church, having given the Bishops a reception on Saturday night, the members of the Marietta Street Church gave one on Monday night, preceding which Mrs. Dr. Rust, the friend of our new home mission movement, addressed our people on that important subject. That effort has our prayers and will have all the aid we can render hereafter.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19, 1880.

The Color Line.

The recent General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which convened in Cincinnati, Ohio, held its session and adjourned. And the question has been frequently asked, what effect has the discussion of the question of a colored bishop had upon the colored membership belonging to the Methodist Episcopal Church? It is true it awakened curiosities and desires in the minds of some of its members which resulted in some disappointment, and in a measurable degree brought about some little dissatisfaction, which is thought to threaten the Church with iminent disintegrations. But now let us ask the question, should we have a colored Bishop? We, in reply, say no. 1st. Because that would be establishing the color line in its fullest sense, which would result in another organic body and at once sever our relations with the Church best fitted for the elevating and christianizing of our people, who for a long time have been deprived of the rights of religious liberty. 2d. Those who are members of the M. E. Church in the fullest sense do not desire it. But the question as far as the colored members is concerned has been agitated by those in many instances who formerly belonged to the A. M. E. Church, and who have expressed their dissatisfaction with, as they say, of their Church polity, on account of its defectiveness, and uniting with the mother Church they have become aspirants for Episcopal honors. And with a hope of being elevated to the Episcopacy they claim that there should be a colored Bishop because he is black; and at the same time we noticed when the committee at Cincinnati reported four Bishops as the number necessary for the Episcopal work, those who upon the Conference floor had so strongly advocated a colored Bishop, when the ballots were cast, failed to bring forward a man or to cast a single ballot for a man of African descent. We are pleased to remain at home with our mother who has taken care of us when we were unable to walk, who dried up our tears when we wept, who led us right when we were wrong, and who will be instrumental in advancing us to glory and to God.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Nov. 7, 1880.—JOSEPH IN PRISON.

SCRIPTURE—Gen. 39: 21-23; 40:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him."—Ps. 37:7.

TOPIC.—The Lord's Servant Trusted.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

"The Lord was with Joseph." That was the fact that characterized Joseph and his stay in Egypt. That it was that made him cheerful in trial and self-poised in prosperity. The integrity of character and the kindness of disposition that was the product of his faith in God commended themselves to every one without their knowing what it was that made him different from other men. Joseph was a mere lad when he was sold into Egypt. He was only seventeen years old—an age when home is peculiarly attractive, when filial reverence and affection is specially strong, and when confidence in one's developing powers is not yet great enough to do away with the feeling of dependence. At this age, therefore, it was a trial peculiarly great for Joseph to be torn away from his father's home. He made himself very useful to the master who had bought him. He made the best of his position. From being a mere chattel, Joseph had come to be, if not his personal friend, yet his master's brain and right hand. From a position so high, very suddenly he was cast down. On the totally false accusation of Potiphar's wife, he was thrown into prison. The Psalmist says that his feet were hurt with fetters, and that the iron entered into his soul. But the Lord was with Joseph in prison as a comforting presence. He "caused kindness to be shown unto him." The keeper of the prison surrendered all the cares of his office to the one over whom he himself was bound to keep watch. He had the oversight of the food of the prisoners, saw to their comfort and health, and ministered to them, we may be sure in their sorrow and sickness. The captain of the guard felt that by him the wants of his illustrious prisoners faithfully would be cared for, while he could rely entirely upon his fidelity besides. They dreamed—each man his dream. Each man dreamed with imagery appropriate to his occupation. The chief butler saw a vine with three branches, he beheld it bud, blossom, and bring forth grapes that ripened while he looked. He took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup which he held, and then gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. The chief baker dreamed that he had three white baskets upon his head, in the uppermost of which were various articles prepared by him for Pharaoh, but instead of reaching the royal hand, the birds of the air seized upon upon them out of the basket. In this case it is evident that God gave impressiveness to their dreams, and created their anxiety to know their meanings. Joseph does not lay claim to any supernatural powers for himself. In that respect he was a contrast to the kind of an interpreter for which the officers had been sighing. It was done in the kindest manner, and in a way that was calculated not to wound their feelings in the least, yet it was a rebuke for relying upon the interpretations of ungodly men. He turned their thoughts away from men to the One from whence came his own help. The dreams were told, and the interpretations given. In three days the chief butler was to be restored, and in the same time the chief baker was to be hanged. The facts proved Joseph's interpretation to be correct. Joseph, when he gave the meaning of the dream of the chief butler, asked that officer to mention him to Pharaoh, and to bring him out of his prison. "Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but forgat him." That is the way of the world. So God tried his servant, and by the severest of discipline fitted him for the great work which he had for him to do. Before he called him to rule others, the Lord taught him fully to rule himself. ... best school may be a ...

Answers to Correspondents.

In reply to the many inquiries which we have received regarding a most prominent modern remedy we would say: To the best of our belief Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is pure in its nature, efficient in its action and certain in its results. We have learned of some remarkable cures which it has effected, and believe that as a preventative of disease it is unequalled. For delicate ladies and enfeebled men it is invaluable, and its pure vegetable qualities commend it to the favor and use of all.

A GREAT REVELATION.

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness and Timely Suggestions About Securing It.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE,

while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposedly scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangements of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that only by removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight, and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who 'bled him copiously.' Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding!"

The speaker then graphically described another period which came upon the people, in which they assigned the origin of all diseases to the stomach, and after showing the falsity of this theory, and that the kidney and liver were the causes of disease, and that many people are suffering from kidney and liver troubles to-day who do not know it, but who should know it and attend to them at once, continued:

"Let us look at this matter a little more closely. The human body is the most perfect and yet the most delicate of all created things. It is capable of the greatest results and it is liable to the greatest disorders. The slightest causes sometimes seem to throw its delicate machinery out of order while the most simple and common-sense care restores and keeps them in perfect condition. When it is remembered that the amount of happiness or misery we are to have in this world is dependent upon a perfect body, is it not strange that simple precautions and care are not exercised? This is one of the most vital questions of life. People may avoid it for the present, but there is certain to come a time in every one's experience when it must be faced.

"And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I

FAINTED REPEATEDLY.

My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening of the pain at once; I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined fields in medicine never before explored. I sought the cause of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system."

After describing at length the offices of the kidneys and liver, and their important part in life, the doctor went on to say:

"Having found this great truth, I saw clearly the cause of my recovery. The simple vegetable leaf I had used was a food and restorer to my well-nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. It had come to them when their life was nearly gone and by its simple, yet powerful influence had purified, strengthened and restored them and saved me from death. Realizing the great benefit which a knowledge of this truth would give to the world I began in a modest way, to treat those afflicted and in every case I found the same which I had experienced. Not only this but many, who were not conscious of any physical trouble but who, at my suggestion, began the use of the remedy which had saved my life, found their health steadily improving and their strength continually increasing. So universal, where used, was this true, that I determined the entire world should share in its results, and I therefore placed the formula for its preparation in the hands of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., a gentleman whom I had cured of a severe kidney disease, and who, by reason of his personal worth, high standing and liberality in endowing the Astronomical Observatory and other public enterprises, has become known and popular to the entire country. This gentleman at once began the manufacture of the remedy on a most extensive scale, and to-day, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the pure remedy that saved my life, is known and used in all parts of the continent.

"I am aware a prejudice exists toward proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but the value of a pure remedy is no less because it is a proprietary medicine. A justifiable prejudice exists toward quack doctors, but is it right that this prejudice should extend towards all the doctors who are earnestly and intelligently trying to do their duty? Because Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure saved my life before it became a proprietary medicine, is it reasonable to suppose that it will not cure others and keep still more from sickness now that it is sold with a government stamp on the wrapper? Such a theory would be childish."

The doctor then paid some high compliments to American science, and closed his lecture as follows:

"How to restore the health when broken and how to keep the body perfect and free from disease must ever be man's highest study. That one of the greatest revelations of the present day has been made in ascertaining the true seat of health to be in the kidneys and liver, all scientists now admit, and I can but feel that the discovery which I have been permitted to make, and which I have described to you, is destined to prove the greatest, best and most reliable friend to those who suffer and long for happiness, as well as to those who desire to keep the joys they now possess."

THE PHONOGRAPH SET TO MUSIC.

The Phonographic Piano.—A Most Wonderful Invention.

The Phonographic Piano has been called the most marvellous mechanical invention of the age. It will play any tune that ever was written, in a melodious and pleasing manner. Difficult and simple music produced in a masterly style, and it can be played by a child as well as by a grown person, and will furnish music for singing schools and social gatherings of any description, playing hour after hour, without any knowledge of music being required in the operation. The most wonderful of all musical inventions; a machine which in a purely mechanical manner produces the most difficult and exquisite music, Waltzes, Polkas, Marches, &c., &c., without any practice or knowledge of music whatever; far superior to any music-box, even though it costs thousands of dollars; for their is no limit whatever to the number of tunes it will play. This instrument is on the principle of the wonderful Phonograph. It has just been perfected (the accompanying cut showing it in its improved form), and is having the largest sale ever obtained by a musical instrument in the country. It has solid metal cases in imitation of green bronze; the notes or bars (the music producers) are metal, on same principle as a tuning-fork, which produce the clearest and most melodious notes, and never get out of tune; the [illegible] strikers, the same as the wires are in a Piano, only they work automatically instead of by the fingers. The strip of prepared [illegible] in which the tune is stamped or perforated, is about 10 inches wide, and as it passes through the rollers and over the keys the [illegible] through the perforations in the paper and strike the right notes; this is all done automatically without any assistance of the operator (except turning the rollers), and the tune is played as perfectly as by the most expert musician. It would be one of the most appropriate presents to make anyone, especially where there is no Piano. In point of execution and [illegible] compare favorably with a fine music-box, and its capacity is unlimited. We predict for this instrument a most wonderful sale, [illegible] faster than any musical instrument ever invented. Its action is perfectly marvellous. The music is [illegible] body delighted. No knowledge of music required, and a child can operate it and furnish music for any occasion. [illegible] a sensible present, one which will amuse and instruct not only the child but the whole household. The price of the Piano is only $5, and a selection of popular tunes goes with each instrument. Boxed free, and sent to any address on receipt of Five Dollars. Address MASS. ORGAN CO., 57 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

IS A REALLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR WASTING AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

After numerous experiments Mr. Fellows succeeded in producing this combination of Hypophosphites, which has not only restored him to health, but has since been found so successful in the treatment of diseases emanating from the loss of nerve power, and consequent muscular relaxation, viz.:

Aphonia (loss of voice), Neuralgia,
Anæmia, Nervous Debility,
Chronic Diarrhœa, Whooping Cough,
Dyspepsia, Fever and Ague,
Congestion of the Lungs, Leucorrhœa,
Palpitation of the Heart, Melancholy,
Malaria, Mental Depression,
Nervousness.

MALARIA.

Persons living in the Malarious districts may protect themselves from attacks of fever by the use of Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. Its effects in toning up the system enables us to ward off contagious disorders, and successfully combat disease.

The soluble phosphites and the other life-sustaining principles composing Fellows' Hypophosphites are so carefully proportioned and so judiciously mingled, that their action upon the nerves, muscles and membranes in imparting vitality, strength and healthy action is generally apparent within twenty-four hours, and the good effects experienced are of a permanent character. 45 4t

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. C. C. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Brittain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

G. W. Fielder, Hickory: "Bro. Wyatt is doing a great work here; though the charge is very poor, we are doing the best we can for him. Bro. Tolson assisted in our protracted meeting, and we gained 5 members, 1 backslider and 10 on probation."

J. H. Cook, Pontotoc: "I have just closed my protracted meeting which resulted in 27 converts, 7 reclaimed, 24 probationers and 22 baptisms. Pontotoc circuit is in a very good condition. Our Sunday-schools are in a pretty fair condition."

W. H. Gallion, Holly Springs: "I was informed by Elder J. G. Johnson that it has been rumored abroad that a meeting was held here concerning the students board, and that I acted as chairman, which is all untrue. I was not in the meeting, nor had I anything to do with it whatever; although I can say there was such a meeting held. Surely it must be an enemy of Shaw University that so used my name. I can say there are boarders here paying from eight to ten dollars per month, although the meeting desired they should not be charged less than $12 per month. Nevertheless students are most rapidly filling the vacancies of Shaw University and getting board and lodging at the above prices."

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—I am Delcy Dosa, daughter of Martha Dosa: sisters were Sarah, Mary and Margaret; brother was James. We belonged to Bill Whers, in Pikeville, Tennessee, and were sold three years before the war. Address me, care of Rev. Thos. Kennedy, Algiers, La.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire of my daughter Emeline Lamlord. She is my sister's child, and left me when I was living with my owners. I want to hear from her. I live seven miles from Aberdeen and have a husband named Barkis Knight. Address me care of my pastor, Rev. Miles Proctor.

MARIA KNIGHT.

DEAR EDITOR—My lost friends are Fullam, Jordan, Steven, Dunn, and Davis, all belonging to Louisiana. Their mother was Fanny, sisters Lucinda and Charlotte, brother Henry. My father was Henry Cranwell. We were sold to Joseph Bennett and Willis Mercherman and brought to Hallettsville, Texas. J. C. CRANWELL.

Hallettsville, Texas.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to make inquiry for my grandfather. His name is Jacob Scheley, and my mother left him when a child in Nashville, Tenn. They belonged to George McClaren, and were sold to Robert McClaren, and brought to middle Tennessee. My mother's name was Eliza Silvester McClaren but now is Eliza Johnson. Her mother's name was Julia Ann McClaren but she died when my mother was an infant. Any information please address to me at Bryan, Brazos county, Texas, ELIZA JOHNSON, in care of Sarah Bonner.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my kindred. Mother's sister, Lucy Bartley, married Richard Alexander; brother John; brother Dick Bartley. I left my father in Smith county, Tenn., about 30 years ago, I left my sister Elsie Violet in Wilson county, with Mr. Frank J. Anderson. Brothers George and Anderson belonged to a man named Crane, and went to Arkansas. I was sold by Dick Bartlett to J Jamison, and he sold me to John Rath, a speculator in Smith county, Tenn. I changed my name to Gideon Austin. Address me at Enterprise, Clark Co., Miss.

GIDEON AUSTIN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire about a preacher at Waynesboro, Miss., in the Meridian district, where Bro. J. W. Davis is presiding elder. His name is L Eckels. I have written several letters concerning a Lowens Echols, but he writes his name L Eckels. I will thank him to write to me of his relatives and to whom he belonged. There was a family of Echols living in DeSoto Co., Miss., near Cold Water Springs. The father's name was Cannon Echols. He had a son, John Echols, and a colored woman, Julia. Her husband was Sam. He is dead. Sam and Julia had one daughter, Ellen, and three sons, Thomas, Alfred and Lowens, of whom I write, thinking if this preacher at Waynesboro, Miss., Rev. L. Echels, knew anything of these persons he will do me a favor by writing, and I will give him some information of this matter. Address me at San Felipe, Texas.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE ONLY MEDICINE That Acts at the Same Time on THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, and the KIDNEYS.

These great organs are the natural cleansers of the system. If they work well, health will be perfect: if they become clogged, dreadful diseases are sure to follow with

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Constipation and Piles, or Kidney Complaints, Gravel, Diabetes, Sediment in the Urine, Milky or Ropy Urine; or Rheumatic Pains and Aches, are developed because the blood is poisoned with the humors that should have been expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT will restore the healthy action and all these destroying evils will be banished; neglect them and you will live but to suffer. Thousands have been cured. Try it and you will add one more to the number. Take it and health will once more gladden your heart. Why suffer longer from the torment of an aching back? Why bear such distress from Constipation and Piles? Why be so fearful because of disordered urine? KIDNEY-WORT will cure you. Try a package at once and be satisfied. It is a dry vegetable compound and One Package makes six quarts of Medicine. Your Druggist has it, or will get it for you. Insist upon having it. Price, $1.00. WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Proprietors, (Will send post paid.) Burlington, Vt.

Liquid KIDNEY-WORT

In response to the urgent requests of great numbers of people who prefer to purchase a Kidney-Wort already prepared, the proprietors of this celebrated remedy now prepare it in liquid form as well as dry. It is very concentrated, is put up in large bottles, and is equally efficient as that put up dry in tin cans. It saves the necessity of preparing, is always ready, and is more easily taken by most people. Price, $1 per bottle. LIQUID AND DRY SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Prop'rs, Burlington, Vt.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever made. A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth. No disease or ill health can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations. They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable without intoxicating. No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use the Bitters at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer nor let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters. Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged, drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "Invalids Friend and Hope," and no person or family should be without them. Get some this day. HOP COUGH CURE is the sweetest, safest and best. Ask Children. One HOP PAD for Stomach, Liver and Kidneys is superior to all others. Ask Druggists. D. I. HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Meets the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Blancard's PILLS. City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodine of Iron. The Iodine purifies, the iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists. 44 1y

NASAL CATARRH!

All cases promptly and permanently cured by DR. S. W. BEALL, Homeopathic Catarrhal Specialist, A reputable Physician of 20 years' practice.

Not a Douche, Not an Inhaler, Not a Snuff.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh has never been cured by local treatment alone. Catarrh being constitutional requires constitutional treatment to eradicate it from the system. In connection with Dr. Beall's Nasal Catarrh Specific, a course of treatment is furnished each patient as indicated by the symptoms. Also an Atomizer with cleansing solutions to be locally applied in the form of a spray. Patients at a distance treated by the aid of a carefully prepared diagnostic sheet. No single box or bottle of medicine is applicable to all cases. Dr. Beall has cured hundreds of cases in its worst form, and patients now being treated in all parts of the United States report rapid improvement. Treatment is pleasant and directions easily followed. The following is a specimen of the testimonials constantly being received: To the Public—Statement of A. W. Busey, of the firm of Busey & Harter, Troy, Ohio. For a number of years I was afflicted with Nasal Catarrh, affecting seriously both my head and throat. The discharges from the nose were streaked with blood, and yell a very offensive smell. After a course of treatment from Dr. Beall, I am entirely cured. A. W. BUSEY. Extract from a Home Endorsement. "Dr. Beall offers to the public no quack nostrum, and parties can rest assured that humbuggery has no place in the treatment proposed. "H. H. $1000, REWARD

For any Washing Machine that will Wash Cleaner, Quicker, with Less Labor and Wear and Tear of Clothes than the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, Pat'd Oct. 3, '71. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY PERFECT SELF-OPERATING WASHER IN THE WORLD. No rubbing required. No more yellow clothes nor hard work on washing day. It will wash anything from a lace curtain to a horse blanket, and cannot get out of order. Good Agents wanted, both Male and Female, to whom Liberal Inducements are offered. Agents can make from $10 to $100 per week.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.

WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT? You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap. The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points. Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing. It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order, and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth. A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS: We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it, consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn. As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted throats of which prevent its flowing backward, it becomes hotter and hotter, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT. SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.

THE IMPROVED WASHER has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.

THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER. There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc. The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order. The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1½ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a boilerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water. For LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury. No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat-bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon. For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

THE INDUCEMENTS WE OFFER. We want a local agent in every town in the United States. We want first-class men as GENERAL AGENTS—men capable of managing one or more counties. To such we give a duly executed Certificate of Agency. We furnish descriptive circulars for distribution among families; also large posters for advertising in public places. Printed directions for using are sent with each Washer. The retail price of No. 1 WASHER, in New York, is $3.50; No. 2 WASHER, $5.00; No. 1, $24.00 per dozen; No 2. $36 00 per dozen. WE SEND SINGLE OR SAMPLE No. 1 WASHERS, PREPAID, TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY EXPRESS OFFICE, in any part of the United States east of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, also in Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, for 3.50.

SPECIAL NOTICE. As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well-known leading journals, viz.: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer. From the Boston Youths' Companion: "This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever known. We speak from experience when we say this. It is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeepers knows that ordinary modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."

From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880.—"Lately we had special reasons for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this belief was due merely to immemorial usage, and had no real foundation in fact; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher.

From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the ROBBINS WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."

From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O. A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a whole day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a ROBBINS WASHER one girl attends to the washing, cooks dinner at the same time, and has all the clothing hung out to dry, and tubs and wringer and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and also get them to understand that we write this simply and entirely for their benefit, and not at the solicitation of the manufacturers, nor with their knowledge or consent, but we write this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proven to be an article that does all that the manufacturers claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many times the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving in the soap will in a short time pay for the machine."

We advise our readers to send for a washer at once.

In ordering, write plainly your name, postoffice, county and State. Also the name of the express office to which you wish the washer forwarded.

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ALL ORDERS. Remit by Post office Order or Registered Letter. We insure the safe delivery of washers ordered as above. Money ... sent by draft on New York. Send for sample and secure A ... THAT WILL PAY YOU WELL. When you order ... this paper. Address Bissell Manufacturing Co., 50 Barclay St., New York.

defendant on passing sentence; he characterized the assault as a most aggravated one, the victim being entirely unprepared, and repeatedly struck down while attempting to rise.

"In company with Rev. G. W. Havell, county superintendent of public schools, I rode into the neighborhood, which is in the extreme eastern part of Hardin county, and we inquired into this affair as thoroughly as our limited time would permit; conversing with persons of both political parties, and outside of the Methodist Episcopal Church; all declared that they knew of nothing which could in the least degree justify the cruel and ruffianly assault. The perpetrator of the crime is a farmer in fair circumstances, a member of the M. E. Church, South, and had been a considerable supporter of the school; he was spoken of as a man of violent and overbearing temper, a strong Democratic partisan, and a bitter and malignant enemy of the old Methodist Episcopal Church, its preachers and most active and influential members. We found the community much ex[illegible]; and, in the judgment of [illegible], there was danger of armed [illegible] between Democrats and [illegible], for, unfortunately, this affair has assumed the form of a [illegible] strife, and threats have [illegible] freely made on both sides, re[illegible] g in the closing of the school [illegible] removal to another part of [illegible]. hotel, extended by its proprietor—a Northern Democrat—is in marked contrast with the churlish efforts of the Montgomery Advertiser to create a prejudice against a white Republican, because, as that paper alleges, he invited colored guests to his house and seated them at his table, just as the proprietor of the before-mentioned hotel seated the colored woman, neglected by hotel waiters, at his own family table. It may be added that the proprietor of the same hotel discharged the barber of the establishment for refusing to shave a colored guest at that hotel, and perhaps the Advertiser may think this was an arbitrary act.

"The colored people do not thrust themselves into places where it may be pretended that they demand 'social equality.' They do not even demand the equal rights guaranteed to them by the laws of the country. They are willing to stand the test of merit and respectability, and await the calmer judgment of those who appreciate and recognize manhood in all races."

Arizona Territory elected G. H. Oury, Democrat, to Congress; M. H. Sherman, Republican, superintendent of public instruction, and a Republican legislature.

Dacotah Territory elected Pettigrew, Republican, delegate to Congress. Legislature four-fifths Republican.

Washington Territory re-elected T. H. Brents, Republican, as delegate to Congress.

Wyoming Territory elected Swan, Republican, to Congress.

At Vicksburg, Miss., over 2,000 Republican ballots were thrown out by Democratic supervisors, to defeat the election of John Lynch, Republican, to Congress, on the plea that tickets were not printed in accordance with Mississippi law. There were some printer's dashes on them. By similar dishonesty Gen. Chalmers' friends have stolen a seat for him on several occasions. A Republican Congress will seat Lynch.

LEGISLATURES.

The Republicans have a majority in California legislature, securing a United States senator.

In Tennessee the Democrats have probably carried the legislature by a small majority.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTIONS.

In Kansas the amendments prohibiting the sale of liquor and exempting $200 in personal property from taxation were carried by 20,000 majority.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 31, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—The Huntsville district conference met at Camilla Hill, Oct. 7. Rev. W. B. Pullam presided; Rev. Jas. E. Shackleford was secretary. The hours of session were fixed from 9 a. m. to 12 m., and from 2 to 4 p. m.

J. Smith, R. Williams and C. C. Minnegan were appointed a committee on examination of candidates; on local preachers, E. Jefferson, S. Allen, and B. M. Taylor; on examination of candidates for admission to the traveling connec[illegible] J. Smith, R. Williams, E. Jef[illegible] on [illegible] for orders, [illegible] C. C. Min[illegible] [illegible] ferson, S. Allen, and R. Williams. The presiding elder reported his district as being in a good religious condition. There has been an increase.

J. Smith, of Huntsville; E. Jefferson, of Huntsville circuit; B. M. Taylor, of Walker circuit; R. Williams, of Davilla; C. C. Minnegan, of Cold Springs; A. Britton, of Liberty; S. Allen, of Wallisville; M. Reddick, of Montgomery; Jas. E. Shackleford, of Beaumont; A. Dismute, of Moscow; A. Logan, of Livingston, made favorable pastoral reports of their charges.

Local preachers reports were then received.

A. Briton and Tobe Ward were recommended to the traveling connection.

Bro. E. Wright was granted a license to preach.

The local preachers' appointments (or stations), Huntsville, John Clark; Huntsville Circuit, Wm. Appline; Mt. Prairie, W. Jackson—4th Sunday at Pleasant Grove; F. McGowan, 1st Sunday at Sandy Phillip, 2d at Galilee; S. Scott, 2d Sunday at Danville; S. Smith, at Danville 3d Sunday; H. Williams, 2d Sunday at Evoneazar; Wm. Henry, 3d Sunday at New Hope; H. Williams, 3d Sunday at Cedar Grove; G. Galveston, 2d Sunday at Montgomery, 3d at Yells; S. Colwell, 2d Sunday at Yells; B. Franklin, 2d Sunday at Dodge, 4th at Pine Grove; C. Devenport, 2d Sunday at Colony; J. Gooden, 2d and 4th Sunday at Dunkins; E. Moore, 2d Sunday at Willis, 3d at Dunkins; J. Neasby, at Liberty; Tobe Ward, at Beaumont; G. Elkins, at Orange; A. Smith, 2d Sunday at Pinnie, 1st at Moscow, 3d at Moscow. Question 5 was then taken up. To inquire concerning exhorters. The following licenses were renewed: H. Adams, S. Flowers, L. Wallis, J. Jackson, H. Williams, C. Devenport, S. Scott. They are in hands of the pastors. The next district conference will be held at Liberty, Texas. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That hereafter the district conferences in Huntsville district shall not grant licenses to exhort or to preach to any person who fails to equip himself with a copy of the Discipline issued by the General Conference of the M. E. Church in 1880.

Resolved, That this district conference do hereafter renew no licenses to exhort or to preach of any person who is guilty of failing to do the work apportioned to him by this district conference.

Resolved, That the preachers in charge enforce the law as regards making the appointments for the local preachers and exhorters and so arrange them as not to conflict with the appointments of the preachers in charge.

Resolved, That any local preacher or exhorter who refuses to comply with the appointments as made by this and the district conferences hereafter, shall not have his licenses renewed.

Resolved, That this district conference require of all who make applications for license to preach shall be able to read intelligibly and also understand the Discipline of the M. E. Church as required by said Church.

Resolved, That no local preacher or exhorter, who fails to attend the regular sessions of the district conferences shall not have his license renewed, unless the pastor presents to the conference a written excuse, showing the cause of such absence, and it being substantiated by the pastor of the appointment where such absence is had. But in all such cases the district conference shall have the authority to test the validity of such written excuses.

Resolved, That all local preachers and exhorters be and hereby are required to read and thoroughly understand the Articles of Religion and General Rules as is set forth in the Discipline of the M. E. Church.

Resolved, That all local preachers and exhorters be and are hereby required to attend the Sabbath-schools, and use their energy in trying to advance the cause of Sabbath-schools, in order to obtain a renewal of their licenses.

Resolved, That hereafter the district conferences will enforce the above resolutions, and that they be held for ever binding upon the members of the district conferences and all who may become connected with this conference hereafter.

This resolution was adopted—To our dear elders and conference brethren:

WHEREAS, The Discipline of the M. E. Church and in ¶375 on the use of tobacco, advises of our ministers and members to abstain from the use of tobacco, for it is both injurious to soul and body.

Resolved, That this conference will require each preacher in charge to teach all in their congregation to abstain from chewing and spitting within the house during our services.

Resolved, That any member of the M. E. Church that is known to be chewing or using snuff inside the church during our services shall be dealt with as the Discipline directs.

JAS. E. SHACKELFORD, Sec'y.

Huntsville District.

DEAR EDITOR—On my first and second round my work seemed to be doing as well as could be expected, and on the third round the work seemed to be more prosperous. At Huntsville Bro. J. Smith has done a good work. The trustees, with the aid of the pastor, are improving the church property and will soon have a nice church. Owing to the condition of the charge at first, Bro. E. Jefferson, of Huntsville circuit, has done a good work. A neat parsonage has been built on the church property, and he is living in it. He also added to the church over forty souls.

Walker circuit, Bro. B. M. Taylor, is doing as well as could be expected, spiritually. At this charge we have no property, but are looking ahead, trusting that God will open the way for us, after a while, to get some. Bro. Taylor has added to the church thirty-three souls.

At Double Bayou we have a church completed and ready for service.

At Livingston we have a lot of two acres, and are building a church, and will have it finished by the time of the annual conference.

At Comiller Hill (Cold Springs Circuit) we have bought three acres of land and have got out the timbers for building, and expect to begin work on the church at once. At this place we held our second district conference, and a good work was accomplished. The brethren from their different charges gave in good reports, and owing to the mourning souls that were kneeling around the altar—forty or more—we are satisfied to say God was with us.

At Liberty Bro. A. Britton has done more in the way of teaching our people the Methodist doctrines than any one ever on that work.

At Danville—Bro. R. Williams—the people seem to be moving up hill. They are doing all they can to improve the church.

At Montgomery and Willis, Bro. M. Reddick has added to the church over fifty souls.

W. B. PULLAM, P. E.

Be True to Your Church.

Bishop Foster said the following capital things to a late eastern conference:

"My memory goes back to the middle of our history. We were then intense Methodists. We had been at war with other sects and were regarded by them as something like a pest. We were a busy people, returning with interest the blows we received, and we grew fat and powerful by fighting. Now we have a day of peace, but it remains to be seen whether we shall be as successful in peace as in war. I think every church ought to be intense for its convictions and doctrines. Whenever we are disposed to conciliate and hold back for the sake of peace, truth is the sufferer. Every honest man owes it to himself to believe that he has the truth. Either he has convictions or he has not. I sincerely believe that in this intenseness lies the power of individuals, and of the church as well. The danger is that if we keep on we shall not be able to tell why we contend or what we contend for in the way of convictions and doctrines, and hence why should we not be merged in some other denomination? It is peculiar to us to have intense convictions, but we have largely lost our denominational love. There was a time when this love and pride were immense. It is characteristic of all sects, and survives in all the others, yet no people are under more obligations to love their church, and none love it less than we do. The Methodist Church has made its people what they are, and it is exceedingly difficult to find any man that ever brought anything into the denomination."

East Tennessee Conference.

This is entirely a new name in the list of conferences. It was organized last week, by Bishop Haven, at Greeneville, Tenn., and embraces the colored work heretofore within the Holston Conference. It starts out with 24 traveling ministers, 53 local preachers, 263 probationers, and 2,489 members; total number of communicants, 2,829. After the close of the Holston Conference session, Bishop Haven met with this body and attended to all the business necessary to put its work in order for the year to come. The questions in the Discipline were answered, and the East Tennessee Conference will appear in the regular form in the General Minutes soon to be published. In one respect it is probably the banner conference in the South; that is, in the relative number in Sunday-schools. The statistics show 50 Sunday-schools with 207 officers and teachers, and 2,247 scholars, total enrolled, 2,457,—nearly as many as there are Church members within the conference. This is an illustration of the determination of the colored people to learn to read. If they cannot have schools during the week they do their best to keep up Sunday-schools. We trust that this new conference having begun so nobly will not only keep up to its own standard but advance from year to year.

In the matter of supporting the ministers, the report is encouraging, the aggregate amount raised for that purpose being $3,751.33, which is an average of $1.36 for each member and probationer. If the colored people of East Tennessee can do this what white conference or circuit cannot pay as much? They raise their money in small sums, all pay, and pay often and the aggregate is highly creditable. The appointments are found in another column. In order that the Mission and Church Extension Committees, which meet soon may have data upon which to base their appointments for the new conference, we give the statistics in full. —Exchange.

The New Discipline on Temperance.

John Wesley in 1743 in writing the General Rules of the Methodist Societies in England, inserted one [illegible] "buying or selling spirituous liquors, or drinking them, unless in cases of extreme necessity." This is probably the first rule of any kind ever published by any church organization. This was before temperance societies had been organized in Scotland, and ninety years before the rise of the Father Matthew Societies in Ireland. Wesley enforced the above rule, and in one society excluded seventeen for drinking, and two for selling liquors.

When the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in America in 1784 Mr. Wesley's rule on temperance was adopted. This was twenty years before the publication of Dr. Rush's tract on "The Evil Effects of Ardent Spirits in Body and Mind," and fully twenty years before any other religious body in America published a total-abstinence provision in their church rules. At one time the strictness of Wesley's rule was relaxed somewhat, but from 1830 to 1835 efforts were made to restore it. In 1848 this was again made the law of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and since then the Church has led [illegible] in temperance [illegible].

The New Discipline contains the [illegible] of the late General Conference on the subject of Temperance. One of the General Rules, [illegible], in setting forth things to be avoided, says:

"[illegible], buying or selling [illegible], or drinking them, [illegible] in cases of extreme necessity."

On pages 145 and 148, provision is made for bringing members to trial who are guilty of

"[illegible], selling, or using intoxicating liquors as a beverage, signing [illegible] granting [illegible] intoxicating [illegible] per[illegible] traffic, renting [illegible] in or on [illegible] or sell in[illegible]."

In [illegible] of the quarterly [illegible] the church to appoint [illegible] a committee on [illegible] of the duties [illegible] is:

"[illegible] on temperance [illegible] once in [illegible] be [illegible] the cause [illegible] community."

The Dr. Thomas Case.

The case of Dr. Thomas of the Rock River Conference has excited large attention. For several years he has been drifting away from the standards of Methodist theology and has succeeded in bringing himself into direct conflict with his church. Two years ago his Conference in a brotherly yet plain manner by resolution, gave him to understand that he must preach Methodist theology more, and his own unauthoritative opinions less. His last sermon before his Conference met, preached in Centenary Church, Chicago, in which he has closed a three years pastorate, was devoted to a statement of his views. He claims to be in substantial accord with the doctrines of the Methodist Episcopal Church. But in this he evidently does not understand with sufficient clearness his own views. He rejects the vicarious factor of the Atonement, the full inspiration of the Scriptures and the doctrine of eternal punishment of the wicked after death. His Conference a few days since asked him to withdraw from the church, but this he refused to do. His character had been passed, and he was afterward granted a supernumerary relation, left without an appointment, and a committee appointed to formulate charges against him. The trial will take place before the Presiding Elder of the Chicago District, Dr. W. C. Welling. Since Conference a new independent church has been formed in Chicago. He has accepted the pastorate, and will preach in one of the theatres.

Dr. Thomas is a genial gentleman of broad sympathies, a clear, but not original, thinker, and a fine talker before an audience. He magnifies the doubt of his own mind and seeks to make the masses think he is leading in some tremendous battle against bigotry as opposed to liberal Christian thought. He is a follower of Bushnell and Channing. His professed liberality ought to have led him to quietly withdraw from the church when asked to. If so anxious for liberality in thought, why not go where he will be untrammelled. We trust the trial will be hastened. It is a test case upon which the whole church will look with interest.

Week of Prayer for Young Men.

The Young Men's Christian Associations meet in International Convention on both sides of the Atlantic, in Europe triennially, and biennially in America. The last two conventions—one at Geneva and the other at Baltimore, united in setting apart the second Sabbath in November with the week following (Nov. 14-20) as a season of special prayer for young men and Christian work on their behalf.

The International Committee have recently issued a call containing the following topics for meetings each day of the week.

Nov. 14, Sunday morning—Workers Together with Him—their Spirit.—II Cor. vi: 1-10.

Nov. 14, Sunday afternoon—Bringing one's Friends to Jesus.—Luke v: 17-26.

Nov. 14, Sunday evening—The Worst Foe and the Best Friend of Young Men.—Luke xxii: 31-32; I Peter v: 8; Luke xix: 10.

Nov. 15, Monday—In what does Life Consist?—Luke xii: 15-23; Eccl. ii: 17-18; Rom. viii: 6.

Nov. 16, Tuesday—Investigation a Path to Faith.—John i: 46; John v: 28-30, 40-42; John v: 39.

Nov. 17, Wednesday—Jesus Testing the Impulsive, the Procrastinating and the Undecided.—Luke ix: 57-62.

Nov. 18, Thursday—A Young Man who obeyed the Voice of Christ.—Luke vii: 11-16; Eph. v: 14.

Nov. 19, Friday—Crisis in Daniel's Life.—Dan. i: 8-20.

Nov. 20, Saturday—An Unconditional Surrender.—Acts ix: 1-9; Phil. iii: 7-9.

The outlook over the field of Association work is very encouraging. [illegible] working organizations have been planted the past year in [illegible] colleges, making in all one [illegible] institutions where these [illegible]. Southern Conferences.

We have received from Bishop Harris the Plan of Episcopal Visitation for the Spring Conferences.

Of the Fall Conferences several have yet to meet. Bishop E. O. Haven presiding at all the Texas Conferences as follows: Austin, at Dallas, November 18; Southern German, at Brenham, November 25; West Texas, at Austin, December 1; Texas, at Houston, December 8.

Bishop Foster presides at the Alabama Conferences as follows: Alabama, at Hanceville, December 2; Central Alabama, at Montgomery, December 9. The same Bishop meets the Georgia Conference at Martin's Chapel, November 11.

Bishop Foster also presides at Tennessee Conferences as follows: Tennessee, at McMinnville, November 18; Central Tennessee, at Huntington, November 25.

The Spring Conferences of the South are as follows: Bishop Foss presides at the Louisiana Conference, at Shreveport, January 26; at the Mississippi, at Canton, January 12; at the Little Rock, at Hot Springs, February 3; and at the Arkansas, at Little Rock, February 10.

Bishop Warren presides at the Florida Conferences, at Jacksonville, January 5, and at the South Carolina Conference, at Florence, January 12.

Bishop Hurst presides at the Missouri Conferences.

Happy Kansas.

The whole Christian world will rejoice with Kansas in its great triumph over the rum power. At the late election a constitutional amendment was adopted by twenty thousand majority, absolutely prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks in the State. This young and vigorous commonwealth thus leads the nation in the war against intemperance. Governor St. John is re-elected by an immense majority. It was feared by some of his friends that his pronounced temperance policy would cause his defeat. It was also said by many, especially in the South, that he had made himself unpopular in his State by his hearty welcome, given to the thousands of freedmen who, during the past two years, have flocked to Kansas. All good people will rejoice that in Kansas a Governor can be the leader of the temperence reform, and do the work of an active Christian philanthropist toward the despised freedman, and still by an overwhelming popular vote be retained in his high office.

The Great Jackson Route.

A recent trip over this road from New Orleans to Cairo served only to confirm all said in favor of its energetic business manager, General Manager Clark, and General Passenger Agent Carey, unite rare qualities for their respective positions. No pains or expense are spared to make passengers comfortable and to make quick time. Passengers leaving New Orleans at 4:30 p. m. arrive in Chicago, St. Louis or Cincinnati early the second morning without change of cars. The earnings of the road show a steady increase. This road studies the business interests of this section and thus makes friends and business for itself.

We learn from the New Orleans Democrat that Rev. Dr. Bristor, pastor of Ames Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, was married to Miss Mary E. Tasker in Philadelphia on Nov. 2. The Democrat acknowledges the receipt of cards. We add our congratulations.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. J. E. Gilbert has been transferred from Kansas to Wisconsin, and stationed at Summerfield M. E. Church, Milwaukee.

—Captain James B. Eads is going to Central America to make a survey of the isthmus of Tehuantepec, for his inter-oceanic ship railway.

—Rev. J. A. Ivy, of the Methodist Church South, has very acceptably filled the pulpit of the Ames Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, during the four months' absence of Dr. Bristor, the pastor.

—General Grant will spend the winter in New York City, and will worship in Dr. J. P. Newman's church. His son, Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., was lately married to Miss Jennie J. Chaffee. Dr. Newman performed the ceremony.

—Archbishop Secker one day said to Wesley, "Could you a hundred years hence look out of your [illegible], you would see abundant [illegible] to regret your present [illegible]." Wesley's answer was, "[illegible] the world before I [illegible] will take care of [illegible] [illegible] bishop's remonstrance, and could Wesley now look from his grave and see what impetus he gave to the zeal of the Christian world, he would far likelier sing, as he once delighted to sing amidst derision and flying stones, "I rejoice that I ever was born."—The Covenant.

—We regret to learn that Prof. J. S. Bean, formerly President of the New Orleans University, is now lying a helpless sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, in the Boston Homeopathic Hospital. Zion's Herald speaks sympathetically of his condition, and without any suggestion from Prof. Bean, asks any friends who may desire to help in his support, to send contributions to its editor, Rev. Dr. Pierce. The brother is in want financially. When a boy his knee was injured, and for eight years he went on crutches. His limb has always troubled him since, and made him liable to rheumatic troubles.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

T. A. Cotton, Louisville: "My protracted meetings have all closed with the result of 36 members, 3 from the Baptists and 2 from the Presbyterians; Baptized 17. Sunday-school dull. The work is in good condition."

Simon Thomas, Rolling Fork: "Elder Williams stationed me at Meyersville. I found the church shut up for debt, which was quite a hindrance. A young man opened public school in the church for three months, and left the doors open. In the midst of a great revival the doors were closed again, but we added eight to our membership. At the suggestion of the presiding elder we made application to the Church Extension Society for aid, and the owner opened the doors for three months, expecting to receive his money at the end of that time, but as none came the building is to be closed again. We are in distress, and we desire to know whether we are to receive any money. When I commenced my mission I found four places of worship and two churches. The distance of the circuit in going our round trip is fifty-two miles, being in Issaquena and Sharkey counties. It is quite difficult to go from Rolling Fork to Meyersville on account of the water. I have to ride through the water sometimes six miles and a great many times land cannot be seen for two miles. At one of the places of worship where there was nothing but a shed I have completed one of the finest churches on the mission, a finer church than the one at Meyersville. The spirit of the Lord has been with me and am I glad to say that I have baptized and added twenty two to the churches. Brethren, pray for me that I may be successful in the work."

TEXAS.

W. H. Jackson, San Felipe: "The fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 2-3, Elder F. C. Moore failing to arrive, Rev. Lewis Lane presided. Pastors reported 57 converts, 48 probationers, 26 children and 22 adults baptized; three Sunday schools with 172 pupils; received for support this year $159,65. W. H. Jackson was elected deledate to the annual conference at Houston. Rev. Lane preached a noble sermon."

E. J. Dickens, Fairfield: "After five months hard studying at Wiley University, I returned home and found a great deal of work to do. A church house was much needed, and after a week's hard labor I gave a festival for the church and raised $34.40. Sister Titus was very efficient in this work. Mr. Ward gave me $4.50, and says he wants us to have a house for the Lord. I am a local preacher and Sunday-school superintendent, and will return as soon as possible to Wiley University."

LOUISIANA.

Rev. Stephen Priestley, First Street Church, New Orleans: "This quarter we have received into full membership 43, and there is a glorious time of rejoicing among the congregation; 250 communed Sunday night, Nov. 7th; the presiding elder was with us and his presence made things pleasant to all."

Thomas Kennedy, Algiers: "The third quarterly conference was held Oct. 12. Received this quarter, on probation 1, by recommendation 1, in full connection 8; baptized 12 children; 150 attended love feast; Sunday-school is flourishing; paid pastor during the quarter $44.30."

B. J. H. Forrest, Simpson Chapel, New Orleans: "Rev. H. Green, pastor, held our love feast on Monday night, Nov. 1st, and we had a glorious time. Several ministers were present and the church was awakened. Many testified to their love and desire for Heaven."

TENNESSEE.

L. Lillard, Nashville: "God has blessed this circuit this year with 75 converts, and 15 additions. The presiding elder labored one week [illegible] us. We need more earnest [illegible] in the vineyard."

The present incumbents of New Orleans municipal officers are not disposed to give up to the elect of Nov. 2 without a legal contest. The veto of the city charter bill by Gov. Wiltz, left the old law under the constitution of 1868 in force as unrepealed by legislative action, they contend, and it gives them a clear tenure to 1883. The matter will soon be submitted to the courts.

Garibaldi has left his Caprera island home and gone to Genoa, where he was received with great popular demonstrations. His son-in-law, Canzio, was in prison there for a revolutionary undertaking; and, with much good reason, Garibaldi is angry with the Italian government. He makes a singularly sober indictment, containing a strong accusation against the financial policy of the nation. It has always been bad. The Swiss, Garibaldi says, "get good government for a franc (20 cents) to each inhabitant, while bad government costs the Italians fifty francs each." He wants universal suffrage and reform. He may shock the nation into an honest effort to remove abuses.

A horrible tragedy occurred near Batesville, Ohio. Frank M. Biedenbaugh, a wealthy young German, who, three years ago, married the daughter of a neighboring farmer, came home late Saturday night intoxicated, and entering the room where his wife and child were sleeping assaulted them with an axe. His wife's skull was crushed by a single blow and then he cut his son's throat with the edge of the axe. He then went to the room where Mrs. Stephens, a visitor, and her child and servant were sleeping, and killed Mrs. Stepens and her child. The servant girl was awakened and sprang towards the door, but was knocked senseless and left for dead. Upon recovering consciousness she gave the alarm and the neighbors came to the house. It was not till morning that the murderer was found in the tobacco-house with his throat cut. He is not fatally injured. Jealousy, drunkenness, and insanity are supposed to have led to the commission of the horrible crime.

Letter from Shubuta.

Shubuta, Miss., Oct. 18, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—Yesterday was a grand day with the members and friends of our church. Presiding elder J. W. Dunn was with us and and preached two sermons. The collection for him was $20, and for pastor $2. The collections at Pleasant Grove to date; for lumber $48.60; for presiding elder $20; for a bell $50; for a Bible cushion $2.50. This speaks well for the little church that raised $2.80 on my first visit. The change has increased its membership by 43. The good work is still going on. If the preachers will stir up congregations to build comfortable houses of worship and parsonages, the people will give us much better salaries than we have been receiving in the past. We can make our circuit stronger as well as our standing in the conference; I have never known it to fail, where there was a good frame building in the country but what the people would give about as much as they do in the towns. If the preacher brings the cause of improvement before them the people will not refuse to take hold of it and labor for it.

Murfreesboro District Conference.

DEAR EDITOR—The 5th session of the Murfreesboro district of the Tennessee Conference of the M. E. Church convened in Stone River Chapel. Rev. B. B. Manson presiding. The introductory sermon was preached by the writer at 7 p. m., Oct. 27. On the 28th, at 9 o'clock, a. m., 10 of the pastors, 15 local preachers, 12 exhorters, 3 superintendents of Sunday-school, 4 class leaders, and 5 district stewards were present at roll call. One death among the local preachers. The session was pleasant and some of the pastors reports were very encouraging, on revivals and additions to the church. Four or five new churches built this year on the district. One of the best is now being built in Murfreesboro by Rev. H. W. Key. This house when finished will be one of the best houses in the South built since the war by the colored people of our church. One was licensed to preach, two were recommended to the annual conference for the traveling connection. Not one was suspended or expelled this year. The class meeting reported not as good as they ought to be. There has never been a more encouraging prospect before the Murfreesboro district than there is at present. One of our pastors has been asked to come to Woodbury and organize a church there, and other places are asking for help.

There seems to be a thirst for education among the members of this conference. The local preachers were strictly examined in the books of the 4 years course of study and their characters passed.

A Concert.

The Americus Debating Club, of Handsboro, gave a grand concert at Arcade Hall, October 29th, which was a perfect success. It was largely attended by the white people of Handsboro and vicinity. They expressed themselves very much pleased with the singing and other exercises. Many of the colored people were kept away by the fear of church displeasure, having been ignorantly informed that it was a sin to attend a concert. The following named persons took part in the exercises: Miss Lou Hand, Miss Martha White, Miss Cora Hart, Miss Mary Hart, Miss Jane Evans, Miss Izella Dale, Miss Ella Burr, Miss Ellenora Dale, Mr. Albert Hart, Mr. C. W. Dale, Mr. W. B. Locker, Mr. Henry Hart, Mr. D. C. Dale and Mr. A. Jackson.

NOV. 14, 1880.—JOSEPH, THE WISE RULER. SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 41: 41-57.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings."—Pr. 22: 29.

TOPIC.—The Lord's Servant Exalted. (Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Two years more of prison life with its fretting monotony and its vain longings for liberty. He was at that age now when his matured powers chafed at such confinement. He no doubt longed to be where he could accomplish something. But, we have no doubt, that in his case these longings were kept from inciting rebellion by his resignation to God's will. God's time may seem long in coming, but when it does come, then events move rapidly enough. Two years after the restoration of the chief butler, Joseph is wanted, and urgently wanted. Pharaoh then is troubled with a dream. It is a doubled dream, and, therefore, certainly of great significance. The king consults all the astrologers and wise men of his court, but can find no one that can give him the meaning of what he saw. Then the chief butler "remembers his faults." He recalls that time in the prison when he was troubled on account of a dream, and how it was that the sympathizing young Hebrew jailer told him its interpretation, and how that interpretation came to pass just as predicted. Pharaoh listens to the penitent story of the chief Butler, and then in great haste sends for this Hebrew interpreter of dreams. When Pharaoh said that he had heard that he could interpret dreams, Joseph did not grasp at the distinction that an affirmative answer would have given him in the eyes of Pharaoh, but modestly stated the facts. And his interpretation of them is unhesitating and commanding in belief. The seven fat kine eaten up by the seven lean kine, and the seven full and good ears devoured by the seven withered, thin, and blasted ears, are seven years of plenty swallowed up by seven years of famine. The king could not help but have faith in the accuracy of this interpretation. He declared Joseph to be "a man in whom the Spirit of God is," so that Joseph's desire to honor God met with immediate result. Joseph did not stop with merely interpreting the dreams of the king. He foresaw the consequences of those seven years of famine unless they were anticipated. His goodness of heart led him to desire that such suffering as he saw was in store should be prevented. Hence he was led to recommend to the king to look out a wise and discreet man, and set him over the whole land of Egypt, with power to appoint subordinate officers, and to gather up the fifth of the produce during the seven plenteous years as a provision against the famine to come. Did he do this thinking that the king would appoint himself? The thought is absurd; for it would have been the height of folly for a slave and an inmate of a prison to have hoped for such an exaltation. Pharaoh appears to have been struck as much by the good sense of the recommendation that he declared without the least hesitation: "Forasmuch as [illegible] hath showed thee all this, [illegible] none so discreet and wise as [illegible] art." In declaring Joseph to be [illegible] ruler on this account, Pharaoh, in a measure, at least, accepted Joseph's God as his sovereign.

What a contrast there was in Joseph's condition between the morning and the evening of that day! In the morning, a prison—in the evening, a palace. In the morning, fetters—in the evening, a circlet of gold upon his hand that was the symbol of unlimited authority. In the morning, chains of iron was the insignia of his office—in the evening, a gold chain about his neck. In the morning, none so lowly as to do him reverence—before the sun was setting, made to ride in the second chariot with heralds before him crying, "Bow the knee!"

The king, it will be seen, exceeded Joseph's recommendation. Joseph only advised that a man should be chosen for the special purpose of securing an insuring supply of food, and with authority merely sufficient for his mission. But Pharaoh made him his grand vizier. He gave authority over all his house, made him ruler over all the people in the land, allowed him in all things to do as he pleased, only retaining his supremacy in the throne. Joseph was made a ruler, instead of a mere grain commissioner.

There were two things that Pharaoh did to give his new favorite an assured position. He gave him a name that was an allusion to the service which he was to render to the whole land, and gave him to wife Asenath. She was the daughter of Poti-pherah, the priest of On. The priestly caste, to which the king belonged, was the highest in Egypt. To belong to that was to belong to the highest rank in the land, and to have the recognition that was necessary to his station. In his marriage Joseph transgressed no known law. There is no hint that in any way he ever recognized the worship of the sun, and the presumption strongly is that his wife, sooner or later, was won over to the worship of the God whom he adored.

There were to be seven years "of great plenty." But the abundance was something very extraordinary. He went through the land and established places of deposit for the grain. He made each city a place for the storing of grain, looking, not only to the present economy and convenience of so doing, but forward to its value as a place of distribution. The government became a persistent purchaser of grain. Its conical granaries were to be seen in large groups in every city. The people saw them—and knew of their purpose.

In the midst of his labors for others a blessing came to himself. Children were born unto him. The name of the first born was Manasseh. That means, "he who makes forget." "For God," said he, "hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house." Does that mean he had turned his back upon his father, who had loved him only too well? By no means. But it does signify that his hurt had been healed, and that, in the delights of his new home, he had forgotten the afflictions that he had suffered at the hands of those in the old, and that they had lulled his longings to return. The name was an indication that he had ceased to cherish any resentment against the brothers who had treated him with with such unpitying cruelty. But why did he not send a message to his father? Various reasons suggest themselves as being probable. First—He did not know the state of affairs at home. Second—He did not desire as yet to expose his brothers' treachery. Third—He saw that the time of his fulfillment of his dreams was at hand.

In spite of all their warnings, the Egyptians were not prepared for this lengthened period of scarcity. Had it not been for Joseph, they would have perished from starvation.

Joseph opened all the storehouses. He did not give the grain away, but sold it to the people, caring, of course, for those who were unable to pay for anything. He took all their money. When they no longer had any cattle, Joseph took their lands. Thus the king came into possession of all the money in the country, and became the owner of all the cattle and all the land, the people being merely his tenants. They still kept the possession of their cattle and of their lands. The control of them was as much as ever in the hands of the former owners. All the difference was that, after the famine, all the lands were regarded as belonging to the king, and as evidence of such right, one-fifth of the produce was given to the government. The taxes, henceforth, were reduced to a regular proportion, instead of being levied according to whim, as probably they were before. Joseph took advantage of events, not to make the people worse off, but to better their condition. The government was stronger, the king had more [illegible] but the people had less to [illegible] of. Both had reason to [illegible] late themselves that a [illegible] had come in their [illegible]

... part of the Centenary ... I enjoyed more than any other. The memories of it are refreshing; the old cathedral; the monument to the memory of Bishop Hooper; the base of the stake at which he was burnt, the old home of Raikes; the tomb of himself and family; the house in which his first school was started; the season of fervent prayer in that little upper room where Mary King gave the first Sunday-school lesson to her rude little pupils; the discussions at the convention; the glorious singing at the children's meetings; the goodly fellowship at the house of that grand old temperance apostle—Samuel Bowley, Esq.—these are all "written down in the book of memory," and shall not be erased.

Cure for Catarrh.

The following is a simple and immediate cure for Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc. The remedy is a new compound, entirely different from all other preparations or medicines used for Catarrh or Lung Diseases. It is the discovery of Dr. Hartshorn (an eminent physician), called Dr. Hartshorn's Swamp Weed Compound. You smoke the remedy in a pipe, which converts it into a dense smoke or vapor. This you inhale, emitting the smoke through the nose. After a few trials this will be easy to do. If the nose is stopped up so that it is almost impossible to breathe, one pipeful will make the head as clear as a bell. Sufferers from that horrible disease, Ulcerated Catarrh, will find relief and comfort from the first day's use, and a permanent cure in due course of time. The number of remarkable cures effected by this new remedy is simply wonderful, and where once introduced and known it has a larger sale and takes the lead of all other Catarrh and Lung medicines. It penetrates to the very seat of the disease and breaks it up at its fountain head. It is the best remedy in the world for Asthma and Bronchitis.

Swallowing the vapor or smoke gives instantaneous relief, enabling the patient to lie down and enjoy refreshing sleep. The principal ingredient in this medicine is one of our common weeds (found growing in wet or swampy ground), and when combined with Cubebs, Extract of Pine Tar, &c., forms the best Catarrh and Lung treatment ever devised. It is a sure antidote for Cough, Sore Throat and Offensive Breath. It will make the foulest breath pure and sweet. All fatal epidemics are absorbed and propagated in the system by inhalation. So potent for evil, it is now made most powerful for good. Thus, in accordance with reason and common sense, does this remedy, by inhalation, come in direct contact with disease, and by absorption into the system, cleanses the blood.

To Consumptives.

Quit dosing the stomach with cod-liver oil, sickening syrups, and balsams. Eat more beefsteak and nourishing food. Take some simple medicine to aid digestion and to keep the bowels regular. Smoke the Swamp Weed Compound once or twice daily and exercise in the open air in good weather. Try the above prescription, and you will bless that day you read our advertisement. The medicine is pleasant and perfectly harmless, and there is no use going to high-priced "Catarrh and Lung doctors" while you can procure this remedy. Price by mail, post-paid, $1 per box. Six boxes $5. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL Co., Petrolia City, Butler co., Pa. 6m eow

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containing about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely: Record of Pastors. Record of Classes. Record of Official Members. Alphabetical Record of Full Members. Record of Probationers. Record of Baptisms. Record of Marriages. We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

YOUNG MEN ...

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TENNESSEE.

L. M. Moores, Cypress: "When I came on this work there was some discord; now there is peace. It prospered last year and is doing better this year. We have paid our elder, built three new churches and have had 100 conversions. The people say our church sends out the best men. I hope to bring a good report though the cotton drop is failing. Dr. Braden sent us $75, and it greatly encouraged the trustees. It takes men, money and time to bring up the West Tennessee work."

TEXAS.

T. Jackson, Whitman: "Baptized 4 on Sunday, 25th. I am about to purchase another new place to build a church, about 10 miles from Chapel Hill. My work is in a prosperous condition."

Henry Smith, Paris: "I am getting along finely on my work, have captured one of the Baptist churches, and all the members but one. I have fixed for a protracted meeting to take place on the fourth Sunday."

John L. Smith, Plantersville: "We had a good time at our fourth quarterly conference. Elder F. O. Moore was with us, and administered the Lord's supper to 111; 30 were received in full membership, and 1 on probation. We raised for the elder $17. We are trying to get church property in two places."

MISSISSIPPI.

S. Debey, Garlandsville: "We have had a great spiritual time this year; 49 souls converted, 50 on probation, 32 baptized. Have a Sunday school of 172. We are building a nice church at Mt. Olive. The work is in a lively condition."

L. J. Terrel, Aberdeen: "On the 17th, at Saddles' school house, I baptized 3; at King Chapel in the afternoon, I baptized 7. I have been appointed to Aberdeen. I have received in full this year 40. We ask the prayers of the brethren at large."

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

IS A REALLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR WASTING AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

After numerous experiments Mr. Fellows succeeded in producing this combination of Hypophosphites, which has not only restored him to health, but has since been found so successful in the treatment of diseases emanating from the loss of nerve power, and consequent muscular relaxation, viz:

Anæmia,	Neuralgia,
Chronic Diarrhœa,	Nervous Debility,
Dyspepsia,	Whooping Cough,
Congestion of the Lungs,	Fever and Ague,
Palpitation of the Heart,	Leucorrhœa,
Malaria,	Melancholy,
	Mental Depression,
	Nervousness.

MALARIA.

Persons living in the Malarious districts may protect themselves from attacks of fever by the use of Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. Its effects in toning up the system enables us to ward off contagious disorders, and successfully combat disease.

The soluble phosphites and the other life sustaining principles composing Fellows' Hypophosphites are so carefully proportioned and so judiciously mingled, that their action upon the nerves, muscles and membranes in imparting vitality, strength and healthy action is generally apparent within twenty-four hours, and the good effects experienced are of a permanent character. 45 6t

KIDNEY-WORT

The Only Remedy

THAT ACTS AT THE SAME TIME ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, and the KIDNEYS.

This combined action gives it wonderful power to cure all diseases.

Why Are We Sick?

Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT WILL CURE

BILIOUSNESS, PILES, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, URINARY DISEASES, FEMALE WEAKNESSES, AND NERVOUS DISORDERS,

by causing free action of these organs and restoring their power to throw off disease.

Why Suffer Bilious pains and aches? Why be tormented with Piles, Constipation? Why frightened over disordered Kidneys? Why endure nervous or sick headaches? Why have sleepless nights?

Use KIDNEY-WORT and rejoice in health. It is a dry, vegetable compound and One package will make six quts of Medicine. Get it of your Druggist, he will order it for you. Price, $1.00.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to find my son, Bob Griffith, whom I left at Liberty, Texas, in the year 1837, with John Base. From there he was carried to Kemper Co., Miss. Please address me at Beanmont, Texas. SALLEY BURRAL, formerly Salley Griffett.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for a lost brother, Eddie Dyzart, nick named Toble Dyzart. He was born in St. Joseph, Mo., was taken to White Cloud, Mo., then to St. Louis, then to Oxford, Miss., and from there to Mobile, Ala. Since then I have not heard from him. Our mother's name was America Dyzart. Please address me at Ludlow, Scott Co., Miss. My name was William Dyzart, but is now WILLIAM WARE.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my people. Mother's name is Vinnie Birkhater. Green Sunkins was my father. Oldest sister was Harriet Birkhater. Brother Hartford is dead. My aunt was Mary Hill and her husband Simon Hill. Dennis Hill was my owner and he sold me to a speculator named Wm. Henderson, who sold me in Mobile to another speculator. I came from Roane, Florida. Please address me at Liberty, Amite Co., Miss., in care of J. A. Duncan. My name was Liddy Powell but now is LIDDY HILL.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my mother, Susan Stewart. She belonged to Robert Berry, lived in Maryland and moved to Georgetown, D. C. Father's name was Richard. I was brought from Baltimore to New Orleans by a trader named Wilson, and sold in 1856. I left mother in the trader's yard. Sister Mary Elizabeth and brother Charley, who was a baby, I left there. My mother had five children when I left. Address me at Yazoo City, Miss., care of Barksdale & Smith. JACOB STEWART.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my sisters and brothers. I had seven brothers and four sisters. Oldest brother was Lewis Norris, then came Elias, Prince, Henry, Sam, Jerry and Warren. Oldest sister was Rhody, then Jane, Priscilla, Malinda and Charity. All went by the name of Norris, and were raised by Col. Joseph Taylor. My mother's name was Silvey Norris and belonged to Col. Joseph Taylor. Father's name was Prince Norris. He belonged to Mr. Johnny Norris and was his blacksmith. I left my brother Sam in Mobile, Ala., with Dr. William Taylor, and I left brother Henry in Montgomery, Ala., when he belonged to William Power. I was then with a speculator on my way to New Orleans from South Carolina. We lived near a little village named Anderderson Court-house, five miles from the place where we were raised. I am now living in Algiers, La., and am married. JANE MAGRUDER.

Get out doors!

The close confinement of all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, the purest and best remedy, especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. They cost but a trifle. See another column.

A Curious Fact.

Bands of music are forbiddon to play on most of the large bridges in the world. A constant succession of sound waves, especially such as come from the playing of a band, will excite the wires to vibration. At first the vibrations are very slight, but they will increase as the sound waves continue to come. The principal reason why bands are not allowed to play when crossing certain bridges, the suspension bridge at Niagara for instance, is that if followed by processions of any kind they will keep step with the music, and this regular step would cause the wires to vibrate. At suspension bridges military companies are not allowed to march across in regular step, but break ranks. The regular trotting gait of a large dog across a suspension bridge is more dangerous to the bridge than a heavily loaded wagon drawn by a team of large horses.

A Physician's Testimony.

I hereby certify that I have been a practicing physician for twenty-seven years, and for many chronic cases in my practice do recommend Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. It was upon my advice that G. W. Stamm, editor of the Industrial Era, Albia, Iowa, obtained this invaluable remedy.

ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, Pat'd Oct. 3, '71.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY PERFECT SELF-OPERATING WASHER IN THE WORLD.

No rubbing required. No more yellow clothes nor hard work on washing day. It will wash anything from a lace curtain to a horse blanket, and cannot get out of order.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.

WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT?

You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap.

The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points.

Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing.

It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order, and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth.

A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER

embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS:

We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it, consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn.

As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted throats of which prevent its flowing backward, it becomes hotter and hotter, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT. SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.

THE IMPROVED WASHER

has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.

THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER.

There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc.

The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order.

The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1¼ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a bollerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water.

For LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury.

No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat-bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon.

For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

WE SEND SINGLE OR SAMPLE No. 1 WASHERS, PREPAID, TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY EXPRESS OFFICE, in any part of the United States east of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, also in Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, for $.50.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well-known leading journals, viz.: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer.

From the Boston Youths' Companion:

"This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever know. We speak from experience when we say this. It is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeepers knows that ordinary modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."

From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880.—"Lately we had special reasons for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this belief was due merely to immemmorial usage, and had no real foundation in act; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher.

From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the ROBBINS WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what it is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."

From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O.:

A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a ROBBINS we need one girl attends to the washing, cooks dinner at the same time, and has all the washing hung out to dry, and tubs and [illegible] and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and also get them to understand that we write this [illegible] entirely for their benefit, and not [illegible] solicitation of the manufacturers, nor [illegible] their knowledge or consent, but we do this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proven to be an article that does all that the [illegible] claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many times the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving of soap will in a short time pay for the machine.

We advise our readers to send for a [illegible] at once.

pace. But it is nevertheless true that every action that is truly virtuous is founded on knowledge, and is the result of scrutiny and choice, directed by truth; otherwise, what is termed virtue, would be only the effect of necessity, of constraint, or of mechanical habits.

We need not, therefore, fear that the dominion of virtue will be contracted, or her influence diminished, by an enlargement of the kingdom of light and knowledge. And, therefore, every one that sincerely loves mankind, will diffuse light around him as extensively as he can, without the least fear of its ultimate consequences, since he knows for certain that in all cases whatever, wisdom excels folly, and light is better than darkness. We may elucidate these facts by taking a survey of the moral state of the world, as delineated in the history of nations, or as depicted by modern travellers and voyagers. Let us turn our eyes to Hindostan, Tartary and the islands of the South Pacific, prior to their late moral transformation, in order to be convinced of these melancholy truths. The destruction of new-born infants, the burning of women upon the dead bodies of their husbands, the drowning of aged parents, the offering of human victims in sacrifice, the torturing to death of prisoners taken in battle. These are only a few specimens of the consequences of ignorance combined with human depravity. These evils were not confined to any people or nationality, for St. Paul adds: "The Gentiles having darkened their understanding, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all manner of uncleanness with greediness." larger school building; to secure this is the immediate aim of the trustees of the School. Some progress has already been made toward raising the necessary means to accomplish this work, but there is a great lack of energy and purpose on the part of many whose highest interests are most intimately connected with the success of this school, and who should, consequently, be thoroughly awake and full of zeal in all matters that pertain to its growth and prosperity.

Sixteen thousand dollars are needed at once to erect and furnish the building now in prospect, and if every member of the M. E. Church in Mississippi would take hold of the work as he should, every dollar of this amount could be raised during the next three months. An average of fifty cents per member given in all our charges, with the amounts that would cheerfully be given by those not members but friendly to us and our work, would more than reach this result. This average could be obtained without causing suffering or even inconvenience to any one, and we believe it would be realized if every minister and official brother would do his duty.

The Freedmen's Aid Society, through its secretary, Dr. R. S. Rust, stands ready to assist us whenever we have shown by our works that we are worthy of aid. Indeed, it is constantly helping us by keeping open the doors of the University, and providing instructors for those who come to its halls. The average annual expenditure for teachers and repairs of buildings is not less than three thousand dollars, only a small part of which is raised by those for whose immediate benefit the school is kept in progress.

But in addition to this the Freedmen's Aid Society will aid largely, at least one-half, in the erection of another building and will begin the work at the very moment it sees that the Mississippi Conference is sure to do its part.

If all our people would do as a few have done and are still doing, we would not long be in doubt as to the result. But if, with the opportunities now afforded us, we fail to push forward this work, it will be a lasting reproach to this conference and people. Will we take the talents given and bury them in the earth and be condemned by God and men, or will we improve them and enjoy the blessings of heaven and the gratitude of future generations?

Dear brethren of the Mississippi Conference, allow me to urge this matter upon you. We must act and act now, or guilt and shame will lie at our door. Let this matter be the constant burden of every mind and heart from now until the next session of our conference, and then the true friends of our Lord and Master will have whereof to rejoice. Do not wait one for another, each has a duty to perform independent of every other brother, and it is by individual effort that success in any undertaking is achieved.

All moneys raised may be sent by express, bank draft, or post-office order, to Dr. R. S. Rust, 190 West 4th St., Cincinnati, Ohio; or, to myself at this place—in which cases they will be acknowledged through the SOUTHWESTERN ADVOCATE—or they may be brought to Canton when conference convenes.

Now, men and brethren, let there be no delay. Let the collections be pushed vigorously and constantly throughout the entire State, and let us prove ourselves worthy of the calling wherewith we have been called.

Very fraternally,

W. W. HOOPER.

Mason and Brownsville Circuit.

DEAR EDITOR—Allow me space in your valuable paper to give a gist of my labors on Mason and Brownsville circuit these three years past. I have closed my labors as follows.

Atoka, 21 miles north of Memphis, 9 miles south of Covington on the Padukah railroad, is a growing little town. When I entered this circuit this point had no place of comfort for divine worship, and owed on church lot $75 and had 8 members; now it has 54 members, a good Sabbath-school of 145 scholars, and a fair church and is clear of debt—properly deeded to our church form.

The next point is 9 miles southeast of Atoka; this point is Lindola, a new place. It had only three members, and at my first appointment no Sabbath-school; now we have 49 members, 104 Sunday-school scholars and we have bought two acres of land, deeded to our church, and are prepared to build a new church. This place bids fair for our cause in the future. It has a well which has proven to be the healthiest water in our country; has cured several cases of diseases and we have a growing congregation at this point.

The next point is due north-east 5½ miles, known as Pleasant Grove Camp Ground. We have a fair church and 142 members, 214 Sabbath-school scholars; clear out of debt.

The next point is Mason Depot, 9 miles direct East. We have here 132 members, 209 Sunday-school scholars, and a fine day school which has proven a great success to the educational cause of our people, taught under the leadership of the Rev. C. E. Alexander for the last three years. It has turned out several teachers doing good work for our cause. This is a growing place and it will be one of the fairest places for the future progress of our people. At my first appointment I found this church $400 in debt, no title deed, and much embarrassed. But now we have a title deed and the trustees are working hard to pay the debt. We have paid this year $78 25, balance due on note $2002 45.

The next point is at Brownsville, 21 miles due east of Mason on the railroad. This point is weak; 18 members, and a small Sunday-school; due the Church Extension Society $700 with interest for five years.

The last point is 5 miles east in the country, Haywood Co.; 44 members; Sunday-school 85 scholars, and a church deeded out of debt.

God's divine love yet continues on this circuit. I am closing my labors with a revival spirit, and entire satisfaction. I have had this year 73 converts. Our camp meeting was a good success; our beloved elder was with us and tendered great service, and Rev. W. Dwegans, of the Memphis circuit, was with me and preached with great acceptability. Our 4th quarter was a grand occasion, 108 members paid 25 cents each. We paid up our assessment to the presiding elder, Missions, $13 90; Freedmen's Aid, $7; Education, $1 05; baptized—adults, 22; children, 34; received into full connection this year, 63; and converts in the three years, 238. The Lord has blessed me with better health this year than usual.

Examinations of Local Preachers.

The Bishops having received several communications relating to the Course of Study for local preachers, and the examinations required thereon, have adopted the following minute, and ordered its publication as follows, namely:

Inasmuch as the Bishops have been informed that a difference of judgment and administration has existed in reference to the renewing of the license of local preachers, and the relation which the examinations on the Course of Study bear to such renewal; and inasmuch as complaints have been made of great inconvenience and even hardship in many cases resulting therefrom; and inasmuch as four years have elapsed since the General Conference first authorized a Course of Study for local preachers, thus affording a presumption that local preachers licensed previously to [illegible] of said Course of Study have already accomplished [illegible] recommended, namely:

1. That the new Course of Study for local preachers, published in the Discipline of 1880, be applied only, 1. To local preachers licensed since the publication of said new Course of Study; and 2. To such other local preachers licensed since 1876 as may not yet have completed the prescribed four-years' Course of Study.

2. That in case of the necessary absence of the candidate from the meeting of the District or Quarterly Conference, a report of the examination on the Course of Study conducted by the presiding elder and pastor may be accepted instead of the report of the regular Committee of Examination.

3. That, in analogy with the method pursued in Annual Conferences, when a local preacher, who has not been examined, is unavoidably absent from the District or Quarterly Conference, his license may be renewed, conditioned on examination at as early a period thereafter as practicable.

4. That local preachers who have passed an examination on one or more years of the previously prescribed Course of Study be required to be examined hereafter only on the remaining years of the present Course.

By order and on behalf of the Board of Bishops,

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, Secretary.

Nebraska.

Bishop Warren in Zion's Herald says of this State:

"Nebraska is two hundred by four hundred miles in extent, and contains 48,000,000 acres. On the east flows the Missouri river; irregularly through its whole length flows the Platte, receiving all its tributaries on the north side. The State has a slightly undulating surface, and has so rich a soil that after crops have been removed for thirty years from some places, it shows no sign of needing fertilization, nor will it show such need till the whole one hundred and fifty feet of soil has been turned into wheat or other crops. The soil most nearly resembles that of the Nile valley in Egypt. It is perfectly prodigal in the production of fruit. The State has twice been awarded the highest premium of the U. S. Pomological Society, and thereby been debarred from competing again. One apple has been grown that weighed 29 1 2 ounces, and one man raised in a year 14,000 bushels of peaches.

"Nebraska first began to be talked about in 1853 in connection with Kansas and the virtual repeal of the Missouri Compromise. It was admitted into the Union in 1867. All the early inhabitants came into the State in the so called prairie schooners—a covered wagon containing all the family and their earthly effects. Finding land to suit, they first erected a house of sods with places out for a door and window. This makes an excellent house. It can be hung with the tapestry of figured muslin and whitewashed on the outside for a very trifling cost. Even churches are built in that way, and God is as pleased to be worshipped in these lowly caves in the earth as in most gorgeous temples. In dens and caves of the earth have men largely lived whose names make up the roll-call of the heroes of whom this world was not worthy.

"One of our ministers to these scattered people fitted up a bed in his wagon and went over the broad prairie looking for the wandering sheep of the house of Israel. When night overtook him he turned his horse out to feed and laid himself down in the place he had provided. It is not surprising that with such shepherding our church should well nigh equal in membership and ministers all other evangelical churches.

"Looking around the Nebraska Conference one is struck with the number of ministers from the East and that term here signifies all the territory beyond the Missouri. The whole State seems to be a kind of Bethesda, having an open porch at every mile of its wide borders; and the time of healing is not when the waters are rarely moved, but all the time; and not the first one only is cured, but all are benefited. I never saw a better class of young ministers enter Conference than the large classes of this year and last. And they need to be men of culture and power, for they are to minister to culture.

"The West Nebraska mission has a territory 325 miles long by 200 wide. A man came two hundred miles in a buggy to induce us to send a preacher to his county, to a new settlement of a half dozen towns that no man in the work had ever heard of. He carried his man back in the buggy with him. To show the possibility of the growth of such sections, I may mention the fact that I saw a land agent of one railroad company who sold 180,000 acres of land the past year. It was the first time that land was ever covered by any patent of man since it rose from the sea. We appointed men to seventy preaching places. There are but seven churches and about the same number of parsonages on the whole ground. Yet we were allowed but $970 missionary money.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from Caney.

MR. EDITOR—I desire a little space in the SOUTHWESTERN to make mention of the work of the Lord in Caney, Wharton county, Texas. Bro. J. C. Mays, a local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church, was employed to teach school in this place. Soon after the school was opened he announced that upon the Sabbath he would preach to the people, who came out in large numbers to hear what their teacher had to say. The word preached was a light so the people could see their sins; it was also a hammer breaking the heart of stone. A good number were converted to God. I was invited to go down and baptize the converts, and organize them into a church in harmony with the usage of the Discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church. On October 18th I mounted my horse as in days of old, rode about twenty miles, preached twice to large and attentive congregations, baptized six, received twenty-three on probation, appointed a class-leader and licensed one exhorter. This was a good day for Caney and a good day for me.

This is a wonderfully rich country. Most of the colored people are Baptists. They are so because they are living within the bounds of the West Texas Conference, and have, for some cause been neglected by our people. Could Wharton county be transferred to the Texas Conference, Bro. Cushman would soon have two or three Methodist preachers there, and Methodist churches all over the county. What we need, Mr. Editor, is a little more "push."

B. F. WILLIAMS.

Texas Notes.

[From the Clarendon News.]

The M. E. Society at Macomb, Grayson Co., expects to build a church about 30x50 feet in size next year. This is in connection with the Whitesboro circuit and will offer a grand and fruitful field of work next conference year. Rev. H. W. Hawkins is the present pastor.

A company of colored emigrants from Southern Texas and members of the M. E. Church, have organized themselves into a church at Denison and will need a preacher. They have purchased an old circus tent and now hold services under it and on property already bought for a church. Bro. Decker, pastor of the First M. E. Church is preaching to them every Sabbath afternoon and acting as advisor and shepherd. Their first quarterly meeting was held on the last Sabbath in October by Elder Carhart.

Grayson county is filling up with thrifty people largely from the North and East. Cotton, corn and wheat are the principal crops. The Varley brothers of Ohio and Newman of W. Va., are among our solid men. The work consists of two appointments and thirty-four in membership, loyal and true. We will need half a dozen men of intelligent devotion to our work in the ministry next year.

Our church at Sherman is closed for the present. Next Sabbath (Oct. 24) is quarterly meeting and soon we will have matters again on the march. We have a good church and parsonage, about the best in the conference, centrally located in a city of 8000 people, affording scope for the finest talent and room for an ample harvest.

We shall miss the presence of Dr. Brush after nearly eight years of service in this State. We have no truer or better man than he, but this rotation in service is exactly as it should be. This missionary work is taxing upon soul, body and resources and after about four years of pouring out and sacrifice, there should always be a change. Let others fresh and vigorous, take the field, and let our brethren of the various boards, notably those of the Missionary and Church Extension, double the resources and the power on the Southern and Southwestern border. Its folly to contend for such victories as must here be won with slender or inadequate resources. We will soon have a self-supporting work and the best in the land. We want neither starveling, beardless boys nor imbeciles, but men.

Examinations on the New Course of Study.

In answer to many letters of inquiry on the subject, the Bishops have instructed the Secretary to give notice, through the Church papers, that all examinations in the Course of Study for preachers occurring after the first day of June, 1881 shall be upon the new Course of Study published in the Discipline of 1880; and all examinations occurring before the first day of June 1881, may be upon the Course of Study published in the Discipline of 1876.

By order and on behalf of the Bishops,

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, Secretary.

New York, Nov. 1, 1880.

The Elections.

THE PRESIDENCY.

Latest returns in California show that five Democratic electors have been elected by near 200 majority, and one Republican elector in place of Judge Terry, who was scratched. The electorial college now stands: For Garfield 214; for Hancock, 155. Majority for Garfield, 59. Gen. Garfield has also a majority of the total popular vote cast of between 70,000 and 80,000.

Two members from Missouri classed as Greenbackers are Republicans, and will probably vote with their party in organizing the House. The straight Republicans have a majority of eight over all.

After the fourth of March next the United States Senate will probably be composed of 37 Republicans, 37 Democrats and 2 Independents (Davis, of Illinois, and Mahone, of Virginia).

Certain personal outrages which are common in the South, are invariably punished by death at the hands of a mob. While the offenses in question are truly deserving of death, constituting a more heinous crime than murder, it is a pity that the same end cannot be secured by the regular process of law. Lynching is a summary punishment which is open to abuse, and often irretrievably wrongs the innocent. The energy required to drag a suspected man from the hands of the officers and slay him, would, if applied to a legal prosecution, almost invariably result in his punishment, if guilty; and the majesty of the civil power would not suffer the degradation, either, which lynch law imposes.—N. C. Advocate.

A Novel Cure for Rheumatism.

An Englishman with rheumatic gout found this singular remedy a cure for his ailment. He insulated his bedstead from the floor by placing underneath each post a broken-off bottom of a glass bottle. He says the effect was magical, that he had not been free from rheumatic gout for fifteen years, and that he began to improve improve immediately after the application of the insulator.

It is said that red-clover heads, steeped in water and freely drank, will cure cancer. It certainly can do no harm to try it.

Whither are We Drifting.

There can be no question of the fact that the ministrations of the pulpit, in these days, are drifting away from that spirituality and dependence upon the Holy Spirit, which is absolutely essential in the conversion of souls and the upbuilding of the kingdom of Jesus Christ. This dependence upon the Holy Spirit is made essential to gospel success not only by the teachings of the apostles, but the Savior himself.

The apostles unquestionably teach us that if the success of the gospel in arresting the work of iniquity, and the efficiency of the ministry in the conversion of souls, had depended upon the learning, the eloquence, and the power of man, it would have long since proven a disastrous failure.

And yet, notwithstanding the explicit and concurrent teaching of Christ and the apostles on this subject, the idea is held with marvelous tenacity, that the success of the gospel ministry is dependent, in a large measure, upon the power of a persuasive and captivating [illegible], and hence the eloquent [illegible] pulpit declaimers are eagerly sought after.

Thus it has come to pass that many good people and churches, repose more confidence in man because of his learning and eloquence, than they do in the work of the Holy Spirit, whose divine office it is to [illegible], convert, and carry on the work of salvation in human [illegible], thus virtually deposing [illegible] spiritual supremacy [illegible] belongs to Him.

In these drifting days, men seem [illegible] of the fact, that [illegible] abdicated his sover[illegible] abandoned his abso[illegible] to call men, "and [illegible] ministers of the [illegible], not of the letter but [illegible]." And hence we are [illegible] that it does not de[illegible] by the mere [illegible] less upon [illegible] rapidly [illegible] and able [illegible] New Testament [illegible], and therefore [illegible] necessary to em[illegible] St. Paul—that [illegible] words of [illegible] it is not the bril[illegible] of the preacher, it is [illegible] hearers [illegible] these are [illegible] God's [illegible] conquest—then we cease our drifting and are led by the spirit of God. Let preachers and people inquire whither are we drifting?

New Orleans Manufactories.

The New Orleans Democrat has published a table giving a list of the manufacturing establishments in this city, up to June 30, 1880. Altogether there are over one hundred factories of various kinds and grades, employing nearly eleven thousand hands and turning out yearly over $20,000,000 worth of products. This gives support to about 20,000 people, or one tenth of the population.

As compared with other cities this is a small showing. Cincinnati, with about the same population, manufactures every year $250,000,000 worth of goods. Chicago employs 110,000 persons and produces yearly $200,000,000. Philadelphia, the chief of American manufacturing cities, produces annually $650,000,000. Still considering the disadvantages under which New Orleans has labored—because of the false and foolish opinion that has so long prevailed in the South, that its only work was to raise cotton and sugar—the showing is not so bad.

One encouraging fact is that our factories are on the increase. Since 1870—that is in ten years—their number and capacities have more than doubled. In 1870 the hands employed numbered 5640, and the products were worth $9,980,278.

In 1880 the hands employed numnumbered 10,977, and the products were worth $20,909,047. Here is another substantial fact proving the absurdity of the political hue and cry constantly kept up, about the South being ruined by "Carpet-bag rulers." During the most of these ten years this State was wholly in the hands of the so-called "Carpet-baggers," and since the accession to power of the present authorities who boast that they represent "the people" of Louisiana, it is notorious that complaints among business men have increased. Could the facts be collated we have no doubt that just in proportion as the "Carpet-bag" element has settled in the various parts of the South, and been allowed to invest their money and pursue their business unmolested, have the material interests of those regions improved.

The Democrat is doing well to call attention to the various commercial interests of the Crescent City. The present constitution of Louisiana has a clause which favors manufactures of textile fabrics. It is as follows:

ART. 207. There shall also be exempt from taxation and license for a period of ten years from the adoption of this constitution, the capital, machinery and other property employed in the manufacture of textile fabrics, leather, shoes, harness, saddlery, hats, flour, machinery, agricultural implements and furniture and other articles of wood, marble or stone; soap, stationary, ink and paper, boat-building and chocolate; provided not less than five hands are employed in any one factory.

Annual Meeting of the General Mission Committee.

The General Mission Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church began its annual session in New York, Nov. 3. The duties of this Committee are to "determine what fields shall be occupied as Foreign Missions, the number of persons to be employed on said Missions, and the amount necessary for the support of each Mission; and it shall also determine the amount for which each Bishop may draw for the Domestic Missions of the Conferences over which he shall preside." It consists of four parts; first, a representative from each of the twelve Mission Districts, appointed for the term of four years by the General Conference; second, of twelve representatives appointed annually by the Board of Managers from its own members; third, of the Secretaries and Treasurers of the Society; fourth, of the Bishops. The representatives of the Mission Districts now in office are:

Rev. J. D. Freeman, of Vermont Conference.

Cornell, A. Fowler, C. Scott, J. Falconer, O. H. P. Archer, and T. A. Howe. All Bishops, except Bishops Scott and Merrill, were present, as were also the Missionary Secretaries and Treasurers, and other district representatives.

At the first session Bishop Simpson presided. Dr. Trimble, who has been a member of ten consecutive General Conferences, conducted the opening religious services.

The following touching letter is from Bishop Scott, our senior Bishop and who is now superannuated:

ODESSA, DEL., Oct. 29, 1880.

To the Secretaries of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

DEAR BRETHREN—I have held the question of attendance at the meeting of the General Missionary Committee open till this late hour to see whether any more encouraging light might shine upon it. But the dimness grows more dense. My general health is still good, but my physical disabilities and my helplessness increase. My sight grows more dull, and my locomotion more difficult and arduous and perilous. It is the clear dictate of wisdom that home is the only suitable place for me. It is a great privation, but I must possess my soul in patience. It is the will of God and therefore best for me. For more than twenty-eight years I have never failed to be present at roll call and answer to my name. But silence must answer for me now. Bishop Haven and Dr. Dashiel fail to answer, and so, one by one, we shall all leave for a better—that is, a heavenly—country. How solemn, yet how inspiring the thought! My buoyancy of spirit remains intact as in my early manhood. Yet I face the West and see the sinking sun. But the horizon is bright and beautiful. "No anxious doubt, no guilty gloom, shall damp whom Jesus' presence cheers." The Lord be with you all!

L. SCOTT.

Dr. J. M. Reid and J. M. Phillips, Esq., were elected secretaries.

The Treasurers, East and West, made their reports as follows:

This report shows a debt including outstanding drafts of $112,151.71.

After a lengthy discussion of the report the Committee took up the Foreign Missions and proceeded to fix the amounts to be appropriated to them for the next year.

Africa being the oldest was the first Mission discussed. The amount proposed was $4,400 for Liberia and $4,500 for interior work. At the last session of the Liberia Conference that body considered the question of dissolving its relations with the Mother Church and setting up an Independent Church. The preachers voted for it, and the matter was referred to the laity. Ex-President Payne, who was a member of the last General Conference, says the laity will not endorse the movement. In view of the unsettled state of the case the appropriations were made conditionally and the local Board is to decide whether or not they will be used.

South America was discussed and $11,017 appropriated.

China came next and during the discussion the Committee adjourned.

On Thursday, Nov. 4, after some general discussion the consideration of China was resumed, and appropriations made. The Missions of Germany and Switzerland and Denmark were discussed at length and appropriations made. We will publish in tabular form next week the names of all the Missions and the appropriations fixed upon in each case.

Sweden was given $22,200, North India and South India were disposed of. Bulgaria caused much talk, and in view of the openings a good appropriation was agreed upon.

Dr. Fowler thought we ought to establish a mission in Russia, but the Committee thought best to wait awhile.

Italy asked for $19 022 and $10,000 additional for building. $5,000 were given for the latter purpose.

FRIDAY, NOV. 5.

A matter of importance at Bombay, India, was referred to a special committee.

Japan was provided for. Then followed a lengthy discussion on the causes of apparent decline in the missionary contributions from the general Church. The treasurer, J. M. Phillips, gave the following figures showing the relations of appropriations to contributions for the past eight years.

On Nov. 1, 1872, there was a balance in the treasury of $86,396 85. The General Committee that year appropriated for 1873 $885,025 78. The receipts were $680,836 64, over $200,000 short of the appropriations—at the same time the largest yearly receipts the Society ever had, save one year, which was about $3,000 greater. It is true the payments for 1873 were $725,169 69 only, so the worst effect of such large appropriations were not felt.

Appropriations for 1874 were...	$848,149 90
Receipts " " " ...	675,080 32
Payments " " " ...	708,855 26
Appropriations for 1875 were...	706,858 20
Receipts " " " ...	662,485 89
Payments " " " ...	721,805 34
Appropriations for 1876 were...	679,188 20
Receipts " " " ...	594,188 80
Payments " " " ...	699,904 85

Note as to these facts:

1. The Church never once responded to large appropriations by largely increased giving. Will it now?

2. I give figures as to appropriations, receipts, payments of four years—two years the payments were less, and two years greater than the appropriations. Look at the result, had the payments equaled the appropriations for the four years:

Appropriations, total........	$3,114,162 93
Total payments..............	2,850,734 64
Payments less than appropriations..............	$263,427 39

3. With a credit balance on hand Nov. 1, 1872, of $86,396 85, at the close of these four years the Society was in debt $268,855 56 (Nov. 1, 1876). If the whole appropriations had been used, the above amount, $263,427 39, would have been added to the debt, making it Nov. 1, 1876, $525,782 95—a sum which might have proved disastrous to the Society—and a condition avoided only because there was more prudence in the disbursements than in the appropriations.

The discussion of yesterday resumed. Dr. Olin felt the Church needed a rousing. Dr. Walden argued in favor of a monthly missionary concert. Dr. Baldwin, late of India, said the Disciplinary plan of districting the Church and sending out collectors always succeeded when tried. Rev. T. B. Lemon, of Nebraska thought the representa[illegible] of every Mission District ought to explain matters to the presiding elders in his district. Rev. J. M. Carr thought a mistake had been made in not including all Home Missionary work under the parent society. Secretary Reid submitted figures to show that the Church had done well. Bro. Archer a layman, said the churches were not canvassed enough. Bishop Foster said he felt disgraced and humiliated when he thought of the church giving only thirty cents per member to missions, for Foreign Missions. Dr. Fowler submitted a plan under which an account would be opened with every preacher and thus the missionary spirit easily kept track of. The Church, he said, must have faith. Bro. J. B. Cornell said the Church, if properly aroused would give $1,000,000. Bishop Bowman and Dr. Trimble gave instances where pastors had very largely increased the collections by personal effort.

Under the head of Domestic Missions, that is missions in America, Alaska was the first one considered. At the suggestion of the late Bishop Haven last year $1000 were appropriated to open a mission there but nothing had been done. Dr. Wise gave an interesting account of that country. There are about 1,500 whites and 23,000 Esquimaux Indians there. Dr. Buckley opposed making a new mission there; Dr. Reid favored it. The matter was tabled.

Bishop Warren gave a thrilling account of the wants of the work in Dakota and the Black Hills. $3000 were given to each place.

SATURDAY, NOV. 6.

The Committee spent the forenoon in discussions upon the Missions in Indian Territory, Montana and Utah. The afternoon was given to Missions in Utah, Kansas, South Kansas, West Nebraska and Colorado.

MONDAY, NOV. 8.

The day was given to Domestic Missions. The session will probably continue two or three days longer. Next week we will give concluding reports of the meeting and tabulated results.

The New York Times of the 10th gives the following additional item:

The Bible.

There it is, and there it will remain, whether the messenger of doom or the herald of deliverance.

It is in the world and out of it, it will not go, until the object of its mission be accomplished, to the last jot and tittle.

There it is, whether considered as an obnoxious bore, a perpetual spy, or loved as a true friend and a celestial guide to everlasting happiness.

The Young Men's Christian Association of this city is anxious to possess a large, well selected library. Donations of books or money will be thankfully received.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Moody and Sankey are in San Francisco, Cal.

—Bishop Foss will remove this month to Minneapolis his future Episcopal residence.

—Bishop Haven, after presiding at the four Texas Conferences, will remove with his family to San Francisco his official residence.

—Rev. Conrad Haney, formerly Pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church at Sherman, has been transferred to Illinois and stationed at Eureka.

—We extend our hearty congratulations. Mr. W. E. Barns, assistant editor of the Central Christian Advocate, was married Oct. 26, to Miss A. L. Gillett, eldest daughter of the late Lieut. Commander F. T. Gillett, U. S. Navy.

—Bishop Merrill who is in the far East writes encouragingly of our Bulgarian Missions. There are eight missionaries in the field—four Americans, two Bulgarians, educated in America, and two who have always lived there. There are also four colporteurs and Bible readers who do much good. The outlook for the future is good.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

M. Brown, Marion: "The elder has held my last quarter for the year. Collection $10; accessions to the church 76, on probation 16, in full membership 60."

Bro. S. Dobey, of Garlandsville, sends us fifteen subscribers for 1881. Last year we had but two at that place. The small towns of Mississippi will stand by the SOUTHWESTERN.

D. D. Goodwin, Vicksburg: "Our church is in better condition at present than for many years. Protracted meeting lasted two weeks, and the result was 15 conversions, 26 on probation, and 4 backsliders reclaimed. Over 50 were added to the church this year, and 10 adults and many children baptized. I organized a small church about 11 miles from the city last April. There are about 18 members, and a neat frame building 15x18. The Sabbath school numbers 150 pupils with $105 in treasury, under Prof. G. W. Stith, an excellent worker, and sister M. McCovins, his assistant. No deaths this year. Dr. C. K Marshall, of the Church South, promises to aid us in our new church building; himself and Dr. Galloway, of same church, exhibits a most fraternal spirit. Col. C. J. Wright, editor of the Herald is very kind in giving free publication to church notices."

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana Methodists are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

Frank Walker, Fort Jesup: "On the 9th our last quarter was held by Elder Davage; six joined the church. I will soon move into the new parsonage. Times have been very hard with the people, but they have made good crops of cotton and corn this year. They all want the SOUTHWESTERN. The membership is small."

A. E. P. Albert, New Orleans: "Basket meeting was given in Union Chapel last Sunday. Though the weather was very unfavorable, we were blessed with good preaching all day. Among others Revs. Lewis, of Thompson Chapel; A. M. Green, of the A. M. E. Church, and Prof. Chase, of the American Missionary Society, entertained the congregation. $124 was collected to pay the debt of the Church."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Garfield's plurality in Kansas will be about 62,000.

About 3000 inhabitants have left Dulcigno, owing to scarcity of food.

Lucretia Mott, died near Philadelphia, on the 11th, in her eighty-eighth year.

The official vote of Ohio: Garfield 375,048, Hancock 340,871, Weaver 5456, Dow 2616. Garfield's plurality 34,177; majority over all 26,005.

The heavy rain on the 10th caused a landslide in a big cut on the Virginia Midland railroad. The hands had nearly cleared this out when a heavier slide occurred, burying eight men, all colored. Two were killed and six wounded. It is believed a third man was killed.

Smith, Mrs. Leethee Henry, Miss Maggie, sisters Fannie and Sally Harper, and Mr. Scott Harper. Brother Tom Harper, the lever power of that work, gave $2.50.

At Luling I was too sick to be out on Sunday so brethren did the best they could and raised $3.75.

At Lockhart, Sept. 5-6, presented the claim and raised $7.05. Total for the year, $13.80.

At McDade, Sept. 9-10. This is a new work. We organized it August 4th, 1880, in passing through. At this point we had no members. We explained the grounds of our discipline and the workings of our church, then threw open the doors and extended an invitation, and 22 of the best members of the A. M. E. Church and 2 from the Baptists came forward and gave their hearts and hands to the M. E. Church. We presented the claim and raised $39. Parties contributed as follows: Bro. Peter Oliver and Mr. Wm. Chambers gave $10 each; Bro. Nichey Green gave $5, Mr. Jim Bell gave $2.50. Mrs. E. and T. Smith gave $1 each.

Austin circuit, Oct. 12-13. We presented the claim and raised the following: Mr. Jack Morrow headed the list with $10, Bros. Geo. Morrow and Wesley Henderson followed with $5 each. The rest gave $2.50—Bro. A. Campbell, Malett Wilson, E. Norwood, Sam Morrow, and J. Owens. Total collected on the circuit, $30.15.

San Antonio, Oct. 16-17. Raised $9.20. Total for that place for the year, $42 95.

The West Texas Conference school is now in session in Austin. The teachers have secured the Jelette building, a large house put up in an early day for school purposes. Some of the best families of the capitol city were educated in this building. The teachers have labored hard to make this school a success. They really deserve credit for the manner in which they have conducted this school. Scholars are coming in from all parts of the West Texas Conference, yet there is room in this large and commodious building for many more.

HEADACHE is so common that some member of nearly every family is affected with it. The cause in most cases is a torpid action of the Liver, brought on by debilitating influences and impurities of the stomach. The habitual Sick Headache peculiar to some persons is permanently cured by taking Simmons Liver Regulator; ordinary Headache, which is only a symptom of deranged Stomach and Liver is readily cured by a few doses. And let all who suffer from Headaches remember that they can be prevented by taking a large dose of the Regulator so soon as their symptoms indicate the coming of an attack.

"I used a bottle of Simmons Liver Regulator when troubled seriously with Headache caused by Constipation. It produced a favorable result without hindering my regular pursuits in business.

How Happiness is Secured.

Happiness is the absence of pain or annoyance, and wherever there is pain there is disease. A pain in the lower portion of the body indicates a disorder of some kind. If there is any odor or color or deposit in the urine it means disease and requires attention at once. We have heard many of our friends speak of the remarkable power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure and are convinced there is nothing so certain and valuable for all disorders of the urinary system both male and female.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—Every family, without exception, in city, village, and country, will find it highly useful to constantly read the American Agriculturist. It abounds in plain, practical, reliable information, most valuable for in-door as well as out-door work and comfort, and its 800 to 1,000 original engravings in every volume are both pleasing and instructive. In this respect it stands alone, and should have a place in every household, no matter how many other journals are taken. Its illustrated department for youth and children contains as much information as well as amusement. Its humbug exposures are invaluable. The cost is only $1 50 from now to the end of 1881, or four copies for $5. Single numbers, 15 cents. One specimen, 6 cents. Subscribe now for volume 4 (1881). Orange Judd Company, Publishers, 245 Broadway, New York.

—Some remarkable pictorial work will appear in Scribner for December. The first of the "Glimpses of Parisian Art" will contain original sketches by De Neuville, Duez, Merson, Dupain, Delance, Chevilliard, Clairin, Detaille, Sarah Bernhardt, Jacquet, and Berne-Bellecour. The second and third papers of this series will make it a quite complete account of current sketch work in French ateliers. Two full-page portraits by Blum accompany a paper on Sheridan's "Rivals," and give strikingly life-like representations of Mrs. John Drew as Mrs. Malaprop, and Joseph Jefferson as Bob Acres. Mrs. Marry Hallock Foote and others illustrate the subject of "Hunting the Honey-bee." In "Peter the Great," Victor Nehlig has a vigorous drawing of "The Streltsi Going to Execution;" Mr. Brennan, Mr. Lungren, and others have interesting original work, while among the reproductions is a beautiful "Russian Girl in Ancient Russian Dress," engraved by Closson, from a painting by Makovsky. Very timely are the drawings of R. C. Woodville in "Montenegro as We Saw it," of subjects on the way to and in Cetinje, including an equestrian portrait of Prince Nicholas I. A pleasing sketch of "An American Girl" complete the illustrations of the number. Some exceedingly strong and beautiful pictures are soon to appear in Scribner.

J. F. NEWCOMER, of Toledo, Ohio, says:—I have been greatly benefited by wearing an Excelsior Kidney Pad, and would recommend all persons troubled with weak kidneys to try it.—See Adv.

A meeting was held in New York to raise subscriptions to enable James Stephens, Fenian leader, to return to Paris and labor for the cause of Ireland.

A SAFE AND SURE means of restoring the youthful color of the hair is furnished by Parker's Hair Balsam, which is deservedly popular from its superior cleanliness.

Cure for Catarrh.

The following is a simple and immediate cure for Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc. The remedy is a new compound, entirely different from all other preparations or medicines used for Catarrh or Lung Diseases. It is the discovery of Dr. Hartshorn (an eminent physician), called Dr. Hartshorn's Swamp Weed Compound. You smoke the remedy in a pipe, which converts it into a dense smoke or vapor. This you inhale, emitting the smoke through the nose. After a few trials this will be easy to do. If the nose is stopped up so that it is almost impossible to breathe, one pipeful will make the head as clear as a bell. Sufferers from that horrible disease, Ulcerated Catarrh, will find relief and comfort from the first day's use, and a permanent cure in due course of time. The number of remarkable cures effected by this new remedy is simply wonderful, and where once introduced and known it has a larger sale and takes the lead of all other Catarrh and Lung medicines. It penetrates to the very seat of the disease and breaks it up at its fountain head. It is the best remedy in the world for Asthma and Bronchitis.

Swallowing the vapor or smoke gives instantaneous relief, enabling the patient to lie down and enjoy refreshing sleep. The principal ingredient in this medicine is one of our common weeds (found growing in wet or swampy ground), and when combined with Cubebs, Extract of Pine Tar, &c., forms the best Catarrh and Lung treatment ever devised. It is a sure antidote for Cough, Sore Throat and Offensive Breath. It will make the foulest breath pure and sweet. All fatal epidemics are absorbed and propagated in the system by inhalation. So potent for evil, it is now made most powerful for good. Thus, in accordance with reason and common sense, does this remedy, by inhalation, come in direct contact with disease, and by absorption, into the system, cleanses the blood.

To Consumptives.

Quit dosing the stomach with cod-liver oil, sickening syrups, and balsams. Eat more beefsteak and nourishing food. Take some simple medicine to aid digestion and to keep the bowels regular. Smoke the Swamp Weed Compound once or twice daily and exercise in the open air in good weather. Try the above prescription, and you will bless that day you read our advertisement. The medicine is pleasant and perfectly harmless, and there is no use going to high-priced "Catarrh and Lung doctors" while you can procure this remedy. Price by mail, post-paid, $1 per box. Six boxes $5. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL Co., Petrolia City, Butler co., Pa. 6m eow.

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containing about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely:

Record of Pastors.
Record of Classes.
Record of Official Members.
Alphabetical Record of Full Members.
Record of Probationers.
Record of Baptisms.
Record of Marriages.

We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

The Commentaries are each 12mo in size and can be bought one volume at a time, as each volume is complete in itself. The remaining volumes will soon be published and when complete will be a most valuable work. The size of the book is small and the price is low. The comments are most able. All useless rubish is discarded and the comments are short and to the point, embodying the results of the latest and ripest scholarship.

Clarke's Commentaries. Six Imperial 8vo volumes, bound in sheep, all complete. Price......$24 00.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

LOUISIANA.

The Louisiana brethren are wide awake, and will urge the cause of the SOUTHWESTERN. Push the canvass for 1881.

L. Johnson, Indian Village: "A grand festival was held in this place by the members of the Napoleon Chapel, M. E. Church, under the management of Bros. J. H Dowery, and E Lewis, assisted by the following sisters: Charlotte Valtz, Sarah Dowery, Lydia Keelan, Charity Harrison, and others. There was an independent table conducted by Misses Lizzie Cland, and A. Washington, which made the sum of $14.20, and made the church a present of $9. The refreshment table conducted by Bro. Dowery made the sum $18 45; the meat table conducted by sister Valse, made the sum of $11.50; another meat table conducted by Bro. E. Lewis, made $6 15; the gumbo table conducted by sister Mary Ann Fields, made $4.30. The total amount taken in was $46 50. The expenses were $20 20, leaving a balance for the church of $26.30. The Board met on Sunday evening for the purpose of making arrangements with the carpenter, in regard to commencing repairs on the church, and it was decided to meet again on Thursday the 4th. I hope you will all pray for us."

TENNESSEE.

Let us hear from you, brethren. Fill up your lists, and let us send out good tidings to your people each week. Shall we have 1000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN from Tennessee this year?

Alex. Burdette, Waynesboro: "We have put up our church here. The Ladies Literary Society gave a festival, and my lecture realized $24.35; Rev. John Seay sent us $5 by Dr. Braden; Capt. P. C. FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

IS A REALLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR WASTING AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

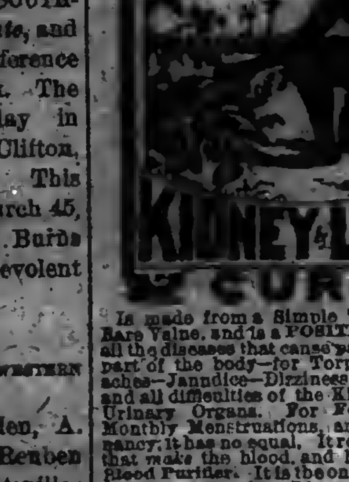
After numerous experiments Mr. Fellows succeeded in producing this combination of Hypophosphites, which has not only restored him to health, but has since been found so successful in the treatment of diseases emanating from the loss of nerve power, and consequent muscular relaxation, viz.:

Aphonia (loss of voice). Neuralgia.
Anæmia. Nervous Debility.
Chronic Diarrhœa. Whooping Cough.
Dyspepsia. Fever and Ague.
Congestion of the Lungs. Leucorrhœa.
Palpitation of the Heart. Melancholy.
Malaria. Mental Depression.
Nervousness.

MALARIA.

Persons living in the Malarious districts may protect themselves from attacks of fever by the use of Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. Its effects in toning up the system enables us to ward off contagious disorders, and successfully combat disease.

The soluble phosphites and the other life sustaining principles composing Fellows' Hypophosphites are so carefully proportioned and so judiciously mingled, that their action upon the nerves, muscles and membranes in imparting vitality, strength and healthy action is generally apparent within twenty-four hours, and the good effects experienced are of a permanent character. 45 4t



Is made from a Simple Tropical Leaf of Rare Value, and is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness, Gravel, Malaria, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs. For Female Diseases, Monthly Menstruations, and during Pregnancy, it has no equal. It restores the organs that make the blood, and hence is the best Blood Purifier. It is the only known remedy that cures Bright's Disease. For Diabetes, use Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS,
Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."

NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "It is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."

C. S. HOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.

KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.

One package will make six qts of medicine.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

MR. EDITOR—I desire to hear of Jinnie Robinson. She was lost in Lauderdale county, Tennessee. Her father was James Jones; mother, Nancy; uncle, Menker Linum; cousins, Sarah and Hannah; Minnie Loncher was an aunt; Jack Gordon, Finny Sims, Frank Hunter and Mose Tucker her uncles; Jane Carter her sister. Address Elias Robinson, Centreville, Texas.

DEAR EDITOR—I left Choctaw, Alabama in 1862. I want to hear from Hager Moseby, a yellow woman, who had a boy named John. They left Alabama to go to Claiborne parrish, Louisiana, with one of Miss Moseby's sons, Mr. Grigsby. Hager's father, George, is dead. Isaac Moseby is still at Butler, Ala. Address me at Meridian, Miss.

JOHN HORN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for a family of people named Alford Yarves, who came from Sumpter county, Alabama. Alford Yarves owned my first wife; her name was Fannie. Fannie had a sister named Maria. She had one son named Charles and a daughter named Julia Ann. I was told she came to Texas and died, but I never have known what became of the children and her sister. Any information of them will be thankfully received. My name at that time was Henry Yarves, and is now Smith. Please address me at Paris, Lamar Co., Texas. HENRY SMITH.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my relatives, whom I left in Virginia about 25 years ago. My mother's name was Matilda; she lived near Withtown, and belonged to a Mr. Percifield. I was sold with a younger sister—Bettie. My name was Mary, and I was nine years old when sold to a trader named Walker, who carried us to North Carolina. Bettie was sold to a man named Reed, and I was sold and carried to New Orleans and from there to Texas, where I now live. Grandfather's name was Dick, grandmother's Millie. I had uncles Timothy and Guy, aunts Malinda, Caroline and Catherine. Caroline had a girl named Sallie. Catherine had Lucy, Jennie and Malvina. I had a brother, Sam, and a sister, Annie, who were left with mother. If they are alive I will be glad to hear from them. Address me at Morales, Jackson Co., Texas. MARY HAYNES.

As a Cure for Piles

Kidney-Wort acts first by overcoming in the mildest manner all tendency to constipation; then, by its great tonic and invigorating properties, it restores to health the weakened and debilitated parts. We have hundreds of certified cures, where all else has failed. Use it and suffer no longer.—Exchange.

Old Sayings.

The expression, "God helps those who help themselves," is from Franklin; "Knowledge is power," is from Lord Bacon, and he probably took the idea from Prov. 24: 5, "A man of knowledge increaseth strength." "Make a virtue of necessity," is from Shakespeare; "A rolling stone can gather no moss," is from Thomas Tanner, a writer of the sixteenth century; "Better late than never," and "Look before you leap," are by Tanner; "Men are but children of a larger growth," by Dryden; "Of two evils choose the least," and "The end justifies the means," by Matthew Prior; "Variety is the spice of life," by Cowper; "Man proposes, but God disposes," by Thomas A. Kempis; "Bread is the staff of life," by Dean Swift; "Distance lends enchantment to the view," and "Coming events cast their shadows before," by Campbell; "The almighty dollar," by Washington Irving.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old fashioned bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

The winter's frost must rend the burr of the nut before the fruit is seen. So adversity tempers the human heart to discover its real worth.—H. de Balzac.

FOOD FOR THE BRAIN AND NERVES that will invigorate the body without intoxicating is what we need in these days of rush and worry. Parker's Ginger Tonic restores the vital energies, soothes the nerves and brings good health quicker than anything you can use. Tribune. See other column.

NASAL CATARRH!

All cases promptly and permanently cured by DR. S. W. BEALL,
Homeopathic Catarrhal Specialist,
A reputable Physician of 30 years' practice.

Not a Douche, Not an Inhaler, Not a Snuff.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh has never been cured by local treatment alone. Catarrh being constitutional requires constitutional treatment to eradicate it from the system.

In connection with Dr. Beall's Nasal Catarrh Specific, a course of treatment is furnished each patient as indicated by the symptoms. Also an Atomizer with cleansing solutions to be locally applied in the form of a spray. Patients at a distance treated by the aid of a carefully prepared diagnostic sheet. No single box or bottle of medicine is applicable to all cases.

Dr. Beall has cured hundreds of cases in its worst form, and patients now being treated in all parts of the United States report rapid improvement. Treatment is pleasant and directions easily followed.

The following is a specimen of the testimonials constantly being received:

To the Public—Statement of A. W. Emery, of the firm of Emery & Harter, Troy, Ohio.

For a number of years I was afflicted with Nasal Catarrh, affecting seriously both my head and throat. The discharges from the nose were streaked with blood, and had a very offensive smell. After a course of treatment from Dr. Beall, I am entirely cured. A. W. EMERY.

Extract from a Home Endorsement.

"Dr. Beall offers to the public no quack nostrum, and parties can rest assured that humbuggery has no place in the treatment proposed.

A GREAT REVELATION

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness and Timely Suggestions About Securing It.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE,

while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposeably scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangements of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that only by removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight, and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who 'bled him copiously.' Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding!"

The speaker then graphically described another period which came upon the people, in which they assigned the origin of all diseases to the stomach, and after showing the falsity of this theory, and that the kidneys and liver were the causes of disease, and that many people are suffering from kidney and liver troubles to-day who do not know it, but who should know it and attend to them at once, continued:

"Let us look at this matter a little more closely. The human body is the most perfect and yet the most delicate of all created things. It is capable of the greatest results and it is liable to the greatest disorders. The slightest causes sometimes seem to throw its delicate machinery out of order while the most simple and common-sense care restores and keeps them in perfect condition. When it is remembered that the amount of happiness or misery we are to have in this world is dependent upon a perfect body, is it not strange that simple precautions and care are not exercised? This is one of the most vital questions of life. People may avoid it for the present, but there is certain to come a time in every one's experience when it must be faced.

"And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I

FAINTED REPEATEDLY.

My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening of the pain at once; I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined fields in medicine never before explored. I sought the causes of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system."

After describing at length the offices of the kidneys and liver, and their important part in life, the doctor went on to say:

"Having found this great truth, I ... clearly the cause of my recovery. ... simple vegetable leaf I had used was a ... and restorer to my well-nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. As flows the river, calm and deep,
In silence toward the sea,
So floweth ever, and ceaseth never,
The love of God to me.

He kindly keepeth those He loves
Secure from every fear;
From the eye that weepeth for one that sleepeth,
He gently dries the tear.

What peace He bringeth to my heart,
Deep as the soundless sea;
How sweetly singeth the soul that clingeth,
My loving Lord, to Thee.

How calm at even sinks the sun
Beyond the clouded west;
So tempest driven into the haven,

Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Kynett reports as follows:

We come before the Church in connection with this our Fifteenth Anniversary, and report progress in our Church Extension work.

We are all stewards of the manifold grace of God; trustees, holding in trust the Gospel for all mankind. We are, therefore, debtors to all everywhere, but we are specially charged with the care of our own country. American Christians [illegible] America. [illegible] gospel [illegible] with [illegible] civil [illegible] society with [illegible] upon it. To [illegible] for Christ, [illegible] which the world [illegible]. The Church of Christ [illegible] lay its hand upon all this [illegible] a Christian [illegible] of the world [illegible] "We [illegible] Christ which [illegible]." We must [illegible] the institution [illegible] of God [illegible] power [illegible] the successive years [illegible] Work [illegible] by [illegible] Conference [illegible] Loan Fund [illegible] were laid [illegible]. We were [illegible] General [illegible] that up [illegible] col- [illegible] in round [illegible] a healthy and rapid growth of our work, and yet it must be confessed that we have not kept pace with the rapid development of the country.

The proposition submitted by Chaplain McCabe one year ago, to secure the erection of 400 new churches on the frontier, by a donation of $250 each, has been received with great favor. Several friends have responded with the amount needed to procure the erection of a church, and a few have undertaken to build two or three. Others have indicated their purpose to provide for from one to four during the coming year. Great good has resulted and will result from this movement.

We come to the first of November with a cash balance in the treasury of $57,430.53, against which are drafts outstanding to the amount of $12,164, leaving $45,266 53, but we have granted to 148 different churches, donations to the amount of $24,845, and loans to the amount of $32,300, on condition that the remainder needed to complete the enterprise shall be provided by the people interested. These amounts must be paid when the conditions shall be complied with. Besides these, we have applications on file awaiting action, asking donations of $17,725, and loans of $6,300, which have not been considered, so that to do the work already in hand, we need not less than $35,903.47 more.

We have reason to hope that applications for the relief of distressed churches imperilled by debt will be less in the future than in the past, but for the enlargement of our work, especially in the South and West, the demands are more urgent, and the opportunities more inviting than ever before.

The "middle wall of partition," between bond and free, and between North and South, is broken down forever, and the whole country lies open before us. Are we to go not only to those who need us, but to those who need us most? Then must we go with enlarged generosity to the four millions of emancipated children of Africa, and to the seven millions of liberated whites, who dwell with them, in a common condition of poverty and want, in the Southern States. Are we to improve our golden opportunity, and plow, and sow, and plant, in the spring-time of our national history? Then must we make haste, and use all diligence, and keep abreast with the march of empire, and go with the millions who are covering the plains and penetrating the mountains of the great West, constructing railways, bridging rivers, building cities, and making new homes through all that country from the Rio Grande on the South, to the Red River of the North. We must see to it that in these multitudes of new homes there shall be in every community, a home for the household of faith.

We plead for enlarged liberality in the support of this work:

1st. Because of the enlarged demand and opportunity in the ever-widening field.

2d. Because of the reproductive character of this work. One church aided by us has often proved the germ of other churches. Two years ago we aided a church at Fort Worth, Texas. Within a year it was self supporting. This year three others in adjoining counties—[illegible], Chico, and near Decatur—spring out of it, and scores [illegible] converted. Besides, [illegible] church aided by us gives increase of strength for every department [illegible] church work. William [illegible] said that money put [illegible] building in London, [illegible] larger revenues for [illegible] work than it [illegible] if permanently invested [illegible] the interest applied to [illegible] would be found true [illegible] in this country.

[illegible] Because of the improved con- [illegible]. As God has [illegible] rule of [illegible] of the vast inter- [illegible] this country for a [illegible]

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Houston District Gleanings.

The Church of the Lord Jesus Christ ought to be the mightiest power in the world—mightier than armies and navies, mightier than money or politics. It is God's appointed agency to transform this earth with all of its hate and bitterness into a type of heaven. Were she true to herself and true to her divine authors she would have a hundred-fold more power over men than she has to-day. The kingdom of the devil would quake and crumble beneath her onward march. No matter if fearful odds were arrayed against her she would show her superiority over every foe. Real practical religion with God in it and behind it, has a thousand-fold more strength than vice in any or all of its forms with Satan in it and behind it. And yet there are times when the conflict seems almost doubtful—doubtful because so many in the Christian army are disloyal. Who can number those who fall out by the way; who but the Great Captain can tell the thousands of stragglers and bummers there are in God's army. Good talkers are abundant but good fighters and workers for God are not numerous. All sorts of excuses are offered to get rid of doing God's work. For this reason the real power of the Church remains undeveloped and is never felt. Brethren, it is time to close up the ranks—to call in every straggler and those who are off on furlough and to cut off all the mere talkers and bummers. "I know thy mask," are the words repeated in each of the memorable messages of the Seven Churches of Asia. Works, works, works, ring out from each of the solemn charges. We need in all our churches, and upon all our appointments, and in all of our pulpits, men who love work, who feel that they must work. I would like to see hanging on all of our church doors, in front of all our pulpits, and upon all of our church walls, this notice, "No idlers nor loungers allowed here." It might almost empty some of our churches, and not a few pulpits; still I should like to see the notice put up. We most earnestly desire that the Great Captain of our salvation should have all the sinners within the bounds of the Houston district for His inheritance and the uttermost part of Texas for His possession.

The Houston District Conference, held at Richmond, Oct. 21 and 25, was an occasion of intellectual and spiritual improvement, and enjoyment to the large number in attendance. Earnest Gospel sermons were preached and a number of instructive papers were read and discussed by the brethren. Sabbath the church was crowded to its utmost capacity. It was a day full of solemn interest. Sermons in the right key were preached by Bros. B. F. Williams, and V. M. Cole. Four were received into full connection into the church and twenty-six on probation. Our church at Richmond is enjoying real prosperity under the efficient labor of their beloved pastor, Bro. Williams. The church has been ceiled, new seated and lighted, and a bell tower erected costing full $200, and all paid for, and now they are making an addition of two rooms and a gallery of their parsonage, and we trust that the ladies will soon have it furnished with chairs, tables, and bedsteads. The conference by a rising vote extended to the people their thanks for their kind and hospitable entertainment.

At Frost's Chapel and Pitsville, things at the beginning of the year were not very encouraging, but they are now looking up. Bro. Culbreath reports three Sunday schools, orderly active and enthusiastic class meetings well attended and deeply spiritual; one hundred and twenty-seven received on probation, one new church and another soon to be completed.

At the Tabernacle in Galveston things are looking well. The Sunday school is increasing. The church is harmonious, the congregations large, and Bro. Cole reports upwards of eighty as received on probation. At St. Paul, Galveston, the order is steady and [illegible] finances are in a [illegible]. The debt upon [illegible] has been paid, and [illegible] reports one hundred [illegible] on probation. [illegible] has been justly con- [illegible] the best and [illegible] within the [illegible] of the Houston district, but Stafford is not dead; God is putting breath into some of the dead bodies living in this bottom. Sites for two new churches have been secured, and one of them will soon be completed. Bro. Smith reports twenty-six received on probation. Move on and move up, brethren. Get close to God's Trinity. Houston is doing a marvelous work; the new church is nearly completed, all but the finishing touches such as plastering, putting in the pews and painting. Thus far the trustees have spent nearly six thousand dollars, and it will cost about fifteen hundred more to complete the church; but when finished there will be no debts save the one thousand loan from the Church Extension Society. The building is a magnificent edifice, and is a noble monument of the well-directed energies and enterprise of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church and congregation. Its dimensions are 44x82, the spire 136 feet in hight, being the highest elevation in the city, excepting the market tower. The building has all the modern church appointments. As to the style of architecture, I do not know whether it is Grecian, Roman, Gothic, Vandal or Yankee; there it stands, symmetrical, chaste, beautiful and pleasing to the eye, and when finished must be comfortable to the occupants, for all of which let us thank God. Bro. Douglass reports thirty-five received on probation.

At Mount Vernon, Houston, improvement is the order of the day. Their church and parsonage are being put in complete repair, and no debts contracted. "Pay as you go," is the motto of the trustees. They have bought a nice bell, put a gallery and new seats into their church, and blinds on the windows, and painted the inside of the church; ceiled and finished the parsonage, and will be ready to give a hearty welcome to any good Methodist preacher who has a clean mouth and a pure heart. Let us cleanse ourselves from all tobacco. Bro. Edwards reports forty-four received on probation.

St. James, Houston, is still looking up. Church ceiled and a new organ. Bro. Watrous is doing a good work. He reports thirty received on probation. Bro. Rosco, on Houston, circuit is having a good year, and is doing a good work. He has secured sites for two churches and expects soon to have one completed. He reports thirty-seven received on probation, and two Sunday schools.

At Spring, Bro. A. Harris, has had a happy and prosperous year. He reports one new church, a new parsonage, and three Sunday schools all in a prosperous condition, and twenty-seven on probation.

Bro. Washington Thomas, at lonely centers and along the line of the Houston East and West Texas Railroad, has been doing missionary work. He reports two Sunday schools, one new church and will have another soon, and thirty-three on probation. My letter is already too long. I reserve other gleanings for another day.

Little Rock Conference.

Since the Missionary Committee at New York has appropriated $2,500 to the Little Rock Conference for the ensuing year, it will not be out of place to say a word about the field of work and a word to the workers.

1st. Our conference now covers the entire State. 2d. There are 71 counties in the State with a population of about 800,000, with not less than 300,000 of these of African descent. 3d. It is understood that the only workers of the M. E. Church among these 300,000 are in the Little Rock Conference. Therefore, while we are not restricted to the colored people we should feel for them especially and try to reach them. 4th. At least 11 counties have not a sufficient membership of colored people for us to send a preacher to at the sacrifice of the counties where thousands can be reached. Thus we should turn our attention to those parts of the State where we can reach the largest number. 5th. There are 8 counties where half of the population, at least, is colored, and in 6 of these we have no preacher at all, while in some of the counties where a very large per cent of the population is colored we have but one preacher. "These things ought not so to be."

But the large masses of colored people are in the southeastern part of the State, while most of our ministers are along through the centre and northwestern part. This unoccupied part of the State is swampy and sickly, and some of our preachers seem to have no longing for souls among the chills. But there are others wholly given to God and will go wherever sent. 6th. The Baptists are organized through this unoccupied part of the field and will contend earnestly for every inch of the ground, but as the true light shines in and the foe is banished they yield up the field. 7th. There are 15 counties where a large per cent of the population is colored and we have no preacher, no not one among them. What shall we do? The Church, through her highest authority, says here is help to the amount of $2,500. Go and save these tens of thousands. But where are the men whose hearts are filled with God's love, whose lips have been touched with a coal of living fire, that will say, here am I, send me. We have no ax to grind, but have a plan to urge by the help of God, and are willing to submit it for the acceptance of the brethren, and ask all the preachers both local and traveling, in the State to write to us at Little Rock and give us his approval or objections and suggestions for what he thinks would be better in any or every respect.

1st. Let us say a word about the older work, for it is not uncommon at Conference for brethren to want this or that charge which he thinks would furnish an easy field. Let us throw, with few exceptions, every appointment that has a membership of 100 or more on its own resources and let the pastor make the people pay him or turn them out. But before he expells any one let him see to it that he gives them the gospel with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven. This would place the following charges on the self-supporting list: Wesley Chapel, Lonoke, Hot Springs, Center Point, Parcelifty, Louisville, Van Buren, Fayetteville, Bentonville, Batesville, Jacksonport, Newport, Argenta, and Sweet Home; 12 in all. Some of these may not have the one hundred but they have other advantages to make up the lack. Then let us throw the Little Rock circuit, Pocahontas, and Duvall's Bluff into other charges and we will have a saving of $555 from this year's plan for new fields. Let us then cut down the present appropriations at Pine Bluff and Rob Roy so as to give us another hundred, then with the $300 increase for next year we would have $900 with which to strengthen weak points and to send men into new fields.

And we would modestly suggest some of the most urgent and most desirable points for new missions. 1st. Let us have one in the city of Little Rock. There are about 5000 colored people in the city. Our Conference school (Walden Seminary) is there while the Wesley Chapel charge does not reach one tenth of the people. 2d. Magnolia. Let the pastor live here and extend his work east. This would with the present plan of the Little Rock district, omitting the Little Rock circuit, make 14 appointments and with the facilities for public travel the presiding elder could, without over-work, make about his four rounds. 2d. Let us make the following new appointments in the White River district, viz: Forest City circuit, Clarendon, Helena, Linwood, Watson, and Lake Village circuit. Omitting Duvalls Bluff and Paca circuit, there would be, adding Beebee and Searcy, 14 appointments in the district. Why we should make the new charges in this district is for the reason that in this territory and embraced in these new charges, there are more colored people than white and in many places the only preaching the white people have is what they get among the colored.

2d. This plan calls for more men; we shall need 30 in all. It is likely we shall lose some at the Conference. Some may want to locate, others will be unwilling to endure the hardships longer, some will want to go to school, others will have shown themselves too indolent and negligent in their studies to be carried longer by the conference and should and must be stopped, others will have to discontinue on account of ill health, etc., so that we shall need at least 15 new men. Can we get them? Where are they? Who is it that can measure up to the following standard?

1st. Converted—saved from his sins. 2d. Called of God to the ministry; who feels "woe is me if I preach not the gospel." 3d. Loves the M. E. Church better than all others. 4th. Loves the souls of men white or colored so much as to be anxiously willing to go to every one—from house to house and try to lead them to the Savior. 5th. Is willing to take any work in the conference to which the Bishop may appoint him with or without mission money, and gladly accept of it as the will of God to him. 6th. Will study the conference course and do nothing but labor to learn and save souls. 7th. Who will preach it he has a mission circuit, at least, at 20 places, and last, but not least, who loves his brethren.

If we have men in the conference who are unwilling to measure up this Methodist standard we hope and pray that they will at once leave the Conference and not bring disgrace and blame upon their brethren; and if such as can measure up will come let them come, and welcome. But we want no man to offer who has ever been expelled from our church or any other, for drinking, stealing, or for committing adultery, or who is unwilling to work at least as hard in his ministry as farmers do in their cotton.

With such a plan and such a class of Methodist preachers going into such an inviting field; with such an inspiration as the older part of the work would receive as the sons of the fathers and mothers in the Church would go out to do and dare for Jesus we could increase our strength ten fold in 12 months. Yea, we could give the African Methodists something else to do beside denouncing the old Church and collect Dollar money for their colored bosses; we could give our Baptist brethren something else to do besides cry John and Jordan, drinking whisky and committing adultery, and soon teach the bulldozer that his gun and pistol could not conquer the old Church of Methodism.

Brother let us hear what you have to say.

BY J. W. E. BOWENS, A. B.

Under the above caption, Chaplain McCabe, in the Methodist Advocate, observes some pointed utterances. His remarks are intended more especially for our colored ministers. He might with equal force apply them to some of the white ministers. The discrimination should not be upon the color line, for it should be borne in mind that a white man uneducated is just as incapable of performing the functions of the Christian ministry, and is as dangerous in society as a colored man under the same circumstances. We do not wish, however, to contort the words of the Doctor.

There is certainly a demand for a more thoroughly educated and more vigorous ministry. Our increase and firmness in these lands depend largely upon our ministry. When our men are leaders in thought as well as men of Christian piety, then will the increase be proportionate to the means expended and to the population.

We have not a single colored highly educated minister in all the Gulf States, in Arkansas and Tennessee, and it may be in some other States. This is a broad assertion; yet true. There is not one man in all those mentioned States that are leaders in Christian thought. There are men in these fields who are noted for their piety and experience, and who on account of their fidelity to the Church, to truth, and to their convictions of right have saved many, and who to-day stand honored by the Church. There are young men, some have graduated from a fair course of study, and some have not, who are leaders in their section. They are full of zeal and have great success in their labors, these also are an honor to the Church. These statements do not impair the validity of the former that one regular graduate in Theology, who is able to grasp and wrestle with the great truths that lie hidden, and who are able to deal with the live questions of the Church touching her doctrine, her ministry and her policy, we have not.

Our ministry must therefore be elevated. It must stand head and shoulders with the ministry of any other Church; it must command by its educated ability as much as by its Christian zeal and piety. We must have men that are wide awake in the church, and who can attend to the work of the church in an intelligent manner. We must have men that can not only follow implicity in the rear, but that are able to lead the van; men, that do not simply treat the old trodden paths in the utterance of Christian truth, and that content themselves with the simple surface truths of of the Bible; but by their keen penetration and keen insight and educated ability can pierce the veil of obscurity and bring forth things new as well as old, and who can by the use of their cultured minds seek and know for themselves that "whatever is; is right." Men who know the doctrines of the Church, and who when they present them, will do so with such a confidence as to the correctness of their views that will carry conviction to their hearers. Men who can command the respect from even the most learned in their community. More anon.

Savage died in prison at Bristol where he was confined for the debt of $40.

The death of Collins was through neglect, first causing mental derangement.

Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield" was sold for a trifle to save him from the grip of the law.

Fielding lies in the burying ground of the English factory at Lisbon, without a stone to mark the spot.

Milton sold his copyright of "Paradise Lost" for $75, at three payments, and finished his life in obscurity.

Important Resolution.

At the recent meeting of the General Committee of Church Extension, the following important resolutions were passed unanimously.

Resolved, That in all cases where preachers travel beyond the limits of their pastoral charges soliciting funds for any special purpose, the Bishops be requested to suggest the appointment of an auditing committee by the conference to which the solicitor belongs to audit his accounts.

Resolved, That the ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, be requested to inquire carefully into the authority of all traveling solicitors and when the requisite authority from the Bishop presiding at their Conference cannot be shown, that aid should be refused in all cases.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in all our church papers, and universal attention be called to them.

Bishop Huntington, at Amherst, uttered one epigram about "self-made men" which is worth remembering: "The self-made man is badly made who is not willing to own that another man might have made him better."

"Oh, for a thousand tongues," she sang in the choir. Two hours afterwards one tongue was found sufficient to scandalize four-fifths of the women in three counties.—Turner's Falls Reporter.

Mr. Moody's sermons have been translated into Arabic. Protestant missionaries in Syria read extracts from them every Sunday evening to their converts.

Two men, confined in Sabine parish, La., jail for horse stealing were taken out and lynched on the 15th.

Intelligence was recently brought to San Francisco by the United States revenue from an arctic cruise. The vessel stopped at St. Lawrence Island and found, that of the seven hundred natives living there, no less than five hundred were dead of starvation. And the deplorable cause of this terrible condition is attributed to the whisky sold them by traders, from the effects of which they neglected to provide their usual supplies, and so wretchedly perished.

A meeting was held in the coal mining company's office, Stellarton Nova Scotia, and it was resolved to send the following appeal to the mayors and wardens of various towns throughout Canada and the United States: "A terrible calamity has happened in this place. Two disasters in succession have been the means of killing fifty men and boys, and leaving thirty-three widows and 110 orphans. Seven hundred men, representing a population of 2000, are thrown out of employment in the face of a Canadian winter. We appeal to the generous public for immediate help. Contributions may be sent to James Hudst, manager of the Albion, Stellarton, N. S."

A terrible accident took place in a boarding house near Bordell City, Pa., last Thursday night. A number of men were sitting around a fire and one of them, to make it burn better, poured a cup of kerosene on it. The remains of the oil in the cup took fire and the man threw it down into the open pail of kerosene, which at once exploded covering all the men with burning oil and setting the house on fire. The men ran out of doors, with their clothing in flames, and four out of five were burned to death. In the ruins of the burned building were found the charred bodies of four other men, who, at the time of the accident, were asleep in the upper story.

A Birmingham, Ala., special of the 16th says: At 1 o'clock just as the north-bound passenger train on the Alabama and Great Southern railroad was passing Elyton the engine struck a mule and was thrown down an embankment twenty-five feet, the engine being wrecked. James B. McFerron, son of Rev. Dr. J. B. McFerron, agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, at Nashville, who was in the baggage-car, thinking to escape, and expecting the baggage car to follow the course of the engine, jumped in the opposite direction, the baggage car falling on him and crushing his body into the earth, killing him instantly. A large number of passengers were on the train, and some were slightly bruised.

One wing of the State Insane Asylum at St. Paul, Minnesota, burned on the night of the 15th. The number of lives lost by burning and freezing is variously estimated at from twenty to fifty. The loss on the building is $800,000. The scene at the burning of the poor inmates in the hospital was heartrending in the extreme. So appalling a sight has rarely been witnessed. The patients in the annex wing were males, and many of them refused to leave the building at all. They ran up and down the hall, screaming and crying, and those who could not be coaxed nor forced out of the building became victims of the flames or were suffocated. Those who escaped fled half-naked in all directions, and could not be overtaken. The night was bitterly cold, and the sufferings of these poor wretches, half clothed, and with bare feet, can hardly be imagined. [illegible] who escaped [illegible]

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

JOSEPH C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, November 25, 1880.

The Southwestern for 1880.

We will send the SOUTHWESTERN to all new subscribers for 1881, free from the time their subscriptions are received up to January 1. This is a liberal offer. We give no premiums. The price of the paper is $2 a year, postage prepaid. This makes the SOUTHWESTERN one of the cheapest religious papers published in America.

Subscribers for 1881 have already commenced coming in. We trust the preachers everywhere will at once begin the canvas for 1881 in earnest.

We propose to make the paper better than ever during the months to come. But our success depends on the co-operation of the pastors and other friends who have in the past done so much in building up our subscription list.

Send on the names and money for 1881.

You cannot spend two dollars better than to take your Church paper.

Christianity vs. Philosophy.

We are boastfully informed in these days, by a large class of free thinkers, that Christianity has discovered no sublimer truth than philosophy, neither is it the author of more excellent precepts than another religion.

Compare, says the learned skeptic, the precepts of Pythagoras, the doctrines of the Stoics, or the teachings of the ancient schools of ethics, with Christianity, and where is the superiority.

Does the religion of Jesus Christ commend piety, recommend justice, denounce dishonesty and hypocracy? Does it arraign and condemn vicious practices, deceitful affections, with all corrupt desires? so does philosophy arraign, and with all sound ethical doctrines condemn the same.

Even if all this be fully conceded, which is far wide of the mark, and the question be pushed with pertenacity—wherein then does Christianity claim the pre-eminence? We do not hesitate to answer that when the wisest schools of philosophy and ethics have taught men their duty, what they were to do, and what not to do, they had no binding authority upon their followers, and were rejected at will, whenever traversing their corrupt propensities and passions, if they sought to enforce such practices.

But Christianity rising superior to nature, and far superior to worldly philosophy, enforced its precepts with the reward of eternal life and happiness to its faithful votary, or threatened the violator with the dread doom of eternal death and the deprivation of all happiness; on the contrary, however, philosophy or the schools of ethics could do absolutely nothing in the enforcement of its precepts and doctrines, save to make the feeble announcement, that virtue was a sufficient reward to itself, which announcement fell impotent and still born in the hour of its utterance when confronted by the lustful, impetuous and fiery corruptions of the human heart.

Hence it is, that Christianity enforces its doctrines with more effecting arguments than any other religion in the world, and supplemented its arguments with the divine authority of miracles, while the lives of its followers, as well as their death, attest the power and truth of its divine argument and superiority.

Church Extension Anniversary.

The fifteenth anniversary of the Board of Church Extension was held in Green Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, Thursday evening, Nov. 11th, 1880, at half past seven o'clock. Bishop Foster presiding.

After the reading of the Scriptures by Rev. Jno. W. Locke, D.D., singing and prayer by Rev. Thos. B. Lemen, the report of the Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer was read by the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. A. J. Kynett, D.D. Rev. J. M. Trimble, D.D., then made an address in substance as follows: "I have been permitted to enjoy the anniversaries of this society for several years, and I will venture to say a few things in regard to our work as a church, and especially in the direction of the efforts that we are making to furnish homes or folds for the flock of Christ. During my life time all these benevolent enterprises of the Church of my fellow [illegible] originated. We hear [illegible] that we have too many [illegible] too many benevolent [illegible] on hand. Not at all. [illegible] been thrust upon us by the Great Head of the Church. I [illegible] the friends of the Church [illegible] Society to-night what we [illegible] is comparatively little [illegible] do. I pray God [illegible] the [illegible] of this Church [illegible] and give [illegible] aid in carrying [illegible] work until [illegible] valley of the West [illegible] upon it a house of God."

[illegible] I am not, by [illegible] duties of the last [illegible] fully prepared for this [illegible] but I would be a poor [illegible] Methodist preacher [illegible] such a cause as [illegible] When we remember that in [illegible] churches have been [illegible] in their work [illegible] that within the [illegible] more than two [illegible] work [illegible] that needs to be done." Well now, do you think I am not glad to see such men. This Church wants to reach out its hands a thousand miles away to help those who are not as well provided for as they are here. I want to say one thing. This Church Extension Society is doing a blessed thing for our Church architecture in the country. When I look out of the car window and see the churches scattered along the lines, I say there is church architecture after plan No. 1, and these are after plan No 2, why we come to recognize them instantly. We have something churchly in our style of architecture. God bless the Church Extension Society.

Chaplain McCabe said: A grand old Irishman of the West used to say "I would like to 'spake' a few words before I begin. I will do that to-night. Kansas has voted for the constitutional amendment to suppress the liquor traffic by 20,000 majority (cheers) I am just from there and I found all our preachers and people engaged in that great conflict. We propose to light the beacon fires of the millenium on the plains of Kansas What has this to do with Church Extension? Much every way. Before long you will see a stream of people starting for Kansas, such as this country never saw before. There is only one great West. We will never have another. We must see to it that the seeds of civil and religious liberty are sown thickly and broadcast everywhere on those prairies.

The Chaplain gave many incidents of the power of church extension work upon the frontier and said we are now aiding one church every day let us make it two a day and then we will be satisfied for a while.

Gnawing A Bone.

We find this item in the Christian Advocate, of Marshall, Texas, ostensibly published for colored Methodists by white men:

> The Colored Bishop question is just now receiving a great deal of consideration from the press of the M. E. Church, especially the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Atlanta Advocate. But when any one learns that these two Advocates are read and supported by the colored race, it will readily be apparent why they thus use their columns to pacify an outraged colored membership. If they had shown themselves thus earnest before the General Conference convened, set down on the claims of 200,000 colored members and cleared out for their homes, it would have a better sound in the ear of the people. It is awful to do an injustice to the poor, but it is far more worse to try to justify it.

We plead guilty to the charge of having advocated the views of our constituency on the colored bishop question, but if any one has been "terribly outraged" in the matter the Marshall Advocate has only to make it known to be entitled to a patent for original discovery. We suggest to the Advocate that it should read up a little on this subject and having learned the whole truth that it launch its ink bolts at us—if we deserve it; otherwise let Christian love cork them up.

More than 3,000 Hindu girls are being educated in Christian schools in India.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—The mother of Bishop Andrews celebrated her eighty-third birthday on Friday, Gunpowder Plot day.

—The address of Bishop E. O. Haven, after Jan. 1, 1881, will be 1041 Market street, San Francisco, Cal.

—Hon. Milton G. Urner, a lay delegate to the last M. E. General Conference, was re-elected Member of Congress from the sixth Congressional district of Maryland.

—Gov. Wiltz appointed ex-Chief Justice Manning, of Rapides, to contest the seat of Senator Kellogg. He is not as strong a man as Judge Spofford, and times are not auspicions for the unseating of a Republican Senator at Bourbon behests.

—Judge Hawkins, the Republican Governor elect of Tennessee, is a man of marked ability, and was an unconditional Union man during the entire war, is a member of the Methodist Church, and was in attendance at the General Conference in Cincinnati at the time of his nomination. He made a thorough canvass of the State, speaking in nearly every county, and his election is largely due to his personal efforts.—Ex.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

J. M. Nevils, Koscinsko: "We promised our children in Sunday school to ask our editor to publish the names of those who recited the most catechism questions, from 30 upward: Miss Jennie Wilson, 30; Mrs. Jannie George, 35; Miss Millie Doty, 38; Miss Luranie Tools, 52, and Miss Mattie E. Nevils, 75."

C. W. Ivy, Shuqualak: "My work is in a good spiritual condition; but it took hard work to accomplish it, for when I came to this circuit there was not a Bible at any of the preaching points, and none of the leaders had a Disciplins. I had purchased three Bibles and a new Hymnal. Six class leaders at Scooba have bought new Disciplines of 1880. This roused the leaders at St. Peter. No one was taking the SOUTHWESTERN until I came. We are trying to raise our collection for the annual conference, and what is due our elder, $11.80.

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

E. E. Cooper, Alleyton: "Elder Richardson was with us on the 30th, and preached a glorious dedication sermon for our new church. Revs. L. Carper, of Columbus, C. Young, of the circuit; and V. B. Banks, of Industry, all took an active part. The church is growing. We have added 64. When I came I found two taking the ADVOCATE, now there are 22. Sabbath school organized as a missionary society, with 170 scholars. Rev. J. W. Robinson made a stirring appeal for the school at Austin. He said the college walls must go up, and our people say Amen. We gave him $30 this year. Our good people are willing to do all they can."

At about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening a fire broke out in the northern part of Newport, Arkansas, and under the influence of a high wind the flames rapidly spread until two-thirds of the buildings in the town were destroyed. About 200 families were rendered homeless, and the distress is very great. The loss is about $200,000.

A prohibitory law against opium smoking has been put in operation in some provinces of China. The Mandarins of Shanghai have closed the shops of the opium-smokers, and given those who have contracted the bad habit a certain time in which to wean themselves from the pipe. The reform is said to be quite popular.

A Commendable Work.

MR. EDITOR—One morning not many days ago as I was taking my usual walk I chanced to see a cottage which stood all alone. It seemed desolate and apparently it was void of attraction but as I drew near by close observation revealed to me these memorable words, "The Lord will provide" a sensation which is indescribable, immediately passed all over me and I then knew without any further information that the inhabitants whoever they were had implicit confidence in Him who rules and governs the universe.

These words constantly wringing in my ears, caused me to seek the origin of this place. I sought and ascertained that this was the "Home for the aged destitute women"—that it took its origin from a prayer meeting held about the first of January in the year of 1879 conducted by the Rev. Geo. H. Walker and other brethren, who resolved within themselves to plan a place of comfort for the aged and destitute. In said undertaking they were successful and on the fourteenth day of February it became a permanent organization.

With a desire to relieve all who might be entrusted to their care, trusting in their imperishable motto "The Lord will provide" they soon became the recipients of a small though sufficient sum of money to start their institution on an economical basis. They then procured this dwelling of which we have spoken and fitting it up for the receival of the aged and destitute sent forth missionaries who gathered in the sick and administered to their wants and in less time than two months they had relieved the sufferings and attended to the wants of a vast number of invalids. Thus the confidence and trust that they had placed in God for help in this dark and needful hour, was not baffled. Oh! that there was more of this commendable faith in the Church of Christ then would infidelity, profligacy and formalism be done away with and the Christian work move on in union and harmony.

One of the objects of this home has been made known but the greatest is the inducements offered within its walls to aid the inmates to prepare for the bar of justice, regularly they've had their prayer meetings, and as a compensation a number of souls have been liberated from the prisons of sin, some of whom have gone to the portals where all is peace and pure delight.

Through the course of twenty-one or two months, by the attention of this Home many a widows heart has been made to rejoice. The guardians of the Home have borne the infirmities of the weak. They have had pity upon the poor and in accordance with Scripture, have lent unto the Lord. Is not such a work commendable and worthy of praise? Though sickness, disease, and even death has left its impress upon the lintels of their door posts they console themselves and rely upon this promise, "The Lord will Provide." AN OBSERVER.

Letter from Van Buren.

DEAR EDITOR—The work in this part of the country is looking up. We have been carrying on a protracted meeting which resulted in four conversions and five accessions to the church. The spirit of revival is high. The Sabbath school gave a festival and raised about $40.

I have just returned from Fayetteville, where I carried on a week's meeting; there were two conversions. Fayetteville was left without a preacher. After the elder trying all he could to get a man for the work, he then asked me to go as often as I could and see after it. I have been doing all I could. We have not gained much, nor lost anything. The people have no church house; need one badly, but are too poor to build alone. They have suffered from two storms, one in the spring which caused many to suffer, the larger part of whom are yet suffering from its effects, of the storm; and a few days ago some that were not hurt in the spring, were caught in one and lost all they had. These afflictions have left them unable to build, or to do but little in the way of trying to build. These people are to be pitied. I have asked help from the public, but no help comes in the way of assisting them to built a house of worship. I have raised $100 this year. I am trying hard to get some of our young men into our schools, for teachers and preachers. I hope to see the time come when our ranks will be filled with an educated ministry; and the school rooms filled with better teachers. We need some more good, earnest young men filled with the Holy Ghost, in the Little Rock Conference, who are willing to come in and undergo the hardships of a Methodist preacher, for Christ sake. We have no fat places in the conferences but hard earnest work that must be done by the old Church—for no church can do it, and no Church is so well fortified to meet the demand as it is. When speaking of the grand old Church, our hearts glow with gladness when looking over our work in the Little Rock Conference—on every circuit. In every station we see a mark of the old Church. Where people have been too poor to support their ministers, she has said "Here am I, for thou didst call me;" and where they have been too poor to build churches she has come the second time with a like response. There are quite a number of other church organizations. Go through the State of Arkansas; among all the rest and among colored people you cannot find one dozen of houses of worship, that are fit for the purpose outside of the houses that the church has helped to build. This shows the right one is among the poor people. One more grand feature is that the old Church knows no man on account of color; the skin makes no difference with the M. E. Church. Her treasuries are opened to all alike. We boast of our Church for her grand principles. May God bless her with all her grand institutions of learning.

Respectfully,

A. J. PHILLIPS.

Letter from Brinkley.

BRINKLEY, Ark., Nov. 15, 1880.

Todd's Chapel in Saulsbury, 6 miles from Brinkley, at the 3d quarterly meeting, Nov. 7, was dedicated to God. This chapel is a monument to the hero and martyr of Arkansas Methodism, Rev. W. M. Todd, whose only crime for which his life was taken, was preaching the gospel to the colored people. The Marshall who had the prosecution in hand has gone to parts unknown. His deputy succeeded him in the marshallship of Brinkley—seemingly as an honor for shooting men; for Bro. Todd was his second and but a few weeks since he shot and killed a colored man on the street for no other crime, so the papers say, than talking and laughing a little above the ordinary tone of voice, and still goes unpunished. A man who came to Bro. Bell's house, where Bro. Todd was lying wounded, and wanted to take the wounded man and his sick brother out and kill them, has since hung himself to a limb. We only wonder that a lot more of those crazy bulldozers who think they can scare and shoot the law of God out of the old Methodist Church, have not committed suicide either by hanging themselves or some other way. But in spite of all the threats, murders, etc., the old flag of Methodism floats in this Southern bay, inviting all men to come and be saved. Bro. Anderson, the pastor, has had to leave the work on account of sickness, having suffered for more than three months intensely with chills, fever, and finally with liver complaint from which we fear he will never recover. He was a good man and a hopeful young preacher—true as too few are—indeed our work can illy spare him, but he has returned to his home in Missouri.

Bro. J. Johnson, late of Alabama, has been appointed to the charge. Bro. McCay, Bell, Kennedy, Henderson and Pinkett, with many others are worthy of mention for their energy and sturdy efforts in the progress of this enterprise. $62 was raised to pay up dues on the church. 1 was converted and 6 joined the church making a society of 30 or more members, and they too of the first class. Many of them would be a blessing and an honor to many white societies in this land. Some 20 or more take the SOUTHWESTERN. Some members of the Baptist Church keep up their subscription to the paper here at this point as well as at other places. Bro. Willingham, the leading deacon of that church here, a promising young man, is one of this class. These are but the dawnings of better days! I. G. POLLARD.

From Clarksville.

CLARKSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 8, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—We the trustees of Clarksville circuit, want to let the friends of our Church know, through the ADVOCATE, what has been done for our cause here this year. At the commencement of the year we had no parsonage for our pastor, but by the help of God we have built one, it is not finished inside; but he is living in it, and is very comfortable. The parsonage has cost us as far as we have gone, $229.50. We have dug a cistern costing us $68, and bought furniture for parsonage $25.25; total for parsonage $324.75. Have bought a stove for church, and made other improvements on the church; total cost $38. We have also bought a stove for a church in the country costing $11.30; total raised for improvement of church property on this work this year, $374.15. Our pastor has received up to the present, $207.40; we have paid the elder $37.50; other preachers taking $53.25; burying the dead, sick and poor, $33.45; making a total on this circuit, $705.85.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Nov. 28, 1880.—JACOB AND PHARAOH.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 47: 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness.—Prov. 16:31.

TOPIC.—The Brother Helping.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

After making himself known to his brethren, the first thought of Joseph was for his father. He exhorted them to bear witness that it was really himself that spoke unto them. They were to tell their father of all his glory in Egypt, and again were enjoined to make haste to bring him down to see his son. Then he fell upon the neck of his brother Benjamin, and wept there, and afterwards kissed all of his brethren and wept upon them.

The news of the arrival of Joseph's brethren "pleased Pharaoh well, and his servants." Joseph, then, was popular, not only with Pharaoh, but with all those who served the king. Anything that gave peculiar joy to Joseph was a matter of public rejoicing, such was the sympathy that all felt for him. And Pharaoh, apparently acting upon a thought of his own, seconds the request of Joseph to his brethren by commanding him to bid them go up into the land of Canaan and bring back with them, not only their father, but their own families and all their household goods. And he ordered Joseph to furnish them with wagons for the transportation of that which belonged to them, and with provisions for the journey. Joseph added on his own account changes of raiment for all of his brethren, and gave to Benjamin three hundred pieces of silver and five changes of raiment, and sent to his father ten asses laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten more with corn, bread, and meat for his use on the journey down. Last of all, he cautioned his brethren not to fall out by the way.

As was entirely natural, Jacob found it hard to believe the story that his sons brought back. It was only when he saw the wagons that Joseph had sent that his spirit revived. Israel commenced his journey, but proceeded no further than Beer-sheba before he offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac in thanksgiving for the mercies of which he just had learned. The journey was made, and the long separated father and son met in Goshen, whither Joseph had gone up to meet his father. The account of meeting is very touching. "Now," said Israel unto Joseph, almost in the same words with which Simeon greeted the long-looked for Son in the temple, "Let me die, since I have seen thy face, because thou art yet alive."

Joseph came, and told Pharaoh. He would take nothing for granted. Though he had been the means of saving the whole country from starvation, yet he would not bestow any possession upon his relatives, nor feed them from the public crib without the express warrant of the king. In this he was a model public officer. He asked the king for nothing but the privilege of allowing his brethren to sojourn in the land of Goshen.

For this purpose he took five of them into the presence of the king as though all their lives they had done him nothing but kindness. To every Egyptian, though not probably to Pharaoh himself, every shepherd was "an abomination." For the sake of his brethren Joseph was willing to brave this feeling of contempt, and to acknowledge his relationship. For such a reception at court must have done very much to have secured for these despised shepherds a standing with the people among whom they had come to make their home. Pharaoh showed his approval of the brothers of Joseph by two orders. The king intimates that all the land of Egypt is before them. "Make them rulers over my cattle."

Pharaoh was a king, but Jacob was a "prince of God." His gray hairs were his crown, and the staff upon which he leaned was his scepter. Jacob blessed Pharaoh. Struck with the venerable appearance and with the indications of his great age, the king very naturally was moved to enquire the number of the years of his life. Jacob replied by terming them the days of the years of his pilgrimage. As but few, Joseph was a man to carry a purpose out clear to the end. He nourished his father and his brethren. He gave to them for all that time what they needed for the support of their families. They daily depended upon his bounty, just as, after being forgiven, we depend upon the daily care of God.

What It Does.

Kidney-Wort moves the bowels regularly, cleanses the blood, and radically cures kidney disease, gravel, piles, biliousness, headache, and pains which are caused by disordered liver and kidneys. Thousands have been cured. Why should you not try it? Your druggist will tell you that it is one of the most successful medicines known. It is sold in both Dry and Liquid forms, and in either form it is positive and safe. Dallas, Tex. Herald.

MARRIAGES.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old fashioned home set-fen that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Neosho News.

DEATHS.

One of the oldest members of the M. E. Church, at this place departed this life on the night of the 6th inst., in great peace, Rev. Robert Fitzgerald. He was 78 years old and had been a member of the Methodist Church for 50 years. He leaves a wife, children and many friends to mourn the loss. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

PERSONAL.

Rev. [illegible] writes Editor J. H. Leath of Cincinnati, while per this note to change address of his paper to proprietor of Hop Bitters (Hamburg Regulator) to the same place. I have taken your bitters myself, and I prescribe them in my family, and I know they are what you claim for them, the value of a lady's life. You may publish this if you wish. I have tried many other bitters before I found your Hop Bitters. It is unlike them in every respect. It is unrivaled for years, and puts in the shade all others. Respectfully, [illegible] M.D., Bethany P. O.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

J. C. Walden, Brandon: "Our work is moving on with success. We have built one church on this circuit, a frame building 24x36. The church and lot is estimated at $500. This year 50 members have been added to the church. Elder Williams visited us at the appointed time."

TENNESSEE.

Let us hear from you, brethren. Fill up your lists, and let us send out good tidings to your people each week. Shall we have 1000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN from Tennessee this year?

H. W. Moody, Murfreesboro circuit: "I have closed a protracted meeting with 27 converts, 24 adults baptized, 30 added to the church. Building a church at Spencer's. Elder Manson was with us. Collection $17.50. The spiritual condition of the circuit is very good. All the benevolent collections will be brought up promptly."

Complications.

If the thousands that now have their rest and comfort destroyed by complication of liver and kidney complaints would give nature's remedy, Kidney-Wort, a trial they would be speedily cured. It acts on both organs at the same time and therefore completely fills the bill for a perfect remedy. If you have a lame back and disordered kidneys use it at once. Don't neglect them.—Mirror and Farmer.

How time changes! In the good Old Testament days it was considered a miracle for an ass to speak, and now nothing short of a miracle will keep one quiet.

CHRIST. GERBER, Wholesale Hardware, Toledo, Ohio, says:—The Excelsior Kidney Pad has accomplished more for my wife in three weeks than all the medicine she has taken in three years. Refer all skeptics to me.—See Adv.

IS A REALLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR WASTING AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

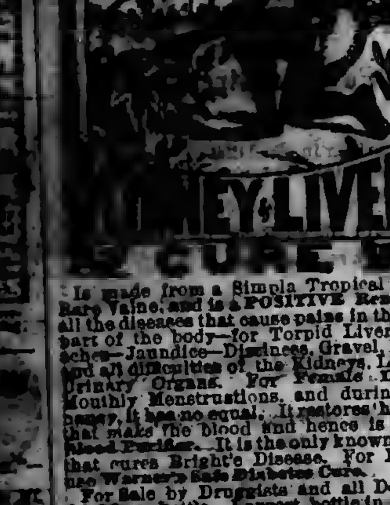
HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

Meets the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and revitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.



Is made from a Simple Tropical Leaf of Rare Value, and is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness, Gravel, Malaria, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs. For Female Diseases, Monthly Menstruations, and during Pregnancy, it has no equal. It restores the organs that make the blood and hence is the best Blood Purifier. It is the only known remedy that cures Bright's Disease. For Diabetes, use Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure.
For Sale by Druggists and all Dealers at $1.25 per bottle. Largest bottle in the market. Try it. H. H. WARNER & CO., Rochester, N. Y.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my brother, John Lee Webb, who left here last June and said he was going to Mississipi Bottom. I have heard nothing from him since. My address is College Hill, Lafayette Co., Miss.
J. G. WEBB.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my father's people. My grandfather is Dick Rideout, grandmother Peggy Rideout. They belonged to Sam Shags, of Maryland, 13 miles from Washington City. They had 16 children—Betty, James, Barbary, Tettee, Rachel, Mary, David Henderson, Sophia, Amelia, Christian, Ann. My father is Henderson Rideout. He was sold, ran off, was caught and sold to a negro trader in 1844, who brought him to New Orleans and sold him in Mississippi. I saw aunt Sophia in 1866 at which time she was living in Claiborne Co., Miss. My address is Columbia, Miss.
DAVID RIDEOUT.

FOOD FOR THE BRAIN AND NERVES that will invigorate the body without intoxicating is what we need in these days of rush and worry. Parker's Ginger Tonic restores the vital energies, soothes the nerves and brings good health quicker than anything you can use Tribune. See other column.

The laws of Tennessee do not allow a saloon near a school house. Mr. Thos. Hughes says the only annoying circumstance connected with his Tennessee colony thus far was the presence of two Tennesseeans who squatted on a piece of ground, the title to which was so involved that it could not be purchased, and opened a liquor saloon. They could not be driven away until two Indiana ladies started a school next door, when in accordance with the State laws, the saloon keepers were obliged to move.

I have no more doubt of the beneficial effects of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure than I have that the Genesee river empties into Lake Ontario.—Rev. J. E. Rankin, D. D., Washington, D. C.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED

CHILD'S CATARRH SPECIFIC

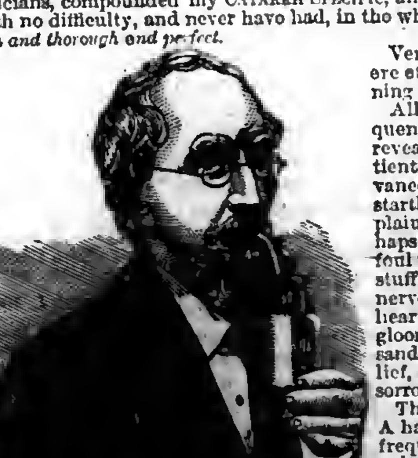
A Disease that is Disgusting! Destructive! Deadly!

Do Not Use Nostrums in Attempting Its Cure.

THIRTEEN YEARS AGO

Catarrh was considered an incurable disease. I had then suffered for eighteen years in a manner only known to those who have had this disease in some of its worst forms. My professional duties made exposure a necessity, and I was first attacked by a slight cold; terrible headaches, which would not be cured, followed, with deafness and ringing in the ears, soreness of the throat, disgusting nasal discharges, weak, inflamed eyes, hawking, raising of vile matter, black, and sometimes bloody mucus, coughing, with great soreness of the lungs. The liver and stomach were polluted with the mass of diseased matter running from the head, until dyspepsia, indigestion and liver complaint made me a wreck, and incapacitated me for my professional duties, and confined me to my bed. Compelled to resign my pastorate, and feeling that my end was near, in desperation I gave up the physicians, compounded my CATARRH SPECIFIC, and wrought upon myself a wonderful cure. Now, at the age of sixty-seven, I am wholly restored, can speak for hours with no difficulty, and never have had, in the whole thirteen years, the slightest return of the disease. EVERY PHYSICIAN who has examined my Specific, says it is certain and thorough and perfect.

Compelled by the calls of fellow-suffering friends, I have given my Specific to the public. The great success that has followed has given rise to a host of imitators. Thousands now are suffering ailments of various kinds which have their source in various forms of catarrhal malady. Many thousands who should be cautious and not trifle with health, go to the nearest druggist's and buy one of the many "cure-alls" that advertise "catarrh" among all the other ailments the body is heir to. This method of seeking relief is not only useless, but positively dangerous, and many victims, after spending large sums in trying this class of remedies, realize, perhaps when it is too late, that catarrh can not be trifled with, and should be met in the same determined way that it attacks the system.
T. P. CHILDS.



Thousands suffer without knowing the nature of this almost universal complaint. It is an ulceration of the throat. Its indications are hawking, spitting, weak, inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, dryness and heat of the nose, matter running from the head down the throat, often ringing or deafness in the ears, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness and dizziness of the head, often in the first stages, but more commonly in its advanced stages, attended with pains in chest or left side, and under the shoulder blades. Indigestion usually attends catarrh; a hacking cough and colds are very common. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part.

Very little pain attends catarrh, until the liver and lungs are attacked in consequence of the stream of pollution running from the head into the stomach.

All persons thus affected take cold easily, and have frequently a running at the nostrils. The breath sometimes reveals to all around the corruption within, while the patient has frequently lost all sense of smell. The disease advances covertly, until pain in the chest, lungs or bowels startles him; he hacks and coughs, has dyspepsia, liver complaint, and is urged by his doctor to take this or that; perhaps cod liver oil is prescribed. Perfectly ridiculous! The foul ulcers in the head can not be reached by pouring such stuff into the poor, jaded stomach. The patient becomes nervous; the voice is harsh and unnatural; he feels disheartened; memory loses her power, judgment her seal; gloomy forebodings hang overhead. Hundreds, yes, thousands, in such circumstances feel that to die would be a relief, and many even do cut the thread of life to end their sorrows.

There is one other form of catarrh that we must refer to. A hard substance forms in the head, becomes very painful, frequently breaks, and is blown with great pain and difficulty from the nose. In other cases it will eat through and discharge itself by the side of the nose, making a terrible gangrenous sore. One of my patients was in this condition. She is now getting along finely; the sore healed up, the stench and acrid matter all gone.

For All Afflicted With Catarrh In Any Of Its Developments, CHILD'S CATARRH SPECIFIC Affords A SAFE, SURE AND PERMANENT CURE.

My Treatment.

By my manner of treatment the applications are made to reach the diseased parts in the most thorough manner possible, immediately penetrating every cavity of the head that communicates with the nasal passages, and subjecting every portion of the lining membrane to the cleansing, soothing and healing action of the remedies employed, with the most salutary effects. So effective is our plan, that a single application generally produces decided relief, the cavities are thoroughly cleansed of the accumulated mucus and morbid matter, the offensive smell, if any exists, is removed, and relief from all the other troublesome symptoms is almost immediately obtained. The discharges soon become lessened, the irritation is soothed and allayed, the inflammation subsides, ulcerations are made to heal, the constitution soon rallies and is built up, so that the whole system, relieved from the drain of the poison, is in a manner revitalized and made new, and finally a radical cure is effected.

To All Who Suffer With Catarrh.

60,000 Catarrhal Cases have applied to me for relief. Many thousands have received my Specific, and are cured. We deem it only fair that every one that wishes should have the opportunity to ascertain whether we are able to accomplish all that we claim; and for this purpose we add a few of the many hundreds of unsolicited certificates which have been sent to us by grateful patients—as well as the addresses of some who have been successfully treated, almost any of whom will doubtless respond to any inquiry by letter, if accompanied by a stamp to pay postage. Having been cured themselves, they doubtless will be willing to let the afflicted know where they can find certain relief. We have thousands of these certificates from all classes—physicians, clergymen, lawyers, judges, merchants, bankers and business men.

REFERENCES AND CERTIFICATES.

197 E. Fayette St., Baltimore, Md., Dec. 27, 1879.
REV. T. P. CHILDS:—I have the pleasure of informing you that after a faithful use of your remedy for eight weeks ending March 23, 1879, I am completely rid of a stubborn case of catarrh of three years' standing—breathing tubes clear as a whistle, appetite good and digestion good. Yours, THOMAS B. HAND.

DR. CHILDS: Dear Brother.—This is to certify that I have used your Catarrh Specific and Cold Air Inhaling Balm in my family with most beneficial results. My son, now in Madison University, New York, was so badly afflicted with catarrh, I feared for a time he was incurable; and when I applied to you for medicine my hope was faint. It acted speedily and efficiently, and I believe saved him from an early grave. He is now perfectly cured. My wife, who had become very much reduced by a residence in Farther India as a missionary, has derived great benefit from your Inhaling Balm. I can most heartily commend these medicines to the afflicted, believing they are all they profess to be. THOMAS ALLEN, Dayton, O.

REV. T. P. CHILDS: Dear Sir.—I think you have the true theory and practice for cure of nasal catarrh, and also for the treatment of the respiratory organs. My throat is now so well restored that I can lecture daily without any difficulty, and find no difficulty whatever in preaching. You are at full liberty to use my name for the benefit of others.
Yours very truly, E. B. FAIRFIELD, D.D., LL.D., Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.

REV. T. P. CHILDS: Dear Sir.—About three years ago a severe attack of measles left my daughter with catarrh of the head. A severe cold aggravated the disease. I commenced using your treatment, and she commenced to improve at once. Now my daughter is entirely well—all the horrible disease gone. Your treatment is marvelous in its effects.
JOHN W. RILEY, U. S. Express Ag't, Troy, O.

Ofahoma, Leake Co., Miss., May 23, 1880.
REV. T. P. CHILDS:—Since receiving your Specific I have been hitting hard. It takes hard hitting to make such an enemy as catarrh surrender—at least it did in my case. There remain still some symptoms of bronchial irritation, but that is now so slight, and the symptoms appear so seldom, that I scarcely regard them. Whatever may be said of other cures effected either by your remedy or any other, mine is really a marvelous one. I feel as if I had almost taken a new lease on life, so great is the change of my whole being. I am close to sixty-nine years old, and can endure nearly as much labor as I did at forty. I have a good appetite, not ravenous, but a healthy one; good digestion, and enjoy excellent sleep, undisturbed by any of those symptoms of strangulation of which I wrote last fall. R. E. MELVIN.

Petrolia, Pa., April 12, 1880.
REV. T. P. CHILDS: Dear Sir.—It affords me great pleasure to notify you that I have (as I sincerely believe) entirely recovered from that loathsome disease, catarrh, through your very beneficial treatment. Very respectfully yours, B. BENEDICT.

To The Reader.

Child's Catarrh Treatment is not sold in the drug-stores as a patent medicine, because it must be adapted to the wants and constitutional needs of each patient. A knowledge of this is of importance, and of this we make a special study. We desire communication with the sufferer, that the treatment may be suited to his case. We especially seek to treat those who have tried other remedies without getting the expected benefit. We send to any one earnestly seeking the cure of this most vile and distressing disease, on receipt of a three-cent stamp, a full statement of method of home treatment and cost, with scores of testimonials from those who have been cured. KIDNEY-WORT

THE ONLY MEDICINE That Acts at the Same Time on THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, and the KIDNEYS.

These great organs are the natural cleansers of the system. If they work well, health will be perfect: if they become clogged, dreadful diseases are sure to follow with TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Constipation and Piles, or Kidney Complaints, Gravel, Diabetes, Sediment in the Urine, Milky or Ropy Urine; or Rheumatic Pains and Aches, are developed because the blood is poisoned with the humors that should have been expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT will restore the healthy action and all these destroying evils will be banished; neglect them and you will live but to suffer. Thousands have been cured. Try it and you will add one more to the number. Take it and health will once more gladden your heart.

Why suffer longer from the torment of an aching back?
Why bear such distress from Constipation and Piles?
Why be so fearful because of disordered urine?

KIDNEY-WORT will cure you. Try a package at once and be satisfied.

It is a dry vegetable compound and One Package makes six quarts of Medicine.

Your Druggist has it, or will get it for you. Insist upon having it. Price, $1.00.

Liquid KIDNEY-WORT

In response to the urgent requests of great numbers of people who prefer to purchase a Kidney-Wort already prepared, the proprietors of this celebrated remedy now prepare it in liquid form as well as dry. It is very concentrated, is put up in large bottles, and is equally efficient as that put up dry in tin cans. It saves the necessity of preparing, is always ready, and is more easily taken by most people. Price, $1 per bottle.

The Tennessee Conference.

The fourteenth session of the Tennessee Conference began at McMinnville, Tenn., Thursday, Nov. 18. Bishop Foster presided and Dr. [illegible] and [illegible] D. W. Hays, J. W. Pickett and H. W. Key were the [illegible]. We arrived at the seat of the Conference on Friday and found the business well advanced. It was to us a great pleasure to look in upon and meet with these [illegible] for the first time.

The reports of the presiding elders were all read from manuscripts and indicated careful supervision. We glean some of the principal facts.

NASHVILLE DISTRICT.

Rev. Calvin [illegible], Presiding Elder of the Nashville district, gave the following facts: The pastors had nearly all been faithful and zealous. The work in Marshall county which had been almost deserted was now prosperous. Twenty-five conversions. Church buildings [illegible]. The circuit borders on three counties. [illegible] families [illegible] J. W. [illegible] self [illegible] a school. The [illegible] has suffered from [illegible] fever. The [illegible] church [illegible] [illegible] built. In many places the white people have co-operated with our people and aided them in their work. At Murfreesboro we are building a splendid church, under the direction of Bro. Kay. The Murfreesboro circuit, under Bro. Moody has done well. Bro. Robinson has done good work on the Woodbury work. Joseph Smith, on the Stone River circuit has improved the church property. McMinnville station under Bro. Ward has labored under many difficulties. The society has no church building. The McMinnville circuit, Bro. Brooks pastor, has made some progress. One church is being built. Bro. Phillips at Shelbyville has had a hard year. Bro. Miller did not think he could remain on the Shelbyville circuit, but he did his duty and God greatly blessed him, and gave him 75 converts and 60 joined the church. Sparta circuit, under Bro. Green, is advancing. The people have not much money but pay for preaching in corn, meat and potatoes. On the Caney Fork circuit one acre of ground has been given to the church on which to build, and in Smith county a church has been built and dedicated. On the Alexandria circuit we have three churches and a parsonage. Bro. Provine was sick awhile but is restored. Bro. E. Manson has had a good year on North Lebanon circuit. A splendid log church has been built at one point. The Summitville circuit extends into two counties and has three churches and several other preaching places, and Bro. Burlington has led the people well. On Martha's Creek circuit, Bro. House pastor, there is no church but several preaching places. The claims for ministerial support on the district were $3790, and the amount paid was $2802.90. Of the $300 assessed for benevolent collections $100 were raised.

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

Rev. W. S. Butler gave a detailed statement of the condition of the West Tennessee district, over which he has just completed a four years term. He reported a general improvement among the churches. The church at Lawrenceburgh is being pushed to completion, and when done will be used also as a school house. Our space will not permit a detailed statement of the work in this district but the report was creditable.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Forty-six ministers were stationed and five places were left to be supplied. The Conference includes the work among our colored people in middle and west Tennessee, and near many of the preaching places there were reported numerous points where new churches could be established had we the men. It was specially gratifying to notice the advance made in reaching new communities during the past year.

In no Conference in the Southern [illegible] the blessed influence of [illegible] schools more manifest than in this. The Central Tennessee College at Nashville, under the presidency of Dr. J. Braden, has given fully a score of men to the Conference, and many of them are stepping rapidly to the front and will be leaders among their people. [illegible] of men who were received [illegible] far above the average. Their [illegible] in their various [illegible] been very successful [illegible] examinations had been [illegible]. The class re[illegible] unanimously asked [illegible] in the same class [illegible] each could master [illegible] studies. These facts [illegible] of a stimulat[illegible] the [illegible] of the Conference on [illegible] excellence. [illegible] is beginning to [illegible] the great practical [illegible] which confront [illegible]. On the temperance [illegible] Conference has for [illegible] a noble stand. [illegible] was called, and [illegible] publicly [illegible] any in[illegible] [illegible] show a [illegible]

Bishop Foster preached a scholarly, instructive and inspiring discourse on the personality and work of the Holy Spirit. In the afternoon we spoke on the work of our Church in the Southern States, and at night Dr. Fuller, of Atlanta, preached very acceptably to a crowded house. Several other pulpits of the town were filled by visiting brethren and members of the conference. Dr. Mitchel, of Atlanta, preached in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at 11 a. m., and in the M. E. Church, South, at night. We enjoyed a pleasant service with the Cumberland brethren at night. The anniversary services held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights were largely attended and full of interest. Mr. A. B. Jones, our gentlemanly and successful manager of the Atlanta Depository was present during the session.

REPORTS.

The reports of the Conference were concise, and yet touched all the interests of church work in the Conference.

Of the West Tennessee Preparatory School at Mason, the report on education said:

> The year has been one of prosperity for this school. Rev. C. E. Alexander, with his excellent wife, have done a splendid work in this school, sustaining the reputation of the school for a correct discipline and thorough instruction.

Of the Central Tennessee College the report gave a cheering account. The enrolment last year was as follows: in College classes, 18; preparatory, 18; academic, 12; normal, 175; theological, 50; medical, 22; law, 2. Total, 335. The Meharry brothers, of Shawneetown, Indiana, were gratefully remembered for their generous donations. Over two hundred and twenty-five students have already been enrolled the present year. A gracious revival visited the College last year. Dr. Braden is doing a grand work, and his conference appreciate and honor him with confidence and cooperation.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

The SOUTHWESTERN is popular in the Tennessee Conference, as is also the Methodist Advocate. The following resolutions were unanimously passed:

> Resolved, That in the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE we have a paper well suited to our Conference and work;
> Resolved, That we re-affirm our former action in making it our official journal.
> Resolved, That we regard the Methodist Advocate as a most excellent paper and we are glad of its continued success.
> Resolved, That we re-affirm our action of last year and hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to put one of these church papers in each of the families of church and congregation.

BISHOP FOSTER.

The administration of Bishop Foster was in every way acceptable and efficient. His numerous addresses were eminently practical and inspiring. His return to the Conference at any future time would be a source of gratification to all concerned.

STATISTICS.

The statistics show a gratifying increase in everything except membership. In this item there are manifestly imperfect reports. The baptisms of adults foot up 892, which would indicate an increase of at least a thousand members while the statistics show a decrease of 1617. Either the report of membership last year was too large or this year too small. The reports of the pastors gave accounts of many revivals during the year. The reports of the number of churches and their value indicate a decrease in both items, which is evidently incorrect. The number of officers, teachers and scholars in the Sunday-schools has increased. In the matter of benevolent collections the showing is very gratifying. The increase in the contributions to these funds amounts to $564.57; the whole amount raised being $970.42 against $405.85 last year. The whole amount of cash raised by the Conference during the year for benevolent and miscellaneous purposes, for building, paying debts and supporting the ministry, is $17,161.78. Considering all the circumstances, we doubt if any Conference in the Church has done better.

We tabulate the statistics for 1879 and 1880 as follows:

Gleanings from the Houston District.

Riding in the cars years ago in the State of New Hampshire, I saw two clergymen who were having a discussion as to the conscious state of the dead. One affirming that the dead were in a conscious state of being, the other that they knew nothing. After having discussed this question for some half hour, for some cause the one who believed that the dead retained a consciousness of their own personality and identity became disgusted with his opponent and declined further discussion. Behind them there was seated one of the most eminent lawyers of the State. Whereupon the other clergyman turned to him and said "Sir, you have heard our conversation, you have heard this man express his views, did you ever hear the like in all of your life?" "O, yes," said the lawyer, "when I was a small boy I used to hear my father and mother talk much the same. But please tell me what is your special faith; I see in this conversation you have been like a squirrel in a tree, hopping from limb to limb, what do you believe?" "Well," said the clergyman, "I am not sectarian, I am a sort of cosmopolitan; I take in all that is good, I have no special faith." "So I thought," said the lawyer, "but I have more respect for the man who has some special religious faith, though it may be error to me, than I have for him who is so unsectarian and cosmopolitan as to believe in nothing. I need and must have something definite." So Mr. Editor, I have a hundred fold more respect for that Methodist preacher who does something, though he may feel that it is poorly done, and not a thousandth part of what he ought to do, than I have for that man who is so easily satisfied that he is seldom, if ever, with his books; but long and content in his bed, regular at his meals, frequent with his pipe, and over whose work has such a complete victory, that he really does nothing towards building up the Church. Oyster Creek and Chenango, are [illegible] looked upon as among the [illegible] Christian labor; and yet there are men that women in these bottoms "sick and helpless and ready to die," for whom Christ died. Bro. Kelley has been for nearly two years laboring at these points; he has been among the people "not to be ministered unto, but to minister," and to give his time, his talent, his strength service for their benefit. At Oyster Creek he has succeeded in erecting a comfortable log church, and at Chenango two acres of land have been secured upon which to erect a church and parsonage. Bro. Kelley reports two Sunday schools, and twenty on probation.

At Columbia we have good people who are willing of their ability to do for the up-building of Christ's Church. During the year the trustees have erected a comfortable parsonage and nearly paid for it. Bro. Childs reports forty-four received on probation, and but one Sunday school, one having been abandoned. That is bad, almost as bad as bad can be; it is bad for the children, bad for the Church, and bad for the preacher who consented to it. Wake up, brother, take care of the children.

In the campaign of 1862 Gen. McClellan seemed to be trying to solve the problem of eternal indefiniteness. He was always getting ready to do something. Halleck's directions were to "march, and march at once." McClellan's orders to the corps commanders was to get ready. He spent so much time in getting ready and waiting, that at last he was just a little too late. Bro. Smith, at Chances Prarie, has been getting ready; he reports twenty-six received on probation, and two Sunday schools, where we formally had three.

The importance of a Church in a community cannot be too fully emphasized. Without a church we cannot gather nor hold the people. A good church generally commands a good congregation. The sect which first erects a church in any community has a great advantage, and they who afford the best church accommodations will ordinarily have the best people of the community. The sect that expects to dominate must hold a sound theology and have a rich religious experience and good houses of worship. As a sect we have a sound theology, and generally our people have a rich religious experience and our churches are rising fast through the whole State. At Caney, in Madagorda county, Bro. Abner Thomas has succeeded in erecting a good church and paid for the same.

At Harrisburg, the trustees have placed three new chandeliers in their church and paid for the same. Bro. Dibble reports one Sunday school in a good condition. At Lynchburg, Bro. Norwood, has had a prosperous year; he reports one Sunday school and seventeen received on probation.

At Hockley we have some of the best people on the district; but strange to say for the two last quarters religiously things, to use a mild term, have been at a stand still. Bro. Gillum reports four Sunday schools, and twenty-eight received on probation.

At Oak Hill, for a part of the year, the lines of God's sheepfold have seemed to run along hard by those of the devil, who has been about as a roaring lion. One Darius Gage was sent to this place, but he proved himself to be as the wolf of the evening, he was a wolf in sheep's clothing, stealthily treading in God's spiritual parturage for the destruction of his lambs. He was to the Church a festering carbuncle. Bro. John King, one of the local preachers on the Hockley work succeeded him, and considering the work of his predecessor, he had done well. The trustees will soon have their church completed. Thus it will be seen that God has given the Houston district a commendable measure of prosperity during the conference year so soon to close. And while I am not unmindful of what has been accomplished, I count for every church on the district that united earnest persistent devotion to spiritual work which secures the Divine favor and always ensures revival. I never blush for the dear old Church, nor apologize for her presence. Already by her august preparations and magnificent achievements, she has won the profound respect of the Christian world. We may be ashamed of ourselves and of the little work we have done; but it is no time to be ashamed of the grand old Church.

Letter from Kentucky.

BY BISHOP E. O. HAVEN.

Our Kentucky Conference, lately closed, consists of a noble body of men, of nearly one hundred who receive appointments, and who are also aided by several local preachers who help to supply the work. It would be a novelty to our preachers in the more thickly-settled regions of the North, to see the men and the work in a region of immense circuits like this. The most of the preachers ride great distances on horseback, and nearly all on circuits with several preaching places. This Conference is made up of men who were once in the Church, South, and of many others who have joined them since the war. Perhaps as large a portion of them are natives of the State, as in the most of our oldest Conferences. It cannot be denied that our work here is attended by peculiar difficulties. The Kentuckians are justly proud of their State, of its history, and of its prospects. The Methodists too, here, are proud of the history of Methodism in the State. They point to the fact that the first Methodist college that conferred any degrees, was established in Kentucky. If asked why Methodistic education is so low now, their prompt reply is because they are divided, and because of the baleful effects of slavery. Indeed I have never heard more positive circumstantial and direct testimony on the pernicious effects of this institution, than from the ministers and laity of our Kentucky Conference, many of the latter having formerly been owners of slaves. Some who owned them against their will denounce the institution and rejoice in its overthrow. At the same time they seem anxious to have it understood that it had some redeeming features, and that often masters and mistresses endeavored to do their whole Christian duty.

One lady informed me that she personally knew a Christian slave who was usually consulted by his master on business matters, and when his master once found it necessary to sell a negro to pay his debts, advised his master not to sell any other one but himself, and insisted on being sold with a promise of redemption, if the master were able. He was sold, and, to the honor of the master, also redeemed.

The division of Methodism in the State seems to stimulate both parties to greater energy than perhaps they would otherwise exercise. Our Church has undoubtedly gathered in many who would never have joined the Church, South. It is easy to perceive that the influence of our Church is decidedly to elevate the type of religion in the State.

I have enjoyed some opportunities to observe the condition of the colored people. In one place—a village of about 2,000 inhabitants—I found one of our own colored churches. The pastor was well educated, and spends his week days in teaching a school of his own congregation. Nearly one-half of the children of his congregation attend his school, which is a public school, paid by the State, three months, and a private school the rest of the time. In that same village the Roman Catholic Church also keeps a small school, open to all without distinction of color! Think of that, and then observe that Protestants dare not attempt this. In the evening I preached to a large congregation of this people who heard the Word gladly. The views of the white people about them are usually colored by their theoretical notions. The simple fact is that a few of the negroes are abusing their freedom. A few are about as poor as they can be and live. A few are thriving, educating themselves, and steadily growing in civilization. Some of them are doing this with great rapidity.

On my way southward I called at Glasgow, Ky., upon the Louisville Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Here the venerable Bishop Kavanaugh, now in the 55th year of his effective ministry and in his 78th year, presided with dignity and success. Bishop McTyeire was present to assist, if needed. Both of them welcomed me and also Rev. Bro. W. B. Barnett, a fraternal visitor from our Kentucky Conference. I was morally compelled to address them, and preach to them and speak at their missionary anniversary. It was impossible not to be affected by their cordiality and earnest devotion. We, Bro. Barnett and myself and the Southern bishops, talked in public and private with the utmost plainness, each party claiming the right and asserting the intention of doing all we can, in our own way, to bring sinners to Christ and to build up our departments of the Church. I can see no other right position to take. Let us do the work of the hour. Let the future take care of itself.

Before closing this letter I have reached Nashville, Tenn., a beautiful city just about as large as Syracuse, equally beautiful, with clean, macadamized streets, and, in fact, one of the most attractive and promising cities of its size in our whole country. Here is the Central Tennessee College, one of our Freedman's Aid institutions, rapidly assuming the form of a university. It has a main-college building, of brick, four stories high, with rooms occupied by students; a good public building, and is about to dedicate a new Medical College Building, larger than that of the Syracuse Medical College. Its 200 students (exclusive of the Medical Department) are as intelligent, active and as well-behaved as any equal number of students that I ever saw. It has been a pleasure to preach to them and to see in them evidences of commendable progress in liberal courses of study.

The Vanderbilt University in another part of the city, has magnificent buildings and apparatus, and is fast become really a first-class university—but who dares to say that it arouses more thought, educates more mind, or in the sight of God does more good that this Central Tennessee College?

Nashville is fast becoming the great university town of the South. Here are the Vanderbilt University, attended as yet only by young men of the white race; and also the Fisk University under the charge of the Congregationalists; the Nashville Normal and Theological Institute, under the Baptists; and the Central Tennessee College under our own Methodist Episcopal Church. These three last institutions are for students of all colors, or of no color, and of both sexes.—Northern Advocate.

Official Records of the War.

Colonel Robert N. Scott, who has charge of the work of preparing the official records of the late war, has issued the following circular in regard to the work:

"The first series will embrace the formal reports, both Union and Confederate, of military operations, with the correspondence, orders, and returns relating especially thereto, and will be accompanied by an atlas. In this series the events will be arranged according to the campaigns and several theaters of operations (in chronological order), and the Union reports of any event will be immediately followed by the Confederate accounts. The correspondence, etc, not embraced in the 'reports,' will follow (first Union and next Confederate) in chronological order. This will be the series most desired by the public, and according to my present estimate it will embrace about eighty octavo volumes, averaging 800 pages each. The second series will contain the correspondence, orders, reports, and returns, Union and Confederate, relating to prisoners of war, and (so far as the military authorities were concerned) to State or political prisoners. This series will probably embrace four octavo volumes. The third series will contain the correspondence, orders, reports, and returns of the Union authorities, embracing their correspondence with the Confederate officials, and not relating specially to the subject of the first and second series. This will embrace about eight volumes. The fourth series will exhibit the correspondence, etc., of the Confederate authorities not embodied in the preceding series, and will embrace about four volumes."

Remember the good old rabbi who was awakened by one of his twelve sons saying: "Behold! my eleven brothers lie sleeping, and I am the only one who wakens to praise and pray." "Son," said the wise father, "you had better be asleep, too, than wake to censure your brothers." No fault can be as bad as the feeling which is quick to see and speak of other people's wrongs.

The American Missionary for November, makes a general survey of the work of the Association, and mentions the receipt of a donation of 150,000 from Mrs. Valeria G. Stone, of Malden, Mass. The receipts for the year, aside from Mrs. Stone's donation, have been $187,[illegible] which together with the [illegible] on hand Sept. 30, 1879 [illegible], makes a total of $188,[illegible], and the expenditures, $188,172.12; thus giving a credit balance of $783.73.

Living Without God.

The phraseology of the Scriptures in describing the religious life of the soul must be necessarily obscure, and sound strangely mystical to the irreligious or unconverted man, because it portrays a state of heart and life with which he has no personal experience, and can have no practical sympathy.

And hence the meaning of the phrase, and the singular change made by the Scriptures against this large class of mankind, that they are "living without God in the world," appears to them full of contradictions and destitute of all truth.

Therefore, it becomes absolutely necessary to clearly define, and definitely ascertain, the true meaning of this passage of Scripture. We apprehend that the apostle in making this charge, does not mean that God has cut off and shut out this large class of mankind, either from his fatherly providence and love—or the benefits of the great salvation, because we have daily evidences of his benefactions, friendship, and love;—but he does mean, that man in the depravity and wickedness of his heart and imagination, has cut off, and cast out God from his thoughts and love. He does mean that irreligious men retain no habitual remembrance of his presence, and hence their profanity; no habitual recognition of his authority, and hence their disobedience; nor willing heart and mind to keep his commands, and hence their neglect of all Christian duties.

They forget in their worldly mode of thought and living, to draw the conclusion that it is possible for them to live a life of honesty and innocence so far as the laws of society and human government are concerned, and yet be wilfully criminal in their lives toward the laws and government of God.

As proof of this, just glance up and down the busy lines of humanity that confront you everywhere, and you behold the merchant on the crowded marts of trade, the lawyer in court dealing with the dispensations of justice, the Senators busy with state-craft or declaiming on the forum, the philosopher revelling in the speculations of philosophy, the student fascinated with the charms of literature, the physician with his diagnosis about the bed of the sick, the philanthropist devising measures for the relief of oppressed humanity, the father amid the charms of social life; in fact all classes of men are found, over all this wide field of activities living and acting, wholly forgetful of the fact, that there is a God ruling in high authority, and taking knowledge of all the thoughts and actions of men.

Amid all these varied employments and earthly scenes, God does not enter, he is not recognized, not thought of as the giver of all their faculties, and to whom they are responsible; the spirit of worldliness and ungodliness holds its unbroken influence over all their transactions, and hence they are living without God in the world, and no sure hope of eternal happiness.

[illegible] the name of God and Christ may be heard issuing from their lips in careless speech and in casual conversation, but tinctured with irreverence or dishonored by profanity; while they attach no [illegible] to such pure and holy [illegible]. They are living as wholly [illegible] of God in their pur[illegible] as if he did not by his provi[illegible] preside over the fall of a [illegible] as well as the destinies of [illegible] and nations; living as forget[illegible] of God as if he did not endow [illegible] with the physical powers and [illegible] faculties; and mental [illegible] they carry on their [illegible] and [illegible] which they [illegible] their Creator by [illegible] and wickedness [illegible], the charge is true, [illegible] living without God in the [illegible] and [illegible] hope of eternal [illegible].

Over the Field.

NORTHWARD.

[illegible] in the midst [illegible] I took the cars at [illegible] New Orleans, [illegible] Conference, to be [illegible]. By starting [illegible] by [illegible] the [illegible] Railroad [illegible] a few days [illegible] to the [illegible] rain and [illegible] the [illegible] year, and can judge of its late great improvements. Through Pullman cars are now run daily to Vicksburg, St. Louis, Chicago, and Cincinnati. The managers of the road pursue a liberal and intelligent policy towards its patrons, and also study to adjust rates of travel and freight so as to build up commerce along the line. The train was crowded with merchants and their families returning from New Orleans on low rate excursion tickets. What was given on these tickets by the company will return many fold in freights.

All night the rain poured, but toward morning the rattle in the car room was less, but the lowering temperature indicated that we were passing rapidly into colder air. When daylight came we were rushing on through a snow storm. The ground was frozen and covered with a blanket of white, and the air was still filled with the falling snow. Out of summer into winter! How often is this the case; out of the summer of success and peace we plunge into the winter of defeat and sorrow! But that hardened ground and drifting snow need not indicate defeat and sorrow. They are of part God's plan in nature to make the earth the better for man to live on. Every biting frost and every snow drift is a blessing in disguise to purify the air, and enrich the soil.

THE LATE ELECTION.

Nothing has so taken the whole South by surprise since the surrender of Lee, as the defeat of Gen. Hancock. Southern papers had led the masses to believe that his election was sure. Now that he was so overwhelmingly defeated, it is interesting as well as instructive to study the effects upon the people. As a rule the defeat is taken philosophically. The extreme Bourbon element is very quiet. As the editor of the Southern Standard said in his paper after the election, "We haven't much to say this week. If anybody feels like talking he can have the floor." "Mum's the word," with the Southern bourbon now, and I think it best for all parties concerned that it should continue to be his watch word for all time to come. Bourbonism in Church and State, in the South has cursed our people of all classes and our industries of every grade long enough, and if the defeat of Hancock has permanently broken the rule of Bourbonism in the South, all good people will rejoice. Business men who are thoughtful, although a majority of them who voted in the South, voted for Hancock, are yet as a rule, I believe, glad of his defeat. The election of Garfield means continued financial prosperity, it means that our currency will continue to be as good as gold. Sensible Southern business men see this, and are now saying so. Col. George Washington, of East Tennessee, says in a Knoxville paper in talking to his Democratic friends: "The credit of the government is sky-high; and don't let's lie about it and say it isn't. Our notes are the equivalent of gold, both at home and abroad. Greenbackism is dead; fiatmoneyism is dead, what a pity the Democracy can't claim the honor of its murder!" Of course Republicans everywhere are happy. I imagined I could pick out the faces of Republicans as they came in the cars or stood on the platforms, when the train stopped. I did not see a colored face that did not wear a broad smile. The Nashville American estimates that the Republican vote of Tennessee has increased 25,000 since the election. Sherman's march to the sea showed the Confederacy was hollow and weak. If President Garfield is wise in his policy toward the South, Southern Bourbonism will go to the wall everywhere, and the "Solid South" will be a thing of the past.

SPECIMEN ELECTION TRICKS.

A Southern gentleman who witnessed the election at Granada, Mississippi, told me how the overwhelming Republican vote of the place was overcome. At one precinct no one appeared to swear in the officers who were to conduct the election. At another no ballot box was provided, and at a third the Republicans had no ticket; because by some strange fatality the package in the express office containing them was exchanged, and a box of almanacs sent in their place. All accidental, of course. These "accidents," with the false or imperfect registrations, which always happened to be against the Republicans, did the work.

NASHVILLE.

I changed cars at Milan, and again at McKenzie, and at 5 p. m. the seventeenth, was at Nashville. At the Nicholson House found a [illegible] public house. [illegible] landlady is a niece by marriage of [illegible] Hamline, of Evans[illegible] the par[illegible] death [illegible] of Dr. J. B. [illegible] Publish[illegible] from the [illegible] cars which were off the track and one car falling on him killed him instantly. He was loved and respected by many, and the bereaved family was the recipient of all that human sympathy could suggest. Here I met that worthy representative of the American Bible Society, Rev. Dr. Savage, of Covington, Ky. He reports great destitution among the people of Tennessee in the matter of the Holy Scriptures. One-third of the people of middle and Western Tennessee were found wholly without the Scriptures. In one county almost entirely inhabited by white people, more than one-half the families had no part of the Bible.

Austin Conference.

The following is an abstract of the fourth and last day's proceedings of the Austin Conference, which met at Dallas, Texas, November 18:

Conference opened at 9 o'clock, after the usual conference prayer meeting, Bishop Haven presiding.

H. Webb, treasurer of the conference, made a report of the benevolent moneys, which was adopted.

H. Skewes was granted a superannuated relation.

A. H. Beat, from Southeast Indiana conference; A. W. Decker, of Arkansas conference; M. H. Nicholls, of South Indiana conference, and Wm. Jesse Grant, were given a supernumerary appointment.

The report of the committee on periodicals was adopted.

The report of the committee on church extension was read, and Dr. Moss, special agent of the Church Extension Society, briefly addressed the conference.

W. M. Lemen was continued on trial.

A complimentary resolution concerning the SOUTHWESTERN was adopted.

C. W. Adams was ordained deacon under the missionary rule.

A complimentary resolution was adopted concerning the visit of Bishop Haven.

The second Thursday in December was appointed a fast day for the success of the Central church, in Austin.

L. H. Carhart was appointed a committee to purchase a conference tent.

S. C. Locket read the statistical report, which was adopted.

Resolutions of thanks were offered to Rev. George E. Neis and the people of Dallas for the happy entertainment of the conference.

A collection was taken to purchase a conference trunk.

The conference stewards were allowed discretion in distributing funds in their hands.

The following resolution was adopted by a rising vote:

Resolved, That we tender our hearty thanks to the Rev. George E. Neis for his faithful efforts to provide homes for the conference and its visitors.

Resolved, That we hereby record our gratitude to those who have so kindly entertained us, praying that they may be richly blessed by Him who promised that not a cup of cold water should be given a disciple without its reward; and that those who have so heartily welcomed us as heralds of the cross may, though late, be welcomed to the home of the angels.

Rev. M. H. Nichols, transferred from South India, was appointed to preach the annual missionary sermon, with A. A. Johnson alternate.

The secretary read up the journal. After remarks by the Bishop, Dr. Moss, of Elmira, New York, led in prayer, and Bishop Haven read the appointments of the ministers for the conference year as follows:

DALLAS DISTRICT—L. H. Carhart, P. E.

The next session of the conference will meet at Fort Worth.

Concert of Prayer.

At the late meeting of the General Missionary Committee the following resolution was unanimously adopted, namely:

Resolved, That the Bishops be requested to call upon all our pastors and churches to observe their first regular prayer-meeting in December next as a time of special prayer in behalf of the Missionary cause, praying for a great increase of Missionary spirit in the Church, and the outpouring of the Holy Ghost on all our Mission fields at home and abroad; and that this meeting be made the beginning of a series of meetings for the same purpose, to be held monthly, or, where this is found impracticable, at least quarterly.

Being in fullest sympathy with the purposes of this resolution, the Bishops do most affectionately and earnestly beseech all our pastors and people to devote the first prayer-meeting in December to devout and importunate prayer to Almighty God for the outpouring of the Holy Ghost on all our churches and on all the people, and for his special grace upon the Missionary cause, so dear to us all; and, also, upon our Missions and missionaries in all parts of the world.

On behalf of the Bishops,

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, Sec'y.

New York, Nov. 20, 1880.

Programme of Concert for Missions for December, 1880.

The Board of Bishops, at the request of the General Missionary Committee, have called upon the Church to observe the first prayer-meeting evening in December as an occasion on which special prayer is to be made to God for the outpouring of his Spirit upon our churches, to awaken them to a better appreciation of their responsibilities concerning the salvation of the world; and, thereafter, it is hoped that this will be continued monthly till the whole Church is penitently with the spirit of Missions. The small amount contributed for this great work compared with its Heaven-appointed demands, with the ability of our people, or with the liberality of our Wesleyan neighbors in Canada and in Great Britain, starts the alarming inquiry, Whether our churches and congregations have taken this work as they ought to their hearts? To be comparatively unmoved while whole nations are out of Christ is a deplorable indication, especially since a single soul in peril should touch most deeply every Christian. The little force sent out to bear the hope of the gospel to these millions ought, every individual of them, to be objects of profoundest interest to their brethren, and irrepressible prayers should arise to God for their welfare and success. It is not right for us to sit with indifference in our cushioned pews, while the brethren on the frontiers and in heathen wilds are toiling amid privations and discouragement. Let it be known over the world that the whole Church at stated times unite in prayer for Missions, and a thrill of confidence and joy will be felt in every Mission.

The secretaries have been directed to prepare monthly such suggestions as may aid in the conduct of these occasions. We accordingly present the following as the first of the series. None of these programmes should be slavishly followed, but regarded as helps, to be supplemented from every quarter:

1. SINGING.—Hymn 770, C. M., "I love thy kingdom, Lord."

2. PRAYER.—(By the pastor, or some one designated.) Topics: Adoration — God's greatness. He created all things (Psa. xc. 2.) He redeemed our world; it belongs to him. Confession—"We are his"—our bodies, souls, endowments, time, talent, all are his. Implore pardon, purification, new inspiration for life and its work. Thanksgiving for the privileges of a Christian land—a fellowship with Christ in toil and sacrifice. Supplication for a new sense of the worth of souls; for a broader view of Christ's kingdom, wide as the world; for a general awakening on the part of the Church to the wants and woes and perils of mankind.

3. Let the pastor or leader explain briefly the object of the concert, and exhort to fervency and freedom.

4. SINGING.—Hymn 928, L. M., "Jesus, thy Church, with longing eyes;" or Hymn 942, 8, 7, 4, "Who but thou, Almighty Spirit."

5. SCRIPTURE READINGS.—Let two persons be previously selected to read, unless the pastor prefer to read himself. First Reader.—"The Great Commission," Mark xvi, 15-20. Second Reader.—Psalm 11.

6. PRAYER for our missionaries and their families; for those in Africa, in the midst of malaria; for those in Mexico and China, liable at all times to persecution; for those in India, with hearty thanksgiving that not one of our people, native or American, was among the lost by the late land-slide; for those in Europe, persecuted and sometimes imprisoned; for those in the South, sharing with the poor and oppressed in their lowliness; for those on the frontier, amid extensive trials and great exposures.

7. SINGING.—Hymn 653, 8, 7, "Take the name of Jesus with you;" or Hymn 660, C. M., "Must Jesus bear the cross alone."

8. REMARKS, not exceeding five minutes by some previously appointed. Subject, "DEMANDS OF THE FIELD." In China we have three Missions—Foochow, Central China, and North China—which are hundreds of miles apart, and are geographically related about as they would be were they located in New York, Massachusetts, and Illinois. In all this field, one third larger than all the United States and Territories, including Alaska, one hundred and four times as large as England, with many cities larger than New York, and with a population more than eight times as large as the population of the United States. In all this vast population of this great empire we have, missionaries, 14; assistant missionaries, 12; missionaries of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, 11; native preachers, 86; chapelkeepers, 2; day-school teachers, 2; day-schools of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, 25; Bible women, 12.

Place this force down by the fact that China could absorb every minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and every male member of the Methodist Episcopal Church over twenty-one years of age, and give to each a congregation larger than that statedly gathered in any Methodist Episcopal church in the United States, and you see the need.

India is larger than all the New England, Middle, and Southern States, with 240,000,000. We have American missionaries, male, 20; female, 20; native preachers, members of Conference, 14; local, 60.

In Bulgaria and Turkey, where we hope to reach millions of Mohammedans and regenerate the Greek Church, we have American missionaries, 4; and Bulgarian preachers, 4.

Japan has a population three fourths as large as the population of the United States, and is opening her schools for American teachers, and is adopting the Bible as a text-book on moral science, and is pleading with us to send her teachers. In this great field we have missionaries, 6; assistant missionaries, 5; native helpers, 40; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, lady missionaries, 5; native assistants, 5. There is very much land yet to possess, but in the name of God we can go up and possess it.

9. SINGING.—Stanzas 3 and 5 of Hymn 938, 7,6, "What though the spicy breezes," or Hymn 932, 7,6, "The morning light is breaking;" or Hymn 381, H. M., "Blow ye the trumpet, blow!"

10. REMARKS.—Needs of the home work. Some 3,000 pastors in this country are supported, either in whole or in part, by the Missionary Society, and without this help they would be driven from their destitute but important fields. They are among the Freedmen, the German, Scandinavian, Chinese, Welsh, and scattered all along the frontier. These people need the gospel, and our national safety requires them to have it. Nearly half of the collections of the year will be used on the home field. Should we send our brethren to the frontier, and then withhold the supplies? God forbid!

11. PRAYER.—For our country; for the Churches within it; for a general awakening; for the preservation of the Sabbath; for the success of our home missionaries, and for their comfort and preservation.

12. SINGING.—Hymn 1090, 6,4, "God bless our native land;" or Hymn 879, S. M., "The harvest dawn is near."

13. MISCELLANEOUS.—Remarks, prayers, singing, and readings. Such topics as the following are suggested:

(a.) Do the heathen need the gospel? God gave his Son because he saw their need. The cross is God's answer to this question. Read Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; John xx, 21. Read Rom. i. 17, as the inspired authoritative statement of the condition of the best race of heathen the world has produced.

(b.) Will the gospel save the heathen? Anglo-Saxons, Sandwich Islanders, Fijis, Ling Ting Ching.

(c.) What does God require of us? We are co-workers with God. He waits for us.

(d.) What has the world a right to expect of Methodism? Consider her doctrines, her experience, her numbers, her wealth, etc.

14. CLOSING.—Hymn 8, L. M., "From all that dwell below the skies," first and last stanzas.

15. Prayer and benediction.

A significant article by the Hon. George S. Boutwell in the North American Review for December, entitled "The Future of the Republican Party," defines the position which the Republican party is, in logic and in policy, bound to assume toward the Southern States. Concession, compromise, conciliation, the author says in substance, will no longer be tolerated. No person is to be admitted to a seat in the Senate, unless the record of his election is clear. New laws are to be passed for the supervision and protection of the ballots in the election of members of the House of Representatives and Presidential electors. The civil magistrates must have the means within call (the army) of protecting the ballot and keeping the peace. The United States must insure to the people of each State a truly republican form of government. No grants will be made for internal improvements in any Southern State where the equality of all men before the law is not a living practical fact. The other articles are: "The Discoveries at Olympia," by Prof. Ernst Curtius; "Rational Sunday Observance," by the Rev. James Freeman Clarke; "Southern Statesmen and their Policy," by the Hon. John Jay; "The Ruins of Central America," by Desire Charnay; "The Distribution of Time," by Dr. Leonard Waldo; "The Public-School Failure," by Richard Grant White; "The Validity of the Emancipation Edict," by Aaron A. Ferris. For sale by booksellers and newsdealers generally.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Dr. D. P. Kidder has been elected corresponding secretary of the education board.

—Rev. Robert Hodge, a superannuate of Louisiana Conference, we regret to learn, is suffering from a severe illness.

—Dr. O. T. Moss, of Elmira, New York, who accompanied Bishop Haven to Austin Conference, has our thanks for appreciated favors.

—On September 29th the distinguished Methodist layman, Wm. McArthur, M. P., was elected Lord Mayor of London.

—Dr. A. H. Redford, formerly Book Agent of the Southern Methodist Book Concern at Nashville, has been appointed presiding elder of Bowling Green district, Ky.

—From Rev. Jesse P. Price: "I write you a gist of the life of John Boyd, colored, who was elected to the lower house of the Legislature of Tennessee last Tuesday, by nearly 800 majority over the two Democratic candidates. Mr. Boyd was elected one of the magistrates of Tipton county four years ago, and was appointed one of the census takers in our county this year. These positions he has filled with great credit and has gained the confidence of the whole people. Mr. Boyd has a fair education. He is one of the trustees of our preparatory school, and belongs to the Mason M. E. Sabbath-school and teaches a Bible class. Mr. Boyd has sound judgment and sound morals. His age is 28 years. He was born and raised near Mason, Tenn. He married Miss M. O. Dagett last February a year ago."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

W. H. H. Gallion, Holly Springs: "I am pleased to say to the brethren through our much beloved SOUTHWESTERN that Asbury Chapel is in a good condition. It has the sympathy and support of the faculty of the Shaw University and other teachers of the city. We have made considerable improvement on our church property this year, to the amount of $175. The sisters, through their indefatigable efforts, collected $29.40. We have now a choir under the supervision of Prof. W. L. French of Shaw University, and it promises to do much good, being composed of some of the best material we have among us. Our Sabbath-school, under the supervision of Prof. W. W. Hooper, with an efficient corps of teachers, is, to say the least, a grand success. It has an average of more than 200 pupils. Our brethren should be proud to know that their children are afforded such good opportunities of learning true Methodism and "the way that surpasses all understanding." Last Sunday, the 7th inst., was a grand one with us. We had a large attendance at Sabbath-school and two excellent sermons. The Sabbath-school and congregation was notified at their respective services that a marriage would take place that night at 9 o'clock. The names of the happy ones were not mentioned with the announcement, therefore when the hour arrived the church was crowded to its utmost capacity, and there was hardly standing room. The ceremony was preceded by an interesting sermon from one of our "locals," followed by a sincere prayer, offered by Prof. W. L. French, after which Mr. W. H. Gallion called for the parties desiring to be united in holy bonds to come forth. Mr. R. H. Holloway, of this city, and Miss Susan Jones, of New Orleans, rose from amidst the congregation and wended their way through the crowded aisle to the altar, and took upon themselves the solemn obligations of man and wife. After receiving many congratulations from their friends they went to the residence of the groom, where we will leave them. May the God of Isaac and Rebecca bless and prosper them in their future career and crown them at the end of a well spent life."

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana Methodists are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

At Mount Zion, New Orleans, Rev. P. King, pastor, their quarterly conference commenced at 7:30 o'clock, Oct. 29, presiding elder present. The stewards made their reports in a business-like manner as follows: Public collections, $165.45; class collections, $46.60; Missionary Society, $32; for coal, $20; total, $264.05. Expenditures during the quarter: To pastor, $110.45; to presiding elder, $6.25; rent, $40; secretary, $10; lights, $19; stove coal, $20; petty expenses, $46.35; benevolence, J. Hayward, $12; total, $264.05. The presiding elder's presence never fails to give new vigor to this struggling people. The brethren here have learned to hang confidently on his always ready advice."

TENNESSEE.

Let us hear from you, brethren. Fill up your lists, and let us send out good tidings to your people each week. Shall we have 1000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN from Tennessee this year?

A. M. Woodson, Overall: "We have been carrying on a revival at Lawrence Chapel, with grand success. About 13 converts and 25 additions; 125 communicants at love feast. We have had much trouble this year with other ministers speaking against our preacher in charge, but when Bro. H. M. Media came here the work was in a drooping condition; since he went to work heartily one new church has been built and others repaired. The whole church prays that conference may return him to Murfreesboro circuit."

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

Nelson Hendricks, Paris: "Our noble pastor, Rev. Taylor M. Moore, was sent to labor with us when the church had 48 members. He has aroused it, and by repeated revivals increased the membership to 124, completed the building neatly at a cost of $1,000, and also built a neat parsonage. With his pleasant wife the cause of Christ has been built up. On Oct. 30 a grand fair was given. Prizes were given to the prettiest babies, and it was a joyful time. We netted $173.75, and shall fit up our pastor and send him to conference with his salary paid. It is our desire that conference return him. He has been instrumental in accomplishing so much good."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Mr. Foerster declares there is no present necessity for coercive measures in Ireland, and an early session of Parliament is unnecessary.

Dervish Pasha succeeded in entering Dulcigno after an engagement with the Albanians which lasted eight hours. Both sides suffered considerable loss.

Judge Houston decided on the 24th inst. that the newly elected officers of New Orleans were entitled to their places, and said the spirit of the law must govern and not the letter. An appeal to the Supreme Court was taken.

Mr. Healey, secretary of Mr. Parnell, who was recently committed for trial on the charge of intimidating Mr. Manning, a tenant farmer, has been elected member of Parliament for Wexfordborough, without opposition, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Wm. A. Redmond.

A dispatch from Indianapolis says: B. S. Parker, Republican elector, nominated in place of Gen. Thos. W. Bennett, who was withdrawn because of his alleged connection with a Federal office, has been defeated through the blunder of omitting his name from the Republican tickets in Perry, Floyd, Bartholomew, Putnam and Wells counties, in which Parker did not get a single vote. This will elect D. W. Chambers, Democratic elector, by about 5000 majority. The state board of supervisors subsequently allowed clerks to correct the error, and the entire electoral vote will be cast for Gen. Garfield.

Our School at Little Rock.

There was a time when it seemed from all outside appearance that we would not only have a school in Arkansas for the benefit of our people and church, but that we would have a school building for the accommodation of the school. But it was too much like a winter's day, when it had been cloudy and cold for weeks and at last the sun is permitted to rise cloudless, and everything bids fair for a beautiful day, but in a few hours the north wind rises and brings the dark clouds which blight all hope of a beautiful day. It was also like a summer cloud, after a long drought, and everything is parched, when all at once the distant thunder is heard, the lightning is seen flashing and the dark and muddy cloud advancing. The hearts of the people are leaping for joy; the vegetables seem to raise their drooping heads, as if anxious to quench their raging thirst; and suddenly the cloud passes over without raining a drop. So it was with the idea of building a house for our school. As soon as there was a change made in our church work there seemed to be a falling off in the interest that was at first manifested. In fact, the idea of building has almost ceased to be an idea at all.

In 1876, at the first district conference held for that year for the Little Rock district, Arkansas conference, I introduced a resolution which was adopted, asking Dr. Rust to start a school in Wesley Chapel, Little Rock. In a few months Rev. W. R. Hammett, who was appointed on the Freedmen's Aid Committee by the General Conference of 1876, came through Little Rock on his way North to meet the General Committee of the Freedman's Aid Society, and stopped to see me about the matter. So I went around and saw the trustees of my church and got them to sign a petition asking the Board of Managers of the Freedman's Aid Society to start a school for our people and church in Wesley Chapel, Little Rock. So at the annual conference, held at Fort Smith in 1877, who did we see there? Why, Dr. Rust, looking up our school matter. In November a school was started, with Miss H. M. Perkins at the head. But prior to this a building for the school was talked of, and efforts were made to raise money for that purpose. Some money was raised and the question of building was kept agitated until 1879, when a change took place in our church work which seemed to paralyze the question of building. So I have not heard much about the building since.

The school has been running each year since its organization, and is doing a good work. But is the school a permanent one without a building? Answer—no, and cannot be. And if the question of building is not resurrected and put into action the school cannot do the good that is needed to justify its continuation. So I am of the opinion that one of two things must be done. A building for the accommodation of the school must be had, or the school will never be anything more than it is, if it continues to be a school at all. Now I think that each member of the Little Rock conference ought to put his brain to work at once and try to devise a plan to submit to the conference for its consideration, in behalf of Walden Seminary. This is our school and it will be what we make it. We can make it as permanent as any school in the South. Now, brethren, our annual conference is not far off. We ought to think over this matter and go up to the annual conference prepared to take hold of this matter with renewed vigor. Look, for instance, at our white brethren of the Arkansas conference. They have erected their school building at Harrison twice since we have been talking about ours, and theirs has been burned down both times and yet they are not discour[illegible] father's call. At his request, he bound himself by an oath, that he would not bury his father's remains in Egypt, but would take them to Canaan. His years of happiness in Egypt, and the high position of his son in that land, both together were unable to wean Jacob's heart from the land of promise. That was his land, though actually he owned less territory in it than he did in Egypt, and, to human view, had less of the future there than where he was.

"I die, but God shall be with you." The first portion for Joseph, then, was—God. Israel's death would take away a very dear friend, an affectionate father, a spiritual guide, and a wise counselor, but God more than could make up this loss. He could be more than all these to Joseph. God's work does not depend upon the life of any one individual. A "prince of God" may die, but God will work on through a successor. The son need not fear for the future if his father's God only remains with him. "And bring you again into the land of your fathers." This was a promise for the consolation of Israel in the years that were to follow. Now Joseph was ruling, but in the years to come, his people were to be oppressed and in bondage. This pledge was to fall as a rainbow upon the black cloud of the future. "I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren." This extra portion he gave by faith. Only a prophetic glimpse into the years to come could have enabled Jacob so confidently to have dealt out portions the possession of which was so far in the future. In the distribution of lots of Canaan this extra portion was received by the posterity of Joseph. This double portion represents the double portion of affection that Jacob had for his favorite son. Our heavenly Father exhibits no favoritism. All can have a double portion of his spirit who earnestly desire it. ... we close it is to be noted, that the covenant blessing is not passed down to the posterity of Joseph. Partial as was Jacob, he did not speak the words that designated Joseph as the heir of promise. He said to Ephraim and Manasseh that "In thee shall all Israel bless," but did not say that in them all the families of the earth should be blessed. The favorite son was passed over for the less commendable Judah. Of him Jacob said; "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet until Shiloh come, and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." 49; 10. In Luke the genealogy of Christ is traced back to the lion-like Judah, and not to the Christ-like Joseph. The fact that Joseph married a wife who was the daughter of a priest of On, at least, is suggestive. In the blood of Christ there was no taint coming from a descent from a priest who sacrificed to idols.

Feeble Ladies.

Those languid, tiresome sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, ... Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services

In which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the best forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song. "JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 139 Tunes in full, and 33 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 125 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

THE MAGIC OF A KISS.

"I have brought your dinner, father,"
The blacksmith's daughter said,
And she took from her arms a kettle
And lifted its shining lid;
"There's not any pie or pudding,
So I will give you this—"
And upon his toil-worn forehead

The blacksmith tore off his apron,
And dined in happy mood,
Wondering much at the savor
Hid in his humble food,
While all about him were visions
Full of prophetic bliss;
But he never thought of the magic
In his little daughter's kiss.

While she, with her kettle swinging,
Merrily trudged away,
Stopping at sight of a squirrel,
Catching some wild bird's lay,
And I thought how many a shadow
Of life and fate we should miss
If always our frugal dinners
Were seasoned with a kiss.

Lost Time.

"O ! Miss Jennie !" cried a little girl to her Sabbath-school teacher; "I am so sorry, but I have lost a whole morning."

"Lost a whole morning!" repeated Miss Jennie, with a grave look upon her sweet face; "how is that, Clara?"

"Why, mother was so busy, and she left Harry in my room, and really, Miss Jennie, the little fellow was so full of fun that I have done nothing but play with him."

Just then Harry put up his dimpled arms to "love" Clara, as he called it in his babytalk. He pressed his lips upon her cheek, saying, "Me love oo, Sis."

"You have not lost your morning, Clara," said her teacher. "You have helped your mother, and you have bound your little brother closer to you by your kindness. Such a morning may have been well spent, my dear."

A few days after this Mrs. Palmer was attacked with a severe illness. She could not bear the least noise or confusion, and little Harry's noisy play distressed her very much. So Clara took the little fellow to her own room, rocked him to sleep at night, and cared for him almost as well as his mother could, until Mrs. Palmer recovered.

"My dear child," said the physician as he placed his hand upon the little one's head, "if your mother had not had so kind and thoughtful a daughter I fear that she would not have recovered so soon—if at all."

Then little Clara had her reward. Never call that hour lost which is spent in making others happy.—Presbyterian.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

G. R. Smith, Alleyton: "On Oct. 30 we had a grand time. Rev. E. E. Cooper gave a short lecture to the Sabbath-school in the morning, and Rev. G. W. Richardson preached the dedication sermon. Our church building is about completed, with five glass windows, and whitewashed. We named it after one of the strongest and best men of our Church—Bishop Haven—and called it Haven's Chapel. We are advancing spiritually. The people of Alleyton have assisted us considerably, and we extend to them our hearty thanks. The Missionary Baptists have used great courtesy towards us, and we thank them for their benevolence."

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

A. E. Saunders, Paulding: "My third quarterly conference was held on the 27th. The elder was present, and introduced the new Discipline. The stewards reported $75.70. The dollar system was adopted. The benevolent collections will be taken up. The collection for elder was $1.35."

Suffering Woman.

There is but a very small proportion of the women of this nation that do not suffer from some of the diseases for which Kidney-Wort is a specific. When the bowels have become costive, headache torments, kidneys out of fix, or piles distress, take a package, and its wonderful tonic and renovating power will cure you and give new life.—Watchman.

The Chisolm Martyrs.

A letter to the New York Tribune gives the following interesting facts about the graves of the assassinated members of the Chisolm family:

Some of your readers will be interested to learn that headstones have been placed at the graves of the Chisolm martyrs who lie in the picturesque hillside ground at Malone, Pa., given to them by Mr. Sigismond, a sympathetic stranger.

The inscription on Judge Chisolm's stone is:

"William W. Chisolm, born Dec. 6, 1830. Shot in Kemper County, Miss., April 29, 1877. Died May 13, 1877.
'They never fail who die in a great cause.
They but augment the deep and sweeping thoughts
Which augment all others, and conduct
The world at last to freedom,
"To die is gain."'

Upon the daughter's is:

"Cornelia J. Chisolm, born Feb. 11, 1858. Defending her father, she was shot in Kemper County, Miss., April 29, 1877. Died May 13, 1877.
'Perfect love casteth out fear.
Thou shalt be a crown of glory in the hands of the Lord.'"

Upon Johnny's headstone is this inscription:

"John M. Chisolm, born Oct. 5, 1862. Defending his father, he was shot and killed in Kemper County, Miss., April 29, 1877.
'The glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.'"

In inscribing and placing these stones at the graves of her dead, Mrs. Chisolm seems to feel that one of the objects for which her sad life has been endured is accomplished. There has been another and a stronger purpose for which she has lived, the punishment of their murderers. "Not," said she, "that their punishment would heal my poor broken heart, but that others might not suffer as mine has." That object seems far from being accomplished when the Governor of Mississippi gives an office to the man that should have the halter. How long the American people will rest quietly under the laws which leave the Federal Attorney General to say: "We have no legal authority by which we can enter a State and punish the murderers of men who are killed for political reasons;" that is, our Federal Government can not protect citizens in the exercise of Federal duty; how long the American people will rest ... in such conditions ...

Cure for Catarrh.

The following is a simple and immediate cure for catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc. The remedy is a new compound, entirely different from all other preparations or medicines used for catarrh or Lung Diseases. It is the discovery of Dr. Hertsborn (an eminent physician), called Dr. Hartshorn's Swamp Weed Compound. You smoke the remedy in a pipe, which converts it into a dense smoke or vapor. This you inhale, emitting the smoke through the nose. After a few trials this will be easy to do. If the nose is stopped up so that it is almost impossible to breathe, one pipeful will make the head as clear as a bell. Sufferers from that horrible disease, Ulcerated Catarrh, will find relief and comfort from the first day's use, and a permanent cure in due course of time. The number of remarkable cures effected by this new remedy is simply wonderful, and where once introduced and known it has a larger sale and takes the lead of all other Catarrh and Lung medicines. It penetrates to the very seat of the disease and breaks it up at its fountain head. It is the best remedy in the world for Asthma and Bronchitis.

Swallowing the vapor or smoke gives instantaneous relief, enabling the patient to lie down and enjoy refreshing sleep. The principal ingredient in this medicine is one of our common weeds (found growing in wet or swampy ground), and when combined with Cubebs, Extract of Pine Tar, &c., forms the best Catarrh and Lung treatment ever devised. It is a sure antidote for Cough, Sore Throat and Offensive Breath. It will make the foulest breath pure and sweet. All fatal epidemics are absorbed and propagated in the system by inhalation. So potent for evil, it is now made most powerful for good. Thus, in accordance with reason and common sense, does this remedy, by inhalation, come in direct contact with disease, and by absorption into the system, cleanses the blood.

To Consumptives.

Quit dosing the stomach with cod-liver oil, sickening syrups, and balsams. Eat more beefsteak and nourishing food. Take some simple medicine to aid digestion and to keep the bowels regular. Smoke the Swamp Weed Compound once or twice daily and exercise in the open air in good weather. Try the above prescription, and you will bless that day you read our advertisement. The medicine is pleasant and perfectly harmless, and there is no use going to high-priced "Catarrh and Lung doctors" while you can procure this remedy. Price by mail, post-paid, $1 per box. Six boxes $5. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL Co., Petrolia City, Butler Co., Pa. 6m eow

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

IS A REALLY RELIABLE REMEDY FOR WASTING AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

After numerous experiments Mr. Fellows succeeded in producing this combination of Hypophosphites, which has not only restored him to health, but has since been found so successful in the treatment of diseases emanating from the loss of nerve power, and consequent muscular relaxation, viz.:

Aphonia (loss of voice).	Neuralgia.
Anæmia.	Nervous Debility.
Chronic Diarrhœa.	Whooping Cough.
Dyspepsia.	Fever and Ague.
Congestion of the Lungs.	Leucorrhœa.
Palpitation of the Heart.	Melancholy.
Malaria.	Mental Depression, Nervousness.

MALARIA.

Persons living in the Malarious districts may protect themselves from attacks of fever by the use of Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. Its effects in toning up the system enables us to ward off contagious disorders, and successfully combat disease.

The soluble phosphites and the other life sustaining principles composing Fellows' Hypophosphites are so carefully proportioned and so judiciously mingled, that their action upon the nerves, muscles and membranes in imparting vitality, strength and healthy action is generally apparent within twenty-four hours, and the good effects experienced are of a permanent character. 45 6t

A GREAT REVELATION.

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness and Timely Suggestions About Securing It.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE,

while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposedly scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangements of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that only by removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight, and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who 'bled him copiously.' Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding!"

The speaker then graphically described another period which came upon the people, in which they assigned the origin of all diseases to the stomach, and after showing the falsity of this theory, and that the kidney and liver were the causes of disease, and that many people are suffering from kidney and liver troubles to-day who do not know it, but who should know it and attend to them at once, continued:

"Let us look at this matter a little more closely. The human body is the most perfect and yet the most delicate of all created things. It is capable of the greatest results and it is liable to the greatest disorders. The slightest causes sometimes seem to throw its delicate machinery out of order while the most simple and common-sense care restores and keeps them in perfect condition. When it is remembered that the amount of happiness or misery we are to have in this world is dependant upon a perfect body, is it not strange that simple precautions and care are not exercised? This is one of the most vital questions of life. People may avoid it for the present, but there is certain to come a time in every one's experience when it must be faced.

"And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I

PAINTED REPEATEDLY.

My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening of the pain at once; I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined fields in medicine never before explored. I sought the cause of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system."

After describing at length the offices of the kidneys and liver, and their important part in life, the doctor went on to say:

"Having found this great truth, I saw clearly the cause of my recovery. The simple vegetable leaf I had used was a food and restorer to my well-nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. It had come to them when their life was nearly gone and by its simple, yet powerful influence had purified, strengthened and restored them and saved me from death. Realizing the great benefit which a knowledge of this truth would give to the world I began in a modest way, to treat those afflicted and in every case I found the same which I had experienced. Not only this but many, who were not conscious of any physical trouble but who, at my suggestion, began the use of the remedy which had saved my life, found their health steadily improving and their strength continually increasing. So universal, where used, was this true, that I determined the entire world should share in its results, and I therefore placed the formula for its preparation in the hands of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., a gentleman whom I had cured of a severe kidney disease, and who, by reason of his personal worth, high standing and liberality in endowing the Astronomical Observatory and other public enterprises, has become known and popular to the entire country. This gentleman at once began the manufacture of the remedy on a most extensive scale, and to-day, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the pure remedy that saved my life, is known and used in all parts of the continent.

"I am aware a prejudice exists toward proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but the value of a pure remedy is no less because it is a proprietary medicine. A justifiable prejudice exists toward quack doctors, but is it right that this prejudice should extend towards all the doctors who are earnestly and intelligently trying to do their duty? Because Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure saved my life before it became a proprietary medicine, is it reasonable to suppose that it will not cure others and keep still more from sickness now that it is sold with a government stamp on the wrapper? Such a theory would be childish."

The doctor then paid some high compliments to American science, and closed his lecture as follows:

"How to restore the health when broken and how to keep the body perfect and free from disease must ever be man's highest study. That one of the greatest revelations of the present day has been made in ascertaining the true seat of health to be in the kidneys and liver, all scientists now admit, and I can but feel that the discovery which I have been permitted to make, and which I have described to you, is destined to prove the greatest, best and most reliable friend to those who suffer and long for happiness as well as to those who desire to keep the joys they now possess."

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

THE CURATIVE CUP.

Crowned with foam is the goblet, but 'tis not champagne,
Source of headaches, and heartaches, and gastric distress;
'Tis the SELTZER APERIENT, a balm for the brain,
And a cure for the evils produced by excess.
It tempers the blood, the clogged system relieves,
Corrects the foul stomach, the liver controls,
New life from the draught every organ achieves,
And a cloud from the mind of the invalid rolls.

Such are the effects of TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT, the portable representative of the famous SELTZER SPRING, and the most agreeable and efficient of alteratives.

One Experience from Many.

"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.

Rugby.

An English colony, under the management of the Hon. Mr. Hughes, has bought some forty thousand acres of land on the Cumberland plateau, along the line of the Cincinnati Southern railway. It has already begun a city in Morgan county, some seven miles from the railroad, to be called Rugby. A hotel with thirty-five rooms has been built; a large boarding house with twelve rooms, an office, a commissary department, and five or six other buildings have been erected. Fifty acres have been shrubbed off, and the dead wood cut and piled up. A turnpike road to the railroad has been constructed. A Howe truss bridge across White Oak is nearly completed. A large saw mill, shingle mill, and lath mill have been built on White Oak. From a hundred to a hundred and fifty hands are constantly employed, and a city is rapidly springing up.

Mr. Amos Hill, of England, the gardener, has made this summer a most satisfactory experiment. The ground is almost covered with melons, watermelons and cantaloupes; the cabbage can only by compression of the leaves, be pressed into a flour barrel; the sweet potatoes yield some 250 bushels per acre; the lima bean will yield about the same. The tomatoes, beets and other vegetables are luxuriant.

Mr. Hughes intends that intelligence, moral worth, industry, and the Christian graces shall have a fair field in the colony. Churches and school houses will be erected.—Exchange.

NASAL CATARRH!

All cases promptly and permanently cured by DR. S. W. BEALL, Homeopathic Catarrhal Specialist, A reputable Physician of 30 years' practice.

Not a Douche, Not an Inhaler, Not a Snuff.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh has never been cured by local treatment alone. Catarrh being constitutional requires constitutional treatment to eradicate it from the system.

In connection with Dr. Beall's Nasal Catarrh Specific, a course of treatment is furnished each patient as indicated by the symptoms. Also an Atomizer, with cleansing solutions to be locally applied in the form of a spray. Patients at a distance treated by the aid of a carefully prepared diagnostic sheet. No single box or bottle of medicine is applicable to all cases.

Dr. Beall has cured hundreds of cases in its worst form, and patients now being treated in all parts of the United States report rapid improvement. Treatment is pleasant and directions easily followed.

The following is a specimen of the testimonials constantly being received:

To the Public—Statement of A. W. Essey, of the firm of Essey & Harter, Troy, Ohio.

For a number of years I was afflicted with Nasal Catarrh, affecting seriously both my head and throat. The discharges from the nose were streaked with blood, and had a very offensive smell. After a course of treatment from Dr. Beall, I am entirely cured. A. W. ESSEY.

work that he will have no disposition to "court a grin" when he ought to "woo a soul." Of all men on earth such an one will feel that he has "no room for mirth or trifling here." The pressure of his responsibilities will make him a man of serious, though not sour, aspect.

The eyes of a true minister, as in Bunyan's picture, will indeed be often turned heavenward. His call, his master, and his help are all there. And the Bible will be in his hand constantly. It will be his daily companion. It contains his Lord's [illegible], the message he is appointed to deliver, the truths which are to give intelligence, inspiration, and effect to his preaching. A preacher who is not thus devoted to Bible study is not fit to enter a pulpit. He has entirely mistaken the nature of his vocation. His place is the cotton, the cornfield, the work bench, or the shop; not the pulpit.

The "law of truth" is on the lips of a true minister, that is, he is sincere. He preaches because he believes. He proves his sincerity by keeping the "world behind his back." He is no self-seeker. He is not in the ministry because he loves the fleece and not the flock. It is not the ease, honor, or profit of his office that inspires him; but the love of a Christ living in his heart and the hope of the crown which he sees by faith "hanging over his head." In that crown he sees more than a compensation for his sacrifice of the world, the trials of his ministry, the sufferings which afflict him. He counts all things loss for the privilege of saving souls, winning his Master's smile, and wearing the immortal crown.

That Article, "Learn or Locate."

GEO. W. WELLS.

There is a trite adage, which is true, and one which serves our present purpose, that "a child must crawl before it can walk." This adopted child of the Methodist Church, who now is so tenderly fostered by her various religious societies, has scarcely begun to crawl. It cannot stand alone as yet, nor will it ever have sufficient strength in its legs, until it is free from such extraneous aids.

The work of thoroughly educating the negro in the South has just fairly commenced. There is still an amount of destitution and ignorance in our ranks sufficient to make the heart grow sick.

The youths that were freed, circumstances and the demand of the hour forced them out of our universities and common schools into the work—the ministry, to lay in weakness a foundation, for the coming generations to build firmly upon and they in turn to build [illegible], and cement, so that their children might reap the full harvest of glory. History teaches us that we must repair the short comings of our ancestors; so must we, if we would become permanent in this country as a nation. The future, and the promising young men, and boys of the schools to-day can only fill the hiatus in our past history. The world is a unit in affirming that the emancipated [illegible] in so short a time, has made [illegible] strides in the direction of culture [illegible] we have is the only great transformer.

We are of opinion that school men, who know little or nothing of the condition of the negro in the South, are incompetent judges, and are liable always to underrate. What would one think of a man attempting to give a true account of the interior inhabitants of Africa, who had never seen the country except on a map, or it may be listened to some vague reports? Your opinion is equally true of men who know nothing definite, nothing beyond hearsay of the negros' condition in the South.

It is only those who have crossed the burning prairies, marshy swamps, preached to the poor in their humble chapels, partook of the hovel hospitality, who know their needs; whose desires have grown hot for their conversion and elevation; only those who have observed closely their tendencies, and marked the sign posts in their progress; those who have been in peril of bulldozers, in peril of the shot gun policy, in peril of the lash, and in peril of ostracism, that are proper authority.

The Professor starts out with the intention of mitigating the charge of gross ignorance laid at the door of the unhappy negro. But after the picture has been retouched once or twice with his brush of rhetoric, it is worse than at first. Ideas, however, adopted in enthusiasm are always extreme. We are not disposed to contort Doctor McCabe sentences so as to make them apply especially to the colored ministry. We take them in their general sense. They are applicable to any class of ministers who willfully remain ignorant. That there is certainly a demand for a more thoroughly educated ministry we do not deny. We were of opinion that our schools rapidly melting this urgent demand; if not, then they are not doing the work that they were erected to do.

That two much is asked in these so few years enjoyment of the boon of freedom is patent to all. If men are leaders in Christian piety in their section of country or community, that is as much as can be expected of most men. Few men in the world's history became leaders in Christian thought. If men are right minded in common things—for the real truth of religion lies in what is, common the obligation to lead a moral life. Its primal object is to persuade men to leave off sinning.

Luther spoke, and in over half the western world the Catholic Church collapsed, and a new theory of Christianity had to be constructed out of fragments of the Romish Church. Wesley preached, and the Church of England tottered; the result of his preaching is the Methodist Church. Those men were leaders in Christian thought.

For the Southwestern.

Session of the Georgia Conference.

I hope a word in regard to the doings of this Conference will not be out of order.

This body of ministers met at Martin's Chapel in a country place on the 11th inst. Bishop Foster was in his place in fine health and spirit. Rev. J. B. Ford was the only stranger in attendance. He is always welcome as a visitor to our Conference.

After noting the Sabbath service I ask a place in your columns for two papers of some importance adopted by our Conference, which with slight modification can be used in other States.

The charter is intended to draw out the home resources of the people, and give us a class of Church schools, where public schools are not and even where they are, to secure for us a lighter grade of schools. In short, we must not leave the South as a fertile field for Roman workers.

SABBATH SERVICE.

The services were commenced by an experience meeting or conference love feast. The ministers spoke freely and promptly and the exercises were spiritual and lively, quickening the soul.

Bishop Foster was the last to speak. His incidental statement confirmed the position we have often assumed that the Holy Spirit moves on the young heart clearly and forcibly, at a much earlier age than we usually allow. He was convicted at the age of twelve under acting preacher in a circle of children, thus in one sense he is his own spiritual father, or rather is one of Christ's trophies in early age. Four other children were convicted at that time, and with him were converted at a revival that took place amongst his people shortly afterwards. He received a permit to exhort at the age of thirteen, and was licensed to preach soon after, and at the age of seventeen he became a pastor. This is the most remarkable case in Methodist history so far as we know.

He said, I never was an idler; work was agreeable and became a delight and a habit, and I found study life to the soul. I used to attach much importance to emotional happiness—it is a nice thing to be in this frame of mind, but the work of God is the true joy. I was reared in affluence but long since I gave away all that I had.

The Bishop then preached a powerful sermon from Rom. 8:18, which lead him to discuss the great question of man's spiritual being in a house of clay, and the destined glory of the redeemed.

I was told by some that that was the line of opinions that bordered an error—but as it has not been my privilege to hear the Bishop often, nor have I had the opportunity to see his writings, I am free to say that so far as that sermon is concerned I discovered no error therein. I presume it is the old, old story, a serious difference about definitions, not things; a quarel begotten of faction, over the verbiage, whilst both sides believe in our glorious being, in the hereafter.

I took a few notes of the sermon, but up to this date have not had time to write them so that a printer could use them.

The following is the Constitution of our Conference Educational Association, and the approved charter to be used in the organization.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10, 1880.

CONSTITUTION OF THE GEORGIA CONFERENCE EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

Article I. This Society shall be called the Educational Association of the Georgia Annual Conference, auxiliary to the Board of Education and the Freedman's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and shall have for its object, the education of the white people of Georgia, who are attached to our ministry and fields of labor, and shall be composed of the members of this body, as a basis, and all other persons, without distinction of sex, disposed to aid us, who can be admitted by a two-thirds vote of this body.

Article II. The resident Bishop shall be President and the presiding elders the Vice Presidents. The Secretary of the conference shall act as Recording Secretary, and there shall be a Treasurer and a Corresponding Secretary, who with six Directors, shall constitute an executive Committee, to transact the business of the Association.

Article III. This Board shall have power to employ and direct religious school teachers, and place them in such positions as may open to them, and shall have power to negotiate with any Board of school trustees, that may wish to employ its agency, in the work of furnishing able and devoted teachers or ministers, who may wish to teach, and to this end, may call into being, auxiliary committees throughout the State, composed of either or both sexes.

Article IV. An auxiliary committee shall consist of not less than seven persons, officered by a Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer—and the Secretary shall open a correspondence with the Corresponding Secretary of this Association and state the wants, resources and other circumstances of the school asking our teachers, in answer to questions asked by us.

Georgia, ——— County.

To the Superior Court of said County:

The petitioners herein stated, mostly residents of said County of ——— in said State, respectfully pray your Honorable Court to grant an order of incorporation to ——— and their successors [illegible]. The object and intention of this Association being the formation of a Joint Stock Association for the purpose of establishing a High School in said county, to be known by the title of ——— with full power to receive, possess and hold personal property and real estate for building and endowing said institution of learning up to the amount of ——— dollars, with the privilege of increasing this sum from time to time, as the wants of the institution may require, up to the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars.

1. The stock issued shall be in shares of ——— dollars each, negotiable and saleable as other personal property, and the majority of the stock shall at all times be held by the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, so as to place and keep said school at all times under the care and patronage of said Church.

2. The holders of stock shall be entitled to one vote for each and every share in the election of officers. Stockholders may vote by proxy, and annual election of officers shall be held on the ——— in each year, after the first election, at which annual meetings the stock may be increased.

3. A two-third majority of the stock can call a meeting of the stockholders. At the annual meeting they shall elect, from their own members, a Board of Trustees, a majority of whom shall be members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to take charge of the grounds, buildings and property interest of the Association, and direct its educational interests. This Board shall consist of not less than nine persons, officered by a President, vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer. A majority of the Board thus organized shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The Secretary shall keep a set of trustee books, and the Treasurer shall give sufficient bond and security for funds or property entrusted to him.

4. This Board shall act as the Board of Trustees for the institution of learning, erect the buildings and employ the teachers, fix the grade of compensation and length of sessions, aid and direct the teachers when employed; but they shall not contract debts that the income of the school cannot meet. It shall meet at the call of the President, or by appointment. It shall have power to make by-laws.

5. The trustees shall hold office for four years, going out by classes of one-fourth each year, and until their successors are elected, and they and their successors in office shall have power to receive, purchase and hold in [illegible] the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, such shares of stock as may be given to the Conference, or purchased by it; and they shall receive and hold for the Conference such donations as the friends of said church may devote to the use of the school, and turn the donations into shares at the rate of ——— dollars per share; and the President of the Board, or some one elected by the Georgia Conference, shall vote the Conference stock.

6. We further represent that in the future workings of this institution, amendments to this charter may be necessary; we therefore reserve the right of amendment, according to the forms of law, and pray that the aforesaid petitioners, and their successors in office, shall be and remain a body corporate by said name for twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the end of that term, and that this their application may be entered for record on the minutes of ——— Superior Court; it having been published in ——— and after this due record and publication, an order be passed, granting the incorporation as desired.

[Signed] ——— ——— ———

Teacher's District Conference.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Nov. 22, 1880.

A much needed organization in our work throughout the South is what we will call for the present, a Methodist Teacher's District Conference, to be composed of persons of both sexes and races, of good moral character and deep religious experience, thoroughly qualified to teach, spelling, reading, writing, grammer, geography, arithmetic, and United States history; or the grade necessary to enter our seminaries. To be missionary teachers or itinerants. The conference to be graded 3d, 2nd and 1st. The candidate to take a pledge on entering, to devote his entire time to teaching and to the mastery of a prescribed course of study, to observe all the rules of the conference, etc. To receive a 3d grade certificate or license, signed by the secretary of the conference and countersigned by the presiding elder of the district, who shall be the president, and who shall have power to appoint the teacher, and to change, try, or suspend before a committee of teachers in the interval of the conference, any, against whom complaints or charges may be preferred, etc. The conference to meet semi-annually for the purpose of making reports, reading essays and discussing, and adopting methods and plans of work, etc. To examine candidates in the course of study annually, and such other business as would be of interest to the cause. These teachers to be appointed to teach in our churches and such other houses as can be secured in which to run a school within the presiding elder's district, and to co-operate with the pastors who shall be honorary members, in Sunday-schools, etc. To use our catechism in their day and night schools, unless it be a public school which they might often get. In short we mean to have a class or conference of itinerant teachers, filling their places as the traveling preachers do theirs. We have often thought their was as much Christian faith and solid piety and moral heroism, in the laity as in the ministry, and such an organization would furnish an opportunity to utilize and bring into active use this power as well as to open a field of usefulness for many who would have to work for the Master but have no organized method through which to apply their talents. There are many young men and young ladies in our churches who do not feel called to preach, yet have a burning desire to work for the Master, but see no sure way to make that work remunerate them sufficiently to justify the sacrifice and cost of preparation. We often ask such to go to the conference school and educate themselves to work for the Savior; but they say what can we do? Well now if we could effect an organization, such as has been outlined, we could answer and tell then how, where, and when, etc. In conclusion, we say, we do not suppose that our plan is the only one, but that it has defects which others can see. In fact we have only made a few suggestions on a subject which to us is second to none but preaching; we therefore solicit correspondence from both preachers and teachers on this subject, also would love to hear through the SOUTHWESTERN, especially from the editor. For no one can doubt for a single moment but, to a very great extent, ignorance is generally the mother of crime all through the South. Dr. C. H. Fowler, says "If you want to scatter rats, let in a streak of light;" so we say if you want to save the South from drinking, bulldozing, adultery, and murder, you must educate. Ignorant people do not see the need of it as do the educated, the preacher is not a school teacher, therefore we must send teachers. Some were "teachers" in the Apostolic church. Have we no laymen ready, like their preaching brethren, to give up all for Christ?

I. G. POLLARD.

Fifth Congressional District of Louisiana.

The following is a special to the New Orleans Democrat from Washington, Dec. 1:

"Commissioner Raum received to-day by mail a twenty-five page letter from Special Agent Fred L. Meyer, sent to investigate the Lanier affair in Congressman King's district. Meyer's report sustains Lanier's position on every point of controversy with King. He says Lanier is not a defaulter, but was enjoined by the Nicholls officers from paying over certain moneys to the Packard government, and was afterwards set upon by Democrats and robbed of the money. This, he says, is well known, and is the reason no charge has since been preferred against Lanier. As to the charge that Lanier is a dangerous man, he says that while he has personal troubles, he has never been indicted; that King is now under indictment for acts growing out of a special judicial election in 1877, when one Democrat and over twenty Republicans were killed, the Republican candidate run out of the State, and King himself thereby elected. Meyer further reports that Lanier had to take to the swamps on the night Jones was killed, and that the sheriff of that parish told Lanier he would have been killed, too, if found on the street that night. Upon Meyer's report of the lawless attitude of the people of that district, Raum says Lanier shall go back and have sufficient armed force to enforce the laws. Breech-loading rifles have been sent for distribution among his deputies."

After the above was in type, we learned that Special Agent Myers denied making any report, but the statements of the dispatch are believed to be correct so far as they relate to B. H. Lanier.

Bishop Haven's Last Hours.

(From the Boston Herald.)

To a friend he said: "The first Sunday in the new year I shall spend in glory." So real was this "glory" to the man who was so soon to enter it, that he and his widowed sister, Mrs. Cox, spoke together of the message which he was to take from her to her husband. "Gilbert, you know what I told you to tell Wilbur?" "Yes," was his reply, "I will remember it all, and will deliver your message." As time drew on he remarked that he had in the morning sent for Dr. Garratt, who had promised to come to him at 4 o'clock that afternoon. "You will countermand the order to Dr. Garratt," he said; "I have no need for him. I am going where the inhabitants shall never say, 'I am sick.'" To his friend, Dr. Upham, he said: "Preach a whole Christ, a whole gospel, a whole heaven, a whole hell, a whole Bible." To another he said: "Stand by the old Church." Then, referring to his own experience, he said: "It is so delightful dying—it is so pleasant, so beautiful—the angels are here—God lifts me up in his arms. I cannot see the river of death—there is no river—it is all light—I am floating away from earth up into heaven—I am gliding away unto God." One of his friends inquired of him: "Is it all right?" "Yes," said he; and again, "I have not a cloud over my mind; I believe the gospel all through," with a characteristic emphasis on the "all through." It was now 4 o'clock, and the sun of that winter day was going down; but to him there was no darkness. The last of the throng of visitors at this strange "reception" was Prof. Lindsay, to whom, when taking his leave, the Bishop said: "Good evening, Doctor. When we next meet it will be good morning."

After all his visitors had retired he said: "Now we are alone, and must have a little time with our own family. Here are my two sisters, my two children, Where is my mother?" And when she was brought in, they stood in a circle around his bed in order that he might see them all. But his sight was failing, and looking around the circle he said: "Are we all alone?" And upon being satisfied upon this point, he gave the last of himself away to God, and to those on earth whom he loved the best; taking their hands one by one and saying, "This is my dear, dearest mother; Mamie, my little sunbeam—dear, pretty one; Willie, my noble son;" and then recurred the name which he was ever whispering in the intervals of conversation: "Precious Jesus, blessed Jesus."

There was another name, also—the name of her who had been a constant presence in his soul, though for fourteen years she had also been a presence among the angels of God.

On the night before his election to the Episcopate, being in the company of a few choice friends, he said: "I would willingly start and make a pilgrimage around the earth on foot to spend one hour with my Mary." And when he knew he was about to die he said, as if overwhelmed by the weary labors and journeyings through which and over which he had dragged himself, in spite of sickness and sorrow and pain, for all these long, lonesome years, he said: "After I have seen the Lord, I shall want to rest for the first thousand years with my head in the lap of my Mary."

Our Sunday-Schools.

But Methodism has a yet more distinctive honor in the introduction during 1786 of gratuitous Sunday-school teaching, without which the institution could never have had its present wide and Christianizing influence. The expense of hiring teachers for the first four years amounted to twenty thousand dollars, and at the end of that time very many schools had to suspend for want of funds, and even in Gloucester only one continued its work. The large expense of hiring teachers seemed to be an insurmountable obstacle to continuing the institution. "The idea of conducting Sunday-schools by unpaid teachers," says the biographer of Robert Raikes, "is said to have originated in a meeting of zealous Wesleyan office bearers, one of whom, while the others were lamenting their inability to hire teachers, for want of funds, said 'Let us do the work ourselves.'"

The Methodist Sunday-school at Balton, famous also for its fine singing, is the first on record where gratuitous teaching was practiced, and others gradually followed until in a few years "gratis teaching" became universal. The biographer of Robert Raikes adds further to the honor of Methodism, that "the Sunday-school idea, improved by the introduction of unpaid teachers and with greater attention to its religious character, was developed in the United States by Francis Asbury, the patriarch of American Methodism. He planted what may be termed the first American Sunday-school in Hanover county, Virginia, in 1786." In 1790 the General Conference of American Methodism "resolved upon establishing Sunday-schools for poor children, white and black." Even with it the institution was so bounded on one side by childhood, and on the other by rags, including none but the "poor," and none of the poor but the "children."

In the light of these facts we can see clearly that the work of Methodism in the introduction of Sunday-schools was an immense broadening of its field by the introduction of gratuitous teaching, and a deepening of its work by "greater attention to its religious character," Sunday-schools and prayer-meetings being referred to by Wesley as early as 1788.—National Repository.

The national debt statement issued Dec. 1, shows a decrease of the public debt during the month of November to be $3,609,261.23; cash in the treasury, $210,926,763.98; gold certificates outstanding, $7,400,500; silver certificates, $35,077,280; certificates of deposit outstanding, $8,525,000; refunding certificates, $943,350; legal tenders outstanding, $346,681,016; fractional currency outstanding, $7,163,207.37.

Sixty laborers were buried in a snow-slide recently near Chalk Creek, on the Kokomo extension of the Denver and Rio Grande Road. About 11 a. m. they noticed the pine trees trembling, and in an instant a slide came with a loud roar, tearing up the track for a distance of a quarter of a mile and burying sixty men. John Dene was killed, 19 men were badly injured, and 11 others slightly. The slide carried the track over the heads of the men, and most of the wounds were probably caused by the iron striking them.

In his annual report to the President, Secretary Schurz gives a review, of the four years of his administration. The larger part is devoted to Indian affairs. The secretary gives an explanation of the important change which has taken place with regard to the reservation system. Although at first accepting the reservation policy which has so long been followed by the Indian office, more extensive examination and study of the matter gradually convinced him that it was a mistaken policy; that it would be vastly better for the Indians, and more in accordance with justice as well as wise expediency to respect their home attachments; to leave them upon the lands they occupied, provided such lands were capable of yielding them sustenance by agricultural or pastoral pursuits; to begin and follow up the practice of introducing among them habits and occupations of civilized life on the ground they inhabit. In view of the fact, also, that maintenance of a system of large reservations against the pressure of white immigration and settlement would, in the course of time, become impracticable, a different policy has been followed, having for its object the settlement of the Indians upon lands in severalty; the disposal for their benefit, of their lands not required for this purpose, and gradually to prepare the way for their final incorporation in the body politic, as independent and self-relying men, invested with all the rights which the other inhabitants of the country possess. The result already accomplished in pursuance of this policy, and the promising outlook in the same direction, are described in general terms and illustrated by specific accounts of the progress made by individual tribes.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1880.

The Southwestern for 1881.

We will send the SOUTHWESTERN to all new subscribers for 1881, free from the time their subscriptions are received up to January 1. This is a liberal offer. We give no premiums. The price of the paper is $2 a year, postage prepaid. This makes the SOUTHWESTERN one of the cheapest religious papers published in America.

Subscriptions for 1881 have already commenced coming in. We trust the preachers everywhere will at once begin the canvass for 1881 in earnest.

We propose to make the paper better than ever during the months to come. But our success depends on the co-operation of the pastors and other friends who have in the past done so much in building up our subscription list.

Christianity vs. the World.

Three salient reasons stand out in clear outline as to why the majority of mankind reject Christ and Christianity, and prefer the present world and its condition of things.

The first, is the fact, that the indulgence in, and present enjoyment of sense and appetite, overrides all the arguments of reason and revelation.

The world with its fascinations and enjoyments, however temporary, is present, tangible, and a seeming good, and we pay court to it; Christianity and its promises of eternal happiness, however good and permanent, are invisible and absent, and therefore we ignore it and its divine author.

And just here we conceive hinges the difficulty of exercising faith, because we must give up what we consider a chief good which we have, and enjoy, for an invisible good of which we have no experience, and which comes endorsed by mental sorrow and soul—agony before its real pleasures can be obtained and enjoyed.

In short, the whole drift and tendency of our nature, and the very constitution of things with which we are conversant and influenced, tie us down almost insensibly to the judgment and inclination of sense, and the gratification of appetite.

And here we have the master reason why men though acknowledging the excellency of Christ and the precepts of Christianity, choose to ally themselves with the world on which they have such a tremendous grip. Sense and appetite lords it over the reason, falling the better judgment and subjugating the will; and though reason, supplemented by Christianity, would argue the soul into faith and obedience to Christ, capturing the affections persuades to sin; not because they are more convincing, but because they chime in with our depraved nature, and we judge them the more suitable to our condition, though they may not satisfy the cravings of the immortal spirit within us.

Another reason for prefering the world originates in the lordly rule of some one besetting sin or corrupt affection.

And this will appear the more evident when you approach the proud, sensual, lustful, voluptuous, or covetous man, and actually convince him that he must forever abandon all these polluting propensities of his nature, if he would enjoy a happy conscience here, and eternal happiness hereafter; and although he may confess that all your representations may be true, yet, these lordly passions and covetous desires over-rule all his convictions, sway his better judgment, and plunge him headlong into the filthy mire of his sinful lusts, and the gratification of his corrupt passions.

Another reason originates in the absolute tyranny of the customs and fashions of the world. And all the arguments under this head, may be summed up in one terse and true sentence; it is fashionable to be damned, and to be cast out from God and all goodness.

Over the Field.

AT TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

A pretty full account of the proceedings and reports of the Tennessee Conference has already been given our readers. Dr. Fuller, editor of the Methodist Advocate, was present and added much to the interest of the session by his [illegible] and sermons. Rev. Dr. [illegible], of the Georgia Conference, was also present, and did good service. The people of [illegible] entertained the Conference [illegible] bating the national sin of race prejudice. And how much the Church in all ages and especially in our own time has lost by bowing to the god of expediency rather than by doing right! But God is in the Church, and lack of faith or errors in judgment hinder only for the time being, and the great heart of the Methodist Episcopal Church is right, and her borders enlarge among all peoples. All our Southern Conferences grow yearly. There are grand and heroic men in all of them. Without the whole Church as represented in the General Conference, should unite to free itself entirely in its legislation from the remnants of race prejudice which mar its beauty, our Southern and newest conferences where the battle rages the fiercest, could not stand the shock of the mighty conflict alone. Time and the grace of God will do all things right. Our grand old Church leads all others in its devotion and work among the poor and ignorant of all classes in America, and while not perfect is yet the best.

[illegible]

TULLAHOMA, TENNESSEE.

This is a pleasant little city on the Nashville, St. Louis, and Chattanooga Railroad, from which a branch runs to McMinnville, thirty-five miles. It is the seat of our Tullahoma College which, under the superintendence of Professor Carter and his wife, is doing good work. Bro. Maynard, a successful merchant of the place and an earnest Methodist, has given largely of his means in helping to found this school. A square of ground and a plain frame two story building constitute the property. More than a hundred students from among our white membership attend. Several teachers are employed. It is a beginning of great promise. Monday night Bishop Foster preached in our church, and Tuesday morning he with Drs. Fuller, Mitchell, and others attended chapel at the college.

MURFREESBORO.

Tuesday night was spent in Murfreesboro, where a few years ago the Tennessee Conference was organized. The building in which the organization took place had a peculiar interest to us. A little way off a short time before the terrific battle of Stone River had been fought, and the Confederate army driven southward and the stars and stripes gave protection to our men and people. Some who helped to organize the Conference were dressed in blue. The battle field for national existence and that for national purity were one. The battle of ideas was to follow the conflict of arms. Thus it always is. From that little company of men have sprung the Tennessee and Central Tennessee Conferences. It was a pleasure to preach to our people. In spite of cold weather a large number was present. We met in their old building, near by where the stately walls of a two story 50x70 brick church are rising. Bro. Key is the hero of this noble enterprise. His pastorate just ended was signalized by this undertaking, which considering the poverty of our people is a great credit to them. Now he is presiding elder and will aid the new pastor, Bro. Provine, in completing this work. It will be one of the finest churches in the city. All honor to that heroic band of Christians and their brave leaders.

NASHVILLE AGAIN.

Wednesday night the 24th, we preached in Clark Chapel, Nashville, which name tells of the good Bishop who so earnestly and successfully entered upon the work of reorganizing our Church in the South. As the now sainted Haven said when dying, "God approves my work in the South;" so no doubt the sainted Clark looks from his home on high and rejoices in his work done in the South before he was called home. The pastor, Rev. D. W. Hays, is one of our most cultivated men. He is completing his studies under Dr. Braden, and if life and faith continue with him he has a future of great usefulness. God grant that they may continue. Thursday was Thanksgiving Day, and we were drafted into service to preach the Thanksgiving sermon to our people. A large and appreciative audience filled the College Chapel. Dr. Braden offered the prayer of thanksgiving, we discussed the relations of the Church and State, their origin and duties to themselves and each other, and Bro. [illegible] made the concluding prayer. [illegible] presided at the organ and the hearty congregational singing as well as the individual attention of the audience indicated the [illegible] thankfulness of those present.

Our next point of stopping was the Central Tennessee Conference [illegible]

Saint or Devil.

A good, virtuous, religious life is not satisfactorily determined by the outward actions and practices of any man; because virtue is not the offspring of the tongue, the hands, the feet or the visible behavior; but it does consist in the secret workings and intent of the soul itself.

True piety and virtue therefore, find its birth in the heart, for out of the heart are the issues of life. And hence a man may attitudinize and posture as a saint before the church and the world, and yet, in his inward life show up as a devil before God.

Otherwise virtue would appear as the veneering upon the forehead, while the heart may be a sepulchre of rottenness and dead men's bones.

Virtue and vice, therefore, are the offsprings of the soul, and the real theatre of their action is the conscience; while conscience has the oversight and judgment of the most inward thoughts and intent of the soul, so that it either justifies or condemns a man before the world knows him to be pure or a vile offender.

It is God's vicegerent, and spies out the first inclinations of virtues to cherish them, and discerns the first imaginings of sin to arrest and condemn them.

Before the august tribunal of the conscience you will be adjudged saint or devil.

The Compensation.

As the sin of Adam brought upon his race a total bankruptcy in spiritual things, as well as a total disability to discern the things of God, so Christ's death purchased the assistance of the Holy Spirit, to enable men, where they co-operate with the Spirit, to throw off that disability and with a perceiving heart as the gift of God, become again spiritually rich.

The following appropriate action speaks for itself:

Resolved, That the members of South Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church present the claims of the Freedmen's Aid Society to our people this year more faithfully than ever before.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Conference are due the Society for the interest manifested toward us, and that we do here renew our pledge to heartily co-operate in the future.

We shall be glad to receive from presiding elders the names of the supplies assigned to duty after conference, and during the year.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. James Morrow, of Philadelphia, is on a visit to this city. He delived the Sunday evening sermon at Ames Church, his former charge.

—Rev. C. E. Mandeville, one of the editors of the Golden Censer, of Rockford, Illinois, called last Friday. On Sunday morning he occupied the pulpit of Ames Church.

—Rev. S. P. Bell, late student of Central Tennessee College, has been appointed to McMinnville charge of the Tennessee conference. His promotion was well earned, and it will please his many friends.

—Bishop Haven has transferred Rev. H. R. Miller, of the St. Louis to the Austin conference, and appointed him to the charge at San Antonio. His post office address is therefore changed from Ledalia, Mo., to San Antonio, Texas.

—R. I. Cromwell, well known in this State, wrote to the Christian Recorder from an Arkansas prison, Sept. 26, in which he said: "I wrote you from Washington, Arkansas, some time ago, telling you my condition and appealing to the fraternity through your valuable paper for help. I have raised $14.65 among my own people. The white people have taken hold and got a lawyer, the best; he must have a fee. I have no way to get it or help get it, only by the charity of my race." We are not informed of the exact nature of his trouble, and desire a Texarkana correspondent to furnish us the particulars—the exact truth of the matter.

—We have the pleasure of announcing to our readers that Rev. F. Von Schluembach, the General Secretary of the German Young Men's Christian Association of America, will be in this city until the 21st of this month, and hold lectures, preaching, and Bible reading every day during his stay. All are invited. His first meetings were announced as follows: Third Methodist Episcopal Church, on Love street, Sunday, Dec. 5, at 10 a. m., and at 3 and 7:30 p. m.; Monday, Dec. 6, in the same church, at 7:30 p. m. Services in the Second German Presbyterian Church, corner Claiborne and New St. Bernard streets, Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 3 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m.; Wednesday, Dec. 8, in the same church, at 3 and 7:30 p. m. Rev. Von Schluembach is a most active worker, and good results are expected from his visit.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

B. Stewart, Canton: "Our church and Sunday-school is in fine condition. People are late in getting out their crops."

J. D. Walden, Brandon: "We have built one new church this year 35x26, costing $1300, a frame building. The lot is worth $400 or $500. There have been 50 accessions to the church this year. Our elder, D. A. Williams, has been with us at all of his appointments."

O. Gillespie, Macon: "The quarterly conference on the Ex Prairie work, was held on the 20-21 inst., Elder J. W. Dunn, presiding. The Lord's supper was administered to about 46. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, love feast was postponed. Sunday-school doing well. Elder's collection $10.20. Pray for us."

H. L. Kennedy, Winona: "Our new church in Valden was dedicated Oct. 31. We had a splendid time. The weather was very cool, but we had a large congregation. Elder J. G. Johnson was at his post in due time. Among the brethren who assisted were Rev. J. M. Nevils, of Kosiusko; H. W. James, of Winona, and J. H. Simpson and J. H. Young, of Valden. Collection $10.60. Our next district conference will convene here, January 8, 1881. We are preparing to receive the brethren when they come."

A. D. Payne, Oxford circuit: "In some of my churches we have no stoves, but I think this deficiency will soon be provided for as I have made a good subscription to that purpose. I have tried to arouse my people to the necessity of taking the SOUTHWESTERN. I have 9 or 10 who take it; others say they would take it, but think they are too poor. When every day is before us to be used as we will, in my opinion we are saying but little for ourselves when we say we can't pay $2 a year for a religious paper, when many could do more before the war while working for their master, by making patches after night. We are poor, but God is our helper, when we help ourselves. The church is doing well, spiritually. In my protracted meetings which ended some time since, 15 were converted, 22 accessions have been made to the church. Pray for us that we may do much work in the Master's vineyard."

FLORIDA.

Rev. S. B. Darnell, Jacksonville: "Cookman Institute is keeping pace with the growing character of our schools in the South. It is real refreshing to see the old faces and hear their recitals of triumph in their first field of intellectual labor. About 130 are enrolled, and more constantly coming. We have materially improved the entire property, and raised about $400 to pay for it."

GEORGIA.

Marietta-street church, Atlanta, caught fire Sunday morning, Nov. 14th, from a defective flue, but the flames were soon extinguished. The loss is estimated at only $150, covered by insurance.

Our Thanksgiving.

PROF. J. W. E. BOWEN.

"Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's; and unto God the things that are God's."

This was the text of a sermon preached in our chapel on the 25th ult., by the Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D.D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN in New Orleans. The Doctor, in a well chosen, pointed and logical discourse, held the audience spell bound for more than one hour while he pictured to us the Church and State.

He spoke of the duties of the State to herself; secondly, of the duties of the Church to herself; thirdly, of the duties of the State to the Church; fourthly, of the duties of the Church to the State. There was a vein of deep thought running all through the sermon, and although the speaker's words were rapid yet his articulation and pronunciation was clear and distinct. The only trouble with the speaker was to hold in check the impetuous rush of his mighty thoughts, which he clothed in appropriate dress. A very striking feature in the discourse was the discarding the use of the word colored.

He never once used that miserable word which carries along with it a horde of unpleasant thoughts, and which serves no other purpose than to remind the hearers of their low estate, and implying an inferiority in manhood as the natural outgrowth of this former debasing position. God bless you, Bro. Hartzell, for looking upon these students—the representatives of a great race—as intelligent men, and speaking to them in such noble strains as you did.

The use of this term is a weakness betrayed us not only by our enemies; but also by our friends. This word seems to be the length, breadth and thickness of their vocabulary. They conceive that these colored people have narrow and inferior minds, wanting in the great element that distinguishes the mind of man from the mind (if I may so use the term) of brute—viz: abstraction; and hence when called upon to address a colored audience their inevitable and pardonable weakness is the first, second, and last thing seen.

I conceive that there is no one people of color, but that all people are of color be that white, black, red, brown or yellow. It will do well for those blinded by their preconceived notions to take a few lessons in this direction. Some of our public speakers screen their own ignorance with the cloak that the colored people are not ready in development to entertain a highly cultured talk. This sort of argument savors of a putrescence that is repulsive to the nostrils of all good men.

The speaker referred in manly terms to the proposed act that the general government should establish schools especially and separately for the emancipated race. The only thing desired is a fair chance, and then to stand or fall upon merits. We speak thus from the striking contrast we find in Dr. Hartzell. The students left the Chapel laden with rich and wholesome thoughts and as we looked through the sermon enumerating so many blessings upon the State and Church, as we recalled and digested our hearts exclaimed:

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow"—

Central Tennessee College, Nashville.,

Letter from Alexandria.

DEAR EDITOR—This is not as newsy perhaps as some other parts of the State, but now and then there is an item of interest we would gladly mention. Business seems to be good. Cotton and sugar are constantly finding their way into town, and "good crops" is heard escaping the lips, I fear, of many an ungrateful recipient. It is heard on the street, over the counter—anywhere you chance to be the same tidings greet the ear. The only trouble is finding hands to harvest what Providence has so lavishly given.

Can it be said that the exodus has not done its part in causing the lack of laborers which seems never to have been so great in the South before?

Our church at this place is on the aggressive. We have much for which to praise God, and call upon all to magnify and exalt His name with us.

At a revival, consisting of a series of meetings, lasting eight evenings, eight were happily converted, and are now rejoicing in the love of Jesus.

Yesterday, nothwithstanding the inclemency the weather, in obedience to the President's proclamation we observed thanksgiving. While the chords of gratitude are not as well in tune in our people as we yet hope to see, we had quite an appreciative audience, and closed our services feeling that we had not only passed through the form, but had also enjoyed the spirit of thanksgiving. Oh that we were more grateful! Both to God and our fellow benefactors.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Dec. 12. 1880.—THE LAST DAYS OF JOSEPH.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 50: 14-26.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The memory of the just is blessed."—Prov. 10:7.

TOPIC.—The Brother Comforting.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

After pronouncing his blessing upon Joseph and his two lads, Jacob caused all of his others sons to be assembled, and, "standing between two worlds," he foretold the character and destiny of the twelve tribes that were to spring from his twelve sons. Nowhere during his whole life does Jacob appear to such advantage as upon his deathbed. There, evidently, he both is a man of God and a prophet. Purified by his trials, chastened by discipline, with the wisdom of age resting upon him as a halo, having fought the good fight, and, at the last, come off as victor, the dying saint and seer commands our deepest reverence. The blessings which then he gave his sons was in the nature of a prophetic benediction.

After charging his sons to bury him in the cave of Machpelah, Jacob "gathered up his feet into his bed, and yielded up the ghost, and was gathered unto his people." "Joseph fell upon his father's face, and wept unto him, and kissed him." Joseph ordered his own court physicians to embalm the body of his father, and secured from Pharaoh the privilege of going up to Canaan to give it a sepulture, the going up of "all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt."

This was Joseph's first visit to the land of Canaan since the time he had been rudely torn away from it. He had promised Pharaoh to return. To have remained in Canaan would have been repaying kindness with evil, and confidence with treachery. His duty still lay in Egypt.

Joseph will preadventure hate us. That was what the brethren of Joseph said after Jacob was dead. "Forgive, I pray thee now, the trespass of thy brethren." The lesson which God had taught them, then, had not been thrown away. They had learned to adore God for his over-ruling providences.

Unable, it would seem, to await the return of their messenger, they followed him, and at the conclusion of his address, in Oriental fashion bowed themselves humbly before him, saying, "Behold, we be thy servants." They wanted to be assured of their brother's forgiveness more than they did to escape any punishment that he might inflict. Joseph's reply showed how little of this desire for retribution there was in his nature. "He spake beautifully to their hearts." His grandchildren had a place upon his lap. His affectionate nature was just such an one as would attract children. He did not ask that his bones immediately should be taken up, as were those of his father, but was content to wait for the visitation of God, so confidently did he believe that he would come to his people. And he believed that the exodus would be the work of God—that it would take place in such a way that the people would know that God had visited them. Joseph died being an hundred and ten years old. Being dead yet Joseph for over three centuries preached a powerful sermon to the Israelites. Indeed he still speaks; for his influence is even now felt for good, and will be felt by all who read the marvellous story of his faith, his wisdom and his love.

The Bible Students' Cyclopædia, or Aids to Biblical Research is an important publication from the press of N. Tibbals & Sons, 37 Park Row, New York. It is written by A. C. Morrow with a valuable introduction by Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate. The scope of the volume is noteworthy, and answers in a lucid and comprehensive manner nearly every perplexing question in the Bible and conveys a vast fund of information not easily acquired elsewhere. Designed chiefly for clergymen and Sunday-school teachers it is equally adapted to the average Christian anywhere. Sold only by subscription. Large 12 mo., [illegible] pages. Price $1.50 cloth, or $2.00 library sheep. Illustrated with valuable maps and engravings. Agents are wanted.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Cincinnati Grocer is published at 38 W. Fourth street. Terms $2 per year.

—The Magi and the Messiah by Dr. J. H. Vincent, Christmas Annual No. 11, and The Tree of Life, by Dr. Vincent, are recent publications by Biglow & Main. Price 10 and 5c. respectively.

—The International Review for December (New York: A. S. Barnes & Co.) has articles on State Support of Denominational Schools in England, English Philosophy and English Philosophers, Alexander Von Humboldt in Politics, Bush Life, The Drink Problem, A Reply to Prof. Bonamy Price, The University of Texas, A United States Bankruptcy Statute, etc. Always an excellent review of modern thought.

—One of the most useful and popular journals coming to our table is the American Agriculturist. The number for December 1st is illustrated with a full hundred of original engravings and sketches, that convey practical information directly to the mind more plainly than words can do. Terms, $1.50 per year; 3 copies, $4; 4 copies, $5; single number, 15 cents; one specimen, 6 cents. Orange Judd Company, New York, publishers.

—"The Popular Science Monthly" for December opens with Herbert Spencer's second paper on "The Development of Political Institutions." Huxley's address on "Science and Culture," at the opening of the Mason Science College, is given in full. Dr. George M. Beard has a curious paper on the nervous phenomena exhibited by the "Jumpers" or "Jumping Frenchmen" of Maine. An extremely valuable series of illustrated articles, contributed by Charles M. Lungren on "Domestic Motors," is begun. The departments are fresh, varied, and full. New York: D. Appleton & Company. Fifty cents per number, $5 per year.

—The December Wide Awake contain fine portraits of two lady artists—Miss Jessie Curtis and Miss L. B. Humphrey. "Kip's Minister," is funny and pathetic. A beautiful illustrated paper "Boston Day Nurseries." "Saarchinkold," a long, six-page funny poem, and three other poems, "Annie Vane" "Miss Lollipop's Housekeeping," and "A Pair of Heroes," are also admirably illustrated. Mr. Benjamin's closing paper in "Our American Artists" series, relates to the "Lady Artists of America." Another paper of more interest to the boys, is about "Joe, the Chimpanzee." The attractions for 1881 are very great. Only $2.00 a year. Ella Farman editor. D. Lothrop & Co., publishers. Boston.

In 1881 The Living Age enters upon its thirty-eighth year, and it steadily increases in value. Its frequent issue and well-filled pages render it a satisfactorily fresh compilation of current literature—a literature which grows richer and more abundant every year in the work of the most eminent writers upon all topics of interest. In no other way can so much of the best of this literature be obtained so conveniently and cheaply as through the columns of this standard weekly magazine. Its value to every American reader is therefore obvious. It supplies the place of many magazines, reviews and papers, and alone enables the reader, at a small expenditure of time and money, to keep well abreast with the best thought and literature of the day. Reduced clubbing rates with other periodicals are given; and to new subscribers remitting now for the year 1881, the intervening numbers are sent gratis. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

An Ingenious Clock.

A Word to Our Readers.

When you read of a remedy that will cure all diseases, beware of it; but when you read of a pure vegetable compound which claims to cure only certain parts of a body, and furnishes high proof that it does this, you can safely try it and with the assurance that it will help you. This is just what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It cures all troubles of the lower portion of the body and none others. It will not help the toothache, ear-ache nor consumption but it will put your body in a vigorous and healthy state where you can enjoy life and appreciate its good things. Try it.

For judicious editing, select and popular contributors, and sprightly, entertaining reading, the Youth's Companion, of Boston, has no superior among the youth's publications. It has twice the circulation of any similar publication, and unquestionably merits its success.

THE STUDENT'S MANUAL OF PHONIC SHORT HAND

LATEST AND BEST.

Complete Introduction to the Stenographic Art, as used for Business Correspondence and Verbatim Reporting. Arranged By E. S. BURNZ, Principal of New York School of Phonography. Illustrated by Plates having Printed Keys.

"The Student's Manual to Phonic Short Hand" is based wholly upon a system that has been reduced to every day practice. The signs can be written with extraordinary quickness. A boy of twelve by this method will learn in a week what it would take an adult a year to learn by the old way. Every young man about to start in the world will find this art of immense service to him. To say nothing of its absolute necessity to an editor, a preacher or legal reporter, it is valuable to clerks, lawyers, travelers, and merchants. It is written with special reference to the requirements of those who desire to learn without the aid of a teacher. The book is illustrated with numerous Examples so that any one can in a very short time, report Sermons, Speeches, Trials, etc., with ease, rapidity, and precision. Many persons have from the instructions gained from this book alone, have become excellent Reporters, and are now receiving from $1,500 to $3,000 a year as Expert Stenographers. It is not a difficult study, and you can perfect yourself in a short time, and secure a life occupation, one that always commands high salaries. Price by mail, 50 Cents. ... Arkansas Homes.

To enable this part of our population to know something about this growing State, and who wish to get homes of their own, there are thousands of acres of homestead lands yet to be taken up on the line of the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad. Since 1878 about 6,700 colored emigrants have settled on these lands. Every one is doing well. Good churches and good schools all the time. The Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad have also for sale on the line of their road large quantities of the very finest land at a low price, and from 6 to 10 years payment. For further information apply to Colonel Slack, at Little Rock, Ark., at the land office, or at Conway, Ark., to Mr. A. Hemsteger. I have been a colored emigrant passenger agent for the last three or four years and find these two roads always ready to give low rates to those who are going West to get homes.

An Article that Sells on Its Merits

And Can Be

SOLD IN ALMOST EVERY FAMILY.

We want Agents, Dealers and Pedlers, to take hold at once. It will sell readily during the whole year, but is a Bonanza for Fall and Winter workers. We make an extraordinary offer when we agree to take back all goods unsold of first order, but we make it so, in order to give Agents a chance to test the business without taking any risk of loss. We have live, pushing Agents, making as much as $75 a week, and any one with any energy can make from $25 to $50, as the article will sell by being shown, and requires no talking up—it sells on its Merits. We will send full particulars free, or sample of goods for 40cts. If you are out of work and have little means, you need not fear losing that by buying goods you cannot sell, as $1.00 worth of goods will start you, and you can return them if you fail to sell them. Any one not willing to give our business a trial on these terms, does not want business. Address

A Sure Cure for Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism.

Here is a medicine that positively cures Rheumatism. We say positively cures, because there is no longer any doubt about it. The remedy is DR. BOWYER'S PANACEA. Thousands of cures attest its merits. The only sure dissolvent of the poisonous uric acid which exists in the blood of all rheumatic patients. It is an internal and external remedy, and being extracted from vegetables, roots, barks, etc., it is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. The PANACEA is prepared in the most scientific manner known to chemistry. It is very pleasant to the taste. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL CO., Petrolia City, Butler Co., Pa.

Dr. Bowyer—Dear Sir: Having suffered for years with Rheumatism and having about five weeks ago had an unusual severe attack, so that I was unable to get up or move without the most excruciating pain, my physician told me I must die. I accordingly called in the priest, who also said I must die; but a neighbor told me of your PANACEA, and induced me to try it, and it soon relieved me, and in three days I was able to be around, and now am well. I would freely recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with that painful disease. I believe it to be all, and more than you have recommended it to be. Yours with respect.

LORENZ SCHREINER,

No. 16 Sumner Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

We were eye-witnesses of the above case, and can vouch for the truth of the above statement.

Catarrh.

What is worth doing at all, is worth doing well. Everything known to be good in the treatment of Nasal Catarrh, Throat, Bronchial, or Lung diseases, combined in one grand system. Dr. Hartshorn's new remedy is made from a common swamp weed, combined with gums, balsams, essential oils, &a. such as are separately used by the most eminent physicians in the treatment of Catarrh and Lung diseases. The remedy is converted into a dense medicated vapor by smoking it in a pipe. By the inhaling process this vapor or smoke is drawn through the various passages of the head and lungs, reaching and healing every irritated spot. It is very pleasant. Any child, woman, or invalid can smoke it. It gives instantaneous relief when used for ...

Asthma.

The use of a single package will convince any sufferer from Bronchitis an l of its wonderful virtues. No medicine can reach the air passages of the head and lungs like a finely medicated vapor. In due time we shall publish a Book of Testimonials that will make Old Fogyism quake in his boots. Price of Dr. Hartshorn's Compound, $1 per box, by mail, post paid. Address, BOWYER MEDICAL Co. Rail-Road Column.

In New York on the 1st Judge Donahue granted an order in the suit of Mr. Goodnow, a stockholder of the Louisville and Nashville Company, to proceed with the transfer of stock as usual, thus practically dissolving the injunction granted by the Chancery Court of Nashville, which the Supreme Court of this State declares to be inoperative. The papers were served upon the company and transfers were made without interference.

At a meeting of the Louisville and Nashville railroad directors on the 1st, Mr. H. Victor Newcomb tendered his resignation. In his letter of withdrawal from the position of president, Mr. Newcomb recommends the extension of the Memphis division into Arkansas, and asks the board to complete the Knoxville branch at once. A series of resolutions were passed thanking Mr. Newcomb for his past services. E. H. Green was elected president, E. J. Alexander first vice-president, and C. C. Baldwin second vice-president. Mr. Newcomb retains his position as a director.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave: "It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 59°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

TWO LITTLE MAIDENS.

A sorry little maiden
Is Miss Fuss-and-Feather,
Crying for the golden moon,
Grumbling at the weather;
The sun will fade her gown,
The rain spoil her bonnet,
If she ventures out,
And lets it fall upon it.

A merry little maiden
Is Miss Rags-and-Tatters,
Chattering of the twinkling stars,
And many other matters;
Dancing in the sunshine,
Pattering through the rain,
Her clothes never cause her
A single thought or pain.

A Sacred Gift.

Rev. C. C. McCabe says:

Several years ago Edward Kingsley Mikles, a son of Rev. W. R. Mikles of the Northwest Indiana Conference, began a bank account by a deposit of twenty-five cents. He was a noble boy, and had the respect of the whole community where he lived. Last summer, while attempting to swim a stream, he was drowned, and was brought home to the parsonage dead. His bank account had grown to $250. At the last session of the Northwest Indiana Conference, after hearing the statement that $250 would secure the erection of a church, the father and mother, after a brief consultation, decided to give Eddie's money to build one of our frontier churches. The mother accompanied the gift with the following letter to Rev. J. W. Greene, presiding elder. The letter was sent to me. Next summer, somewhere upon our vast frontier, I want to build a church in memory of Edward Kingsley Mikles. What more fitting monument for such a boy?

"This fund Eddie has earned by [illegible] since he was six years old, and was loaned out for a nucleus [illegible], he said, was to accumulate one million of dollars. He delighted to speak of the orphan asylums, homes for the poor, and the missionary work that he would found and assist. With [illegible] would be [illegible] the beautiful mansion he would build for his home, and always [illegible] that the very sunniest, prettiest room he would furnish and adorn for his parents; until, really, we had looked upon Ned's future home as the one that would be prepared for us in old age. We have often wondered at his extravagant liberality, but he would say, 'Why, ma, didn't I earn this myself, and can't I take it for the Sunday-school or missionary work if I wish?'

"The first pair of skates was earned sawing wood with his own hands at seven years of age, [illegible] paid for by himself [illegible]

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

THE CURATIVE CUP.

Crowned with foam is the goblet, but 'tis not champagne,
Source of headaches, and heartaches, and gastric distress;
'Tis the SELTZER APERIENT, a balm for the brain,
And a cure for the evils produced by excess.
It tempers the blood, the clogged system relieves,
Corrects the foul stomach, the liver controls.
New life from the draught every organ achieves,
And a cloud from the mind of the invalid rolls.

Such are the effects of TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT, the portable representative of the famous SELTZER SPRING, and the most agreeable and efficient of alteratives.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

CONSUMPTION—BRONCHITIS—ASTHMA

WERE FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP useless in all other diseases, the benefits which it undoubtedly yields in Consumption and other diseases of the Respiratory Organs would vindicate its claim to the attention of every medical practitioner. From the statistics of England and America it is a fair estimate that one-tenth of the entire deaths is caused by Consumption alone. If the Syrup is used perseveringly it subdues the tendency to Consumption, and in many confirmed cases, as that of the inventor, it has effected a cure.

Indigestion and habitual Costiveness almost always arise from weakness of the nerves and muscles of the stomach and bowels. In such cases Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service. The evacuations soon become copious and healthy.

This Syrup will cure PULMONARY CONSUMPTION in the first stage, and will give great relief and prolong life in the second and third. It will cure ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, LARYNGITIS, and COUGHS. It will cure all diseases originating from want of Muscular Action and Nervous Force.

Public Speakers and Singers

Will find this Syrup of inestimable value. A dose should be taken before speaking or singing.

Aphonia, or Loss of Voice, is usually cured by a few doses. We have known cases where a single dose has been effectual.

S. JACOB, M. D., St. John, N. B., writes: "I had occasion to use your Syrup in a case of Aphonia which would not yield to regular treatment; it proved to be all that you claim for it, having acted with expedition and entire satisfaction."

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances. 50 4t nr

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

F. G. Brempass, Aberdeen: "The sisters of our church gave a fair for the purpose of raising the pastor's salary, which resulted in $22,40, which is mainly due to the efforts of the following named persons: Mrs. Matilda Westbrooks, Mrs. Ellen Holmes, Mrs. Lnolnda Daniel, Mrs. Chess Brown, and Miss Rebecca Henderson. We are preparing to plaster our parsonage."

J. C. Clemons, Benton: "I have just closed a protracted meeting on account of bad weather. My work is prospering, though it was somewhat dull when I came to this place. I have received, baptized, and added to the church, 13 converts, probationers, 39. My entire membership is 240. I have received on salary $106.15, for the presiding elder $26.25.

James Trice, Houston: "My work is in a very good fix. I have had my protracted meeting and closed up with 12 converts, added 15 to the church. I have had a good Sunday-school. My people claim to be poorer here than anywhere else; but I have got a piece of ground in Houston and got the timber for the church on it, but I have not built the church yet. The white people are more anxious to help build than the colored; but I hope that we will put it up shortly. I believe the time will come when the mother Methodist Church will cover the whole land, for her head is up and I expect to keep it up while I stay here.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

A. C. Dutton, presiding elder, Greenville district. "We have had over 150 conversions in two months at Spartanburg, 47 in less than two weeks at Greenville. Bless the Lord."

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana Methodists are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

L. Johnson, Pearl River: "When I came to this part of my charge I found Napoleon church in debt $52 75. The board, brethren and myself, went to work with love, and it is now nearly clear. The windows are being put in, next it will be ceiled, and by the last of December all will be complete. I have a good board, and three excellent local preachers to assist me. Bro. J. H. Dowery is a great worker for God and the Church. He keeps a night school, superintends a Sunday-school of 30 or 40 pupils, and leads a class. We will give a festival Dec. 18. We have a splendid day school taught by Miss Pharigott, a good teacher.

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

A. Williams, Texarkana: "I came to this place Sept. 1st 1880, after the district conference, held in Paris, Aug. 24, and found the church deserted and left in bad condition. We have had some improvement in spiritual and temporal interests of the church. We have the property nicely fenced, and 12 additions. Our fourth quarterly meeting was held by Rev. W. L. Molloy, Oct. 30 31. We had a glorious time; more than 50 persons communed. Sabbath-school averages 35 to 40, and in very good God's condition. I am doing all in my power to build up the cause. Pray for us. We have also a Normal school with primary department taught by E. W. Williams."

Troublesome Children

that are always wetting their beds ought not to be scolded and punished for what they cannot help. They need a medicine having a tonic effect on the kidneys and the urinary organs. Such a medicine is Kidney-Wort. It has specific action. Do not fail to get it for them.—Exchange.

Assistant Postmaster General Brady and others have purchased a controlling interest in the National Republican of Washington.

One Experience from Many.

"I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said 'Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy.'—The Mother.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my father; his name is Edmond Reese. His owner was Abner Reese. I have brothers, Burrell and Frank and a sister named Lilly. Mother was Elizabeth Fox. They lived in Merriwether county, Ga., and they moved to Mississippi in 1842. I have not seen father since I was a small girl. Address me at Forest Station, Miss.

MARY ANN MOORE.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my father. I left him in Texas in 1853. He belonged to Mr. Randolph Cox, and I to Mr. W. V. Rhodes. Dennet Rhodes brought mother and I to Louisiana. My father's name is Matthew Randolph but they called him Cox; mother was Angeline Randolph, but she is married to Ben Crockett. I formerly lived in Matagorda Co., Texas, near Galveston Bay. Address me at Booneville, La.

NEPTUNE RANDOLPH.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to inquire of my father, Clem. Bennett. He went to Texas with Brisco Bennett about the year 1857. My mother's name was Martha Bennet—belonged to Green Burnett. He had three children by my mother, Roberta Ann, Laura Ann, and Willis who was a baby when he left. Also I want to learn of my aunt Minerva Burnett who also went to Texas with Wm. Burnett about 1855. Her husband's name was Richard Burnett. She had no children. Please address me at Caledonia, Lowndes Co., Miss.

ROBERTA ANN WITHERSPOON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire through the columns of your paper for my relatives. My grandmother's name was Nancy Pratt; she lived in Chester Co., S. C., about the year 1854. Grandfather's name was Thomas Sanders. My uncles names were John and George Pratt. Uncle John and my mother (Delilah Pratt) were sold to William Darby, who carried them to Arkansas. My aunt's name was Charlotte. She was an infant when my mother was sold. Mother was sold again and brought to Mississippi where she is now living. Any information in regard to my relatives will be thankfully received. Address me at College Hill, Lafayette Co., Miss.

W. C. LEWIS.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my father, David Nelson, who left Yazoo county with the Union army about the year 1863 or '64. He wrote to his sister, Mary Eale, at or near Satartia, Yazoo Co., Miss. He was at Clarksville, Mo. Since that time we heard that he had removed to the State of Ohio. He left mother, sister Lucy, and myself, Octavia; he left also three of his sisters, Mary, Dorcas, and Nancy. His father's name was Elias; his mother's name was Charlotte. His brother James was killed before he left home. Father and his relatives belonged to Bansiom Stutiven. His wife's name is Silvey; she belonged to David Irving. All of Yazoo Co., Miss. Address me at Vicksburg, Miss., in care of Rev. H. A. Johnson.

MARY O. JOHNSON.

A Pastor Made Happy.

I have been greatly troubled with my kidneys and liver over twenty years, and during that entire time I was never free from pain. My medical bills were enormous, and I visited both the Hot and White Springs, noted for the curative qualities of the water. I am happy to say I am now a well man, and entirely as the result of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. With such glorious results I I am only too glad to testify regarding the remedy which has made me so happy.

Remarks from Mr. Taylor Touching His St. Louis Address.

DEAR EDITOR — Having been [illegible] a good deal of late, to circulate [illegible] to be remarks of Bishop H. M. Turner and other [illegible] ministers of the A. M. E. Church in the South, which put in my heart and mouth sentiments [illegible] I had expressed, I [illegible] at the A. M. E. General Conference at St. [illegible] me credit for considerable influence in your territory. This is to me an agreeable surprise. I had not supposed myself known much beyond the borders of my Conference in a southward course except in Arkansas, where I think I did a good year's services in forming the nucleus of what is now the Little Rock Conference. I am in the Methodist Church of necessity; I was born there. I am in it of choice; there is no other that suits me so well, or as I believe, is so well equipped, efficient and competent to do the great, expensive, and dangerous work which the colored people need, as she. Certainly no Methodist Church has so much as shown a will to do the immense work that she is singly and successfully accomplishing. I believe it is to the interest of the colored race throughout the world that the American colored people remain in our Church until this work is completed, and there remain, because their sphere of usefulness will never be less in her than now, and it is far larger now than we have all the qualifications to fill. I propose to be the last man to leave the Methodist Episcopal Church by consent, and if for my offences she should force me from her, like the gallant Muir, I will be found waiting at her bar for re-admission. I have no need in the region where I am best known to defend myself against too much inclination to favor any of the caste churches. I hate that hateful color line. I have never written, spoken, or voted for anything that would as far as I could judge contribute in the remotest degree to its creation or perpetuation. I would see black and white people one in all respects that goes to effect perfect Christian and social fellowship. This is my ideal objective point. I am in the Methodist Episcopal Church because I find that there in her exists the nearest practical approach to a realization of my ideal, and the brightest prospect for its full attainments in the shortest period of time. The old Church is a pillar of strength to our people in the South. Though now and then a case of intolerance is manifested and of persecution is endured. For every such case accomplished a thousand is averted because of the relation we sustain to the patriotic and influential northern Methodist Church as it is called South of the La Belle Rivere. Churches are built, colleges erected and endowed, missionaries sent forth and supported full of faith and courage to labor and elevate the fallen both mentally and morally. Teachers, doctors, and lawyers are created by her magnificent system of benevolence. Her noble women find way to the dismal abode of their fallen, and sometimes more than dead, sisters of our race, and pulling them violently out of the fire, drag them forth into life and virtue. The hungry are fed, the naked clothed, the sick and imprisoned are visited, the fatherless and the widows receive their constant ministration, occupations are opened, and a beneficial and commendable competion is excited among our young people by promotion to enlarged fields of difficulty and usefulness. All this is needful, and indispensable to be done for us and and it is not so efficiently done elsewhere as in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Therefore I believe it to be the proper place for all our people. I advise those already in it to remain and those without to enter.

If our A. M. E. brethren really have misrepresented me as reported I trust they will now feel called upon to correct their erroneous statement, assured that they have not so much as the shadow of a shade of fact upon which to rest, and that this is a species of [illegible] effort employed to decoy our members from the fold of our Church, both the means and the end are far beneath the dignity of our common Master's ministers. If [illegible]

MARSHALL W. TAYLOR.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 23, 1880.

The Church in the South.

To the Editor of the Witness.

DEAR SIR:—I am a pastor of a circuit near this city in the Methodist Episcopal Church, composed of people the color of whose skin varies from a bright yellow to jet black. Among a quarter of a million of such people in this State there are but three other white ministers at work beside myself, and we are ostracised and treated with distrust by the great mass of white people. A white man in this State, unless he will treat and speak of the poor colored people as "nigger," or if he should happen to go into a colored house to pray or visit, or eat a meal when hungry, or spend a night when weary, is considered unworthy the notice of even those who profess to be followers of the meek and lowly Saviour. I cannot see why this is so, when there is not a single member of the Board of Bishops or a minister over fifty years of age in the M. E. Church (South); but has been the pastor of a colored congregation.

The colored people without reference to their condition, whether they are educated or in good circumstances, or even where they are three-fourths white, are debarred from the churches, schools, and society of the white people, unless they come as they had to come in ante-bellum days. I am sorry to say that as far as I know there is not a white society in the South but what draws the "color line." How they can do so and profess to be Christians I cannot see, when I consider what we claim for the Christian religion—that it makes us like Christ, no respector of persons, that it makes us humble like the blessed Savior was—it causes me to shudder for the Church here.

Is the Church of Christ a mere human organization where we can stoop to the sinful prejudices of a corrupt public sentiment? Or, is it a Divinely-appointed institution where men and women who have been "born of the Spirit" and made the children of God—who are "heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus,"—meet together to worship their common Father and to help each other on through this sinful world to a home in Heaven?

The churches organized among colored people—and I know whereof I affirm—are not commencing to do the work that should be done, and could be done, for their salvation in this Christian land. Many of their societies, instead of being a blessing, are a curse to them, with pastors over them who teach by precept and example that it is no harm to use tobacco or liquor in moderation, and whose habits of life would not permit them to mingle in decent society at the North, let alone remains in the Christian ministry. I consider this class of men the worst foes the colored people have. Something must be done to counteract their influence. There are thousands of colored people who are praying and longing for a purer, better, more intelligent ministry, and who would gladly join white societies in the South if they were made welcome and treated kindly; but, no; that would not do, as a good Methodist sister told me a short time since. It would not do to mix—no! it would not do at all; and yet they mix in all other departments of life, and for over a hundred years have been mixing until but one-eighth of the colored people in the South are of pure blood.

Will not Mr. Moody, with the great church he is unconsciously founding, or some other New England church, come to our rescue and build up a church in which color will not be a recommendation for membership, but where all will be welcomed for whom Christ died?

The Church needs at least a thousand missionaries (a part of them ladies) to work among these dusky children of America before they will be saved from the ignorance, prejudice and superstitions of two hundred years of human slavery. If such a number of workers could be put into this vineyard, giving each aid to the amount of two or three hundred dollars a year, in less than five years a new and better public sentiment would be created, that would soon redeem the millions of those lost in ignorance and sin in this dark land.

I ask the thousands of readers of the Witness to pray for us that God will hasten the day when ignorance, caste prejudice and color line shall be driven out of this sunny Southland, and when righteousness and Scriptural holiness shall prevail in the hearts of all the people. Very respectfully,

L. M. LAYTON.

Little Lock, Ark., August 21, 1880.

[We invite special attention to the above article. It shows the real root of the trouble in the South, namely, the anti-Christian and Creator-defying prejudice, as well as the deadness of religion, which keeps the whites in mental slavery, and the blacks in ignorance and degradation under, in some instances, drunken, licentious and grossly ignorant pastors.—Ed. N. Y. Witness]

Synopsis of the President's Message.

WASHINGTON, December 6.—The president congratulates Congress on the continued and increasing prosperity of our country. By the favor of divine providence we have been blessed during the past year with health, with abundant harvests, with profitable employment for all our people, and with contentment at home and with peace and friendship with other nations.

The occurrence of the twenty-fourth election of the chief magistrate has afforded another opportunity to the people of the United States to exhibit to the world the significant example of the peaceful and safe transmission of the power and authority of the government from public servants whose terms of office are about to expire to their newly chosen successors. This example cannot fail to impress profoundly the thoughtful people of other countries with the advantages which republican institutions afford.

Continued opposition to the full and free enjoyment of the rights of citizenship, conferred upon the colored people by the recent amendments to the constitution, still prevails in the several of the late slave-holding States.

It has, perhaps, not been manifested in the recent election to any large extent in acts of violence or intimidation. It has, however, by fraudulent practices in connection with the ballots, with regulations is to places and manner of voting, and with counting, returning, and canvassing the votes cast been successful in defeating the exercise of the right and preservation of all rights — the right of suffrage—which the constitution expressly confers upon our enfranchised citizens.

It is the desire of the good people of the whole country that sectionalism, as a factor in our politics, should disappear. They prefer that no section of the country should be united in solid opposition to any other section. The disposition to refuse prompt and hearty obedience to the equal rights amendments to the constitution, is all that now stands in the way of complete obliteration of sectional lines in our political contests.

As long as either of these amendments is flagrantly violated or disregarded, it is safe to assume that the people who placed them in the constitution as embodying the legitimate results of the war of the Union, and who believe them to be wise and necessary, will continue to act together to insist that they shall be obeyed. The paramount question still is as to the enjoyment of the right by every American citizen who has requisite qualifications to freely cast his vote and have it honestly counted.

With this question rightly settled, the country will be relieved of the contentions of the past; bygones will indeed be bygones, and politic and party issues, with respect to the economy and efficiency of the administration, of internal improvement, tariff, domestic taxation, education, finance and other important subjects, will then receive their full shares of attention, but resistance to and nullification of the results of the war will unite together in a resolute purpose for their support all who maintain the authority of the government and the preservation of the Union, and who adequately appreciated the value of the victory achieved. The determination proceeds from no hostile sentiment or feeling to any part of the people of our country, or to any of their interests.

The inviolability of the amendments rest upon the fundamental principles of our government. They are solely expressive of the will of the people of the United States. The sentiment that constitutional rights of all our citizens must be maintained does not grow weaker; it will continue to control the government of the country.

Happily the history of the late election shows that in many parts of the country, where opposition to the fifteenth amendment has heretofore prevailed, it is diminishing, and is likely to cease altogether, if firm and well considered action is taken by Congress.

I trust the House of Representatives and the Senate, which have a right to judge of election returns and qualifications of their own members, will see to it that every case of violation of the letter or spirit of the fifteenth amendment is thoroughly investigated, and that no benefit from such violation shall accrue to any person or party.

It will be the duty of the executive, with sufficient appropriations for the purpose to prosecute unsparingly all who have been engaged in depriving colored citizens of the rights guaranteed to them by the constitution. It is not, however, to be forgotten that the best and surest guarantee of the primary rights of citizens is to be found in that capacity for self-protection which can belong only to a people whose right to universal suffrage is supported by universal education.

The means at the command of the local and State authorities are, in many cases, wholly inadequate to furnish a free institute to all who need it. This is especially true, where before emancipation, the education of people was neglected or prevented in the interest of slavery.

Firmly in the conviction that the subject of popular education deserves the earnest attention of the people of the whole country with a view to a wise and comprehensive action by the government of the United States, I respectfully recommend that Congress, by suitable legislation and with proper safeguards, supplement the local educational fund in several States where grave duties and responsibilities of citizenship have been developed on uneducated people by devoting to the purpose grants of public lands, and, if necessary, by appropriations from the treasury of the United States.

In my former annual messages I have asked the attention of Congress to the urgent necessity of reformation of the civil service system of the government. My views concerning the danger of patronage or appointments for personal considerations have been strengthened by my observation and experience in the executive office, and I believe these dangers threaten the stability of the government.

It is the recognized duty and purpose of the United States to suppress polygamy where it now exists in our territories, and to prevent its extension.

I recommend that Congress provide for the government of Utah by a governor and judges, or commissioners, appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate—a government analogous to the provisional government established for the Territory northwest of Ohio, by the ordinance of 1787. If, however, it is deemed best to continue the existing form of local government, I recommend that the right to vote, to hold office, and sit on juries in the Territory of Utah, be confined to those who neither practice nor uphold polygamy.

Our relations with all foreign countries have been those of undisturbed peace, and have presented no occasion for concern as to their continued maintenance.

There is reason to believe that the obstacles which have so long prevented rapid and convenient communication between the United States and Mexico by railways, are on the point of disappearing, and that several important enterprises of this character will soon be set on foot which cannot fail to contribute largely to the prosperity of both countries.

The relations between this government and that of the United States of Columbia have engaged public attention during the past year, mainly by reason of the project of an inter-oceanic canal across the isthmus of Panama, to be built by private capital under a concession from the Colombian government for that purpose. The treaty obligations subsisting between the United States and Colombia, by which we guarantee the neutrality of the transit and the sovereignty and property of Columbia in the isthmus, make it necessary that the conditions under which so stupendous a change in the region embraced in this guarantee should be effected—transforming, as it would, this isthmus, from a barrier between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, into a gateway and thoroughfare between them, for the navies and the merchant-ships of the world—should receive the approval of this government, as being compatible with the discharge of these obligations on our part, and consistent with our interest as the principal commercial power of the Western Hemisphere.

The condition of the financial affairs of the government, as shown by the report of the secretary of the treasury, is very satisfactory. It is believed that the present financial situation of the United States, whether considered with respect to trade, currency, credit, growing wealth, or the extent and and variety of our resources, is more favorable than that of any other country of our time, and has never been surpassed by that of any country at any period of its history.

The ordinary revenues, from all sources, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1880, were $333,526,610 98. The ordinary expenditures for the same period were 267,642,957 78. Leaving a surplus revenue $65,883,653 20.

The debt of the United States, less cash in treasury and exclusive of accruing interest, attained its maximum of $2,756,431,571 43 in August, 1865, and has since that time been reduced to $1,886,019,504 65. Of the principal of the debt, $108,758, 100 has been paid since March 1, 1877, effecting an annual saving of interest of $6,107,593. The burden of interest has also been diminished by the sale of bonds bearing a low rate of interest, and the application of the proceeds to the redemption of bonds bearing a higher rate. The annual saving thus secured since March 1, 1877, is $14,290,453 50.

The two great rivers of the North American continent — the Mississippi and Columbia — have their navigable waters wholly within the limits of the United States, and are of vast importance to our internal and foreign commerce. The permanency of the important work on the South Pass of the Mississippi river seems now to be assured. There has been no failure whatever in the maintenance of the maximum channel during the six months ended August 9, last.

A comprehensive improvement of the Mississippi and its tributaries is a matter of transcendent importance.

I commend to the attention of Congress the great services of the commander-in-chief of our armies during the war for the Union, whose wise patriotic conduct did so much to bring that momentous conflict to a close. The legislation of the United States contain many precedents for the recognition of distinguished military merit, authorizing rank and emoluments to to be conferred for eminent services to the country. An act of Congress authorizing the appointment of a captain-general of the army, with suitable provisions relating to compensation, retirement and other details, would in my judgment, be altogether fitting and proper, and would be warmly approved by the country.

The Indians have made gratifying progress in agriculture, herding and mechanical pursuits. Many who were a few years ago in hostile conflict with the government, are quietly settle down on farms, where they hope to make their permanent homes, building houses and engaging in the occupation of civilized life.

The commissioner of education reports a continued increase of public interest in educational affairs, and that the public schools generally throughout the country are well sustained. Industrial training is attracting deserved attention, and colleges for instruction, theoretical and practical, in agriculture and the mechanic arts, including the government schools recently established for the instruction of Indian youth, are gaining steadily in public estimation.

The commissioners ask special attention to the depredation committed on the lands reserved for the future support of public instruction, and to the very great need of help from the nation for schools in the territories and in the Southern States.

A Change of Pastorate.

REV. H. R. MILLER, PASTOR OF THE SEDALIA M. E. CHURCH, TRANSFERRED TO SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.

The above announcement will, no doubt, create considerable surprise in Sedalia, and cause many regrets. The M. E. Church has rapidly increased in Texas, and it is becoming a powerful organization in that State.

The Methodist Episcopal congregation of San Antonio, Texas, have recently completed a magnificent church edifice, constructed from the beautiful stone for which Southwestern Texas is famed. It is stated that the building is the finest church structure in San Antonio, and in all Southwestern Texas. Bishop E. O. Haven recently notified Rev. H. R. Miller that he transferred him to the Austin Conference and appointed him to take charge of the pastorate of the San Antonio congregation. As the church edifice will be dedicated in about two weeks, Rev. Miller's stay in Sedalia will necessarily be short.

San Antonio is a city of about 35,000 population; and while it has many streets of Spanish designing which gave the town the name of being ancient and non-progressive, those marks are rapidly disappearing. The majority of its people are now intelligent, highly educated, and in fact were once the best people of the North and East. The unsightly one-story buildings are being replaced by beautiful business blocks. It has fine church buildings, private residences, and at this time of the year is a perfect paradise with its beautiful lawns filled with choice flowers and plants. The very air, the history of the city, and romantic scenery breathe the life of poety into the visitor.

The Eagle, while it sincerely regrets the loss of the Rev. Miller, congratulates him upon receiving an appointment to such a city as San Antonio, and congratulates the citizens of San Antonio upon receiving such a minister and worker into their midst.

Since the residence of Rev. Miller in Sedalia, he has formed many acquaintances both inside and outside the congregation, who value him very much as a Christian gentleman and a polished scholar. His views on religion, while they are strict in point of his belief, partake of that liberality which always commands a respectful hearing from all classes. He wins, he does not frighten nor drive.

Rev. Miller has been pastor of the Ohio street M. E. Church, for about one year and nine months, and during his ministry here he has received one hundred new members into that church. In addition to this he has been instrumental in creating a deep interest in the Sunday-school work. Since his arrival, the lower story of the M. E. Church building has been constructed into business rooms which now yield a handsome income to the Church; and the audience room has been remodeled, refurnished, and neatly and newly carpeted. He is a hard worker and an intelligent and successful manager in religious affairs. The Sedalia congregation will have deep sorrow in the hearts of its people when the Rev. Miller takes his departure, but they will wish him God speed to a successful future in his new field of labor. He will take his departure for San Antonio about the 15th of December.

The following complimentary paper was unanimously adopted by the clergymen of Sedalia at their meeting Monday morning:

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 29, 1880.

"Being informed that our friend and brother, Rev. H. R. Miller, pastor of the Ohio street M. E. Church, of this city, is about to be transferred to another field of labor, we, his brethren in the ministry in this city, desire to give some expression to the feelings we bear toward him.

After an intimate personal acquaintance, we now bear the strongest testimony to his devotion to his calling, to his ability as a preacher of the Gospel, to his eminent success in his charge in this city. His generosity, charity, sympathy with all philanthropic enterprises and urbanity of manner, have greatly endeared him to his church, his brother ministers and the city. He will go to his new field of labor followed by the prayers of many, and the best wishes of all. We predict for him a large success and part from him with regret.

A large land league meeting was to have been held at Brankborough, Ireland, but was dispersed by a local magistrate, who read the riot act. The meeting was held in the field outside of the village, and Mr. O'Kelly, member of Parliament, made a speech protesting against interference of the magistrate, and denounced Chief Justice May as an criminal villain.

The solid South has made another narrow escape. A genuine Yankee, H. I. Kimball, came within 54 votes of being elected Mayor of the city of Atlanta, Ga. The entire press of the city and Democratic orators were loud in denouncing Mr. Kimbell, and yet he seems to have had a large backing. Mr. Kimball has been one of the chief agents in starting the new life of Georgia. He built for Atlanta the largest hotel south of Washington, and the Capitol; got their fair grounds, and led in the introduction of water into the city. His excuse for running for Mayor was that he wanted to clean and pave the streets. Just such men as Mr. Kimball would give new life and energy to the South, but get poor encouragement.—Inter-Ocean.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1880.

The Southwestern for 1881.

We will send the SOUTHWESTERN to all new subscribers for 1881, free from the time their subscriptions are received up to January 1. This is a liberal offer. We give no premiums. The price of the paper is $2 a year, postage prepaid. This makes the SOUTHWESTERN one of the cheapest religious papers published in America.

Subscribers for 1881 have already commenced coming in. We trust the preachers everywhere will at once begin the canvas for 1881 in earnest.

We propose to make the paper better than ever during the months to come. But our success depends on the co-operation of the pastors and other friends who have in the past done so much in building up our subscription list.

Send on the names and money for 1881.

Rev. James Morrow told "How we got our English Bible," at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening; and preached to young men in the Carondelet Street M. E. Church on Sunday.

J. C. Hartzell, secretary of the Louisiana Conference, has sent to each pastor, the blanks for statistical reports. They conform to the new Discipline, and it is expected that great care will be used in filling them up. They will be returned to the proper secretary on the first day of the conference session.

Within the past two weeks some of the brethren have pushed the SOUTHWESTERN canvass vigorously. 30 from Murfreesboro, 15 from Nashville, 8 from Gordonsville, Tennessee; 10 from Rosedale, La.; and 38 from Austin, Texas, are among the lists. Good cheer comes from all along the lines of Methodism.

A short serial by Mrs. Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc., will begin in the February Scribner. Meantime Mrs. Burnett is writing what promises to be her longest novel, for this monthly. Its scene is laid in Washington. Mr. Cable's new serial, "Madame Delphine," will also begin in February, and run through three or four numbers. Mrs. Schayer's "Tiger-Lily" will be concluded in January.

Two weeks ago to-day, Rev. A. M. Green, at St. James Chapel, A. M. E. Church, began a course of three lectures, having for their subject criticisms on people and things in the city of New Orleans. We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of complimentary tickets. The object of these lectures is to raise money for the erection of the chapel school building on Dorbigny street. To-night the last lecture will be delivered. Tickets may be had at this office.

Liberty, Equality and Fraternity.

There can be no true history of mankind which does not reveal the cause of man's depravity and wickedness on one hand, and his restoration and purity on the other, through the agency of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. For when you analyze the real spirit of the world's history and the animus that underlies the actions of men and nations, you will make the discovery that it is not so much the rise or fall of empires, republics and nationalities; it is not so much the growth or decay of institutions domestic, social or political; it is not so much the habits and customs of a people; it is not so much the arts of war or the pursuits of a peaceful commerce that fills so large a place in the eye of the world, as it is the outcroppings of the inward, hidden life of the race, seeking and struggling for something better and higher, that causes all the agitation and upheaval in the world.

It is over this wide field with its thousands of revolutions and evolutions—its growth and decay—its decay and progress, that the Christian philosopher fixes his attention, and seeks to disentangle God's plans from the confusion of human errors, and perverted human history.

The great realities and results of human history and divine prophecy, now stand out like great mountain peaks, luminous to the eye of the Christian philosopher, because the light of divine revelation, evolved from the cross of Christ, shines all over the pages of this world's discordant mass of human passions and events, clearly revealing to us the workings of a divine providence, all tending to the one supreme end of human happiness and human redemption. Worldly philosophers, politicians and statesmen, may effect to overlook and treat with indifference the Church of Christ, the only living embodiment of spiritual power in the world, and regard all this praying, and preaching and missionary efforts to evangelize the world as frivolous occupations in comparison with their great schemes of legislative statecraft which their political sagacity has set a going to perfect humanity, but they will come to find out, that the great mystery of godliness in the person of Jesus Christ will yet occupy the vacant throne of this world. They will yet come to find that all these revolutions, wars, and civil and political commotions have only been so many agencies marshalled by a divine hand to accomplish the sublime result of a regenerated and redeemed humanity.

The wild slogan cries of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity, swelling up from the heart, and finding utterance on the lips of struggling millions, is not so wide of the mark of the principle of that freedom of the soul which yet awaits our emancipated nature.

The source from which these blessings are to be realized is the wretched mistake under which the masses labor, because of diplomatic villiany, drilled ignorance and political chicanery, but which shall yet be overthrown be the power of the gospel of Christ.

For just let these oppressed millions of earth, but find out, and find out they will, that the liberty for which they sigh, is but a true liberty of soul—a personal salvation through faith in the Son of God, instead of a false liberty through the bloody role of revolution; that the equality which their inward consciousness assures them is their birthright, is an equality founded upon the faith of Christianity in the sight of God who is no respector of persons; that the fraternity, blazoned upon their banners as genuine, is but the fraternity of love found in the great brotherhood of Christianity; and where is the political despotism or iron-handed tyranny that could hold such a people in subjection and ignorance?

Do you doubt the power and hesitate to believe in the final triumph of Christianity and humanity? God is at the helm of this world's affairs, and holds all the elements and agencies of power at his command, and would have you [illegible] in this sublime work of [illegible] redemption.

[illegible] that Christ will accept [illegible] not even the most earnest [illegible], the world will accept [illegible] not even the most con- [illegible], they all cry out [illegible] good right to cry out— [illegible] practical proof that you [illegible] believe and are in earn- [illegible] these momentous truths [illegible] human happiness de- [illegible] eternal salvation hangs.

Over the Field.

AT CENTRAL TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

We arrived at the Central Tennessee Conference, at Huntington, on the second day of the session and remained during the day and evening. This Conference includes the work among our white people in middle and west Tennessee, and is composed of an aggressive body of men. Three years ago there were thirty-six preaching places, now there seventy-eight. Several young men have lately entered this Conference, and it was understood that several places would have to be left to be supplied, and will be filled by transfers. The territory occupied by this Conference is among the most difficult in the South. It includes Nashville, the headquarters of the M. E. Church South, which body represents some of the strongest influences operating against our Church in all the Southern States.

In these regions of Tennessee the effects of slavery in keeping large masses of the whites in ignorance, are everywhere evident. While not by any means confined to this class, still the Church finds among its multitudes open doors for the establishment of churches and schools. No grander field for Church work can be found on this continent. The Church that preaches to the most poor people of this generation will preach to the most rich in the next; and the Church which carries the gospel to the greatest number of the poor and ignorant people of the South to-day, will command the largest influence in the same region in the near future. The whole Church should remember the heroic brethren of the Central Tennessee Conference in prayer. Its presiding elders and pastors are fighting the battle of the Church, at a point of great exposure and in the midst of difficulties and of self sacrifices, known to but few men in the Christian world.

We had the good fortune to hear Bishop Foster's addresses to the class entering Conference. It was one of the most comprehensive, instructive, and Methodistic addresses we have heard from any of our bishops. From being one of the conservative of our bishops on our southern work, especially among the whites, Bishop Foster has come to be one of the most enthusiastic. His tours in the South during the past years have made him thoroughly familiar with the vast unoccupied field for Church work in every Southern State, and his great mind and heroic soul have thoroughly become aroused to the magnitude of the work to be done. While according the fullest measure of fraternal greetings to all Churches in their work, he sees the vast outlying fields into which his own Church is called. The reports of the preachers had told of hardships, and of the poor condition of many of the people they went to. The reports recalled to the mind of the Bishop the early years of his own ministry, when in a single year he travelled thousands of miles on horseback in the mountains of Virginia. That address will never be forgotton by those who heard it.

Bro. Cotton, whom we knew years ago when a student in Illinois, is an honored member of this Conference. He will give the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN a synopsis af the Conference proceedings.

THE GOVERNOR ELECT OF TENNESSEE.

Huntington is the home of Tennessee's new Governor. We were the guest of Gov. Hawkins, and his brother, Judge Hawkins, who, with two other brothers, differs from the Governor in politics. Gov. Hawkins is sixty-nine years old, of medium height, weighs perhaps one hundred and seventy-five pounds, is pleasant and affable in conversation, and has the manner of a thoroughly practical, honest and strong man. He was the eldest of thirteen children. His mother still lives, and largely to her faith, and love and efforts in the midst of poverty and the disadvantages of a new country, is due the success of several of her sons. One son in the late election was a Hancock elector, another (Alvin) candidate for Governor. She is herself a Democrat. Gov. Hawkins has great hopes that political Bourbonism has received it death blow in Tennessee. He feels that hereafter the Whig vote of the State will stand with the Republicans. His own vote was 104,000, being a plurality of 28,000 over his strongest competitor. Tennessee will have a good Governor for two years. Gov. Hawkins is an active and devout member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was a member of our last General Conference. It was there, last May, that we first met him.

After attending and delivering one of the addresses at the anniversary of the Church Extension Society, Friday night, the 26th, we took the train at midnight for Memphis and Little Rock.

Hon. Carl Schurz, Secretary of the Interior, has our thanks for a copy of his annual report.

American Bible Society.

The stated meeting of the Board of Managers was held at the Bible House, on Thursday, Dec. 2d, Frederick S. Winton, Esq., in the chair.

The Hon. Horace Maynard, of Tennessee, Hon. George H. Stuart, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Francis T. King, of Maryland, Vice Presidents of the Society, who had come to attend the Wycliffe Commemoration in the evening, supported the chairman.

The religious exercises were conducted by the Rev. Daniel Butler, of Boston.

It was stated that during the past month, 18,308 volumes had been distributed by colporteurs laboring in fifteen States of the Union under the direction of the Society. It is manifest that this comparatively new department of labor is becoming more and more important. Specially gratifying are the reports of the month concerning the distribution of the Scriptures among the Mormons. Grants of books were made by the Board for the Indian Territory, Cuba, Liberia, and to the Moravian Publication Society for Barbadoes, and $200 in funds for the "Societe Centrale of France."

Two auxiliary societies were recognized in Montana, and one each in Iowa, Utah, and West Virginia.

Receipts for the month were $128,223.06. Volumes issued, 95,363.

Central Tennessee Conference.

Says Dr. Fuller in the Atlanta Advocate: "From McMinnville we had the pleasure of accompanying Bishop Foster, Drs. Braden, Hartzell, Mitchell, Ford, brother Jones and others to Tullahoma, stopping at that place with the brothers Maynard.

"Bishop Foster preached at night, and on the morrow the reverend brethren moved on to Nashville, except Dr. Hartzell, who tarried at Murfreesboro to preach. Dr. Mitchell kept the train for the North, Bishop Foster lectured at night at Central Tennessee college, and next morning looked over the premises, visiting various departments of the institution, and in the afternoon left for Huntingdon, the seat of the Central Tennessee conference.

"The conference met on Thursday morning, the 25th ult., Thanksgiving day, Bishop Foster presiding. A. G. Park was elected secretary, J. N. Turrentine, assistant, J. M. Carter, recorder, and M. T. Brown and A. Wells, statistical secretaries. Huntingdon is the place of residence of Governor Hawkins, who is an esteemed and honored member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a member of the General Conference at Cincinnati, in May last. The conference indicated its appreciation of the personal worth of the Governor, by the adoption of the following resolution:

"'WHEREAS, Our beloved brother, Hon. Alvin Hawkins, has been elected governor of the commonwealth of Tennessee by the free suffrages of his fellow citizens; therefore

"'Resolved, That, as a conference, we tender the governor elect our hearty sympathy and earnest prayers for the success of his administration.'

"It was our privilege to enjoy the hospitality of the Governor and his family with Bishop Foster. Thanksgiving day was duly observed, with the regulation turkey.

"The conference has had some growth during the year. The statistics show 844 probationers, 5,082 members—being an increase of over four hundred, and 75 local preachers, making in all, 5,901. It has 123 houses, worth $90,280, and 13 parsonages, worth $7,025; Sunday-schools 106, officers and teachers 655, scholars 3,964, being an increase of 245. Raised for missions $374.43, an increase of over one hundred dollars. For Church Extension $73.30, Woman's Foreign Missionary Society $19.70, tracts $12.35, Sunday-school Union $39.05, Freedmen's Aid $14.85, education $20.75, American Bible Society $6.80, other collections $133.65, for the support of the ministry $2,944.28. This is manifestly a mistake, because the missionary appropriation is a larger sum than this. Brethren should be more careful in giving their statistics. This report makes it appear that the people have not paid a dollar for the support of their pastors during the past year, and there is no doubt that some, seeing the figures in the minutes, will thus construe them, to the damage of the church. For conference claimants $29.05, current expenses $889.70. Two ministers were ordained elders, eight were ordained deacons and ten were received as probationers in the conference. Over seventy appointments were made. The work expands and strengthens year by year.

"The session was one of unusual interest. Drs. Ford and Mandeville, of the Rock River conference, were present and preached and spoke on various occasions with marked ability. Bishop Foster's addresses to the deacons and on missions, and his sermon on Sunday, were extraordinary productions. We have no house of worship in Huntingdon. The conference was held in the church-house of the Southern Methodists, which they tendered for the purpose with generous courtesy and fraternity. This point is so important and full of promise and the membership so small, that Bishop Foster offered to give one-fourth of the cost of a house, provided one should be built after a plan furnished by Dr. Kynett, secretary of the Board of Church Extension, and completely finished, furnished and paid for, except the one-fourth to be paid by himself. The new church will be built during the coming summer and will, no doubt, be a model of beauty and convenience for religious purposes."

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. G. De La Matyr at the end of his Congressional term is going to live in Florida.

—Bishop Foss and family have gone from Middletown, Conn., to their new home in Minneapolis, Minn.

—Ex-President Grant, President Hayes and President-elect Garfield have each three sons and a daughter.

—John T. Crawford, of Cincinnati, has left an estate valued at from $30,000 to $100,000 to found a home for aged colored men.

—W. P. Rogers, agent of Harper & Bros., on a year's leave of absence for general recuperation of health, is stopping in the city for a few days, when he will go on to Texas.

—Rev. C. E. Mandeville, of Rockford, Ill., left this city last week on his return home, via Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., at which places he expected to stop a short time. While here he visited several educational institutions and churches, and appeared to enjoy himself.

—Mrs. Bertha E. Sigler, of Osceola, Iowa, has given the Western Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society the sum of $3000 to erect buildings for Mrs. Hoskins school in Budaon, India.

—Prof. Swing has successfully stood a good deal of criticism, but we question whether he can survive many such compliments as that Mr. Ingersoll recently paid him. "Professor Swing," said the infidel orator, "so nearly agrees with me that I do not feel called upon to reply".—Buffalo Express.

—Rev. L. A. Rudisill received 21 persons in the Methodist church at Salt Lake City on Sabbath, Nov. 14th. Under his direction the main audience room is being greatly improved. The trustees have laid aside the furnaces and instead put in four large new stoves. Fifty have been added the past month to the attendance of the Sunday-school.

—Alessandro Gavazzi, the Italian patriot and deputy of the Free Church in Italy, arrived in New York, Nov. 28. It is eight years since he was in America and he is now 72 years old, is six feet high and broad shouldered. He proposes to lecture every day, and preach on Sundays, to give an account of the speed of the gospel in Italy, and plead for assistance to carry on the good work. He reports that Italy is free, but the dangers of the transition state are almost as great as of that which preceded it. The greatest danger is not from Romanism, but infidelity. The masses have lost faith in priests, pope, pontifex. There is danger they will lose faith in God. Gavazzi proposed to remain in New York two weeks, and then go south. The movement he founded began in 1853; the union of the churches occurred in 1870. They adopted a declaration of principles equivalent to evangelical doctrines of Christianity. He started from New York last week. Last Sunday he was at Richmond, Va.; a week later he expected to arrive at Savannah and he hopes to spend the holidays at New Orleans. According to his present plans he will return to New York when the weather moderates, and it is possible that he will deliver lectures on other than religious subjects before sailing for Italy.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana Methodists are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

Isaac Hayward, Baton Rouge: "The weather has been so bad I have not been able to get around much. Mud is knee deep. I will try to get all the subscribers I can."

J. W. Lewis, Thompson Chapel, New Orleans: "On the 22d of Oct. our presiding elder, M. Dale, held our third quarterly conference and preached on Sunday at 3 o'clock. The church has paid to the pastor $102.25; to the presiding elder, $5. The Lord will stand by His church. A basket meeting was held Nov. 28. We were blessed with good weather, but were disappointed at the absence of some who promised to be with us. Among those present were Rev. A. E. P. Albert, of Union Chapel M. E. Church; Rev. P. King, of Mt. Zion M. E. Church; Rev. G. Washington, of Congregational Church; M. Dyer, of New Iberia; Rev. Chas. Malone, of A. M. E. Church. We were made happy throughout the day, and closed with $37.25. I expect 25 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN from this church."

TENNESSEE.

Let us hear from you, brethren. Fill up your lists, and let us send out good tidings to your people each week. Shall we have 1000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN from Tennessee this year?

J. F. Summerhill, Lawrenceburg: "I arrived on my work, and am well pleased with the prospects of a great harvest at this place this year. I was met with a cordial welcome."

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

A. Culbreath, Pittsville: "Twelve members handed me their tobacco, and I put it in the stove. Among them were 3 local preachers named George Davis, Wm. Shelton and Tim Beller."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Chief Justice Brickell, of Alabama, resigned.

Gen. E. O. C. Ord has been retired from active service.

The explosion of the boiler of a portable steam saw mill at Orange, Mass., killed six persons.

Already reports come of 14 seats to be contested in the next Congress, all of the Southern and South-western States.

The recommendations of President Hayes on the Mormon question give great satisfaction to the Gentiles of Salt Lake City.

Milwaukee is to have a new morning Republican newspaper. It is understood that Horace Rublee will be editor-in-chief, and Dr. Kalne managing editor.

Prof. Baird, of the Smithsonian Institute, visited Austin, Tex., and has large quantities of several varieties of fish with which to stock the rivers of Texas.

The east-bound stage was robbed three miles east of Brownwood, Texas, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Two robbers, after relieving the passengers of $165, cut open the mail-bags, extracting registered letters, from which they obtained about $350.

The following nominations by the President were sent to the Senate: Col. Nelson A. Miles, brigadier general vice Gen. Ord, retired; Col. Wm. B. Hazen, chief signal officer with the rank of brigadier general. Collector of customs—Tomlinson F. Johnson, for Savannah, and J. Mason Rice, for St. Marys, Ga. United States district attorneys—John S. Bigby, for the northern and southern districts of Georgia; Wm. H. Smith, northern and middle Alabama; Luke Lea, southern district of Mississippi; John B. Stickney, northern district of Florida; Charles C. Waters, eastern district of Arkansas. James W. Siler, of Arkansas, for United States consul at Lagnayra, and Edwin H. Smith, of Virginia, consul at Naples. Robert W. Wallace, United States marshal for the district of South Carolina. J. P. Batchelor, of North Carolina, appointed from civil life to be second lieutenant in the army.

A Word from Central Tennessee Conference.

BY T. COTTON.

In compliance with a kind invitation from the editor, I send a few items to the SOUTHWESTERN concerning the Central Tennessee Annual Conference and its recent session at Huntington, Tenn. I must first mention the great pleasure derived from seeing the genial face and grasping the hand of Dr. Hartzell, after so may years of separation. I was surprised to see that he had changed so little since. When he a student, both in the university and in the Garret Biblical Institute, and at the same time a youthful pastor, and the writer almost a veteran, we labored together in the vineyard of the Lord, in Central Illinois.

While indulging in personal mention, I must not omit the very acceptable visit to the conference of Rev. C. E. Mandeville, presiding elder of Rockford district, Rock River Conference, whose eloquent sermon on Sabbath night, and pleasant inspiring remarks at other times will not be soon forgotton. I need not say that the presence and labors of Dr. E. Q. Fuller, editor of the Methodist Advocate, and of Dr. J. B. Ford, our Sunday-school secretary for the South were as usual, highly appreciated by the ministers and people in attendance. But the great event of the session was the sermon of Bishop Foster, on Sabbath morning, from I. Timothy 3:16. It was a masterpiece of pulpit eloquence, of that lofty and powerful kind which has been so correctly defined as "logic on fire." Its impression on the preachers and the entire audience was overwhelming; nor were the labors of the bishop confined to his Sabbath morning discourse, and his duties as a presiding officer. We shall long remember his addresses at the Sabbath school and missionary anniversaries, his most wise and loving remarks at the close of the conference, his simple and fervent prayers, and his constant endeavors to bring us up to a high standard of Christian manhood and ministerial efficiency. Though not addicted to flattery, and dealing largely in plain and wholesome admonition, yet he was impelled to utter many inspiring words of commendation at the record made by the conference; the heroic endurance of its members in the midst of the privations and trials, their aggressive spirit, and the buoyant courage with which they received their marching orders and moved out to the trials and triumphs of another year. This was but the third session of the conference since its organization at Shelbyville, by Bishop Harris. It has more than doubled its members, the two presiding elders' districts with which it started, have increased to five with about 75 pastoral charges.

This body of white men consecrated to the service of Christ and about three-fifths of their number natives of the South, have a sublime mission, and if they remain true to their calling will achieve by the grace of God great things for his glory. An honest conviction that a division into white and colored conferences would be conducive to the stability and growth of the work as a whole, impelled a majority to desire the organization of a conference composed entirely of white members to labor for the salvation and education of the whites of the South, leaving the Tennessee Conference in the hands of its colored members and rejoicing in the present growth and improvement of both conferences. In conclusion, I but give expression to the unanimous feeling of the Central Tennessee Conference in bidding the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN a hearty welcome to our next annual session.

National Temperance Convention.

The Eighth National Temperance Convention held at Chicago, June 1, 1875, adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the next National Convention shall be called by the National Temperance Society, whenever, in the judgment of said Society, the need for such Convention becomes apparent."

We do, therefore, earnestly and cordially invite all Associations of Ministers and Churches, all General Assembles and Synods, all General and Annual Conferences, Classes, Presbyteries and Religious State Conventions, all National and State Temperance Organizations, all Woman's National and State Unions, Grand Divisions Sons of Temperance, Grand Lodges of Good Templars, Grand Temples of Honor and Temperance, and other State Temperance bodies, to send delegates to a National Temperance Convention to be held at Saratoga Springs, June 21, 1881.

Each body to be entitled to send seven delegates, of which the presiding officer and Secretary shall be two. In the Methodist Episcopal Church, where the bishops severally are presidents of a number of Conferences, this rule may not be binding. The same variation of this rule may apply to other organizations similarly constituted. In case any Presbytery, Association, Conference, or Organization shall not be in session after the issue of this call and prior to the meeting of the Convention, or shall fail to appoint delegates, the presiding officer or, in his absence or failure to do so, the Secretary may appoint the same. All delegates must have credentials duly signed by one or both the officers of their respective bodies. Vacancies in delegations may be filled by the remaining delegates. It is proposed that this Convention shall be composed entirely of delegates from delegative bodies and not from subordinate organizations.

In every section of the land this great subject is awakening deep interest, and by many persons it has been urged upon us that we request Christian people and patriots to assemble for prayer and deliberation touching the best methods for the freedom of the entire land from the curse of intemperance. The whole range of life, individual and social, the home, the Church, and the State, is involved. Upon the various aspects of this most important problem papers will be presented from the ablest writers and discussed by the best speakers in the country. The call for such an assembly is louder and the encouragement to hold one is greater to-day than ever. Let the high character of this Ninth Convention demonstrate the intense devotion the people of this nation cherish for temperance, patriotism, and religion.

We have just enjoyed a visit from Rev. C. E. Mandeville, presiding elder in the Rock River Conference, who is making a trip through the Southern States. He visited various recitations in our school, preached a very interesting and edifying sermon in Asbury Chapel, Wednesday evening, and delivered a most excellent lecture to our students on Thursday morning. He left Thursday evening for New Orleans, followed by the prayers of all who had the pleasure of meeting him.

The present school term will close Wednesday, Dec. 22nd; the winter term will open Monday, Jan. 3rd. It is important to all those expecting to be in school during the term to be present on the day of opening.

A Cowardly Assault.

MR. EDITOR—On the night of the 23d of November Moses Davis (col.) who resides half a mile of Enterprise, Clark Co., Miss., was called to his door and shot in the head. The bull-dozers were three white men; they are known, but no arrests yet. The shot did not prove fatal. Moses is a good Republican.

WHY suffer longer the torments of Dys- pepsia? Why bear such distress from Con- stipation, Dull Headache and Piles? Why allow the blood poisoned by Inactive Kid- neys? Take Simmons Liver Regulator, and rejoice in health. Take it and you will add one more to the thousands it has cured.

"I CERTIFY that I have been afflicted for many years with Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache and Affections of the Kid- neys, caused by a Torpid Liver. I have tried a great many remedies and physicians' prescriptions without success—my health failing me all the time. I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator, and have had more real good health since than for years before. The Regulator relieves it at once and is more satisfactory in its effects than anything of the kind I have ever tried. I have also used it with good success in my family to ward off Billious attacks.

Arousing its Readers.

An alarm of fire at midnight is a startling thing, but not half so startling to many who hear it as would be the sudden knowledge of their own dangerous physical con- dition. Thousands of thousands are hurrying to their graves be- cause they are carelessly indifferent to the insidious inroads of disease and the means of cure. It is the mission of H. H. Warner & Co., with their Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, to arouse men to a sense of their danger and cure them.—Mem- phis Appeal.

BOOK NOTICES.

LITTLE MOTHER. By Madame E. De Pres- sense. New York: American Tract So- ciety.

A very interesting story for chil- dren. The child who is designated as little mother has trials severely testing her character and endurance out of which she comes in triumph. The scenes are laid in France.

MEMORIALS OF GILBERT HAVEN. Edited by W. H. Daniels. Boston: B. P. Russell & Co.

A treasury of the leading utter- ances of the Church on the life and death of the great and beloved Bish- op. A volume especially welcome to a Methodist library, and worthy of a general reading. It contains a por- trait of Bishop Haven, and illustra- tions of points of interest in his life. The dedication by Editor Daniels is unique.

The Youth's Companion, of Bos- ton, employs the same writers as the best English and American magazines, and no other publication for the family furnishes so much entertainment and instruction of a superior order for so low a price.

LEMONS

AS A MEDICINE.

THEIR WONDERFUL EFFECTS ON THE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS AND KIDNEYS.

Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir is a pleasant drink. Regulates the Liver, Stomach and Bowels in a natural, healthy way without any of the Sickening, Griping and other disagree- able effects of PILLS. In using Lemon Elixir you do not acquire a habit of constipation that requires its continued use. It positively cures Constipation and Liver Diseases, Indi- gestion, all Headaches, Chills, Malarial or Billious Fevers, Foul Stomach, Sallow Com- plexion, Pimples and Blotches of the Skin, Diseases of the Kidneys, Pain in the Back, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, Impure Blood and all other diseases caused by a Torpid or diseased Liver, Malaria, etc.

It is an established fact that the fresh Juice of Lemons, when properly combined with other vegetable, Liver Tonics and Cathartics, produces the most desirable and lasting effects upon the Liver, Stomach, Bowels, Kid- neys and Nervous System. Such is Dr. Moz- ley's Lemon Elixir, and such is its effects, as safe for a child as for a grown person as per directions.

To show you its great popularity at home, I refer you to the following Prominent citizens of St. Louis who use Lemon Elixir regularly, personally in their families.

Rail Road Column.

The Louisville and Nashville rail- road has decided to bridge the Ohio river at Henderson, Ky.

The construction of the New Or- leans Pacific road is to be pushed with vigor.

A meeting of citizens of San Anto- nio was called to organize a company to construct a railway from San An- tonio to the coast.

Waco, Texas, is raising a subscrip- tion to buy depot grounds in the city, and purchase the way through the county for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad.

General manager Dodge, of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, says their company will at once commence laying a third rail between Pueblo and Denver. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe freight cars will run into Denver, but passengers will change at Pueblo as heretofore.

The Pensacola division of the Lou- isville and Nashville railroad have started a fast mail service to Cuba. The first steamer will leave Pensaco- la on Saturday. Time, sixty-nine hours from Cincinnati to Havana by this route. An additional line, under the same management, will run from Pensacola to Cedar Keys, Florida.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Knoxville and Ohio railroad reso- lutions were adopted authorizing the directors to let a contract for the completion of the road to the point of junction with the Louisville and Nashville road as soon as the latter company is obliged to complete the Knoxville branch to the Tennessee State line; a resolution was also adopted authorizing the issuance of $1,300,000 in bonds to take up the present indebtedness and prosecute the work, and setting forth the ad- vantage of the new outlet for the coal banks of East Tennessee.

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful be- yond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention. If Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great South- ern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the manage- ment of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave: "It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grot- toes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most deli- cate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

Arkansas Homes.

To enable this part of our population to know something about this growing State, and who wish to get homes of their own, there are thousands of acres of homestead lands yet to be taken up on the line of the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad. Since 1878 about 6,700 colored emigrants have set- tled on these lands. Every one is doing well. Good churches and good schools all the time. The Little Rock and Fort Smith Railroad have also for sale on the line of their road large quantities of the very finest land at a low price, and from 6 to 10 years payment. For further information apply to Colonel Slack, at Little Rock, Ark., at the land office, or at Conway, Ark., to Mr. A. Hemsteger. I have been a colored emi- grant passenger agent for the last three or four years and find these two roads always ready to give low rates to those who are going West to get homes.

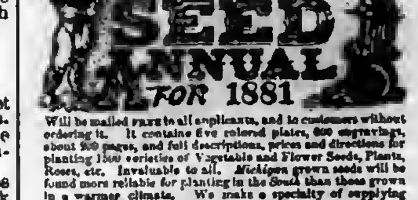
CLERGYMEN AND Sunday-School Teachers

Can employ their leisure time most profita- bly and in an eminently respectable manner in taking orders from their parishioners and scholars for our beautiful Oil Portraits, which we reproduce from any photograph sent to us at the moderate price of $1.50. A genteel business—good commission. Full particu- lars by addressing World Manufacturing Co., 122 Nassau St., N. Y. 31 1t



Will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to customers without ordering it. It contains five colored plates, 600 engravings, about 200 pages, and full descriptions, prices and directions for planting 1500 varieties of Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Plants, Roses, etc. Invaluable to all. Michigan grown seeds will be found more reliable for planting in the South than those grown in a warmer climate. We make a specialty of supplying Planters, Truckmen and Market Gardeners. Address,

Young Folks' Corner.

"THE PURE IN HEART SEE GOD."

BY MRS. MARY L. DICKINSON.

A child stood at the casement,
  When the evening sun hung low
  And the mountain tops of snow;
And as he watched the glory
  Flaming from peak to peak,
I watched the glow of pleasure
  Flashing from eye to cheek.

There glowed on every hillside
  The maples' crimson tinge;
There tossed in every valley
  The birches' golden fringe;
And mount and vale and cloudland
  Lay in his raptured sight
In pulsing folds of color,
  In trembling waves of light.

The dear child's face grew brighter,
  As paled the dying day,
The red lips whispered, smiling;
  I heard them softly say,
As if he spoke to angels
  Who must have listened there,
"How much the good God loves us,
  To make the world so fair!"

Ah, yes! the dear God loves us,
  Though oft our older gaze,
From "eyes that seeing see not,"
  Can scarce discern his ways;
But the purer heart of childhood,
  In cloud and sky and sod,
Can find, where we might miss it,
  The tender thought of God.

A Sagacious Donkey.

In no part of the world, probably is the patient animal, which is too often treated with cruelty, so well cared for as in Spain. In this country the donkey and the mule are petted and become great favorites, and among the peasantry they are almost looked upon as members of the household. As showing the wonderful influence which kind treatment will exercise, especially on the donkey, we are told that a Spanish peasant who possessed one was in the habit of journeying from his home to the city of Madrid for the purpose of conveying milk to the customers whom he supplied there; and every morning he and his donkey with laden panniers went their accustomed round. One day, however, the peasant became ill, and having no one to send was in rather a serious dilemma; whereupon his wife suggested that the donkey should be dispatched alone. Accordingly the panniers were filled as usual with the cans of milk; a piece of paper was attached, requesting customers to measure their own milk and return the cans, and the donkey started off. In a short time the faithful creature returned with the empty cans, having duly performed its errand; and not only did it continue to do so for several days, but its master afterward learned that it did not merely go the usual round, and trust to the customers coming out to it in the road, but even had the sagacity to go up to their doors and ring their bells (which in Spain often pull downward) with its mouth.—Christian Advocate.

A Rabbit's Curious Home.

We have often heard of rabbits rearing their young in strange places, but the following fact seems most extraordinary: An official on the London and Northwestern Railway, in the Midland counties, had constantly noticed a rabbit passing to and fro on the permanent way. Curious to know where it came from, he examined the locality, and eventually discovered beneath a "railway sleeper" a nest of four young rabbits. Continuing his observations, he noticed that whenever the parent rabbit left her young she carefully closed the aperture with sand and small stones. Considering that during the day some dozen of trains, often heavily laden, passed over this identical sleeper, you will agree that in choosing such a place for its young the mother made a very curious manner.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list for 1881, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do their whole duty for their church paper, and to give even better results than last year for the SOUTHWESTERN.

H. Cawthorn, Enterprise: "I am building a parsonage, have one room completed, and am living in it."

J. P. Freeman, Rosemeath: "Thanksgiving day was observed in accordance with the proclamation of the President."

R. Walker, Forest: "Our work is prospering; 26 conversions, 1 on probation, 5 reclaimed."

J. C. Clemens, Benton circuit: "In protracted meeting I received 15 converts, 39 probationers; membership in full is 191. Received on salary $106.15. Have 2 Sabbath-schools on my work, with 140 scholars."

J. P. Jordan, Enterprise: "We have an addition of 25 new converts. Our presiding elder J. W. Dunn held his last quarterly conference, we promised him $30 but gave him only $26 85. Our pastor, A. J. Allen, is compelling sinners to open their hearts."

Rev. J. Everette, Mashnlaville circuit: "Our protracted meetings closed with 20 converts, 7 by letter, 6 on probation, 20 adults baptized. Our churches are in a prosperous condition. People seem to love their pastor. They have paid him $195; elder, $14.10; missionary, $15 50. Great improvements on churches."

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

A. Thomas, Caney: "I have purchased a lot, built a church on it, and organized a day school. The trustees have employed me to teach it. I have had a hard time. There never was a Methodist church here before, and the people were very much opposed to it. We are gaining influence. I received $4.55 for support this year, and have made a little crop of cotton and potatoes. The church is ready for dedication, and will be known as St. Peter's Chapel."

V. M. Cole, West Chapel, Galveston: "The Lord has blessed us this year. We improved our church, put in a new style pulpit, and repainted the building. Collections—missionary, $6 80; Sabbath-school, $5. I administered the sacrament to 96, including 3 visitors from A. M. E. Church and Bro. Maris Rasmissen, of Torondal, Norway, a class leader there. At night we went aboard ship and brought three members ashore. The Captain and family, all members, were prevented from coming by cold weather. We prayed for him."

W. P. Armstrong wrote us from Fort Scott, Kansas: "I have just returned from the Austin conference session. Had a very pleasant conference in most respects. The work is well manned for the incoming year, and we shall have a good report from Texas at another conference. Bishop Haven won all hearts by his kindness, attention in detail to the business in hand, and the frankness with which he expressed himself on all subjects. Dr. Moss, of Elmira, New York, traveling companion of the Bishop, did fine service by his addresses on church interests, and sermons delivered before the conference. May the Lord bless our work in the great State of Texas."

Church papers are the purveyors of religious light. Subscribe for your church paper.

A Lady's Wish.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe." Read of it.

Life is a book of which we have but one edition. Let each day's actions, as they add their pages to the indestructible volume, be such as we shall be willing to have an assembled world to read.

The Chicago Times says: Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is highly endorsed by ministers, judges, physicians, surgeons, by men of literary and scholarly distinction, and by individuals in all the walks of life.

AN OLD LADY writes us: "I am 65 years old and was feeble and nervous all the time, when I bought a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic. [illegible] a little more than one bottle and feel as well as at 30, and [illegible] hundreds need just [illegible] medicine." See advertise[ment]. [illegible]

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

CONSUMPTION—BRONCHITIS—ASTHMA.

WERE FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP useless in all other diseases, the benefits which it undoubtedly yields in Consumption and other diseases of the Respiratory Organs would vindicate its claim to the attention of every medical practitioner. From the statistics of England and America it is a fair estimate that one-tenth of the entire deaths is caused by Consumption alone. If the Syrup is used perseveringly it subdues the tendency to Consumption, and in many confirmed cases, as that of the inventor, it has effected a cure.

Indigestion and habitual Costiveness almost always arise from weakness of the nerves and muscles of the stomach and bowels. In such cases Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service. The evacuations soon become copious and healthy.

This Syrup will cure PULMONARY CONSUMPTION in the first stage, and will give great relief and prolong life in the second and third. It will cure ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, LARYNGITIS, and COUGHS. It will cure all diseases originating from want of Muscular Action and Nervous Force.

Public Speakers and Singers

Will find this Syrup of inestimable value. A dose should be taken before speaking or singing.

Aphonia, or Loss of Voice, is usually cured by a few doses. We have known cases where a single dose has been effectual.

S. JACOB, M. D., St. John, N. B., writes: "I had occasion to use your Syrup in a case of Aphonia which would not yield to regular treatment: it proved to be all that you claim for it, having acted with expedition and entire satisfaction."

☞ Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this, under any circumstances. 504t nr

ASTHMA GERMAN ASTHMA CURE [illegible]

A GREAT REVELATION.

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness and Timely Suggestions About Securing It.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE,

while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposedly scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangements of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that only by removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight, and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who 'bled him copiously.' Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding!"

PRIVATE HISTORY

The speaker then graphically described another period which came upon the people, in which they assigned the origin of all diseases to the stomach, and after showing the falsity of this theory, and that the kidney and liver were the causes of disease, and that many people are suffering from kidney and liver troubles to-day who do not know it, but who should know it and attend to them at once, continued:

"Let us look at this matter a little more closely. The human body is the most perfect and yet the most delicate of all created things. It is capable of the greatest results and it is liable to the greatest disorders. The slightest causes sometimes seem to throw its delicate machinery out of order while the most simple and common-sense care restores and keeps them in perfect condition. When it is remembered that the amount of happiness or misery we are to have in this world is dependent upon a perfect body, is it not strange that simple precautions and care are not exercised? This is one of the most vital questions of life. People may avoid it for the present, but there is certain to come a time in every one's experience when it must be faced.

"And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I

FAINTED REPEATEDLY.

My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening of the pain at once; I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined fields in medicine never before explored. I sought the cause of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system."

After describing at length the offices of the kidneys and liver, and their important part in life, the doctor went on to say:

"Having found this great truth, I saw clearly the cause of my recovery. The simple vegetable leaf I had used was a food and restorer to my well-nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. It had come to them when their life was nearly gone and by its simple, yet powerful influence had purified, strengthened and restored them and saved me from death. Realizing the great benefit which a knowledge of this truth would give to the world I began in a modest way, to treat those afflicted and in every case I found the same which I had experienced. Not only this but many, who were not conscious of any physical trouble but who, at my suggestion, began the use of the remedy which had saved my life, found their health steadily improving and their strength continually increasing. So universal, where used, was this true, that I determined the entire world should share in its results, and I therefore placed the formula for its preparation in the hands of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., a gentleman whom I had cured of a severe kidney disease, and who, by reason of his personal worth, high standing and liberality in endowing the Astronomical Observatory and other public enterprises, has become known and popular to the entire country. This gentleman at once began the manufacture of the remedy on a most extensive scale, and to-day, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the pure remedy that saved my life, is known and used in all parts of the continent.

"I am aware a prejudice exists toward proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but the value of a pure remedy is no less because it is a proprietary medicine. A justifiable prejudice exists toward quack doctors, but is it right that this prejudice should extend towards all the doctors who are earnestly and intelligently trying to do their duty? Because Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure saved my life before it became a proprietary medicine, is it reasonable to suppose that it will not cure others and keep still more from sickness now that it is sold with a government stamp on the wrapper? Such a theory would be childish."

The doctor then paid some high compliments to American science, and closed his lecture as follows

"How to restore the health when broken and how to keep the body perfect and free from disease must ever be man's highest study. That one of the greatest revelations of the present day has been made in ascertaining the true seat of health to be in the kidneys and liver, all scientists now admit, and I can but feel that the discovery which I have been permitted to make, and which I have described to you, is destined to prove the greatest, best and most reliable friend to those who suffer and long for happiness as well as to those who desire to keep the joys they now possess."

Cure for Catarrh.

The following is a simple and immediate cure for Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc. The remedy is a new compound, entirely different from all other preparations or medicines used for Catarrh or Lung Diseases. It is the discovery of Dr. Hartshorn (an eminent physician) called Dr. Hartshorn's Swamp Weed Compound. You smoke the remedy in a pipe, which converts it into a dense smoke or vapor. This you inhale, emitting the smoke through the nose. After a few trials this will be easy to do. If the nose is stopped up so that it is almost impossible to breathe, one pipe ful will make the head as clear as a bell. Sufferers from that horrible disease, Ulcerated Catarrh, will find relief and comfort from the first day's use, and a permanent cure in due course of time. The number of remarkable cures effected by this new remedy is simply wonderful, and where once introduced and known it has a larger sale and takes the lead of all other Catarrh and Lung medicines. It penetrates to the very seat of the disease and breaks it up at its fountain head. It is the best remedy in the world for Asthma and Bronchitis.

Swallowing the vapor or smoke gives instantaneous relief, enabling the patient to lie down and enjoy refreshing sleep. The principal ingredient in this medicine is one of our common weeds (found growing in wet or swampy ground), and when combined with Cubebs, Extract of Pine Tar, &c., forms the best Catarrh and Lung treatment ever devised. It is a sure antidote for Cough, Sore Throat and Offensive Breath. It will make the foulest breath pure and sweet. All fatal epidemics are absorbed and propagated in the system by inhalation. So potent for evil, it is now made most powerful for good. Thus, in accordance with reason and common sense, does this remedy, by inhalation, come in direct contact with disease, and by absorption into the system, cleanses the blood.

To Consumptives.

Quit dosing the stomach with cod-liver oil, sickening syrups, and balsams. Eat more beefsteak and nourishing food. Take some simple medicine to aid digestion and to keep the bowels regular. Smoke the Swamp Weed Compound once or twice daily and exercise in the open air in good weather. Try the above prescription, and you will bless that day you read our advertisement. The medicine is pleasant and perfectly harmless, and there is no use going to high-priced "Catarrh and Lung doctors" while you can procure this remedy. Price by mail, post-paid, $1 per box. Six boxes $5. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL CO., Petrolia City, Butler Co., Pa. 6m eow

Is made from a Simple Tropical Leaf of Rare Value, and is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness, Gravel, Malaria, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs. For Female Diseases, Monthly Menstruations, and during Pregnancy, it has no equal. It restores the organs that make the blood, and hence is the best Blood Purifier. It is the only known remedy that cures Bright's Disease. For Diabetes, use Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—The people inquired for by Bro. Henry Smith are found, as I know them very well. Fannie and Julian are dead. Charles is living in Grimes county, Texas. Anderson is his P. O. address. I am yours in Christ,

L. H. HORN.

Cold Springs, Texas, Nov. 25, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my uncle Ishmon. He used to belong to one Robt. Olden, a Presbyterian preacher in Bibbs county, Ala. My name is Ishmon Fykes, a son of uncle's brother, Sam Fykes. My mother's name is Mary. The last I heard of uncle Ishmon he was at Scott's Factory, Alabama. Address me at Enterprise, Clark Co., Miss. ISHMON FYKES.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to find my son, Anderson Kagal, who left Kosciusko, Miss., about the breaking out of the war, with one Stephen Flanagan. I have received several letters from him since; he left, but the last one I received was about four years ago. At that time he was in Marion, Va. He said he was a Methodist preacher. I wish so much to find my son. Dear pastors and brethren, will you help me? If found address me at Kosciusko, Miss., in care of Rev. J. M. Nevils. JANE TIPTON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire to hear of my sisters Rebecca and Arlona Seals. They moved to West Tennessee before the war with James Seales. Arlona went with Billy Clark. They have a brother named George Seales, and their mother's name is Sylva and their father's name is Neptune Jordan. Before the war they lived in Williamson county, Tenn., and belonged to Joe Henry Seales. Address me at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

ADAM NELSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my niece. The last time I heard from her she was in Kansas. Her mother was Annie Brown, my sister, and her step-father was Anderson Brown. Myself and family left Franklin, Tenn., in 1875, and we left them there. My sister died soon after I left, and a lady friend of mine that lived in Franklin wrote to my daughter Lucy and said that little Annie Brown had gone to Kansas with her step-father's mother. This lady was Maggie Cowans. I wish to hear from little Annie. I am her only aunt. My name is Louisa Hardeman. Address me at Pine Bluff, Ark. LOUISA HARDEMAN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my aunt Eliza Ratcliff. Her husband is Dave Ratcliff. We all left Franklin, Tenn., together in 1875, moving to Arkansas, and parted at Memphis, Tenn. The last time I heard from them they were at Steward's Landing, White River. Her oldest daughter is named Mary. The next was Josie, the next Berrie. Her oldest son was Albert, the next Wallace. I used to go by the name of Louisa Kemple, and I married Henry Hardeman. He died in Tennessee and I now go by the name of Louisa Hardeman. Address me at Pine Bluff, Ark., in care of Lucy Hardeman. LOUISA HARDEMAN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my sister whom I left in Monroe county, Miss. Her name is Rachel. She is a daughter of John Coleman. Her mother was Nancy. She belonged to Hugh Rosebrough in South Carolina. Mr. Rosebrough moved from South Carolina to Mississippi. At his death the property was divided and sister Rachel was sold in New Orleans by Jerry Walker, a son-in-law of Rosebrough's. Mother had 8 children, four girls and four boys, viz: Samuel, Isaac, Allen, Lee, Harriett, Lizzie, Linda, and Rachel. I fell to Eliza Rosebrough and moved to Carrollton, Carroll county, Miss. Liza Rosebrough married Dr. G. W. Vasser. Any information of my sisters will be gladly received. My name is Harriett. Address me at Carrollton, Carroll Co., Miss., in care of B. Harris.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE ONLY MEDICINE

That Acts at the Same Time on THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, and the KIDNEYS.

These great organs are the natural cleansers of the system. If they work well, health will be perfect: if they become clogged, dreadful diseases are sure to follow with

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Constipation and Piles, or Kidney Complaints, Gravel, Diabetes, Sediment in the Urine, Milky or Ropy Urine; or Rheumatic Pains and Aches, are developed because the blood is poisoned with the humors that should have been expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT

will restore the healthy action and all these destroying evils will be banished; neglect them and you will live but to suffer.

Thousands have been cured. Try it and you will add one more to the number. Take it and health will once more gladden your heart.

Why suffer longer from the torment of an aching back?

Why bear such distress from Constipation and Piles?

Why be so fearful because of disordered urine?

KIDNEY-WORT will cure you. Try a package at once and be satisfied.

It is a dry vegetable compound and

One Package makes six quarts of Medicine.

Your Druggist has it, or will get it for you. Insist upon having it. Price, $1.00.

NASAL CATARRH!

All cases promptly and permanently cured by Dr. S. W. BEALL, Homeopathic Catarrhal Specialist, A reputable Physician of 30 years' practice.

Not a Douche, Not an Inhaler, Not a Snuff.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh has never been cured by local treatment alone. Catarrh being constitutional requires constitutional treatment to eradicate it from the system.

In connection with Dr. Beall's Nasal Catarrh Specific, a course of treatment is furnished each patient as indicated by the symptoms. Also an Atomizer with cleansing solutions to be locally applied in the form of a spray. Patients at a distance treated by the aid of a carefully prepared diagnostic sheet. No single box or bottle of medicine is applicable to all cases.

Dr. Beall has cured hundreds of cases in its worst form, and patients now being treated in all parts of the United States report rapid improvement. Treatment is pleasant and directions easily followed.

The following is a specimen of the testimonials constantly being received:

To the Public—Statement of A. W. Enocy, of the firm of Enocy & Harter, Troy, Ohio.

For a number of years I was afflicted with Nasal Catarrh, affecting seriously both my head and throat. The discharges from the nose were streaked with blood, and had a very offensive smell. After a course of treatment from Dr. Beall, I am entirely cured. A. W. ENOCY.

Extract from a Home Endorsement.

"Dr. Beall offers to the public no quack nostrum, and parties can rest assured that humbuggery has no place in the treatment proposed.

Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services in which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the best forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song. "JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 139 Tunes in full, and 269 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 125 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

CLOTH, flexible, 30 cents per copy; $3 per dozen; $24 per hundred.

BOARD (the usual style of Sunday-school singing-books), 25 cents per copy; $2.50 per dozen; $20 per hundred.

"ever." Washington laid down the emblems of authority, in 1796, and passed down from the place of power to private life, saying, "Promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge." Jefferson and Madison, completing the triad of great Virginians, gave the freest utterance to their judgment, that "no republican government can rest on aught but the intelligence and virtue of the people." Of the eighteen colleges founded in the last century, seven were in the South—more than their proportion according to the population. In the earlier history of the country the South greatly surpassed the North in the number of men educated abroad. And that section of the country has always been liberal in endowing colleges by the state.

Why is it, then, that a country so well started in educational matters, so inspired by the admonitions of its wisest men, and with an income of hundreds of millions flowing in from abroad every year in payment for a single crop of cotton, should need help from abroad to educate the children of the state? What possible folly could turn such wisdom and wealth into ignorance and poverty? The answer is easy to find. The South undertook to educate by colleges, the North by common schools. In the South the state provided higher institutions of learning, and left private enterprise to provide the lower. In the North the state provided the primary schools, and left the colleges to be provided by the vast benevolence of the people. The South undertook to provide for a few aristocrats, the North for the mass plebeians. The South undertook to build its pyramid at the top without any foundation, the North laid the foundations broad as the continent, strong as thought, and open to every man who was able to go to the top. The result in the South was, that even the colleges failed of their purpose for the want of pupils; in the North, that those who had tasted of the sweets of knowledge must have a higher education, till the colleges [illegible] by the hundred [illegible] with endowments of four or five millions. Then the few students in the South who desired an education came North or went abroad.

This care for the few and neglect of the many was a repetition of the [illegible]

Thirteenth Anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

DR. RUST'S REPORT.

This anniversary affords a very fit occasion for brief allusion to the good and wise men, translated from the Church militant to the Church triumphant, who, in this city, fourteen years ago, took an active part in the organization of this society.

Bishop Clark inaugurated our work in the South, took an active part in the organization of this society, was its first president, earnestly advocated its claims, remembered it in his will, and thus gave his fullest sanction to the society and the administration of its affairs. The last night of the bishop's conscious stay on earth he recounted his struggles and sufferings in planting our Church and schools in the South, and rejoiced that God had permitted him to have a humble part in this grand work.

Adam Poe, D.D., was one of the founders of this society, and until his death its faithful treasurer. He advocated its claims and contributed to its funds. Just before his death he requested the executive committee, of which he was a member, to meet in his sick-room, that he might take part in the discussions and unite in commending the society to the fostering care of the General Conference. His last work was for the education of the freedmen.

Thomas M. Eddy, D.D., signed the call for the convention, and aided in the organization of the society. He advocated its claims with eloquence, and when his dying hour had come, when pastor and family had gathered around his bed to offer prayer and praise, preparatory to his ascension, looking around the room and missing the colored nurse, he ordered a suspension of the solemn service till this faithful soul should come. The part Dr. Eddy took in the formation of this society for the education of the freedmen, and the work he did for the world's redemption as secretary of the Missionary Society, find appropriate consummation in the sublime scene of the family gathering around his dying couch.

It is fitting in this connection to refer to our first resident bishop in the South, who took so deep an interest in our cause, wrote and spoke so fervently in its behalf, and raised so much money for its support. In the death of Bishop Gilbert Haven the society lost a true friend and eloquent advocate, and the colored people a bold champion of their rights, a fearless denouncer of their wrongs, and a tender sympathizer with their sufferings. On that grand coronation day of Bishop Haven, preparatory to his reception into heaven, he urged his friends to stand by the colored people, and directed his son to pay the balance of his thousand dollar subscription towards the erection of Chrisman Hall, for which enterprise he had planned and begged and prayed.

THE PAST YEAR.

Another year in the history of our society is numbered. A year's work for the freedmen at this crisis of our national existence means something. It may avail more for humanity than the efforts of a score of years in time to come. A neglect of duty to-day may furnish regret for a century.

We are thankful to Almighty God that the past year has been one of great effort and encouraging success. The society has collected more money, made greater additions to its school property and accommodations, raised to a higher grade the standard of scholarship in its schools, furnished more well trained graduates, developed a higher type of Christian character and life, brought more souls to Christ, and sent out a larger number of educated teachers, physicians, and preachers to aid and save the ignorant and neglected masses of the South, than it has done during any previous year of its history.

While we rejoice in the encouraging statement of a small increase in this department of benevolence, [illegible] at the thought that our Church, so influential in members and money, should do so little for this race, which has suffered so terribly in our midst. [illegible] the society for the past year, as a liberal installment of interest on the principal, and an honest recognition of the great debt we owe this race, and which we have so long neglected to pay. But the time to liquidate this debt has come. The payment of both principal and interest can not longer be postponed without discredit to the people, peril to the nation, and offense to God.

[illegible]

WORK AT HOME.

The American Church has a mission of vast importance to fulfill in the world's conversion to righteousness and truth, and while it embraces in faith and effort the whole world, it must not neglect that part of it nearest home, easiest of access, which can be cultivated at the least expense, and which, when brought under the power of the Cross of Christ, will exert controlling influence upon the destiny of nations. In an effort to save the whole world, vigilance must be employed to preserve this country from the incoming tide of vice and wretchedness from abroad, and ignorance and lawlessness at home. This must be recruiting ground for all lands; freedom, intelligence, and morality must be inscribed upon our banners; schools and churches must dot the whole land, and all the inhabitants feel their quickening and elevating influence. In the name of Him who died to save us, we must do what we can to aid the South and educate the freedmen that they may take some humble part in the preservation of our free institutions, the redemption of Africa, and the salvation of the world.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

We submit a brief report of what has been done the past year, the amount of money collected, and the purposes for which it has been expended.

The financial statement for the twelve months ending July 1, 1880, is as follows:

RECEIPTS FOR THE YEAR.

Cash in treasury July 1, 1879		$876 74
Contributed from July 1, 1879, to July 1, 1880		83,403 83

Total indebtedness at the close of this year		$22,738 32
Collected and disbursed during thirteen years		$893,918 40

The society has received, during the year, $100,287.33: an increase over last year of $15,126.51. To obtain and disburse this sum cost $4,329.15, of which the salary of the corresponding secretary, in traveling expenses in supervising the schools, office expenses, and clerk hire, amount to $4,171.61. The entire cost to the society for running expenses is less than 5 per cent, and the salaries of the officers amount to only a little above 4 per cent.

NEW BUILDINGS.

1. We have just completed Chrisman Hall, of Clark University, at a cost of 30,000. It is a beautiful four-story brick building, with a basement of granite, of modern architecture, having a commodious chapel, convenient school-rooms, and boarding accommodations for the teachers and a hundred pupils. Mrs. Chrisman contributed $10,000 to this building, and Bishop G. Haven had pledged $10,000, only a part which had been raised when he was stricken with death.

2. We have finished the building for the Meharry Medical Department of the Central Tennessee College, at Nashville, at an expense of $15,000. It bears the name of Meharry, in honor of four brothers who have contributed so liberally to the building. Dr. Alexander Meharry, late of the Cincinnati Conference, selected the site and made a donation toward its purchase, and his widow has made liberal contributions toward the erection of the building and endowment of the college. It has graduated four promising classes of physicians, and it is the only medical college in the Mississippi Valley where colored students can obtain a good medical education.

3. The Centenary Biblical Institute, at Baltimore, has found a liberal benefactor in Rev. J. F. Goucher, of the Baltimore Conference, who has donated a site for the new building, costing $8000, and $5500 in cash. To secure this generous donation the friends added $6500, and a beautiful building has been erected at a cost of $20,000—exclusive of the land—which is a noble monument of the liberality and philanthropy of Baltimore Methodism.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

The society has aided in the establishment and support of the following six schools, which have been chartered with full collegiate powers: Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.; Clark University, Atlanta, Ga.; Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C.; New Orleans University, New Orleans, La.; Shaw University, Holly Springs, Miss.; Wiley University, Marshall, Texas. It has three theological schools: Centenary Biblical Institute, Baltimore, Md.; Baker Institute, Orangeburg, S. C.; Thomson Biblical Institute, New Orleans, La. It has one medical college: The Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee.

It has ten institutions not chartered: Bennett Seminary, Greensboro, N. C.; Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dadeville Seminary, Dadeville, Ala.; Haven Normal School, Waynesboro, Ga.; La Grange Seminary, La Grange, Ga.; Meridian Academy, Meridian, Miss.; Rust Normal school, Huntsville, Ala.; Walden Seminary, Little Rock, Ark.; West Texas Conference Seminary, Austin, Tex.; West Tennessee Seminary, Mason, Tennessee.

In these twenty institutions of pupils taught during the year are classified as follows: Biblical, 372; Law, 23; Medical, 85; Collegiate, 90; Academic, 320; Normal, 1100; Intermediate, 217; Primary, 332; total, 2460. Number of pupils taught in our schools, 63,000. Number taught by our pupils more than 500,000. Amount of permanent school property more than $250,000. Number of teachers this year, 80.

Gov. St. John's Eloquent Address on the "Exodusters."

Gov. St. John, of Kansas, spoke last night at Farwell Hall, on the subject of the negro exodus. The Governor has come into national prominence lately, not only by reason of his connection with the Northern movement of the colored men of the South, but by his recent re-election to the gubernatorial chair on a platform which pledges the State government to prohibition, and forbids the manufacture as well as the sale of liquor within the State of Kansas. On the latter movement he will speak to-night at Farwell Hall. In reference to the exodus he spoke with deep feeling borne of intimate acquaintance with the people whom it fell to his lot as Governor to welcome to the State, and for whom the State has generously provided. His manner as a speaker is singularly breezy and enthusiastic, and he held the attention of his audience to the close.

He expressed a regret, in opening, that so few people were present, because he was to speak of a subject that before many years, possibly before many months, might become of interest and importance to the entire country. Twenty-five years ago the pro-slavery men, with guns in their hands, were fighting to force the negroes into Kansas as slaves. Free men met them, fought them back, and won a glorious victory. [Applause.] To-day the very element that fought to force the negro into Kansas are opposed to his entering the State, on the ground that the climate is too cold, and the poor colored man would freeze to death there. [Laughter.] When they first began to arrive at Wyandotte in 1879, penniless, naked, friendless, miserable-looking objects of pity, and the people of Kansas were told that thousands more were on their way from the South, he was appealed to, as the Governor of the State, to issue a proclamation forbidding their coming. But he remembered that of the 150,000 white emigrants in Kansas 100,000 were poor men; that to the bone and muscle and brain of poor men Kansas owed her glorious position as a State; that at Ossawatomie the tree of liberty was planted by old John Brown, whose soul was still marching on; he had seen it actually demonstrated that corn planted and hoed by colored men grew as rapidly as that planted and hoed by white men, brought as much money; he remembered that corn was wealth, and a bushel of corn was worth a ton of race prejudice, and he said, "Let them come."

Speaking of the causes of the exodus, he cited the case of an old colored man, nearly 90, without money, food, or friends, who told him he knew he couldn't work, "but," he added, "Massa, der's one thing I kin do, I kin be buried here in free Kansas."

The investigating committee which he organized, and which inquired into the causes of the exodus among the refugees themselves, found that the had been bulldozed, outraged, cheated, wronged in every conceivable way, not permitted to vote, their leaders killed, and the masses of them intimidated and frightened till they did not dare even to talk about going to Kansas. As showing how the colored people were swindled by the dominant race at the South, he exhibited a bill produced by one of the refugees who came from Edward's Landing, Miss., and curiously enough one of the white men who came from Mississippi to inquire of Gov. St. John as to how the exodus might be stopped, was the man who made out this bill. In this account half a pound of dog-leg tobacco was charged at 25 cents; molasses, $1.50 a gallon (worth 40 cents in Chicago); bacon, 20 cents per pound; brogans, $2.50@3 a pair; flour, $14 a barrel, and other things in proportion. The money sent for the relief of the refugees had been spent in erecting barracks for their accommodation, a general headquarters, with storehouses, etc., and in forwarding them westward.

Gov. St. John took occasion to pay a tribute to Mrs. Elizabeth L. Comstock and Mrs. Laura Haviland, who, in this work, had been faithful, honest, earnest, and prayerful, stinting themselves in order to do more for these oppressed people. God, said Gov. St. John, never made two nobler, grander women.

He estimated that 60,000 colored people had come into Kansas since 1877, of whom, perhaps, 40,000 remained, while 20,000 had been forwarded to Colorado, Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. There had been spent about $50,000 in their behalf. Ninety per cent of them, perhaps, needed help at the start, but only temporarily, because they quickly became self-supporting. God's hand was in this work, and whenever they fell short of funds help invariably arrived from some unexpected quarter. Morally, the refugees were getting along well. They were well behaved, sober, industrious, and fully eighty per cent of their votes this fall were in favor of prohibition. [Applause.] He felt if Abraham Lincoln were living, that greatest and truest of all Americans would prefer to see some of these people acquire homes in his own State of Illinois. He appealed to the country, whose captive soldiers, escaping from Southern prison pens, had always found a friend in the log-cabin of the colored man, not to turn away now from the refugee from Southern tyranny.

Gov. St. John predicted that the exodus would continue, and would increase in magnitude until the people of the South gave to the black man protection at the ballot-box, protection for his property, allowed him to vote according to the dictates of his own conscience, and respected the sanctity of his home. These given them, they would prefer to stay in the South, but as matters now stood their feeling was expressed in the remark of a colored man to him, that he would rather be shot than sent back. We had had enough temporizing on this question, and he (Gov. St. John) favored securing the black man in the South all the rights that we now enjoy in the Northern States.—Inter-Ocean, Dec. 11.

Church Extension.

One gentleman gave a subscription lately to the Board of Church Extension, in one of Chaplain McCabe's meetings, of $250 to be used to build a church in a community where every communicant in the church at its organization would sign the total abstinence pledge and promise to vote for prohibition. The place, however, must be west of Kansas. What frontier town speaks for this money? Fulfill the conditions and it can be drawn for at sight. May the example of Kansas prove contagious to the whole nation.

A presiding elder, whose name is withholden for the present, sends a letter containing a check for $220, which, with a previous gift of $30, makes $250 to secure the erection of a frontier church. "This donation is to build one of your frontier churches. It does not come from a rich woman, but from one who has earned every dollar of it by hard work since you were here last winter. You will readily remember the great-hearted donor at my house, and since she listened to your earnest pleading she has given herself no rest until she could send to you the requisite $250 for a church. She sends her heart and her prayers along with the gift, and only regrets it cannot be four times as much."

Rev. Wilson Stokes, of Medford, N. J., sent $250 from some one of the Lord's anointed to secure the erection of one of these frontier churches. New Jersey has some disciples who remember the words of the Lord Jesus when he said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

A prominent Iowa gentleman says: "Draw on me for a church every month." He holds the board, however, to the following conditions: The churches to be dedicated free from debt, and his contribution to be one-tenth of the cost.

All right. There are many applications for aid that would be met by this proposition.

The Board of Church Extension is aiding one church a day. Let us make it two for every day in the year, and then we will be doing very well. Francis Asbury will hear of it in heaven, and have a good shout over it.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

A Woman's Rejoicing.

BY MARGERY LAPORTE.

MR. EDITOR—We feel this morning thankful to God that we are free four more years, and we think all the colored people should fall before the Lord and thank him for the grand victory of Gen. Garfield being elected as our President. We do thank God with all our hearts, minds, souls, and strength that we are free again. We know that President Garfield is not a colorline man to set the black man off to himself, but is a good man, believing all men are made of one blood, though we have been slaves and all our rights taken from us, and our preachers killed, and nothing done. It was said they were negro lovers; let them go. But as now the Republican party is elected, we look and wait for the change to come, so that good men will not be afraid to come and teach and preach to us.

May Heaven with all its blessing look down upon the Republican party, is the prayer of a colored woman who has been set free by the war, and knows what it is to be free.

Tennessee.

Hon. W. F. Poston, Grand Worthy Chief Templar of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of Tennessee, and recently a member of the Legislature, in his annual report said:

"Never before was the people of Tennessee so enthused on the question of temperance. It has a deep root in the public mind. The judiciary of the State are active in the enforcement of the statutes against intemperance. The political parties are being aroused on the subject; already we find one of the parties assembled in this city this year, and adopt a platform of principles among which they say they favor temperance, etc., and pledge the support of the party to such measures. Never before did the press and pulpit take such a bold and decisive stand in favor of temperance. These influences are not to be underestimated, but should encourage us to hope and look for immediate results."

The Southwestern for 1881.

We urge upon every friend of the SOUTHWESTERN to at once put forth every effort possible to secure subscribers for 1881. With this paper the volume for 1880 ends. We do not want to loose one old subscriber, and we want a large number of new subscribers. The new lists are coming in well, and judging from the cheerful letters received from all parts of the territory, the prospects for five thousand subscribers for 1881 is good.

HOW TO CANVASS.

We do not want our agents to fall in debt; but we must hold them responsible for every name they send longer than one month. Push the canvass as follows: Take the paper into the pulpit and take the names of all who want the paper and tell them they can pay for it within a month. At the end of the month write to us sending what money you have collected, and ordering the names of all who have not paid you or for whom you will not be responsible, stricken off. Remember, all names you send will be charged to you until you write and have their papers stopped.

SPECIMEN COPIES.

Send for specimen copies to canvass with whenever you need them. We will gladly send them free.

We have received a copy of the minutes of 1880, with the compliments of Geo. C. Wilding, secretary of the West Virginia Conference, Parkersburg, West Virginia, for which he will please accept our thanks.

The Manger in Bethlehem.

The story of Christ's birth loses nothing of its deathless interest from the lapse of time. It is ever old yet ever new—old as the heart of man, yet new as the dawn of infancy. It is as interesting to us as it was to shepherds who first heard it proclaimed by the angel of the Lord. The centuries as they pass only concentrate men's thoughts upon it and develop more and more its far reaching results. "His name," said the ancient prophet, "shall be called wonderful." Nothing could be more wonderful than that the career of Christ on earth should open as it did.

Brief and simple are the words that relate the homely circumstances of our Lord's nativity; yet they describe the greatest event in the world's history: "And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." It was the advent of the world's Redeemer. Jesus the Savior of man had come. He who was in the form of God and thought it not robbery to be equal with God, had descended from His heavenly throne and taken the likeness of sinful flesh and was found in fashion as a man—of the lowliest and poorest of the children of men. No peasant child of Judea was ever born more meanly provided for than He. There is no room for Him in the inn. He is born in a stable.

"Low lies His bed with the beasts of the stall"

—a striking commentary on His own pathetic words: "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath not where to lay His head."

But the manger cradled a King. His birth was the dawning of a new era in the world's history, the fulfillment and realization of all the ancient prophecies that pointed to Immanuel, God with us. It was part of what the apostle Paul describes as the "great mystery of Godliness—God manifest in the flesh." None can explain the incarnation, or account for the humiliation of the Advent. And yet the mystery of the incarnation is not greater than a thousand others that environ us, not greater than that of creation. The God who could "speak a world from naught" could as easily incarnate himself in human form. If we can believe the one, we can as easily believe the other. And if we cannot pierce through the veil of humility and poverty that enshrouded the Advent, and fully explain why the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords was so humbly born, we may rejoice in the fact that His lowliness and poverty are in some sense a pledge of His peculiar sympathy for all in like circumstances of [illegible].

But there were other scenes at the manger more in keeping with the character of its Occupant. He was worshipped by "a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will toward men." He was worshipped by wondering shepherds, who guided by the "sign" the angel gave them: "Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger,"—came with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger [illegible] all the things they had heard and seen." The heavens paid homage to Him in the shining of a new star. The wise men of the East saw it, and inquired, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the east and have come to worship Him." [illegible] "And lo, the star, which they saw in the East, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. [illegible] And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother and [illegible] Him; [illegible] gold, and frankincense and [illegible] done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Better is obedience than sacrifice.

"Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts, would His favor secure;
Richer by far is the heart's adoration,
Dearer to God are the prayers of the poor."

The West Texas Conference.

The West Texas Conference held its eighth session at Austin, Dec. 1-5, Bishop E. O. Haven presiding, and B. F. Smith, secretary. This is one of the most vigorous and progressive Conferences in the Southern States. Presiding Elders Gates, Richardson, Henson, and Madison, have led this Conference grandly during the past year, and in all respects there has been a commendable advance. This is especially true in benevolent collections.

The anniversaries held during the evening were all well attended and and full of interest. Rev. Dr. C. T. Moss, of Elmira, New York, was present as the representative of the Church Extension, and Freedmen's Aid Societies, and by his addresses he added most to the value of the session. Thursday night the anniversary of the Board of Church Extension was held; on Friday night Bishop Haven spoke on the necessity and importance of education.

WEST TEXAS SEMINARY.

This school at Austin has done a successful year's work, under the direction of Prof. G. O. Richardson and his wife, and Mrs. G. W. Richardson. These have labored as instructors faithfully. Over one hundred students have been enrolled. The total abstinence pledge as to intoxicating drinks and tobacco has been presented to every student and with but few exceptions all have signed and kept it. This school as yet has not been taken fully in charge by the Freemen's Aid Society; but will be very soon. The Conference, acting through Presiding Elder G. W. Richardson, has bought lots which are nearly paid for. The school is at present held in what was formally the Gillett College building. The Brothers Richardson, father and son, and their noble wives, have sacrificed much for this school, and God alone can, and He will reward them as they deserve. The foundation is laid, these and others will build on it and this school will be a center of educational and moral power for all time to come.

The Conference manifested an interest in the school. On Saturday night the educational meeting was in the interest of this school. The younger Richardson gave an account of the past year's work which surprised and gratified the Conference and people. After he was through, one of the students, a daughter of Bro. A. R. Norris, was called to the altar, and made a plea for the school. She had been carefully, and no doubt prayerfully, trained by Mrs. G. W. Richardson, and so well did she make her plea that the audience was carried away with enthusiasm. The plea was so appropriate that it is given in full:

Rev. Fathers and Brethren of the West Texas Conference.

Important matters are now claiming your attention—the work of another year is being sketched before you. But will you not stop a few minutes and hear a little girl's plea? I am emboldened to speak to you, for I know many of these fathers have sons and daughters; and then my own father is numbered among you. I have not come before you to ask food and raiment for bodily comfort; these hands with God's blessing could supply these needs. But I am here as a representative for your sons and daughters, and also for the sons and daughters of our people within the bounds of this Conference. We—your children desire so to improve our spring-time of life, that when the years bring us to life's labors, cares, and responsibilities, we shall have the needful preparation for our work. We know that some of you realize our needs; have yourselves felt how hard it was to be denied the opportunity to gain the knowledge that your calling and position demands. Must we, your children, contend for an education in almost the same helpless, hopeless way that you did? 'Tis true we have the free schools, but they are so short, so imperfectly arranged and conducted, that they only afford os the elementary principles of an education.

Now, dear fathers, and brethren, we ask only what you are ready to admit we need. Can you not, and will you not wisely devise plans and means for placing the West Texas Conference school on a firm basis? Give us neat, plain, substantial buildings; comfortably furnished with seats, desks, maps, charts, and other things that our teachers need in explaining the studies. We do not expect all this to be done in one year, nor perhaps in two; but you can lay your plans, and earnestly work them up until the school is an accomplished fact.

Until quite recently we had hoped the Freedmen's Aid Society would find money to help our struggling school. But the secretary, Dr. Rust, [illegible] he must care for the [illegible] on his hands, and [illegible] no promise of help in the [illegible] to come. So with you alone [illegible] this great work of providing a [illegible] not only for your own children, [illegible] be a training place [illegible] to supply [illegible] as our [illegible] were so earnest in encouraging education that "When Boston was but six years old two thousand dollars were appropriated to the seminary of Cambridge, now known as Harvard University. Some years after, each family gave a peck of corn, or a shilling in cash for its support."

"In 1700, ten ministers, having previously so agreed, brought together a number of books, each saying as he laid down his gift, I give these books for founding a college in Connecticut." This was the beginning of Yale College.

I bring to you these instances of small beginnings; these institutions are now wealthy. And they have been a power for good, not only in New England, but for the whole nation. The men they have educated are filling important stations all over our land. Cannot we, and shall not we profit by these examples now before us? With you, Rev. Fathers, we leave this important matter, trusting you will grant our request.

The effect of this plea, given as it was, cannot be described. Dr. Moss said he never saw it equalled. As she finished, money began to rain into the lap of the child from the audience, as she held her apron to receive it. Before the enthusiasm subsided nearly a hundred dollars were contributed toward helping the school.

This school must be sustained, and the West Texas Conference must do more and more liberally for it each year.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The routine business of the session was carefully and well attended to, under the wise supervision of Bishop Haven. The committee on Conference relations helped to solve some difficult problems without there being any formal trials.

The Sunday services were attended by immense audiences. Bishop Haven preached at 11 a. m. The editor of the SOUTHWESTERN at 3 p. m., and J. W. Robinson, and L. Carper, at night. Dr. Moss preached in Central M. E. Church, at 11 a. m., and in the Northern Presbyterian Church, (Dr. Wright, pastor) at 7 p. m. Several clergymen of other denominations of the city visited the Conference. Among these were not found any of the M. E. Church South.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The large Conference and many visitors were well entertained. We found a good home at Bro. Richardson's. Bishop Haven and Moss were the guests of Major Purnell and his excellent lady. Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Moore, gave a royal dinner to a large company on Wednesday, and after dinner their babe was baptized by Bishop Haven. Judge Garland and wife, also gave dinner to a large company on Monday evening. The Judge is a Texan by birth, and his wife is a native of Wales. They are true friends to our cause and people. Mrs. Purnell kept open house in good Methodist fashion, and she and the Major were happiest when their table was surrounded by the most guests.

The Texas Conference.

The fifteenth session of the Texas Conference was held in Houston, Dec. 8 13. Bishop E. O. Haven presided, W. Wesley, Secretary. Several matters helped to make it one of the best sessions of this body. It met on historic ground. Fifteen years ago Bishop Simpson reorganized the Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church on the spot where the late session was held. Only a little handful of brethren greeted the Bishop. One of them, Rev. Elias Dibble, now on the retired list, gave to the late conference an account of that first meeting, and electrified the Conference with words of courage for the future as he compared our work now in Texas with that small beginning. Four annual conferences, with over two hundred preachers, and over 20,000 members have grown from that little band. Another thing was the splendid new church in which the Conference held its Sunday services and did its last day's work. The old church is a good one but the new one is much better and marks the wonderful progress of our people in fifteen years. The building is 42-80; high arched ceiling; galleries on rear end and two sides, recess in rear of pulpit for choir, and in architecture and finish is a model. The spire is 140 feet high. It needs plastering and paint inside, and pews. The Board of Church Extension gave a loan of $1000. The people will do the remainder. The cost when done will be about $9000. Bro. Frank Vance and his associate trustees, and pastor Douglas, and presiding elder Cushman, all deserve great credit. This church marks an era in church building among our people of color in Texas. Austin, Galveston, Marshall and other places will follow next with new and splendid church edifices.

The Conference session was throughout harmonious, and all reports indicated progress. Presiding elders Cushman, Molloy, Moore, Rippetoe, and Pullman have already reported the Districts largely in the SOUTHWESTERN. Bro. Moore reports twenty-eight new pieces of property ranging from one to five acres, acquired during the past year. On these several churches and parsonages have been built or are under way. The other elders all reported many other acquisitions.

Among the visitors to the Conference was Rev. Dr. Kelly, of the Nashville Conference, who was visiting the conferences of the M. E. Church, South, in Texas, representing the Missionary Society of that Church. He gave a most fraternal and inspiring address to the Conference and by a special invitation of the Conference preached at night. He commended our work in the South very heartily. Rev. Dr. C. T. Moss, of New York, did at this Conference as at all the other Texas conferences which he has attended, splendid service. Rev. Dr. Rankin, the efficient Texas agent of the American Bible Society, represented his cause very ably.

Bishop Turner and Dr. Taylor.

There is a mistake somewhere. Some time ago Rev. J. M. Shumpert, of Mississippi, and others reported to us that Bishop Turner, of the A. M. E. Church, had stated in an address that Dr. Taylor, our Fraternal Delegate to the late St. Louis General Conference of the African Church, told that body that many colored people people in our Church were preparing to leave it. Dr. Taylor, in last issue, spoke for himself and the following note from Bishop Turner is equally explicit. We give it entire:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—I have just been informed that about six weeks ago you charged me with saying that Rev. M. W. Taylor, D.D., of the M. E. Church, stated, "That he and hundreds of other members of the same Church were preparing to leave and join the A. M. E. Church," or words equivalent to those. Now, sir, if such remarks were made in your paper, they were not true. I have said nothing of the kind. I have spoken in the highest terms of Dr. Taylor as a man of culture and ability since he delivered his great speech before our General Conference last May, and have said that I did not believe there was a minister in the M. E. Church who could have uttered grander words, or made a more telling speech, but as for him coming to the A. M. E. Church, I am at the first of it. Indeed, if left to me I would not have the members (colored) of the M. E. Church to leave and come to the A. M. E. Church. I would have a number of able colored men remain in that Church to fight the negrophobia spirit, which it is not quite rid of yet, while there is another class of colored members in that Church who have no faith or respect in men of their own race. Therefore, they ought to remain under the rule and Church Discipline of our white brethren, till they are able to think and act for themselves.

Yours most respectfully,
H. M. TURNER.

With these explicit words from Bishop Turner and the manly letter from Dr. Taylor, the matter should now be dropped. Somebody has been misunderstood or had a bad memory. "We be brethren."

We append a single remark. Our African brethren have, we think, too much to say about race prejudice in other Churches, without fully realizing how much of this same unchristian sentiment lurks within its own borders. It is a mistake to suppose that because composed entirely of one race, that therefore it is free from race prejudice. And again, the sentiment that a man to prove his manhood must isolate himself from the bulk of mankind is a mistake. Bishop Turner's insinuation in his closing sentence that any colored man in the M. E. Church is "under" "white brethren" is as unfair as it is untrue. The people of our Church are all alike under the Discipline of the Church. As to the great questions which effect the welfare of the colored people in their relations to white people in America, the M. E. Church is the chief Church which heroically and in the name of Christ is seeking to solve them. The African Church can do but little because it has no members among white people; the exclusively white Churches can do but little for they only reach one class. But the great M. E. Church holds in her arms all races and classes, and as fast as time and the grace of God purifies men's hearts, brings all into perfect unity.

Rev. L. P. Cushman and Rev. H. M. Nichols.

Bishop Haven has transferred the Rev. L. P. Cushman from the Texas to the Louisiana Conference. Bro. Cushman has for two years had in charge the Houston District of the Texas Conference; and the estimation in which he is held by that body is indicated by the following preamble and resolution, which were adopted by a unanimous rising vote at its late session:

WHEREAS, Rev. L. P. Cushman for two years has done faithful and successful service in this Conference as presiding elder of the Houston District, and

WHEREAS, He has been transferred to the Louisiana Conference;

Resolved, That we hereby record our high appreciation of Bro. Cushman and his labors in our midst, and heartily commend him to our brethren in Louisiana as a minister of Christ worthy of all confidence, and as one who will be with them as he has been with us, a valuable co-laborer with them in the vineyard of the Lord.

The Louisiana Conference is to be congratulated on the acquisition of so true and tried a worker in our Southern field.

Bro. Cushman's place on the Houston District is filled by Rev. H. M. Nichols, whom Bishop Haven transferred from the Austin Conference. Bro. Nichols spent some years in the Holston (Tennessee) Conference in the earlier part of that body's history since the war, and so has had experience in our Southern field. He has lately returned from four and a half years successful work as a missionary in our Church in India. He is a man of large experience and enters upon his work with enthusiasm.

The Pittsburgh Christian Advocate has changed from quarto to octavo form, and with clear new type, is now one of the handsomest religious newspapers in the country.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. Dr. Brush attended the late session of the Austin Conference at Dallas, Texas. His transfer from that body to the Upper Iowa Conference is already announced. Dr. Brush has put in several years of heroic work in Texas. He has twice represented that work in the General Conference. He is followed by the very best prayers and wishes of his Texas co-laborers. He is now stationed at Magnoketa, Ind.

—Rev. Stephen M. Vail, D.D., died at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. R. Harcourt, Jersey City, Nov. 26, in his sixty-fourth year. He was born in La Grange, N. Y., in 1817. At the age of 14 he entered Cazanovia Seminary to prepare for college, and in 1833 was admitted to Bowdoin College. He graduated at 20, in the same class with ex-President Franklin Pierce, his friend through life. He afterward graduated at the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, and in 1840 became a member of the New York Conference. He served at various points as pastor until 1847 when he was elected President of the seminary at Pennington, N. J. In 1849 he was called to occupy the chair of Professor of Languages in the Concord Theological School, the first theological seminary under the control of the M. E. Church founded in this country. He remained in this position for 18 years, when his health gave way, and he retired to his farm on Staten Island. During the three succeeding years he preached and wrote a great deal for the Methodist press. In 1869 President Grant appointed Dr. Vail Consul to Ludwigshafen, Bavaria. He did good service during the Franco-Prussian war, and returned to this country in 1874. Since he has remained at home, preaching occasionally, but from summer to summer acting as Professor of Greek at the Chautauqua Assemblies. The most prominent of Dr. Vail's published works are "Life in Earnest," and "Ministerial Education." He was a regular contributor to all the leading papers of the church in this country. He leaves a widow and six children. The funeral services were participated in by Bishops Harris and Hurst. Rev. Dr. Geo. R. Crooks delivered an eloquent address commemorative of his life and services.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana Methodists are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

Washington Brooks, Washington: "Allow me to make a few remarks to the Louisiana Conference. Dear father, and brethren, for eleven years I have been holding my peace, and as it seems so impressive and so uncharitable of many of my superior brethren I have concluded to speak my mind upon certain facts and give to you a clear idea of certain things I have noticed in our Conference. With this partiality as plainly demonstrated I feel that I, a brother and member of the Conference should give my state of feelings toward it. Think not that I speak harshly, but as a brother and a follower of Christ. The partiality which I speak of is exhibited between the educated and the uneducated ministers. I have noticed that the uneducated ministers are placed in some position, always to build up and lay a solid and pleasant foundation for the educated minister; while they in style and splendor await the completion of the uneducated man's work. How often have they walked into places and grasped what the poor uneducated man should have had. How often has the uneducated man gone forward and made the way pleasant for the educated. This have I noticed, why they are spurned and looked upon with contempt and disdain. God grant that our dear fathers may see their errors and let our educated brethren go among uneducated people and instruct them, and our uneducated brethren go among educated people that they may learn more and be better instructed. What are our theological schools for if not for our uneducated ministers? When we were commissioned to preach the gospel, did we not promise to carry the Word of God to the heathen as well as the enlightened? But how many of us shrink when our father bishop assigns us to some buildozing parish or country? Now for three years I have applied to the conference for time and appropriations to study, and every time it has been rejected, knowing at that time I could not write my name. But since that time through the aid and assistance of God to-day I am what I am. I even notice that when a large sum of money is appropriated that minister is an educated man and highly complimented, but a small sum is to an uneducated minister and very little said about it. God grant that we as brethren come together educated or uneducated, and help one another; instead of keeping down stream let us all try to go up."

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

Peter Thompson, Hawkins: "Elder Rippetoe held his last quarterly conference, and remained from Oct. 9 to 11. Since last quarter there were seven additions, six of whom were baptized. We have only one church house on this circuit yet, and have a Sunday-school in it."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The President assigned Gen. O. O. Howard to the command of West Point military academy, and Gen. Schofield to duty at New Orleans. This change will be hailed with satisfaction by all friends of fair play, and opponents of race prejudices.

A Voice from "Zion."

BY REV. L. A. RUDISILL.

Utah, more especially Salt Lake City, is the Mormon "promised land." With them it is the Zion. In some future letter I will speak of Mormonism and its teachings. In this I will talk about Utah Methodism. At Ogden we have a neat, comfortable church edifice, with a live pastor and people. Rev. S. W. Hyde has been pastor of the church for some time and is well liked. A pleasant surprise was given him a short time ago. Rev. Bro. Lincoln has charge of our church school here, and is meeting with success—some 60 students enrolled. Ogden is to be lighted with the electric light and has a telephone exchange.

At Toelle Rev. J. P. Morris is making a good impression. Here we have a church and school. Notwithstanding the Mormon element surrounding the church, good work is being done.

At Provo Rev. Jaynes is successfully planting the church and school. Bro. Jaynes believes in revivals and has them.

At Beaver Bro. Smith labors with effect, and Mormonism and sin feels his presence. Here also we have a good school in connection with the church.

Salt Lake City is the capital of the territory. Here is located the largest and best church edifice in the territory, valued at $60,000. The Rocky Mountain Seminary is located here—carried on in connection with the church work. Rev Hilton, of Rock River Conference, is president. Three teachers are employed and arrangements made for others as rapidly as needed. The seminary enters upon a very promising future—is well supplied with furniture, etc.

The Church has been a scene of action; workmen have been busy. Says the Rocky Mountain Advocate: "The roof has been painted, pleasant rooms for Sunday-school and social purposes have been made under the gallery and the whole interior much improved as to acoustics, appearance and comfort." The Sunday-school is the largest in the city. Under the present pastorate 23 [illegible] will join church.

Here is published the Rocky Mountain Advocate, and is located the Book and Tract Depository, both under charge of Rev. C. M. Pence. The Advocate has a circulation of about 3500 and is doing [illegible] for the church. The Depository is well supplied with [illegible].

Rev. R. A. Fisher, D.D., our former pastor, now General Superintendent of American Bible Society for Utah, Arizona, Montana and Idaho, makes this city his headquarters. Methodism is planting a school by the side of each church, thus getting hold of the children and saving them from the curse of Mormonism.

Forward all Along the Line!

BY D. W. KAYE.

A word to the members of the Tennessee Conference. I propose the above as a suitable motto for the opening of the conference year. It very adequately expresses the idea which prevailed at the close of our last session, and deserves to be written, in bold characters, upon our banner. Never before were there so many open doors and so many evidences of God's favor upon this year's work. Never before were there so many calls for the opportunity to do more work and better work in the Master's vineyard. More than ever before we are called upon to go forward, to move on our hosts, to occupy every new charge that may be created, to increase our benevolence in every way, and a [illegible] demand that we keep step with the times. We must be more than equal to our opportunities in 1880. To do this will implore on the part of the preachers more work and better work than ever before. Let us be up and doing. We must move forward. We must

THE ROBIN REDBREASTS.

A FABLE FOR CHILDREN.

Two robin redbreasts built their nest
Within a hollow tree;
The hen sat quietly at home,
The male sang merrily,
And all the little robins said,
"Wee, wee, wee, wee, wee, wee."

One day the sun was warm and bright,
And shining in the sky;
Cock Robin said, "My little dears,
'Tis time you learnt to fly;"
And all the little ones said,
"I'll try, I'll try, I'll try."

I know a child, and who she is I'll tell you by-and-by,
When mamma says, "Do this," or "that,"
She says, "What for?" and "Why?"
She'd be a better child by far,
If she would say, "I'll try."

A Bird Story.

But now hear this wonderful little story, from S. G. T., of how a bird-pair secured actually to read [illegible]; for how could they possibly have chosen better words for a motto for their little homes than the two which were found upon it?

In a certain country place, not very far from the city of New York, there was once an entertainment, and handbills were distributed freely in the neighborhood, so that a great many were lying about on the ground, and were blown by the wind into all sorts of places. One of the chief attractions on the programme was a [illegible] entitled "Our Darling," and these two words were of course printed conspicuously on the handbill.

Months after the date of the entertainment, a New York family came to pass the summer in that country place. One day the little boy of the family came running into the house excited and delighted, and calling:

"Mamma! mamma! See what I have found!" and he held up a bird's nest.

Some brother may say, "What shall we do then?" I say, let us meet with our families around the fireside and there pray in secret that God may open the way within the next twelve months for us to go where we can educate our children and [illegible] for the Bible says, "If we ask of Him in faith He will grant it in Grace," and I know the children of Israel asked Him to lead them from the land of Egypt to the land of Canaan and He did it. Some one may ask, What causes Healup to write as he does? I will tell you. Yesterday, as I passed up the street from the postoffice a distinguished merchant halted me and said, "We have got things like we want and in two years you niggers will be totally disfranchised." I now ask who will do it? I can't believe that those who God used as an instrument in His hand to bring about the good times and freedom [illegible]. How can we get away? In answer to the above I would say like Dr. [illegible] in the Annual Conference when speaking [illegible] "Go ye in all the world and preach the Gospel." His modification of the subject was, "We will go."

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

CONSUMPTION—BRONCHITIS—ASTHMA.

Were Fellows' Compound Syrup useless in all other diseases, the benefits derived from it undoubtedly would in Consumption and other diseases of the Respiratory [illegible] would vindicate its claims to the attention of every medical practitioner. From the statistics of England and America it is a fair estimate that one-tenth of the entire deaths are caused by Consumption alone. If the Syrup is used perseveringly it subdues the tendency to Consumption, and in many confirmed cases, as that of the inventor, [illegible] cure.

Indigestion and habitual Costiveness almost always arise from weakness of the nerves and muscles of the stomach and bowels. In such cases Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has proved itself of the greatest service. The evacuations become copious and healthy.

This Syrup will cure Pulmonary Consumption in the first stage, and will give great relief and prolong life in the second and third. It will cure Asthma, Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and Coughs. It will cure all diseases originating from want of Muscular Action and Nervous Force.

Public Speakers and Singers

Will find this Syrup of inestimable value. A dose should be taken before speaking or singing.

Aphonia, or Loss of Voice, is usually cured by a few doses. We have known cases where a single dose has been effectual.

S. Jacob, M. D., St. John, N. B., writes:

I had occasion to use your Syrup in a case of Aphonia which would not yield to regular treatment; it proved to be all that you claim [illegible] with expedition and [illegible]

A Sure Cure for Inflamatory and Chronic Rheumatism.

Here is a medicine that positively cures Rheumatism. We say positively cures, because there is no longer any doubt about it. The remedy is DR. BOWYER'S PANACEA. Thousands of cures attest its merits. The only safe dissolvent of the poisonous uric acid which exists in the blood of all rheumatic patients. It is an internal and external remedy, and being extracted from vegetables, roots, barks, etc., it is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. The PANACEA is prepared in the most scientific manner known to chemistry. It is very pleasant to the taste. Prepared only by the BOWYER MEDICAL CO., Petrolia City, Butler Co., Pa.

Dr. Bowyer—Dear Sir: Having suffered for years [illegible] told me I must die. I accordingly called in the priest, who also said I must die; but a neighbor told me of your PANACEA, and induced me to try it, and it soon relieved me, and in three days I was able to be around, and now am well. I would freely recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with that painful disease. I believe it to be all, and more than you have recommended it to be. Yours with respect,
LORENZ SCHREINER,
No. 16 Sumner Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

We were eye-witnesses of the above case, and can vouch for the truth of the above statement.
D. Hamilton, 54 Sumner St., Cleveland, Ohio.
D. A. McIlvaine, 107 Huron St.

Dr. Bowyer—I have been afflicted with Rheumatism for a long time, for which I used your medicine, and it gave me relief almost instantly.

Catarrh.

What is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Everything known to be good in the treatment of Nasal Catarrh, Throat, Bronchial, or Lung diseases, combined in one grand system. Dr. Hartshorn's new remedy is made from a common swamp weed, combined with gums, balsams, essential oils, &c., such as are separately used by the most eminent physicians in the treatment of Catarrh and Lung diseases. The remedy is converted into a dense medicated vapor by smoking it in a pipe. By the inhaling process this vapor or smoke is drawn through the various passages of the head and lungs, reaching and healing every irritated spot. It is very pleasant. Any child, woman, or invalid can smoke it. It gives instantaneous relief when used for Asthma.

The use of a single package will convince any sufferer from Bronchitis and

of its wonderful virtues. No medicine can reach the air passages of the head and lungs like a finely medicated vapor. In due time we shall publish a Book of Testimonials that will make Old Fogyism quake in his boots. Price of Dr. Hartshorn's Compound, $1 per box by mail, post-paid. Address, BOWYER MEDICAL CO. KIDNEY-WORT

The Only Remedy

THAT ACTS AT THE SAME TIME ON THE LIVER,
THE BOWELS,
and the KIDNEYS.

This combined action gives it wonderful power to cure all diseases.

Why Are We Sick?

Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT WILL CURE

by causing free action of these organs and restoring their power to throw off disease.

Why suffer Bilious pains and aches? Why tormented with Piles, Constipation? Why frightened over disordered Kidneys? Why endure nervous or sick headaches? Why have sleepless nights? Use KIDNEY-WORT and rejoice in health. It is a dry vegetable compound and [illegible]. Get it of your Druggist, he will order it for you. [illegible]

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my sister, Rachel Carson. She is the daughter of Philip and Silvy Carson. Before they were sold they belonged to Billy Carson. Names of their children: Andy, Lawson, Rachel, and Peggie. Sister Rachel was sold to Mr. Mercollie, and he took her to Texas, and I have never heard from her since. We were all living in North Carolina when she was sold two years before the war, and I have never heard from her or father and mother. Sister and brother are living in Arkansas, 6 miles from Helena. I came to Mississippi in 1874. Grand mother's name is Judy Williams. Address me at Oxford, Miss.

ANDY JOHNSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I desire information of my father's relatives. He was owned by Captain James Wilson, in Sumner Co., Tenn., near Walnut school house, three miles from the city of Galla in. His father was named Adam Bug, owned by Sam Bug, who lived in Nashville. His mother was Henrietta, owned by Alfred Alexander, in Sumner Co., on Bledsoe Creek (or a similar name). She had four children named Susan, Henry, Matilda, Sarah, besides my father; his name is Lewis. He was owned by Capt. James Wilson. He also had two aunts, one named Caroline Wilson and the other Malisa Wilson. They were owned by Stephen Wilson. He lived on Walnut Creek, three miles west of Gallatin. My father was sold to a negro trader by the name of Dick Featherson in 1844, and brought to Mississippi, where he has lived ever since, and has never heard anything of his relatives since he was sold away from them. He now resides at Clinton, Miss. Address me at Clinton, Hinds Co., Miss.

L. W. C. WILSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my step-father, mother, sister, and brother. Mother's name was Juda Burrel, and step-father Richard Burrel. He left his mother in Virginia in 1847, he then a [illegible] year old boy. His step-father used to belong to Richard Cook. His mother used to belong to a man by the name of James Odel, who sold her to Leon Slater. His name was then Isam Christian and he had a brother Emanuel Christian, but now he goes by the name of Isam Carlton. His sister belonged to John Crump. Her name was Malvina, and her husband was Tom. She lived with John Crump, five miles from the Hotel at New Kent Court House, Va. His mother's sister was Nancy Burrel. She belonged to Hal Valten. His aunt was the mother of five children, Lettitia, Hannah, Anna, Eliza Octana; the boy, he does not remember his name. I write for my step-father to inquire for his relations. Should any of his people see this they will please address him at Frelsburg, Texas. He now goes by the name of Isam Carlton.

MRS. LILLY DOBSON.

A Lady's Wish.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clean and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe." Read of it.

The Chattanooga Commercial says: "On the night of the 24th ult. near Cebanon, Tenn., five chartered school-houses were burned by incendiaries in order, it is believed, to allow liquor sellers to evade the 'four mile' law. The perpetrators of the dastardly deed should be hunted down and made an example of."

The Pleasures of Hope.

When the body is bowed with pain an intense longing for relief brings hope. This may brighten the suffering but it does not cure. At a time like this how welcome is such a friend as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, bringing home, health, and happiness and the joys of a renewed life.

ON THE WAY TO AUSTIN.

On the way to Texas we had the good fortune to fall in with Rev. Dr. Kelly, of the M. E. Church, South, who was visiting conferences of his Church in the interests of the Book Concern and Missionary Society of his denomination. The Doctor was for a number of years a missionary in China. He is a man of extended culture, and broad and liberal Christian sentiments. Naturally our discussions turned upon questions relating to the policy and histories of our respective Churches, and their relations to each other especially in the Southern States. Would that all the leading minds of his Church were as glad as he to judge rightly the motives and work of our Church in the South. Dr. Kelly had a day at Houston and dropped in at our Conference, and by request addressed the Conference and preached at night. He accorded full praise to our Church for her work in the South and preached a most acceptable sermon.

At Marshall, by derangement of trains, we were kept over a day. We arrived at midnight, in the rain and oh, the mud! Misfortunes in travel usually come in groups. It seemed that everybody and their friends had been delayed too. Besides the Southern Methodist Conference was assembling, and Court was in session and the celebrated Rothchild's case was on hand. After an hour's waiting in the damp cold atmosphere of a fireless station room, and another worse hour of dragging through the mud from hotel to hotel our company at last found shelter. Dr. Kelly and ourselves shared one bed in a room where were two other beds, well filled with weary humanity.

The monotony of waiting for the train next day was relieved by discussions of the Rothchild's murder case. Four years ago he brought from New Orleans to Marshall a brilliant but bad woman, to whom he was married, and of whom he [illegible]. They passed on to Jefferson and spent another night. In the morning he took her to a [illegible] grove and [illegible] shot her dead, and left saying that she had gone to some friends. The pawning of some of her jewels in St. Louis led to his arrest. He is a Jew of respectable parents. For four years money and the miserably imperfect criminal code of Texas have kept him from the gallows. At last the [illegible] so it is said, been found technically imperfect, and it has been quashed, so the four years of trials go for nought, and the whole prosecution must be gone over. He will be cleared. We saw him taking the train with the [illegible] Fat, clean shaven, well dressed, and seemingly happy, [illegible] where we stood [illegible] Barrymore [illegible] in the same court [illegible] the day before the [illegible] Curry [illegible] Had either Curry or [illegible] been poor and friendless and stolen a pig or load of corn [illegible] would be in the penitentiary. [illegible] administration of law in [illegible] in Texas. It is [illegible] that [illegible] murders in Texas [illegible] and we were told [illegible] U. S. Deputy [illegible] were now fully [illegible] in the State [illegible] friend with them asked the brother who we were: "Is that the nigger Bishop going to Austin to hold the nigger Methodist Conference?" The brother replied, "No," and explained who we were. The reply was a muttered oath and, "we have heard of that paper and its editor." Then followed conversation on the SOUTHWESTERN and its editor and kindred topics in the midst of which it was said, "If we had the power in our own hands we would see that no such publications came into the State." The brother reported the above in open conference, which was the first we heard of it. Thank God neither Hancock electors nor their friends have the power to repress the oncoming tide of the better Christian civilization which is rapidly permeating every grade of society in Texas to elevate and save it. Political and religious bourbonism is receiving its death stabs in Texas. The people are awaking to the necessity of public schools. In every town can be found papers representing the oncoming future of true prosperity as distinguished from the past of slavery and caste. Such papers are Harper's Weekly, New York Times, Chicago Inter-Ocean, St. Louis Globe Democrat, and last, though not least, the SOUTHWESTERN.

By the way any man who is posted on the conditions of society in nine-tenths of the territory in this Southern country cannot fail to understand the probable consequences of Hancock's election upon the work of our own and similar Churches in the South. The South has masses of good people, and in all towns and villages there is liberality of sentiment to afford protection and often encouragement to our church work. But an overflowing public sentiment rooted in the past yet lives, ready to crystallize almost anywhere, when occasion arises, to assert the old prejudices and animosities. The redemption of the South from her old self is to be and is now going on; but, as a whole her condition on questions of heart love to the Union, or heart interest in the salvation of the colored people, and in being willing that there shall be perfect freedom of thought and action among all the people is illustrated by the spiritual condition of old Peter Cartwright when he said his sanctification had effected him only in spots.

Education and its Effect on the Working Classes.

BY JOHN C. BERRY.

There is an absurd idea that prevails among a certain class—a class the name of which need not be mentioned—that among the laboring classes the light which education gives should be withheld in order to perpetuate a working class. Believing that a general diffusion of useful knowledge would demolish the existence of that class which composed of the laboring classes. We believe there would be a change in the working ranks, but for the better. We have every reason to believe, that were scientific knowledge universally diffused among the working classes, every department of useful arts would be pushed with a rapid progress to perfection, and new arts and inventions, hitherto unknown, be introduced on the theatre of the world, to increase the enjoyment of domestic society and to embellish the face of nature. No possible limits can be assigned to the powers of genius, to the resources of science, to the improvement of machinery, to the aids to be derived from chemical operations, and to the skill and industry of mechanics [illegible] when guided by the light which scientific discoveries [illegible] around them. What [illegible] of more immediate benefit to the farmer than a knowledge of the chemical or fertilizing properties of certain manures he would use on his farm, in order to adapt them in rightful proportions to the trees or plants he would have them promote, and [illegible] the truthful estimate of the tenacity of certain timbers as is [illegible] in the construction of a certain thing, whose strength would be required? How [illegible] [illegible] chemical and mechanical powers, but much more, we may confidently expect, will be achieved in generations yet to come, when the physical universe shall be more extensively explored, and the gates of the temple of knowedge thrown open to all.

Future Franklins, Watts, Davies, and Arkwrights will doubtless arise, with minds still more brilliantly illuminated with the lights of science; and the splendid inventions of the present age be far surpassed in the "future miracles of mechanical powers" which which will distinguish the ages yet to come. But, in order to this "wished for communication" it is indispensibly requisite that the mass of mankind be aroused from slumber, that knowledge be generally diffused, and that the light of science shed its influence on men of every nation, of every profession, and of every rank. And if, through apathy or avarice, or indulgence in sensual propensities, we refuse to lend our helping hand to this object, society may yet relapse into the darkness which enveloped the human understanding during the middle ages, and the inventions of the past ages, like the stately monument of Grecian and Roman arts, be lost amid the mist of ignorance, or blended with the ruins of empires. What if skilled labor should take the place of manuel labor, if it be labor saving or productive to human happiness, we say "suffer it to be so." That science has done much for the promotion of human happiness is evident; much, how, ever, is still wanting to complete the enjoyment of the lower ranks, especially among the colored people. In the country many of them live in the most wretched hovels, open to the wind and rain, without a separate apartment to which an individual may retire for any mental exercise. Hence, the allurements to visit the "lurking place of the worm" to drown the gloom that naturally envelopes the human mind when unemployed, or without the necessary materials for mental speculation; thereby the earnings of the day, or perhaps the week, are wantonly consumed in drinking and gambling. But were the minds of the lower order imbued with a certain portion of useful science, and did they possess such a competency as every human being ought to enjoy, their knowledge would lead them to habits of diligence and economy. In most instances, it will be found that ignorance is the fruitful source of indolence, waste, and extravagance, and that abject poverty is the result of a want of discrimination, and proper arrangement of domestic affairs. As slovenliness and filth are generally the characteristics of ignorance and vulgarity, so an attention to cleanliness is one of the distinguishing features of cultivated minds. Cleanliness is conductive to health and virtuous activity, but uncleanliness is prejudicial to both. Of these facts, the North is aware, and seeks to educate every class of citizens. Hence the magnitude of her inventive genius, and general prosperity over that of the South, considering the unfavorable condition of the soil compared with that of the South. That no republic or commonwealth can long continue to flourish and prosper, or even exist, without a sufficient amount of useful knowledge being diffused among its general classes, is universally acknowledged. Now, if the foregoing remarks be true, who can wonder that there is so much vice yet remaining in the ranks of the poor unfortunate Negro, who, is just beginning to emerge from utter darkness—with only a few that have reached the eminence, to becken him on to its lofty height. Few too, have ascended to the highest chambers in the temple of science and general knowledge, to teach to other nations the ability of the Negro in solving the mathematical problems; and in unravelling the philosophical knots, and in surmounting the many barriers that were intended to impede his onward progress. Now, as the Negro has shown his ability to learn, and bids fair to become popular in the history of America as a nation, every possible means that tends to their elevation, should be put to immediate use. The Negro, it must be remembered, is an exotic of the gorgeous and superb countries of the world, and he has, deep in his heart, a passion for all that is splendid, rich and fanciful, a passion which rarely indulged by an untrained taste, draws on them the ridicule of the colder and more correct white race. Some writer has thus beautifully said: "If ever Africa shall show an elevated and cultured race—and come it must, some time, her turn to figure in the great drama of human improvement—life will awake there with a gorgeousness and splendor ot which our western tribes faintly have conceived. In that far-off mystic land of gold, and gems, and spices, and waving palms, and wondrous flowers, and miraculous fertility, will awake new forms of art, new styles of splendor, and the Negro race no longer despised and trodden down, will, perhaps, show forth some of the latest and most magnificent revelations of human life. Certainly they will, in their gentleness, their lowly docility of heart, their aptitude to repose on a superior mind and rest on a higher power, their child-like simplicity of affections and facility of forgiveness. In all these they will exhibit the highest form of the peculiar Christian life, and, perhaps as God chasteneth whom he loveth, he hath chosen poor Africa in the furnace of afflictions, to make her the highest and noblest in that kingdom which he will set up, when every other kingdom has been tried, and failed; for the first shall be last, and the last the first. Then raise up your heads, ye sons and daughters of Africa! Thy day star will yet arise, and the prejudices and antipathy, that now form such mountain barriers will fade and die, as fadeth the lurkings mists before the morning sun.

"Learn or Locate."

BY J. W. E. BOWENS.

[Concluded.]

Truth admitted, covered up, unnoticed or denied, still remains truth. A writer has made strictures upon my former article, claiming that too much is expected of the Negro in so short a time since his emancipation. He admits the truth of my statements, but does not relish it. His article reminds one of the illogical and pathetic wail of Agamemnon who upon being accused rightfully of dishonoring the priest of Apollo, says to Chalsis: "Prophet of ills—neither has thou ever as yet uttered any favorable prediction, or done aught that was advantageous for me."

We admit that much has been done by the Negro since liberated; but the admission does not include boasting. Our purpose is to set forth what is, and not to praise what has been accomplished. If the writer will take the time to study what has been accomplished in the mechanical and literary professions which are the marks of a nation's growth from the savage stage to the cultured, the more influential—he will find very little is left whereof to boast. A lack of proper advancement in these professions may not be exclusively our fault. We will not at this juncture speak of these things.

It has often been said that the pulpit is one of the great educators of the masses, and that "Whatever is, is right," in other words, let God be true, and all men liars. The former expresses a common truth, the latter argues not for standing ignorance and widespreading vice and immorality in consequence of the ignorance. By far the greater part of our southern congregations, especially our darker ones, have never had any teacher save the minister.

He has to contend with the superstitions, with vice, with ignorance which are the offsprings of the "twin relic of barbarism" in its most hideous form. The Bible is his book. It is a book of mysteries, of science; contains biology, chronology, ethnology, and psychology. He is called and sent forth not necessarlyy a polemic, and yet if need be he is to stand and contend boldly for the truth. With it he is to go forth in the saving of souls, putting to flight infidels, shivering the pre-conceived notions of skeptics, dispelling the gloom of superstition, and giving the light in all its beauty, and in edifying the church. How must he perform these sacred duties and discharge these obligations? He must study; this is his imperative duty. As well for a teacher to appear before his class without having prepared the lesson, as for a minister to appear in his pulpit without study.

Coupled with the cry, "save the masses" should be the cry preserve inviolate the sacred oracles, save the Bible from the onslaughts of wicked and designing men; keep the standard of morality elevated. The minister stands therefore in his pulpit yielding an influence that is immeasurable, touching springs in the character of individuals, that shall send forth streams of gladness, or spread desolation in its direful course. His touches upon the character either beautify or mar.

The minister, therefore, is to be an educated, as well as a pious man. By close observation it is found that but few of our students remain in school long enough to graduate. Several causes may be adduced why they thus leave. The principal is the lack of funds. The most of our students are earnest, faithful workers, both with the hands and head. Many are compelled to leave to seek places to refill their pockets in order to attend one term of school. There are many, however, who are spendthrifts. This may be striking, yet true. The power and the desire to appear well in society, to dress with advantage is both worthy and commendable; but when carried to an extreme, it then becomes objectionable.

An extravagant poor man is unworthy the sympathy of intelligent men when fortune fails him. It is to be said with no little reluctance that many of our students who complain of the want of funds dress too well.

There is a common sense in dress, that some men fail to realize. If our young men could be induced to save—mighty word—they could be able to remain in school longer. The love of the glitter and the evanescent are peculiar weaknesses of the proud. While we do not advise miserly conduct, we do advise a more prudent use of the funds they may have secured through or gifts.

There are some, however, who, as forestated, desire to remain in school and accomplish the prescribed course both in the classics and in theology, but poverty prevents. How shall this be remedied? We think it advisable that each of these fifteen Conferences in the South should support one of its young men in school until graduation. We do not advise that this be done indiscriminately or without regard to certain prerequisites; but that at least one, whom the Conference, shall deem the best fitted and worthy the favor.

The prerequisites should be such as to prevent the merely ambitious from securing the appointment.

Good Christian character, capacity and inclination, graces, and some acquirements should be among the prerequisites. The Conference should do this for its own good, for one thoroughly educated and fully consecrated man, gives caste to the deliberations of a body and is a power untold for truth. It should develop the best ability, it should train its young men, it should set it stamp of approval upon the highest intellectual culture possible, for when the best intellectual culture is in the rank of the ministry, there need be no fear of its lagging. We are not among those who fear that too much intelligence is corrupting. Let the minister be a scientist, and he is a better minister.

That Circuit.

BY D. W. HAYS.

A circuit, sometimes, on account of its peculiar features, becomes interesting as a study. Here is one. It is within the bounds of the Tennessee Conference. It embraces three or four preaching places, and has a membership of over sixty, including probationers. Last year it enjoyed a glorious revival, resulting in the awakening and conversion of a great many souls, a number of whom were added to the church. At Conference it was represented as being in a growing condition. The preacher in charge was eulogized for his fidelity and for his remarkable industry in cultivating the field. Since the close of the session I have looked over the statistics, from which I have learned something about that circuit. It appears that for the past two years it has failed to report a single cent raised for the benevolent enterprises of the Church. For two whole years that circuit has gone on the list of appointments, has been supplied with a preacher who received a part of his salary from our heavily strained Missionary Society, and in return it sends up nothing but a blank. But it is in a growing condition, notwithstanding. Miserable growth that! If it is the only kind of growth sought, the quicker that circuit sinks into oblivion the better. I would not be understood as placing a light estimate on the work of getting men converted to God. That I regard as our main business as Christians and ministers of the Gospel, and could wish that our diligence in it might be increased an hundred fold. But getting men converted is not everything. Far from it. Usefulness is a condition of discipleship. The man who, after his conversion, settles down into indifference or laziness, never contributing anything for the upbuilding of the church to which he belong, commits a fearful mistake and sins against his own soul. He has received the grace of God in vain. As Methodists, we are pledged to the support of our benevolent causes to the extent of our ability. Was this fact presented on that circuit? The preacher tells me that he has urged the collections, but could not find any one who would consent to give toward them—that in every instance there was lacking a sense of responsibility in the matter. Now I would like to know how long this state of things is to continue. It seems to be an infection which is gradually spreading its baneful influence into regions hitherto noted for their healthful atmosphere, and from which "blanks" seldom come. What can be done for that circuit? Who will bring forward the much-needed remedy? We wait to see.

Missionaries' Mail.

Missionaries in heathen lands sometimes have strange and painful experience in regard to obtaining tidings from their friends in the home-land. A striking instance of this kind recently came to my notice. It was related by Dr. Gulich, the present agent of the American Bible Society at Yokohama, Japan. It occurred during his career as missionary in the Micronesian Islands, in the Pacific Ocean. Mr. Gulich and his associates in work, in these islands, after having been left one whole year without any tidings whatever from their home-land, heard that a mail had arrived for them on one of the neighboring islands. They at once hastened to the place and asked the native chiefs whether a package had come for them. They were answered in the affirmative, and soon a big bundle of mail-matter, consisting of letters and papers from their friends in America, was placed before them. Then they spent a short time in conversation with the chiefs and their associates, and went through the usual ceremonies of politeness. Being greatly delighted with getting a mail, and desirous to show their appreciation of the good will of the chiefs in receiving it for them, they concluded to make them some presents. This, however, was a mistake, as the sequel will show. Those chiefs and their associates, being unable to appreciate the value of anything not good to eat, at once concluded that the missionaries had received some extra delicacies, and forthwith took the mail away from them. The missionaries explained and entreated, but all in vain. The chiefs and their companions at once began to eat the supposed delicacies. First they bit off mouthfuls of letters and papers, chewed and tried to swallow it, but none of them could make the thing go down. Then they put some of it into a pot and boiled it, but the taste remained unsatisfactory. Next they mixed some of it with herbs and boiled it, fried it, roasted it, and, in short, prepared it in all the different ways known to them for preparing food, while the poor, helpless missionaries stood by and saw their long-looked for and precious mail disappear, piece by piece, and, finally, they had to return home and report to their eager wives and children that their mail was all gone!

Here in Japan we have no such trouble. The postal arrangements are excellent, and the mails are carried with great care, and delivered with remarkable promptness.—Rev. J. Hartzler.

John Bright says the working classes of England attach as little value to the dogmas of Christianity as the upper classes do to the practice of religion.

The Southwestern for 1881.

We urge upon every friend of the SOUTHWESTERN to at once put forth every effort possible to secure subscribers for 1881. With this paper the volume for 1880 ends. We do not want to loose one old subscriber and we want a large number of new subscribers. The new lists are coming in well, and judging from the cheerful letters received from all parts of the territory, the prospects for five thousand subscribers for 1881 is good.

HOW TO CANVASS.

We do not want our agents to fall in debt; but we must hold them responsible for every name they send longer than one month. Push the canvass as follows: Take the paper into the pulpit and take the names of all who want the paper and tell them they can pay for it within a month. At the end of the month write to us sending what money you have collected, and ordering the names of all who have not paid you or for whom you will not be responsible, stricken off. Remember, all names you send will be charged to you until you write and have their papers stopped.

SPECIMEN COPIES.

Send for specimen copies to canvass with whenever you need them. We will gladly send them free.

The Old Year.

We are nearing the close of another year. This is the last issue of the SOUTHWESTERN for the year 1880. It is fitting that we spend the closing hours of the dying year in reflections that may serve to stimulate us to live better in the year to come. We are reminded of the rapid flight of the years and that we too must soon pass away. The brevity and uncertainty of our earthly life are in the Scriptures set forth and illustrated in the most striking imagery. The rush of the years is compared to that of swollen and dashing waters: "Thou carriest them away as with a flood." There is in our lives that ever and overflowing motion that likens them to the stream that rests not till it reaches the ocean.

"Time like one ever rolling stream
Bears all its sons away;
They fly forgotten as a dream
Dies at the opening day."

Thus is often, too, the rushing torrent of disease, of epidemics, of disasters, in which the frail lives of men are swept away as the light drift wood that gathers along the shores of rushing rivers.

"How swift the torrent rolls
That bears us to the sea,
The tide that hurries thoughtless souls
To vast eternity."

"Swifter than a weavers shuttle are our days." Then again our life is likened to "a vapor that appeareth for a little while, and then vanisheth away;" and to the grass: "In the morning it groweth up; in the evening it is cut down and withereth."

"The evening cloud, the morning dew,
The withering grass, the fading flower,
Of earthly hopes are emblems true—
The glory of a passing hour."

"We spend our years as a tale that is told." Soon, of all who now live and labor, love and rejoice, not one will be here. The laughter and the tears of to-day will be hushed to-morrow. The grave will cover all. The places that now know us will know us no more forever.

It is important that we ask ourselves how these few years allotted to us on earth should be spent. How have we been spending the year that is past? What report has its days and hours borne to heaven? Are we willing to face the record made during the past year? The prayer, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom," should be the most earnest petition of every soul. We are here to-day; to-morrow we go hence. What use shall we make of the time we have? To what end shall we steer our course? By what light shall we guide our journey?

Time is a sacred inheritance for the use of which every man must give an account. Every man has a portion of time given him, a life-lease, be it long or short, in which to do his work. On the doing of that work depends his eternal well-being. He has to secure a preparation for a blessed immortality, and has not a moment too much in which to do it. Fraternity—"What of the Night?"

Is Fraternity growing in the Southern States between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South?

Our reply is yes, fraternity between the ministry and people of these Churches grows yearly, in perhaps every Southern State and as a result throughout the South. Each year the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South is becoming more thoroughly established, and its success is coming to be accepted as another inevitable fact, which must be acknowledged along with several other inevitable facts, which have transpired in this region during the past twenty years. This growth manifests itself in the number of individual ministers of the M. E. Church, South, who visit our conferences in their annual sessions; who exchange pulpits with our white pastors and extend to them social recognition, or visit our schools and say kind words, and by once in a while the statistics of one of our conferences finding a place in one of the Church, South, Advocates. These evidences of growing fraternity are confined almost wholly to the places in the South where our Church is well established. This is perhaps only natural and might be the case with any new church organization in any region. Another important limitation is that there is no recognition of our work among the people of color, which could be interpreted as indicating any change of sentiment in the Church, South, as to the relative positions to be maintained between the white and colored people. The "nigger" of slavery is the "nigger" of popular sentiment in the South to-day, and any prosecution of our work in the Southern States which antagonizes this sentiment, will not only not be recognized, but will be met with opposition.

While there is growth it is yet slow. We think however this growth is rapid considering all the circumstances, but the exceptional cases indicated above must not be betaken for more than they count. Fraternity is as yet only in name, except in exceptional times and places.

While our late Austin Conference was in session at Dallas, Texas, the North Texas Conference of the Church, South, was in session in the same place. Fraternal greetings were exchanged through committees. Rev. J. H. McLean, A. M., was appointed by Bishop Pierce to visit our Conference and Bishop E. O. Haven appointed Revs. Wm. Brush, D.D., M. A. Daugherty, and W. P. Armstrong to visit the Southern Conference. What adds to the significance of this action was that each body took the step without the knowledge of the other. Our Austin Conference is a white Conference. We quote the following from the Galveston Advocate's account of the meeting in the Southern Conference:

By unanimous request of the Conference, Bishop Pierce responded in a short but expressive address. His greeting was affectionate, cordial and candid. The Bishop begged to express an opinion at variance with some of those expressed by the brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church, touching the necessity of that church operating in the South at all. He thought the Church, South, fully competent to care for our Methodist population. The Church, South, ministered to all peoples. He could but regard it as unfortunate that our Northern brethren seem to think differently. However fraternal the two Methodisms; however much one may deprecate [illegible] the other, yet the outside world must be unfavorably impressed by a competition between the two church organizations professing the same doctrines. While the Bishop expressed his dissent candidly, he deprecated any strife between brethren.

Of these words of Bishop Pierce our neighbor and friend, Dr. Parker, of the New Orleans Advocate, says:

"Bishop Pierce's reply to the fraternal messengers of the Austin Conference, was in the right spirit, and couched in right words. [illegible] that he saw no necessity for the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South, and that "he could but regard it as unfortunate that our Northern brethren seem to think differently." The Bishop's language was candid, and expressed the convictions of the Southern Methodism.

It is important also to quote the resolutions adopted by the two bodies. The Austin Conference said:

DEAR BRETHREN:—The Bishop and members of the Austin Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, also now in session in this city, hereby convey to you their Christian and fraternal greetings, assuring you of their sincere desire and prayers for your abundant prosperity and success in the great harvest field of Christian [illegible] in which we are fellow-laborers for the common cause of Christ and Methodism.

The Southern Conference said:

[illegible] in the true spirit of our holy Christianity, seek only the glory of God in the promotion of [illegible] the blessed Redeemer.

[illegible]

Church has undergone no change in opinion since 1844, that the territory of these Southern States is of right, exclusively theirs. Dr. Parker, with others whom we might quote says that this expresses the conviction of Southern Methodists. Bishop Pierce and Dr. Parker are right. The great body of the ministry and membership of the M. E. Church South, to-day believe, that everyone of our churches south of the Ohio, is in violation of a sacred compact on our part as between Christian Churches. As a result of this belief whatever, of friction comes, the Church South assumes to think itself in no way to blame. The Tennessee Confederate soldiers said to the boys in blue; "What are you 'uns comin' down hur for to bother we 'uns; we 'uns wouldn't bother you'ns if you'ns didn't come and bother we 'uns." So Bishop Pierce says practically to the Methodist Episcopal Church—go and stay out of the South and give no occasion for strife, and then we will be fraternal. To this sentiment Dr. Parker, and nine-tenths of the M. E. Church South, say Amen. Occasionally men are found like Dr. Kelly, of Nashville or good old Savage, of Kentucky, or Dr. Matthews of New Orleans, who take a different view.

Read the above resolutions. The Austin Conference in plain, broad and unreserved terms, says in substance, God bless you in your great work and we are here to help you. The Southern brethern say we give our sympathy to "all who in the true spirit of our holy Christianity, seek only the glory of God." Whether intended or not, here is a play upon words, which leaves the matter of practical fraternity to be decided upon by each Southern minister, after he finds out that our brethren do or not in his opinion seek "only the glory of God." There is no commendation of the presence, spirit, or work of our Church in Texas. The words by implication leave the question open whether or not our Austin Conference brethren are seeking only the glory of God. Add to this the fact that the Advocates and ministry of the Church, South, with but few exceptions continue to impress the Southern mind with the sentiment that our mission in the South is largely for political ends, or for self aggrandisement, and it is easy to see how our Southern brethren in Texas, can consistently do in the future, just what, with but few exceptions, they have done in the past—let our men and work severely alone!

Fraternity—what of the night?

We conclude:

1. Fraternity in the Southern States between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Church, South, grows slowly but surely.

2. The cause of this growth is neither Cape May nor the fraternal gush meetings in the North, but the success of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South.

3. If left to a vote of the bishops, ministry, and membership of the M. E. Church, South, our Church would be voted north of the Ohio in just as few minutes as it would take to put the vote.

4. The colored brother is not counted in, except as a "nigger," by our Southern Methodist brethren in all their acts and words of fraternity.

5. As success has succeeded in establishing fraternity thus far, we have only to go forward in the name of the Lord, and occupy the inviting fields all about us in the South to bring about not only formal, but practical Christian fraternity—with our colored brother counted in.

Temperance Bible Reading.

Mrs. C. A. Richardson, of Austin, Texas, sends us, neatly printed on a card, the following Temperance Bible reading. Let nineteen persons in the congregation be furnished with tables and be assigned a number and asked to find the text opposite the number on the card. Then let the leader announce the first part of the reading—Priests not to drink wine—and call upon numbers one and two to read their texts. This can be followed with questions and remarks as may be appropriate. Then take up the next subject—Rulers not to drink wine, etc.

This is a splendid plan and cannot fail to interest and instruct all present. Try it.

The following is the reading as arranged by Mrs. Richardson:

I. Priests not to drink.—1. Lev. 10: 8, 9, 10, 11. 2. Isaiah 28: 7.

II. Rulers not to drink wine.—3. Prov. 31: 4, 5.

III. A woe on drunkard makers.—4. Hab. 2: 15. 5. Hab. 2: 9, 10.

IV. A woe on the wine drinker.—6. Isaiah 5: 11, 12. 7. Isaiah 5: 22. 8. Isaiah 28: 1. 9. Isaiah 28: 3, 4. 10. Prov. 23: 29, 30. 11. Prov. 23: 31, 32.

V. Wine and strong drink degrading.—12. Prov. 23: 20, 21. 13. Prov. 20: 1. 14. Joel 3: 3.

VI. Drunkenness condemned as other sins.—15. 1 Cor. 5: 11. 16. Luke 21: 34. 17. Rom. 13: 13, 14.

VII. Drunkenness excludes from heaven. 18. Gallatians 5: 19, 20, 21. 19. 1 Cor. 6: 9, 10.

Something New in Dentistry.

The following from the Galveston News tells of a new use to which healthy negroes can put their teeth; that is, they can sell them for from three to ten dollars apiece, if they are willing to have them inserted in other people's mouths. The News says:

It often happens that a front tooth is broken off even with the gum, while the rest of the teeth remain good. This root may be removed and its place supplied with a sound and healthy tooth, previously removed for that purpose, and made to grow and perform all the functions of a natural tooth. A number of operations of this kind have been successfully performed by Dr. C B Stoddard, of Austin, Texas. As a rule the teeth are selected from the mouths of healthy negroes, and the price paid from $3 to 10 Some of the most fastidious ladies in the State have had this operation performed and are justly proud of the fact.

Buckle's explanation of the decline of the spirit of religious persecution, was that in modern times faith had undergone an eclipse, and men could not bring themselves to persecute others into believing that whereof they were themselves skeptical. The inadequateness of this explanation of one of the most striking social phenomena of our time, is forcibly shown in the North American Review for January, by Prof. John Fiske, who assigns a number of other causes. First, there is the decline of the martial spirit and the greater devotion to pacific industrial pursuits. Then, as men rise in the scale of civilization, they are less disposed to be domineering. Finally, men in modern times have quite lost the sense of corporate responsibility—the belief that a whole community is liable for the offenses of each individual comprised in it. The other articles in the Review are: "Controlling Forces in American Politics," by Senator Geo. F. Edmunds; "Atheism in Colleges," by President John Bascom; "The Ruins of Central America," by Dèsirè Charnay; "Partisan Government," by William D. Le Sueur; "Popular Art-Education," by Prof. John F. Weir; "The Limitations of Sex," by Nina Morais; "The Mission of the Democratic Party," by Senator William A. Wallace; and finally, a review of Recent Philological Works, by Prof. F. A. March. Sold by booksellers and newsdealers generally.

The Christian Advocate (Southern Methodist), of Nashville, has an editorial on Immigration—Emigration. It speaks of the great efforts to secure immigration to the South, and says: "But what of the great multitude who have gone and are going away from these fields to which all the world is being invited? We heard of fifty families who had left a single county in Tennessee about a month ago westward bound." The editor follows with a strong argument to show that if the South is a good place to ask people to come to it is a good place too in which to stay. The editorial concludes: "We are tired of this whining about immigration, lack of capital and such like. * * * Let our people work out their own temporal salvation on their own native soil, relying on their own strong arms, and trusting in the God of their fathers."

There is good logic and sound advice. Now let our Nashville cotemporary give equally good advice to his readers about the other exodus going on which has taken 60,000 people to Kansas alone and threatens to continue with increasing volume.

Says the Pontchatoula (La.) Gazette: "We think, as nearly every other editor in the State does, that an extra session of the Legislature is imperatively demanded. Something is necessary to be done in order to put that conglomerated patchwork of absurdities known as the constitution into some kind of working order. And about the first thing to be done is to call a convention to form a new constitution and to allow the people to vote for or against it in a common sense manner, without having to vote for officers under it at the same time. An extra session and a new constitution, by all means."

The International Review was begun in New York in 1874, by A. S. Barnes & Co., on a broad and generous basis, with the intent of collecting into it the best thought of the writers of more than one nation, and making it serve as an organ of intercommunication between all English-speaking peoples. Begun as a bi-monthly, it was presently changed to a monthly, and has lately been pushed with greater vigor than ever. Edited in Boston and published in New York, the International seems to be striving after an uncommon combination of literary and commercial resources.—The Literary World.

We are glad that the Rev. Dr. Curry is to be an associate editor of the New York Methodist. He is a man of great intellect and profound convictions. It would be a misfortune to lose him from the religious editorial force of America. We do not like his church polity and dissent from some of his theology, but there are great practical questions which both church and State must grapple with—are, in fact, now grappling with—on this continent, which call not for a few but many editors of brain, conviction and culture. Dr. Curry is such a man.

We have received from the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations a copy of "Three Hundred Topics for the Prayer Meetings of 1881." It is intended for the use of Pastors Association Secretaries, and others active in Christian work. The price is 5 cents per copy or 50 cents per dozen. Send to Richard C. Morse, 23d Street corner 4th Avenue, New York City.

From the City of Mexico we have received El Abogado Cristiano Ilustrado, and its almanac for 1881; also a copy of El Annario Methodista, or the first Methodist almanac published in the Spanish language, with the compliments of Dr. J. W. Butler. These publications are all of a most creditable character and neat in typography. They are the offspring of our missionaries in Mexico, who are doing noble work in that priest ridden Republic.

The timely article on "Montenegro," in Scribner for December, is followed in January by an article by the same writer and the same artist, on "Albania."

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Bishop Warren dedicated a church in Greenville, S. C. Dec. 12

—The postoffice of Rev. Jesse P. Price is Friendship, Crockett Co., Tenn. Correspondents will please take notice.

—Hon. A. J. Dumont has been confirmed Naval Officer of this port. He is an efficient officer. The vote was unanimous.

—Bishop Foss was given a public reception and welcome to his Episcopal residence in Minneapolis a few days since. A large number of prominent men of our own and other churches were present.

—In a note, from De Lassus, Mo., Mrs. H. Skewes says of her husband: "Mr. Skewes is very low. We have no hopes whatever of his recovery, but bless God, we do not sorrow as those without hope. He is peaceful and happy; all is bright and glorious beyond. He says tell you he has pleasant recollections of you, and that he is passing over triumphantly." May the dear Master comfort our brother and bear him tenderly to his eternal rest.

—J. Floyd King, of Louisiana, who proposed to introduce in the House a resolution directing the Secretary of the State to inform her Majesty's government that steps should be taken for the restoration of peace and order in Ireland, will have an opportunity to explain to the next Congress in contest with B. H. Lanier, the peculiar "peace and order" which prevails in the fifth district of Louisiana. Acts of bulldozing there have not been excelled in Ireland, and our government should take steps to repress them.

—A few nights ago, about 10 or 11 o'clock, a surprise party of between 50 and 75 of the members of Union Chapel (New Orleans) headed by Bros. Mason, Lacey and sisters Coleman, Washington, Lee, Rossmond, and others, called upon their pastor, Rev. A. B. P. Albert. The party took entire possession of the parsonage, enjoyed themselves with such good things as they brought, and left about 100 lbs. of all that heart could desire of the luxuries and necessaries of this life. Such surprises are pleasant and highly appreciated.

Bjornsen, the Norwegian poet, in his reception speech in Chicago, said, the monarchy of Norway was too despotic, and that over half of the people were in favor of a republic. He prophesied that it would not be very long before a change would be made by the dethronement of the monarch and the establishment of a republic.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TEXAS.

Texas can easily increase her subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN to a clear 2000. Let the work for 1881 begin now, and be kept up for the next three months with vigor.

Clarendon News: "Our church at Clarendon was left 'to be supplied' at at the recent session of the Austin Conference. We expect a pastor who can devote himself fully to the interests of the charge at Clarendon and Mobeetie, soon. Rev. Mr. Allan, Cartlich and others from time to time will supply the pulpit until regularly filled. The conference is short of men. We find a grand opening for our church at Marshall, one of the old and larger towns of eastern Texas. Here are established the machine shops and general offices of the Texas & Pacific Railway, now on the rapid march to El Paso. This is also the seat of Wiley University, a school of excellent management and character for the education of colored people especially, though not so limited. About one hundred are now in attendance with Professors Davis and Otterman, and another soon to be in charge."

Ohio Wesleyan University.

DELAWARE, O., Dec. 15, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR:—The fall term in the Ohio Wesleyan University closes December 22d. The term has been one of exceptional success and pleasure. More than five hundred students have been enrolled and present during the term the largest number in attendance at any time for many years. This large number of young men and young women have prosecuted their studies with eagerness and interest, and scarce a ripple has disturbed the peaceful flow of college life. There has been a deep religious interest throughout the entire term. The University prayer meetings have been seasons of unusual interest and spiritual power, and several students have from week to week been seeking Christ, while others have been reclaimed and quickened. The faculty have done excellent work, and feel abundantly repaid by the success achieved. Monnett Hall, the ladies' home, has been crowded to its utmost capacity, with as fine a class of young ladies as can be found in the country. The number of ladies attending the University is constantly increasing. The winter term will begin January 5. Ladies desiring rooms at Monnett Hall should write as soon as possible and engage them. New classes will be formed in Greek and Latin, and other studies, to accommodate the new students who will enter next term.

Bishop Turner and Dr. Taylor.

Granada, Miss., Dec. 24, 1880.

EDITOR SOUTHWESTERN:—We beg a small space in the columns of your excellent paper, to say to the many readers of the SOUTHWESTERN, that we were greatly astonished on reading the article of Bishop Turner's in the last issue of the SOUTHWESTERN, denying his statements or address at Grenada on the night of September 8th, 1880, as reported in the SOUTHWESTERN September 23d last. We the undersigned ministers of the Gospel and laymen were present on the occasion and heard what Bishop Turner of the A. M. E. Church, said, relative to what Dr. Taylor of the M. E. Church, should have said at the St. Louis General Conference, that the colored members of the M. E. Church were only in there for the present and they were preparing to leave for the A. M. E. Church in a mass.

With all due respect to Bishop Turner, yet we must say that he has been correctly reported by Rev. J. M. Shumpert in the SOUTHWESTERN September 23d last. He certainly did use that language, and a great deal more like it.

Respectfully,

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

January 2, 1881.—ZACHARIAS AND ELIZABETH.

SCRIPTURE.—Luke 1: 5-17.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless"—6.

QUARTERLY CENTRAL THOUGHT.—Deliverance from Sin.

LESSON TOPIC.—The Forerunner of the Deliverer.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

In the first two chapters of Luke, there is what Godet very happily terms, "The Gospel of the Infancy." They specially deal with the miraculous birth and the normal development of the Son of man. The annunciations to Zacharias and to Mary show that the "fullness of time" has come. To them there are celestial visions, and speech with angels, and to others there are expectations of the coming of the Messiah, which, on the part of some, is a true "waiting for the consolation of Israel," and, on the part of others, is a mere longing for the advent of one who would deliver the nation from the Roman yoke, and give it a place of grandeur and power among the kingdoms of the world. Patriotism, which, in this instance, was not much more than a synonym for selfishness, was looking in one direction—piety was looking in another. Those who were attemping the redemption of Israel as a release from the bondage of corruption which was manacling the people had premonitions and assurances that the time of the Redeemer was drawing nigh, while those who regarded it only as an emancipation from foreign domination had merely their despairing hope, that, after so long a time of waiting, the time of the coming of their deliverer could not be very far off.

Zacharias and his wife Elizabeth were of priestly descent. The wife as well as the husband belonged to the house of Aaron. The first communication which God made concerning the advent of his Son came through the channel which he had established for communion with men. The church of the old dispensation was the first to receive the tidings of that which was to be the foundation of the church of the new. Zacharias, though a priest, also was a husband. The celibacy of priests is an invention of man. They were both righteous before God. They had no child. Their home was a lonely one. It had in it no childish glee nor rollicking laughter. The arms of the aged couple were empty. His lot was to burn incense, which was offered at the time of the morning and evening sacrifice, a coveted honor and privilege. While the incense was burning, it was the custom of the people without in silence to offer prayer. Zacharias, then, had been praying. He was adding prayer to incense. And how could he pray for them better than by pleading for the coming of the Messiah, that he might bring to them a spiritual deliverance?

Coming to them, as John did, at such an advanced period of life, the name was an expression of a fact. God's verdict already was rendered concerning him, no matter what people might say, nor how they might esteem him. "Among men that are born of women," said Christ, "there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist."

He was to be a Nazarite all his life long, indulging in nothing that would sensualize his body, and thus give it a corrupting influence and domination over his soul. The voice of John the Baptist in the wilderness had a powerful effect. It seemed almost to depopulate the cities and the regions round about. John's unsparing denunciations and faithful warnings were heeded by very many, and they once more turned their thoughts and their faces to the Most High. John's mission was not to save, but to make ready for salvation. Zacharias' unbelief in the promise of the angel is in striking contrast to the faith of Abraham. For his unbelief he was stricken dumb until after the event itself should occur. When he came out of the temple, he could not pronounce the customary benediction. He only could beckon. And thus it was that the Levitical blessing remained unspoken because of the promise of the greater blessing to come.

CHARLES JAMES FOX: The Early History of. By George Otto Trevelyan, M. P., author of The Life and Letters of Lord Macaulay. New York: Harper Brothers.

NOTES ON BAPTISM; in which its spirituality as a covenant made or kept is clearly set forth and uniformly adhered to. By Rev. R. Gregg. Springfield, Ill.: H. W. Rokker, printer and binder. For sale at Eyrich's, New Orleans. Price, 75 cents.

BOOK NOTICES.

DRIFTING AND ANCHORED. By Mrs. E. J. Richmond. Three illustrations. New York: Phillips & Hunt. Price, $1.

A beautiful story of how one can search in vain for happiness out of communion with God, and how at last the heart rests sweetly in Jesus when once it surrenders all to him.

CHATTERBOX. R. Worthington, 770 Broadway, New York, has published among other elegant holiday books the Chatterbox and the Sunday Chatterbox.

These books are printed on fine paper and are elegantly illustrated. Either one would make a beautiful present for the little folks. The print is plain and the matter of the best. Eyrich has them for sale.

MOTHER TRUTH'S MELODIES: Common Sense for Children. A kindergarten. By Mrs. E. P. Miller. Nearly 300 illustrations. New and enlarged edition. Chicago: Fairbanks, Palmer & Co.

This is a book of rare merit. It is dedicated to all who love the children, which, of course, includes all good people. It is a whole library of useful and happy sayings for the little ones.

LESSON COMMENTARY on the International Sunday-school Lessons for 1881. By J. H. Vincent, D.D. and Rev. J. L. Hurlbut, M. A. New York: Phillips & Hunt. Price, $1.25.

This Commentary is invaluable for officers, and teachers in Sunday-schools. It is a collection of the best thoughts of the ablest writers on the lessons for the whole year. They can be ordered of Phillips & Hunt.

BEREAN SERIES Nos. 1, 2 and 3. This Series published by Phillips & Hunt, New York, are: 1. The Senior Lesson Book for 1881; 2. The Berean Question Book for 1881; 3. The Berean Beginner's Book for 1881.

These helps are well adapted to the intended use. They are 15 cents apiece, and can be ordered of Phillips & Hunt, New Orleans.

ELIZABETH CHRISTINE, wife of Frederick the Great. From the German and other sources. By Catherine Hurst. Five illustrations. Price, $1.25.

This is the fourth in the series of "Good Women of History." Mrs Bishop Hurst gives an appreciative account of the life of Christine. Her late death, followed so closely by the morganatic marriage of the Czar, makes this subject of fresh and intense interest. She was a pure, good woman, neglected by her royal husband. The reading of the book will do good.

LONGEVITY. By John Gardner, M. D. New York: J. Fitzgerald & Co. Price, 15 cts.—No. 15 of the Humboldt Library. It contains hints and suggestions for prolonging life, by the use of judicious means based upon an accurate knowledge of the human constitution. It is increased in interest and usefulness by revision and additions, and has been favorably received by the medical and general press.

THE ORIGIN OF SPECIES. By Thomas Huxley. New York: J. Fitzgerald & Co. Price, 15 cents.

No. 16 of the Humboldt Library. A course of six lectures by an eminent scientist on the great question to which Charles Darwin and himself have given so much thought and force, the origin of species, or causes of the phenomena of organic nature. ... have been strongly combated, others have won their way into general acceptance. The searcher after truth will be instructed by this work of Huxley's.

"I am directed by my uncle, Hon. A. H. Stephens, to say to you that he is inclined to believe that he has derived some benefit from the use of Simmons Liver Regulator, and that he wishes to give it a further trial. ... respectfully.

Novel, and other articles. This excellent reprint of foreign literature may be had for $3 per year.

—For the holidays, the publishers of the popular Southern Musical Journal makes the following offer: To every one sending them during December and January, a cash order for sheet music to the amount of $1.50, they will send the Journal free of charge for one year. A specimen copy of the Journal will be mailed on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. Address Ludden & Bates' Southern Music House, Savannah, Ga.

—The numbers of The Living Age for Dec. 11th and 18th, contain, Nature and Law, by Wm. B. Carpenter, Modern Review; Marie Antoinette and Robespierre, translated for The Living Age; The Procedure of Deliberative Bodies, Contemporary Review; A Religious Poem of the Ninth Century, Fraser; Political Somnambulism, Macmillan; Jomini, Moreau and Vandammee, Fortnightly; The Works of Sir Henry Taylor, Nineteenth Century; Insect Conversatism, Spectator; Science for Babes, Saturday Review; Erasmus Darwin, Temple Bar; A Successful African Expedition, Nature; together with instalments of two serials, and choice poetry. Subscription price $8. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

—Good Company, ($3 00 a year, Springfield Mass.), number fifteen, has an account of a steamboat trip to the head of navigation on the Missouri river by Mr. Herbert Hall Winslow, which is not wanting in graphic description of scenery and experiences with Indians etc. in our vast Northwest. Apropos of Dora d'Istria's recent visit to the United States, the story of that most remarkable woman's life is given. Mrs. M. S. Bull writes of Gerrit Smith. There is an account of the origin and growth of the United States Live-saving service; a paper on Eskimo traditions; an account of the Chinese professor and his family at Cambridge; and "Autumn Leaves" by E. S. Gilbert. For fiction there is a serial and several complete stories.

—Now is the time to subscribe to The Sunday Magazine. The January number commences a new volume. A new serial is commenced, entitled, "Out of the World," by Mrs. Robert O'Reilly; there are several interesting short stories, sketches, essays and poems, in fact, the 128 quarto pages are filled with highly entertaining and instructive articles. The Sunday Magazine has now reached its ninth volume, and has deservedly a large circulation; it pleasantly inculcates religious, moral and virtuous sentiments, and should be found in every family in the land. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents, and the yearly subscription $3; six months $1, sent post-free. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

The premium picture offered by the Cincinnati Weekly Times is a handsome work of art, and really worth having.

Rail Road Column.

We have it from the best authority that the Denison Pacific Railway now terminating at Gainesville will be built to Fort Worth at once, work on both ends has begun. The distance is about one hundred miles.—Clarendon News.

The supreme court of the United States has decided that the railroad company, and not the sleeping car company, is responsible for any damage occasioned by the negligence of the porter, conductor, or any defect in the sleeping car. This was in a case where the railroad company refused to settle for damages, claiming that it was the Pullman company that was responsible. The ground of the the decision was that the railroad company could not thus absolve itself from its contract to safely carry passengers, and must be responsible for all losses, through defect or negligence occurring on the entire train.

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:
"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 56° being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

A GREAT REVELATION.

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness and Timely Suggestions About Securing It.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE,

while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposeably scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangements of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that only by removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight, and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who 'bled him copiously.' Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding!"

PRIVATE HISTORY

The speaker then graphically described another period which came upon the people, in which they assigned the origin of all diseases to the stomach, and after showing the falsity of this theory, and that the kidney and liver were the causes of disease, and that many people are suffering from kidney and liver troubles to-day who do not know it, but who should know it and attend to them at once, continued:

"Let us look at this matter a little more closely. The human body is the most perfect and yet the most delicate of all created things. It is capable of the greatest results and it is liable to the greatest disorders. The slightest causes sometimes seem to throw its delicate machinery out of order while the most simple and common-sense care restores and keeps them in perfect condition. When it is remembered that the amount of happiness or misery we are to have in this world is dependent upon a perfect body, is it not strange that simple precautions and care are not exercised? This is one of the most vital questions of life. People may avoid it for the present, but there is certain to come a time in every one's experience when it must be faced.

"And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I

FAINTED REPEATEDLY.

My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening of the pain at once; I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined fields in medicine never before explored. I sought the cause of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system."

After describing at length the offices of the kidneys and liver, and their important part in life, the doctor went on to say:

"Having found this great truth, I saw clearly the cause of my recovery. The simple vegetable leaf I had used was a food and restorer to my well nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. It had come to them when their life was nearly gone and by its simple, yet powerful influence had purified, strengthened and restored them and saved me from death. Realizing the great benefit which a knowledge of this truth would give to the world I began in a modest way to treat those afflicted and in every case I found the same which I had experienced. Not only this but many, who were not conscious of any physical trouble but who, at my suggestion, began the use of the remedy which had saved my life, found their health steadily improving and their strength continually increasing. So universal, where used, was this true, that I determined the entire world should share in its results, and I therefore placed the formula for its preparation in the hands of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., a gentleman whom I had cured of a severe kidney disease, and who, by reason of his personal worth, high standing and liberality in endowing the Astronomical Observatory and other public enterprises, has become known and popular to the entire country. This gentleman at once began the manufacture of the remedy on a most extensive scale, and to-day, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the pure remedy that saved my life, is known and used in all parts of the continent.

"I am aware a prejudice exists toward proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well-founded, but the value of a pure remedy is no less because it is a proprietary medicine. A justifiable prejudice exists toward quack doctors, but is it right that this prejudice should extend towards all the doctors who are earnestly and intelligently trying to do their duty? Because Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure saved my life before it became a proprietary medicine, is it reasonable to suppose that it will not cure others and keep still more from sickness now that it is sold with a government stamp on the wrapper? Such a theory would be childish."

The doctor then paid some high compliments to American science, and closed his lecture as follows:

"How to restore the health when broken and how to keep the body perfect and free from disease must ever be man's highest study. That one of the greatest revelations of the present day has been made in ascertaining the true seat of health to be in the kidneys and liver, all scientists now admit, and I can but feel that the discovery which I have been permitted to make, and which I have described to you, is destined to prove the greatest, best and most reliable friend to those who suffer and long for happiness as well as to those who desire to keep the joys they now possess."

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containing about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely:
Record of Pastors.
Record of Classes.
Record of Official Members.
Alphabetical Record of Full Members.
Record of Probationers.
Record of Baptisms.
Record of Marriages.
We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana editors are learning the value of newspapers as a means of social and religious culture. We want 1000 new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN for 1881. Let the leaders push the cause of their church paper.

H. T. O Abbott, Shreveport: "We have our church very near completed and will be ready for the conference. Our last Sabbath night I administered sacrament to one hundred and thirty-six full members of St. Paul and had one additional joined church. We had a glorious time. Pray for the upbuilding of our church."

Geo. Washington, Campte: "My work is in a tolerably good condition, and not so prosperous as it was the first of the year. Sabbath school does not prosper for the want of teachers who love it and will give their time to it. Rainy weather has been a great hinderance all the fall months. There was one good day to attend church in November, and one appointment I could not reach. Part of the crops have been destroyed."

T. G. Montgomery, Clinton: "Fourth quarterly conference was held Dec. 4, by Bluff. Could. Received in full membership 20, reclaimed many backsliders, and paid some of the old debts of the church. Many members have moved and others are going to, so the membership is small. We are doing the best we can and have raised the most of our missionary money. I think we will get all."

MISSISSIPPI.

Don't fail to show the subscription list to your friends, and to solicit names. We rely on our friends to do this work for us. Talk up our church paper, and to give every one an opportunity to read the SOUTHWESTERN.

Rev. Elias Johnson: "We are in the SOUTHWESTERN family now for the remainder of the year. We have a little church here, and we are trying to raise money to pay our preacher. We have 1000 members in this circuit. We have 1000 members in the church and one Sunday-school. We have 140 Bibles and Testaments in the Sunday-school.
